

Chapter 2701 Kasen Led Astray By The Crown Prince

"Captain Witt, there's no need to be polite with us. Evander has already informed you of the reason for our invitation, correct?"

At this mention, Kasen and his companions' eyes instantly lit up. "Yes, Mr. Summit Warden. Evander has already informed us."

Retired and soon-to-be-retired members within or outside of the Martial League were envious upon learning about Evander's situation. While others worried about their future, this Calloway guy had attached himself to the head of the Summit Wardens.

As for people like Kasen, although they had a generous retirement pension from the Martial League and would have a worry-free life in their later years, their ambitions did not lie there. The genes for combat had already been fully integrated into their bones and blood. Therefore, upon receiving the news from Evander, they didn't hesitate and rushed over to Concordia without a second thought.

"Due to special circumstances on Seraphis' side, my identity cannot be made public. So, you can call me Young Master Larson or Mr. Larson. As for other matters, you can directly contact the crown prince!" Matthew was also overjoyed at this moment. Originally, he thought it was already impressive for Evander to recruit around ten people, but he never expected that a fully equipped sniper unit of 50 people would arrive.

Only those who had deep contact with the Martial League knew the strength of its members. Their retirement was not due to lacking abilities. Take Kasen and the others, for instance—any one of them could easily serve as an instructor for a prominent family. They only retired because of the re-election activities of the Martial League. The older generation had to make way for the younger generations, passing on the torch to ensure the Martial League's formidable combat power.

"Yes, Young Master Larson!" Kasen and the others saluted once again, their eyes ablaze with determination. News of Matthew's deeds had already spread throughout the Martial League. Anyone with discerning eyes knew that even the slightest association with Matthew would ensure a bright future.

Matthew particularly liked their disciplined and uniformed demeanor, which he found especially pleasing. He then looked at the Crown Prince's people, who lacked proper posture while sitting or standing. Well, there's no harm in comparison, he thought.

Noticing his disdainful gaze, the Crown Prince naturally understood his thoughts. He turned his head and glanced at his subordinates, a sly smile suddenly appearing on his face.

"Well, well, Kasen, you guys need to change your posture. It's too conspicuous and easy to be recognized."

After he said that, Kasen and the others also thought he had a point. "Buddies, let's relax a bit. Let's learn from the Prince over the next few days. Since Young Master Larson needs to hide his identity, we naturally have to make some changes."

At Kasen's instructions, all members of the sniper unit immediately dispersed. Then, they imitated the casual demeanor of Fitz and others. At first, they felt a bit awkward, but thanks to Fitz's guidance, they gradually became more natural, smoking and drinking as they pleased.

Matthew was bewildered. D*mn it! It's not easy to learn from good examples, but it's so easy for them to follow bad examples.

The crown prince looked at Matthew's defeated expression and approached him with a smug smile. "Matthew, how are you doing?"

Matthew sighed helplessly. "You're f*cking incredible." He didn't even have a chance to admire the heroic appearance of Kasen and the others before the crown prince completely led them astray. However, he didn't bother to correct the crown prince. After all, what the latter said was not unreasonable. The Martial League's salute was indeed too conspicuous.

Just as he felt a headache coming on, one of the crown prince's subordinates rushed in anxiously. "Boss, the ransom from the Keller Family has arrived!"

"Has it arrived? Holy cow! Let's go, Kasen. Let's go check the supplies together. After that, the welcoming party should be almost ready, too!"

The group hurriedly left with the crown prince leading the way.

Matthew looked at their backs and couldn't help but smile bitterly. It has to be said that this brat was indeed a social butterfly. In just a couple of hours, he has already hit it off with Kasen and the others, and now they are already close friends. That's impressive!
