

Chapter 2704 Planning In Advance

Upon hearing Jude's plan, Hugo's face instantly lit up with delight. "What an ingenious idea!" He expressed his continuous approval, almost clapping his hands.

Jude added with a joyful expression, "And besides, isn't Prince Gadel in Anivara? We can seek his assistance if needed!" Both families shared common interests, so the enemies of the Keller Family were naturally enemies of his family as well.

However, Hugo, who was initially smiling happily, suddenly appeared troubled. He had actually considered this plan before, but it wasn't that he didn't want to proceed; it was that he didn't dare to. "Initially, when we informed Prince Gadel about Warly Hill, he showed great interest. But later on, there were rumors that after a private meeting between Tyga and Matthew, Prince Gadel stopped mentioning Warly Hill."

When Jude heard this, his expression changed. "Is that why you had us halt the plan for Hulwin?"

"Yes, that's correct. If my guess is right, perhaps Prince Gadel has made some kind of deal with Matthew at that point." This was also one of the reasons why Hugo feared Matthew. Many things didn't need to be explained. The change in Prince Gadel's attitude was a clear indication that he didn't want to provoke Matthew.

"This is troublesome. What secrets does this guy possess that he can establish a relationship with Prince Gadel?" When Jude learned about this, a bitter expression appeared on his face. After contemplating for a while, he clenched his teeth. "Hugo, in that case, to prevent any mishaps, we must first get in touch with Druira. If there really is no other choice, we can seek their support."

This was not a bad idea. If they had firepower support from Druira, even if Matthew had superhuman powers, he would have to perish here. Furthermore, if Prince Gadel truly intended to join forces with Matthew, it would provide an additional layer of security for the Keller Family.

However, despite it being a good idea, Hugo frowned. "I might have to trouble you with this, Jude. You also know that Prince Gadel is currently residing in Anivara, so it's inconvenient for me to take action."

Jude also agreed to this. After all, on the surface, the Keller Family was a supporter of the Montirian royal family, so they had to maintain the facade properly as long as they didn't sever ties.

Jude readily replied, "No problem. Just leave this matter to me." Although the Keller Family had always been responsible for communicating with Druira, the transportation of goods was fully entrusted to the Eissen Family, so contacting Druira was not difficult for them either. "Well, Hugo, take care of yourself. I have to go!" After bidding farewell, Jude left directly.

Inside the room, Hugo contemplated the Eissen Family's plan to deal with Matthew, and a smug smile appeared on his face. "Matthew, you're in for a surprise!"

...

Meanwhile, as the grand event on the Victorious Cruise approached, Matthew also prepared himself, and the two warships obtained from the Keller Family happened to be used for transportation. The only thing that left him speechless was that these two warships had been transformed beyond recognition by Fitz.

"Can someone explain to me what Fitz No. 1 and Fitz No. 2 mean?" he asked in confusion while pointing to the brightly colored warships docked at the pier.

"Hehe! The Prince said that these ships, which can carry less than five hundred people, are not worthy of being named after him. Since I had to give them a name anyway, I reluctantly used my own name."

Matthew looked at his joyful expression and couldn't detect any signs of reluctance. However, since the names of the warships had already been changed, he couldn't ask Fitz to repaint them again. "Well, let's set sail then!" After sighing, Matthew stepped on board the peculiar ship named Fitz.