

Chapter 2715 Taking Care Of Yourself, Scapegoat

Knowing Solon's character, Matthew didn't expect him to show any gratitude, even though his life had been saved. Solon's heartless attitude towards Elara made it clear that he couldn't be trusted.

Matthew didn't anticipate Solon letting go of his grudges and expressing gratitude. At most, he would try to end things quickly by betraying others.

Under Matthew's series of probing questions, Solon was slightly surprised. He hadn't expected Matthew to have guessed his thoughts.

Despite being saved by Matthew, Solon was more concerned about the grudges between them. He couldn't forget the destroyed dock and the slap from the crown prince. Gratitude was practically non-existent.

"Matthew, if you insist on keeping me under house arrest and extorting ransom, it will only further strain your relationship with the Durham Family."

Matthew shrugged and smirked. "You don't have to worry about that at all. The tension will only exist between me and the Durham Family. Our friendship will endure. After all, I saved your life. Moreover, if I were the culprit, do you think I would let you live? And for what? So that you can accuse me?"

Solon furrowed his brows slowly after analyzing Matthew's words, his face filled with shock. "You scoundrel! By having the reporters report this extortion, you want everyone to know that you saved me from the ship?"

Matthew raised an eyebrow and chuckled. "Oh, young man, you're quite clever. Well done."

"You despicable scoundrel!" Solon's face instantly turned red, and his pupils dilated. He sat up abruptly, wanting to take Matthew down with him.

However, this sudden movement directly affected the wound on his chest, and the intense pain instantly drained Solon of his strength.

"Matthew, you shameless person! Get lost! If you have the guts, kill me. Even in death, I won't let you off."

He finally understood Matthew's scheme. Once the reporters exposed his existence, he would become the prime suspect. As long as the real culprit wasn't found, Solon would never be able to clear his name.

The bodies of hundreds of his subordinates were still on the Victorious Cruise, and there were his bloodstains on the cruise. Most importantly, he was the only survivor of the massacre of more than two thousand people.

It was a lose-lose situation!

What was even more terrifying was that he couldn't even tarnish Matthew's reputation. Otherwise, the public would only think he was ungrateful, and it would elevate Matthew's image.

"Take good care of yourself, scapegoat!" Matthew bent down to tuck in the blanket for Solon. "Once you've fallen into my trap, there's no way you can climb out. No matter what, your status will always be lower than mine."

Indeed, if he was the murderer, why would he leave Solon alive? Or perhaps he and Matthew were accomplices. In any case, until the real killer was caught, Solon would have to bear the blame.

Solon stared silently at the ceiling, his eyes filled with despair.

An hour later, Olivia rushed over. Upon learning that Matthew had kidnapped Solon with the intention of extorting the Durham Family, she realized that this was the perfect opportunity to destroy Matthew.

The Victorious Cruise tragedy and the Solon kidnapping case!

With just these two exclusive breaking news, Matthew would have nowhere to hide.

"Matthew, prepare to die. If I don't kill you, I'll take your last name!"

"You discriminated against us, embarrassed me, and caused me to lose my job. Just wait! After you're buried, I will definitely light candles for you."

As Olivia thought of this, her whole body trembled with excitement.

This livestream would not only allow her to seek revenge and vent her hatred but also help her find a new job, and not just any job, but as a top-tier journalist.

"Breaking News! The culprit behind the Victorious Cruise tragedy kidnapped the Durham Family's young master and is extorting the Durham Family!"

A simple and straightforward livestream title quickly gathered a large audience.
