

Chapter 2717 No More Pretending; I'm The Killer

Hugo made an announcement not to express the Keller Family's hatred towards Matthew, but rather to provoke the anger of the powerful forces behind those who died on board the Victorious Cruise. He aimed to redirect their hatred towards Matthew.

After all, the Keller Family had already lost their son, so it was unnecessary to further victimize the victim.

After arranging everything, Hugo could only helplessly rub his throbbing forehead. During this period, the Keller Family had experienced a series of misfortunes.

He couldn't help but wonder if the Keller Family had mistakenly offended someone last year!

Following the announcement by the Keller Family, many external forces followed suit, condemning the incident and even mobilizing their subordinates to prepare for an attack on Concordia Pier.

On the other side.

Olivia finished adjusting the equipment and quickly tidied up her appearance. After applying lipstick, she finally threw a flirtatious glance at herself in the mirror, satisfied with her appearance.

For this livestream, she had exhausted all her connections and even invested all her assets to invite foreign journalists from the same industry to do a livestream of her exclusive coverage. She was the only one doing the exclusive livestream.

When Matthew arrived at the alternative medicine clinic as agreed, Olivia immediately approached him.

"Matthew, we know that you and Solon hold a lot of grudges against each other. Not long ago, his subordinates secretly brought weapons to cause trouble in the clinic. Now, you have kidnapped him and are extorting the Durham Family. I wonder where you got the courage!"

After Matthew appeared on the livestream, the number of viewers, which was originally only a few thousand, instantly skyrocketed to over two hundred thousand. It kept climbing rapidly.

Olivia briefly explained the situation between Matthew and Solon so that the viewers could follow the story.

"If the Durham Family truly delivers the artillery worth 15 million, will you release the hostage?"

"Considering your personal grudges with Solon, have you thought about killing him?"

"If you are provoked, will you kill Solon?"

After she finished asking, the number of viewers watching the livestream had already reached over four million.

Matthew remained silent the entire time, calmly looking at the eager Olivia.

Indeed, I didn't hire the wrong person. This woman is truly going all out to frame me.

After glancing at the camera, Matthew cleared his throat and then answered seriously, "The killing of Solon is nothing compared to the tragedy of the Victorious Cruise that occurred last night. That's right; those people died when I boarded the ship!"

As soon as these words were spoken, the entire livestream exploded. Under the fierce competition among major news outlets, most people already knew about the tragedy of the Victorious Cruise but did not know who the person responsible was.

Now, they actually heard Matthew admitting to being the murderer himself!

"Oh my god, this killer is so arrogant!"

"Amazing! This boss dares to take responsibility. Please accept me as your follower!"

"This person probably doesn't know who those people he killed really were! He's done for! Let's prepare to pay respects to Mr. Larson!"

Amidst the intense discussions of netizens, the number of viewers in the livestream skyrocketed to tens of millions. With the rapid spread of this news, more and more people from around the world joined in!

If it weren't for Olivia disabling the comment section, her livestreaming equipment would have probably crashed on the spot.

Seeing that the number of viewers was already sufficient, Matthew continued.

"You may not know this, but I have a super warship, and it's super fast!"

"It only takes half an hour to travel four hundred nautical miles from Concordia Pier to the Victorious Cruise ship in the open seas. If you don't believe me, the Concordia Pier has surveillance cameras. You can check it out!"

"After arriving at the Victorious Cruise, the killer found that there were too many people on board, so he decided to kill them all in just one minute."

"From the top to the bottom, there were a total of twelve floors. The killer effortlessly slaughtered two thousand people in one minute. The location and time of death of the victims can prove it!"

"From departing the pier to finishing the killing, it only took a total of thirty-one minutes."
