

Chapter 2773 Treatment

The young Great Witch Doctor felt a rising panic in his heart as he faced Matthew's cold scrutiny.

"What do you plan to do? Let me tell you, I am affiliated with Lord Zedbar. Lord Zedbar won't let you get away with it if you lay even a finger on me."

"You absolute fool! Zedbar is incredibly lucky to still be alive after being bitten by his banded krait!"

After Matthew spoke, he forcefully made the terrified Great Witch Doctor ingest everything inside the small porcelain bottle.

"Pfft!"

Matthew then turned around and began to check on Eleanor. He found the entire ordeal cumbersome since the Summer's Kiss wasn't considered a poison. Therefore, an antidote wouldn't work at all.

Annoyed yet resigned, Matthew flicked out three metal needles. When he saw Eleanor was unconscious, he immediately started treating her and placed the needles on her scalp. Soon, a continuous stream of energy, using the metal needles as a conduit, began to remove the remaining Summer's Kiss from Eleanor's body.

Although this method carried risks, as even the slightest mistake could potentially paralyze Eleanor, it was still the best available solution. Shortly after, Eleanor's body started to sweat profusely under Matthew's careful treatment.

"Cough!"

Eleanor slowly regained consciousness, accompanied by a series of coughs.

"Matthew, why are you here? Where are we?"

This was a side effect of the Summer's Kiss. Although she had awakened from her sudden coma, she was still quite dazed. However, this wasn't a major issue. She just needed to rest, and she would be fine.

"It's nothing. You haven't eaten for too long, so you probably fainted due to low blood sugar!"

Matthew casually fabricated an excuse and helped Eleanor walk to the VIP room to rest.

Meanwhile, the young witch doctor behind him also regained consciousness. Unfortunately, his face was flushed, and his eyes were wild. When he saw the woman next to him, he reached out and grabbed her.

"Come on, beautiful lady. Let's dance!"

Naturally, the woman was startled and furious by his actions.

"Who are you? Pervert!"

She wasted no time slapping him across the face for his harassment. However, the young witch doctor only became even more excited after receiving the blow. He continued to dance to the music of the banquet on his own.

Iris couldn't help but curse in fury when she witnessed this scene on the second floor.

"Zedbar, is this it? Is this how you were going to tarnish Matthew's reputation?"

She gestured angrily at the young witch doctor, who had already started to undress himself.

Zedbar was also embarrassed. Although the composition of Summer's Kiss was simple, the required antidote varied depending on the different ingredients used. This was where his confidence stemmed from. Unfortunately, he never expected that Matthew would easily solve it with just three needles.

To make matters worse, the witch doctor he had sent out had somehow come into contact with his Summer's Kiss.

When Zedbar looked down from the second floor, he saw the young witch doctor had already begun an excited striptease. His abnormal behavior had caused panic and outrage among the crowd.

"Princess, I..."

Zedbar wanted to defend himself, but he couldn't come up with any excuse to assuage her wrath.

"What's the matter? Cat got your tongue? You're useless! And so are your subordinates."

An infuriated Princess Iris stormed out of the room after reprimanding him. Zedbar, looking disheveled, could only follow. It didn't matter; he felt utterly miserable as he needed to win the princess' favor.

At the same time, Gadel, who had just finished his meeting, witnessed everything that happened on the first floor.

"This Matthew is truly skilled in medicine!"

Gadel had recently spoken with Dustin about Matthew curing him, and now he couldn't help but be even more amazed after seeing Matthew's skills firsthand.

Tyga, standing next to Gadel, quickly agreed, saying, "Indeed, Summer's Kiss is not a highly toxic substance. Therefore, it requires great flexibility and creativity on Matthew's part to quickly create an antidote based on the poisoner's version of Summer's Kiss. Although we haven't seen that here, it is still astonishing to see Matthew cure his companion using three acupuncture needles. There is no doubt that this man is skilled."

Gadel nodded as a plan began to form in his mind.
