

Chapter 2779 Bloodletting

After organizing his subordinates, Gadel led Matthew and Fiorenna to a specialized treatment room.

"Without our command, anyone who trespasses will be executed!"

With a single command, hundreds of well-armed guards stood in formation.

Fiorenna was not only his beloved but also someone who influenced his competitiveness for the throne. He couldn't afford to not take her seriously!

"Mr. Matthew Larson, let's begin! I have already prepared the volcanic rocks."

After nodding, Matthew took out the Solitary Nine Needles. Before starting, he explained in advance to alleviate any concerns they might have.

"Princess Fiorenna, I will guide the residual impurities out of your body through bloodletting. There will be a period of weakness during this process, but you and His Highness don't need to worry. It won't have any impact on your health."

Fiorenna and Gadel exchanged glances and nodded in agreement before Matthew proceeded.

First, Matthew placed Fiorenna's hands flat on the table. To prevent her from flinching in pain, he directly stimulated her acupoints.

Under Gadel's gaze, Matthew pressed his fingertips lightly, causing Fiorenna's entire body to freeze. Apart from being able to blink, she couldn't move at all.

After immobilizing her, he took out the Solitary Nine Needles. Two needles were inserted into her shoulders, two into her knees, and the remaining five were inserted into her back, corresponding to the five internal organs.

As he continuously injected nimbus into her body through the metal needles, her skin gradually turned blood red. Upon seeing his beloved wife in pain, Gadel couldn't help but feel nervous as he constantly glanced at Matthew.

"Don't worry, Your Highness. These impurities have been lingering in Princess Fiorenna's body for many years. She must go through this process to eliminate them."

The toxicity had penetrated deep into her bones and blood, so naturally, it would be painful to expel it.

After Matthew finished explaining, Fiorenna's hands had already started to become congested, and her skin gradually turned a dark red color.

At this point, he took out a silver needle. With a swift motion, he pricked the tip of her index finger on the table, causing dark red blood to seep out.

"This is what people commonly refer to as the side effects of medicine. Princess Fiorenna, you have consumed too many tonics over the years, resulting in an accumulation of toxic substances in your body."

To prevent the two from worrying, Matthew explained and treated at the same time, and at this time, Fiorenna's face also began to pale gradually.

Without waiting for Gadel to ask, Matthew took out another tonic.

"Your Highness, give this medicine to Princess Fiorenna."

During the process of handing over the medicine, he added another sentence.

"This is a blood-replenishing pill that can prevent excessive blood loss."

Gadel did not hesitate and directly gave the blood-replenishing pill to Fiorenna.

After anxiously waiting for nearly an hour, Prince Gadel finally saw that the fresh blood continuously oozing from Fiorenna's fingertips was no longer mixed with dark red.

During this bloodletting process, Matthew had to continuously maintain the output of spiritual power while constantly removing the residue of the medicine from Fiorenna's body. This was a delicate task. Too little spiritual power output would result in incomplete cleansing, while too much output would harm Fiorenna's body.

When he finished removing the Solitary Nine Needles from Fiorenna's body, he was already sweating profusely.

"The step of removing the residue is completed. Next, we need to eliminate the cold energy in Princess Fiorenna's body."

After speaking, Matthew untied the acupoints on Fiorenna.

Gadel hurriedly approached and asked with concern, "Nana, how do you feel?"

Fiorenna had just released a large amount of blood and was weak at this moment.

"Your Highness, don't worry. Although I am a bit weak, my body feels unusually relaxed!"

Even she did not expect that under the condition of losing a large amount of blood, she would feel an indescribable sense of relief as if a heavy burden on her shoulders had suddenly been lifted.

Upon seeing the relaxed expression on her face, Gadel couldn't help but breathe a sigh of relief. This healing process was indeed quite demanding.
