

Chapter 2819 Stunned By The Benefits

With Matthew's continuous introductions, the guests present were already overwhelmed. The mere mention of a Longevity Pill had already stirred their hearts, and the addition of more than ten pills rarely found commercially had created a formidable pill market. Especially the Beauty-Nourishing Pills, which the female guests at the scene had personally tested. After taking them, the blemishes on their faces had disappeared completely in less than half an hour.

Before everyone could recover from their astonishment, someone in the crowd had already spoken up.

"I, from Creative Cloud Group, am willing to join Mr. Larson's business union and offer the distribution rights of our Creative Cloud Spray to fellow members."

As soon as the words were uttered, all eyes turned to Leanna. Although Creative Cloud Group was not based in Seraphis, its rise was known to all businessmen. Once an obscure city-level group, it had overturned the entire pharmaceutical market in less than a year with its Creative Cloud Spray, thus becoming a large group with a market value of 15 million and counting. All the businessmen in Seraphis were eager to get their hands on the spray but lacked the means. So, with the opportunity right in front of them, the gazes on Leanna couldn't help but intensify.

Leanna's presence in Seraphis had been arranged by Matthew all for the smooth establishment of the union. But before the shock had subsided, there was movement from not far away—Jonathan Harrowsen of Harrowsen International Group had arrived.

"Mr. Larson, I have come despite being busy. I apologize for the inconvenience but want to express my gratitude to you for your help the other day."

Jonathan was referring to the incident where Jefford's subordinate was detained by Daran. It wasn't that Jonathan didn't want to take action, but his businesses were being targeted and disrupted, making it impossible for them to send assistance. Matthew not only rescued the hostages but also brought back the transport ship they had rented out, helping them maintain the group's reputation. Furthermore, Dustin still owed Matthew a favor for saving his life, so they naturally sent someone to show their support now that Matthew wanted to establish a business union.

After greeting Matthew, Jonathan turned to the others present.

"I, Jonathan Harrowsen, as the representative of the Seraphis branch of the Overseas Group, will join Mr. Larson's business union. Members of the union can enjoy priorities in purchasing the commercial ships produced by the Overseas Group and also receive a 10% discount on ship rentals."

The continuous bombshells stunned everyone. All kinds of ships produced by the Overseas Group, a world-class shipbuilding giant, were scarce. The biggest concern in maritime business was having problems with cargo ships, which could affect delivery times or cause goods to deteriorate, leading to impacts on company profits. Having a reliable transport ship, or even a pair, was particularly crucial for these seafaring businessmen.

The powerful families were also very interested, as they not only valued the transport ships and cruise ships of the Overseas Group but also their warships. Of course, acquiring a battleship would be even more incredible and a direct leap forward for them.

"I, Enzo Gavell, will join the business union as the representative of my side!"

"I, Solon Durham, will join the business union as the representative of my side, too."

With the duo bringing up the lead, the other guests, who had regained their composure, also stood up.

"I am willing to join."

"Me too!"

The previously undecided guests rushed forward, vying to join Matthew's business alliance. They had initial concerns about the top forces, but now the union had the support of the Overseas Group and Creative Cloud Group, as well as the Zedler Family, who backed Matthew. While Ophelia hadn't spoken, how were the Zedler Family Tiger Guards outside the Stubber Family just for show? They were all there to support Matthew, and this gave the guests confidence.
