

Chapter 2875 Bullying The Weak, Danny Allison Takes Action

Lucia possessed a gentle and pretty appearance, and her tear-streaked face added an extra touch of tenderness.

Craig stared at her face for a moment, exchanged a glance with his sidekick, and then smirked wickedly.

"Clear the way for me. I'm about to have some fun."

Upon hearing his sidekick's reminder, several of his lackeys immediately reacted.

"Craig is a tough guy. Don't forget to share the spoils with us later."

"Don't worry, you won't be left out!"

After a hearty laugh, Craig licked his lips and approached the innocent beauty in front of him with a lewd smile.

Witnessing their behavior, Lucia immediately panicked. She knew what was about to happen.

On the ground, David endured severe pain in his abdomen as he struggled to stand up.

"Lucia, run!" He managed to shout.

"But Dad, what about you?"

"Your brother is gone, and I don't want to live anymore. Run, I'll fight them."

After saying that, David spat out a mouthful of blood and rushed toward Craig. However, an old man like him was no match for a trained fighter like the Captain.

Before he could get close, a swift kick sent him tumbling away.

Simultaneously, Lucia found herself restrained by Craig's men.

"Craig, do as you please. It's been a while since we've had such a wild taste."

"You guys are real perverts!"

In a jesting manner with his comrades, Craig started to remove his coat, and his hands extended menacingly.

"Monsters, let me go!"

Lucia struggled desperately, but her hands were firmly held by the burly man. As a result, she couldn't move any part of her body.

Craig chuckled while unbuttoning her clothes. When he caught a glimpse of the fair skin on her neck, his mouth went dry. Just as he was about to escalate his actions, a roar echoed from a distance.

"Bastards, let go of her!"

The resounding sound echoed through the valley.

Before Craig could identify who was approaching, a figure charged toward him. In the next moment, a sharp pain surged in his nose and shot straight to his brain.

"Feather Guards, take them all down!"

"Yes!"

It was Danny who arrived. After taking down Craig, he quickly rushed to Lucia's side. Two burly men who were about to fight felt a sharp pain in their waists and collapsed to the ground.

Facing eight hundred Feather Guards, Craig's few dozen men had no chance to resist. In one confrontation, they were all subdued.

"Lucia, are you okay?"

Danny swiftly draped his coat over her after taking it off.

Lucia, who was initially desperate, saw her long-lost brother coming to her rescue. Her emotions crumbled instantly, and she burst into tears on Danny's shoulder.

After a few seconds of sobbing, she grew anxious. "Danny, let's go check on Father!"

Following her indication, he immediately spotted his father lying unconscious on the ground. He rushed to David's side.

Danny reached out and felt his father's steady breath. He realized that he was merely unconscious. Relief washed over him.

On Craig's side, after pulling himself together, he ignored everything around him and started yelling.

"D*mn, who dares to ruin my good time!"

The only response he received was a punch. His vision darkened, and he spewed out a mouthful of blood.

"How dare you touch my Father? You deserve to die!"

With bloodshot eyes, Danny approached Craig, who was lying helpless on the ground. Without waiting for him to speak, he stepped on his arm and broke it. As soon as Craig let out a painful howl, Danny furrowed his brow and stomped on it again.

It wasn't until Craig's limbs were all broken that Danny was about to sever his neck, but a voice came from behind.

"For now, leave him alive!"