

Chapter 3012 The Perfect Blood Compatibility

Lucius stormed into the cave in a fit of rage, intending to instantly kill the "thief" with one strike. However, the unusual sight in the cave left him stunned once more.

The nine-colored celestial lights were woven together into a ball of light, like a cocoon.

Through the gaps in the weave, he could vaguely see Sasha's face.

"How did this girl make her way here?"

The Ten-Sided Celestial Formation should have turned her into a pile of blood and viscera.

Due to the abrupt appearance of the phenomenon, all of the strong cultivators of Sacred Mount were gathered around the cave.

Stewart had scrambled over in a panic.

There was actually a huge secret hiding in the herb garden. The sacred treasure of Sacred Mount, the Red Fire Lotus, actually grew underneath the garden.

Even though the Ten-Sided Celestial Formation kept the medicinal aura of the Red Fire Lotus contained, the garden was still affected by the extremely weak traces that leaked through.

That was something Stewart had intentionally planned for. He had also taught Sasha how to manipulate the nimbus for a similar cause. It would allow Sasha to slowly absorb the medicinal aura from the Red Fire Lotus and gradually improve her constitution.

Finally, the drop of dew condensed on the Red Fire Lotus' petals could be refined into pills.

It was a treatment he had come up with to change Sasha's Nimbus-Averse Constitution.

However, things seemed to have taken an unexpected turn.

He had only kept himself secluded for a while to refine some pills, yet something major happened in that short time.

If something bad happened to the Red Fire Lotus, there would be nothing he could do to make up for it, even if he died a thousand times.

What frustrated him the most was the fact that someone was actually able to intrude into the forbidden area while it was protected by the Ten-Sided Celestial Formation. That person even snuck around the Border Keeper's ferocious beast!

When he arrived in the cave, he found a group of cultivators gathered inside while Lucius stood at the front of the group with a dark look on his face.

"Sect Master, I sincerely apologize for my failure in guarding the area and letting a thief sneak in!"

There was an aggravated and murderous aura radiating from Lucius.

As the guardian of the Red Fire Lotus, he should have instantly struck out at the thief.

However, what Lucius saw was just too bizarre.

One, he did not want to hurt Sasha. Two, the strange phenomenon exhibited by the Red Fire Lotus meant he did not dare act without thorough consideration.

"What do we do about this, dear seniors?" Lucius asked.

The Bamboo King could tell what Lucius was thinking.

After running a hand through his bear, the Bamboo King calmly said, "The Red Fire Lotus is acting unusually. Let us wait and see what happens first."

The Bamboo King was as strong and high in status as the Border Keeper.

Thus, no one dared to object to whatever he said.

Stewart turned to look in the direction Lucius was pointing at to find Sasha hovering in the middle of the air while surrounded by a cocoon of nine-colored celestial light.

The light split into thin strands that systematically wove through Sasha's body.

"This..."

The miraculous sight caused Stewart's eyes to go wide with shock as disbelief shone on his face.

"T-This is impossible!"

All he could feel was a numbness that spread from the top of his head down to his tongue, causing him to stammer and stutter as he spoke.

While the Red Fire Lotus was a rare medicine, it was still extremely dangerous. The average cultivator would be instantly drained into a mummified corpse if they got too close to it.

Therefore, the formation set around the cave was not just to protect the Red Fire Lotus. It was also there to protect those who might mistakenly stumble upon it.

"Just who is this girl? She's actually favored by the Red Fire Lotus!"

The Red Fire Lotus was thoroughly purifying her body.

The Bamboo King watched the ball of colorful light in the air with interest shining in his eyes. He then turned to look at Lucius.

"If my memory serves me right, when you took over as sect master, you only experienced one round of purification as well as a moment of Insight.

"It is a vast difference compared to the thorough purification the girl is going through."

Although he appeared composed, he was actually very shocked deep down.
