

Mia is Not 251

Chapter 251: Luck

Shawn raised his chin and said loudly, "Isn't it just six months of rent? You're just looking down on me! Do you think I can't afford it? Let me tell you, don't bully the poor!"

Helena held a pen and knocked on the notebook. "Alright, alright. Let's not talk about useless things. Shawn, your rent is a total of 3,268 yuan. Hurry up and pay it."

Shawn was stunned for a moment. More than 3,200 yuan? What a coincidence. His video earnings were only 3,300 yuan... After paying the rent, he would be poor again?

Shawn muttered and withdrew the 3,300 yuan with heartache. Then, he transferred it to Helena. Helena wrote a receipt for Shawn and said with a smile, "Not bad. You're really rich. Where have you been getting rich recently?"

Shawn snorted. Of course, he would not tell anyone that he had found a way to earn money with the popularity password!

Shawn: "Why do you care where I get rich? When I earn more money, I'll immediately move out of your godforsaken place!" The room 404 was dark, airless, and narrow. He had had enough!

Helena closed her notebook and grinned. "Then congratulations in advance on moving into your new residence. By the way, there are still two bedrooms and a living room left in my other elevator room. The furnishings are luxurious. Do you want to consider moving in with your bag?"

Shawn: "... I' He closed the door!

Shawn: "Ptui! When I have money, I'll find a high-end neighborhood to rent a place to live! Who wants to live in this lousy village in the city!" After saying that to himself, he couldn't wait to cut the video.

Helena put the notebook and pen into her oversized yellow plastic bag and stretched. "It's finally settled!" The Host had confiscated all the rent. She had collected it in the past few days, and the last nail house had been successfully resolved. Now, the Host could be at ease, right?

Helena walked downstairs in her slippers and landed on a big banyan tree. A few uncles and aunties were chatting with their grandchildren.

"Hall, have you received the rent for 404?" an auntie asked.

Helena smiled. "I received it. He paid the rent for six months."

The aunties and uncles were shocked. "Aiyo, did the sun rise from the west?"

Helena smiled and said, "Maybe I'm lucky." As she spoke, she bit off the remaining lollipop in her mouth and casually threw the lollipop stick into the trash can.

After eating this lollipop, Helena suddenly felt a little thirsty. After walking out of the alley, she bought a bottle of milk from a small shop. When the lady boss saw her, she smiled and asked, "Have you collected the rent?"

Helena hummed and unscrewed the cap of the milk. She also took a look at the cap. When she saw the words inside the cap, she almost choked.

The lady boss hurriedly said, "What's wrong? Don't tell me it's 'take another bottle'?"

Helena: "No...'

The lady boss heaved a sigh of relief. "Every time you opened the drinks you bought from me these past few days, there would be 'take another bottle'. Are you possessed by the lucky spirits?"

Helena coughed and looked at the lady boss innocently. She handed her the bottle cap in her hand.
“Another box.”

The lady boss: She took the bottle cap in disbelief. As expected, she saw ‘another box’ written on it!

Helena carried a box of milk in satisfaction and walked towards a parking lot outside the village in the city. She didn’t live here, but in a neighborhood nearby. That was the house left behind by the Host’s parents. Helena had been planning to move away these few days. After all, it was someone else’s house... Although she was Hall now, it was still quite awkward to live there. However, she wouldn’t sell that property. She would help the Host take care of it.

Helena placed the milk in the front passenger seat and drove out of the main road. At this moment, a big truck pressed on the ear-piercing horn and rushed over uncontrollably! Because the big truck braked too quickly, its entire body was turned horizontal!

Before Helena could react, the big truck stuck to her door and rushed over dangerously. With a series of bangs, the big truck retreated several small cars and only stopped 500 meters away.

Helena hurriedly stopped the car and stuck her head out. “Oh my god, it scared me to death!”

The passersby were stunned and looked at Helena in disbelief.. This person’s luck was really good! She could actually escape from the out-of-control truck!

Chapter 252: Explosion Drill

Someone sighed. “Oh my god, I thought she was going to be sent flying by the big truck. With that force, she would be half dead if not dead. I didn’t expect the big truck to stick close to her!” Even the paint of her car didn’t fall!

“What kind of luck is this!” Passersby kept exclaiming as they ran to the front to look at the scene of the car accident.

Helena also took a look. The few small cars had been hit so badly that it was unbearable to look at. Fortunately, there were no casualties.

“Lucky, lucky...” Helena patted her chest and muttered with lingering fear before hurriedly driving away.

At the bottom of the district, the lady boss of the lottery shop craned her neck. When she saw Helena, she hurriedly chased after her. She lowered her voice and said, “Lisa, look at the lottery ticket you bought last night. Did you win the lottery? It’s a five million grand prize! I remember the string of numbers you chose...”

Helena dug around in her pocket and said, “That can’t be, right? How can five million be so easy to win? I casually chose yesterday’s date yesterday...”

The lady boss took a look and patted her thigh. “That’s right! It’s this set of numbers! Oh my god, Lisa, you’re rich!”

Helena: . ‘ She stared at the lottery ticket and was stunned. How could this be?!

Helena was completely shocked. How did her luck become better after transmigrating? Since her luck was so good, why didn’t she remember anything? She only remembered that her name was Helena. So she was a ghost and her soul passed through Lisa’s body?

“I don’t understand...” Helena shook her head and didn’t think too much about it. The Host was only 22 years old and was still a university student. She was in her fourth year of university and had to go to class later.

Helena changed her clothes and let down her long hair. She shook it and walked towards T University with her textbook.

The first class in the morning was already halfway through. Helena quietly slipped in through the back door of the lecture theater and happened to hear the teacher say, "Alright, the class is already halfway through. I think everyone is quite tired. Let's take attendance now and wake up. Lisa!"

Helena, who had just sat down, reacted half a beat slower. She realized that Lisa was her and hurriedly raised her hand. "Here!"

The teacher glanced at it and continued to take attendance.

The two students beside Helena looked at her in surprise. "Oh my god, what kind of dogshit luck is this?!"

Helena snorted. "It's so-so. I'm just a little lucky."

Classmates:

At the same time, at Glorious Star International Kindergarten two streets away, Class Three, who had finished breakfast and was about to line up to do exercises, was also taking attendance.

"Amelia?" Ms. Rose smiled and looked at Amelia.

Amelia immediately raised her hand. "Here!"

Ms. Rose couldn't help but laugh. "Very good. Mia is finally in school." Previously, she had been worried that Mia wouldn't be able to walk out of the internet violence. Fortunately, when she saw her again, she was still so energetic.

Amelia said very sensibly, "Sorry for making Ms. Rose worry!"

When Ms. Rose saw Amelia's mischievous appearance, she could not help but laugh. This child was really cute.

"It's okay," Ms. Rose said. "Alright, children, sit properly. We have a very important class today. It will be given by the father of a child in our class.

Everyone, guess who it is?"

The children instantly started discussing. Amelia was also very curious. Whose father was coming to class?

Ms. Rose said, "Then I won't keep you in suspense. Today, our entire kindergarten will participate in an exercise called the explosion drill..." She explained what the explosion drill was and what everyone needed to do. Then, she emphasized, "This explosion drill was carried out by our class's Amelia's father. Amelia's father is a very impressive soldier. They will show us how to subdue the criminals!"

Ms. Rose only mentioned Alex's military status and nothing else. However, his military status was already very impressive in the eyes of the children.

The little kids immediately exclaimed and looked at Amelia with sparkling eyes. Amelia immediately felt her heart swell. She was so proud! It was her father! When she went out in the morning, her father actually did not tell her!

The children lined up and walked out. Amelia saw from afar that her father was wearing an army green camouflage uniform. His hands were behind his back and he stood upright with a cold expression.. Behind him were two uncles who were also wearing army green camouflage uniforms, making Alex look even more majestic!

Chapter 253: Hello, Children

Amelia was extremely happy and could not wait to share. "That's my father. It's my father! The tallest one standing at the front!"

Ava exclaimed, "Mia, your father is so tall!"

The little kid chattered and sighed. "As tall as a telephone pole!"

"Even taller than the traffic lights!"

"He's taller than my father!"

When the children described Alex's height, they made all kinds of metaphors and carried the childlike innocence unique to children.

Alex looked straight ahead and smiled slightly. When he saw Class Three pass by him, he lowered his eyes slightly and saw his obedient daughter at a glance. Amelia happened to look up and quickly greeted nervously, "Hi, Daddy!"

Alex had a straight face and a serious expression. However, when no one was looking, he quietly reached out and made an OK gesture, indicating that he had received it.

Amelia immediately smiled and stretched out her hand to make an OK gesture.

The interaction between the father and daughter made the teachers' hearts melt.

On the host's stage, Mr. Jack Blair held the microphone and said gently,

"Children, please stand in your respective class positions!" After Megan's affair, Jack had become much more haggard, but he was still serious and responsible when he worked. He had a smile on his face, making it impossible to tell that he was lonely.

After all the classes lined up, Jack said, "Today, we're very honored to invite Class Three's Amelia's father, Instructor Burton, to carry out today's explosion drill for us! Children, let's applaud and welcome Instructor Burton!"

The little kid immediately clapped hard and shouted, "Welcome, welcome, a warm welcome!"

Jack pressed his hands together and said with a smile, "Everyone, cheer with Mr. Blair. Hello, Instructor Burton!"

The children: "Hello, Instructor Burton!"

Amelia shouted the loudest. Alex could hear Amelia calling him Instructor

Burton from the young voices. He smiled and said, "Hello, children."

Jack handed the microphone to Alex. Alex picked up the microphone and said, "Today, I'll lead all the teachers and students of Glorious Star International Kindergarten to conduct an explosion drill. Later, a criminal will rush in from the door with a kitchen knife..."

Alex didn't play by the rules and didn't explain what an explosion drill was according to the process. He believed that the teachers of all classes had explained it. The children looked at the school gate. Although the teachers had explained it, some of the children still looked panicked.

The principal's mouth twitched.

Alex said, "But children, don't be afraid. Instructor Burton, the two uncles behind you, and your teachers will protect you! Now, all of you prick up your little ears and listen carefully! When you encounter danger, your school police uncle will sound the alarm. What you have to do is to raise your vigilance and listen to the teacher's instructions to escape in an orderly manner! During the escape, don't run around and don't push people!"

A child from the big class mustered his courage and said, "Then can't we defeat the bad guys?"

Alex said directly, "No! Remember! When you can escape, your first choice is to escape!" After answering the children's questions, he explained the process of avoiding violence and the things to pay attention to. He also let the children listen to what the explosion siren was like. Alex directly shouted, "Begin!"

The principal:

The teachers: "???" Wait, they were not ready yet!

However, the explosion warning had already sounded. A criminal in black clothes and black stockings covered his face climbed over the wall and rushed in with a kitchen knife!

The teachers panicked and could not react in time. The scene was instantly chaotic!

Mr. Jack Blair subconsciously ran forward and carried the children closest to the criminals over. He hurriedly retreated.

Alex's eyes were sharp as he watched. With a glance, he knew that there was a problem with the kindergarten's security! This was the effect he wanted! What was the use of acting according to the procedure? His daughter's kindergarten was to train to have actual combat effects! Otherwise, his trip would have been in vain!

Seeing that the situation was getting more and more chaotic, some children were crying, and some children were at a loss for what to do, Alex threw away the microphone and shouted coldly, "Remember the escape process just now!"

This cold shout shocked everyone back to their senses. A few school police officers ran over and stabbed the criminal with a big pitchfork..

Chapter 254: Waiting for Death

The criminal held the “knife” made of cardboard and waved it as he screamed.

The children screamed in fear. After a full half a minute, the teachers barely controlled the situation and fled with the children towards the planned route.

Alex glanced around and went against the flow of people. While the school police were still fighting the criminal with their pitchforks, he snatched the blade with his bare hand, grabbed the criminal’s arm, and threw him to the ground!

With a bang, the criminal let out a scream. “Ah! Alex! F*ck you!”

Eric’s head was buzzing with pain. Previously, when he found out that Alex had “defiled” their sister, he wanted to find an opportunity to beat him up. Although he later found out that Alex and his sister were “in love”, he was still unconvinced. After all, Helena was their sister who they had doted on for more than twenty years. If she was tricked away by Alex just like that, as brothers, they would more or less feel a little uncomfortable.

Hence, when he found out that Amelia’s kindergarten was going to do an explosion drill, Eric signed up without a word. He wanted to take advantage of the drill to overturn Alex with one hand and pretend to be subdued by him to let him know who was the boss of the family! Unexpectedly, he was subdued by Alex in the end!

Alex snorted, picked up the microphone, and said calmly, “Alright, the first round of drills is over. Everyone, come back.”

The children were stunned, and so was Amelia. The criminal lying on the ground was none other than her Fifth Uncle! She could not even recognize her Fifth Uncle who was wearing black stockings!

At the end of the first drill, everyone’s hearts were beating wildly, and the principal’s face was pale. However, the children were completely unaware. All of them looked at Alex with fear and excitement, their eyes shining. The way he subdued the criminal just now was super cool!

The principal approached Alex and whispered, “Instructor Burton, can’t you give everyone time to prepare?”

Alex sneered. "Will the real criminals give you time to prepare?"

The principal was speechless. "But... this will scare the children."

Alex didn't look at the principal. His gaze swept across the children in the line, and his tone was cold and unquestionable. "I believe our children aren't that weak. Although they're as delicate as flowers, their hearts are strong."

Alex believed that the greenhouse cultivation method was not suitable for children at all. Children's hearts were not so fragile. All their vulnerabilities were raised by adults. He knew his limits and knew what level was okay and what level was not. War, blood, and human lives should not be shown to children at this age, but it was just the criminals rushing in. If this level was unacceptable, what about when the real criminals came? Would they stand there and wait for death?

The principal was speechless for a moment. Under Alex's powerful aura, he did not dare to say anything and did not know what to say. He cried, "But if children tell their parents when they return home, their parents will be angry."

Alex glanced at the principal. "Are you giving up some necessary safety education just because you're afraid that your parents will settle scores with you?"

The principal: "... Alright, you're aloof and arrogant! You're amazing! So you're not the one being scolded!

The principal kept complaining in his heart. At this moment, he heard Alex say, "After the drill, how to guide the children's minds should be your school's business. If there are any more troublemakers in the future, tell them to look for me.

The principal hurriedly said, "Okay, okay!"

Alex stopped looking at the principal. After the children lined up, he asked, "Children, were you afraid just now?"

Some children said that they were afraid, some said that they were not afraid. Of course, there were also those who kept crying...

Alex smiled. "It's normal to be afraid. Only by knowing fear will we have reverence for this world. It's normal not to be afraid. This means that you're very brave."

A child sobbed. "What about those who are crying..."

Alex said affirmatively, "It's normal to cry. Instructor Burton also cried when I was your age..."

The children gradually calmed down. Amelia looked at Alex with sparkling eyes. Daddy is so awesome! I admire Daddy so much!

At this moment, Alex continued, "You all have powerful energy hidden in your hearts, so when the criminals rush in later, do you remember what to do?"

Chapter 255: Go, Criminal!

One by one, the children raised their hands. Some said that they had to run quickly, while others said that they had to listen to the teacher's instructions.

Amelia also raised her hand and said loudly, "Charge forward and beat him up!" Her eyes were sparkling as she waved her small fists excitedly.

When Emma heard this, she also waved her fists fiercely. "That's right. Charge forward and beat him up!"

Alex: '

The teachers:

The corners of Alex's mouth twitched. He no longer doubted Amelia's strength at all. He said, "Amelia is very brave, but you have to remember Instructor Burton's words. Under normal circumstances, a child's strength can't compare to an adult's. Our first principle is to survive!"

Amelia nodded and understood. Her father said that under normal circumstances, she was an abnormal situation. She had a red string and could overturn Fifth Uncle at once! However, no matter what, she could not cause trouble for her father, so she nodded obediently. "I understand!"

Alex heaved a sigh of relief. He was really afraid that Amelia would go up and fight the "criminal" later! If Amelia went up, Emma would definitely follow. Wouldn't this scene become chaotic?

Alex summarized the loopholes of the first drill and bluntly pointed out the teachers' problems and the school police's problems. The school police's reaction was slow, their actual combat ability was useless, and so on... After summarizing, he immediately began the second drill. The results of this drill were much better. As soon as the alarm sounded, the teachers became alert and immediately organized the students to evacuate.

The children also knew what to do. They no longer only listened to the teacher's orders. Instead, they had their own thoughts and understood why they had to run like this.

Alex was very pleased. Seeing the school police try their best to fork out the screaming Eric, Eric was about to die of anger! This time, he couldn't even defeat a few school police officers! Eric used all his strength, and so did the school police. Eric fought eight school police officers alone and lasted for a full two minutes before being forked out. He was actually quite impressive.

After teaching the drill, Alex started the second process, teaching the school police how to act.

The children sat on the field. All of them were sweating profusely, but they were very excited. They watched as Alex was surrounded by seven or eight school police officers on the drill ground.

The children shouted, "Instructor Burton, you can do it!"

Amelia also shouted, "Instructor Burton, do your best!"

A whistle sounded, and seven or eight campus police rushed towards Alex at the same time. Alex's eyes turned cold. In less than half a minute, seven or eight school police officers fell!

The children: "Wow!"

Amelia: "Wow!"

Amelia was too proud. She kept saying, "This is my father! Look, this is my father! "

The children turned around in surprise and looked at Amelia enviously. From now on, all the children in the school knew that Amelia had a super powerful father who could beat up eight school police uncles alone!

Seeing Amelia proudly say to the children, "This is my father," Eric was jealous. He raised his hand and snorted. "I'll go!"

Eric did not believe it. He had been at the construction site all year round and was strong. How could he not defeat Alex?

The children knew that Eric was the "criminal" just now. They immediately shouted even louder in excitement, "Instructor Burton! Go! Instructor Burton! Go! Defeat the criminal! Beat him up!"

Amelia looked at Alex and then at Eric. No one on Fifth Uncle's side was cheering for him... Hence, Amelia shouted at the top of her lungs, "Instructor Burton, you can do it! Criminal, you can do it!"

As soon as Amelia shouted, Emma also shouted, "Instructor Burton, do your best! The criminal, do your best! Everyone, do your best!"

The child was stunned. What kind of operation was this?

Amelia pointed at Eric and explained, "He's not a real criminal. He's my Fifth Uncle."

The children were enlightened.

Eric directly ignored the first half of Amelia's sentence. When he heard the words "go for it, criminal", he immediately beamed with joy. He felt that his entire body was filled with strength, and it was not a problem for him to defeat a cow!

"Come!" Eric hooked his finger at Alex provocatively.

However, in the next second, Alex grabbed Eric's wrist and threw him over his shoulder to the ground!

Alex's movements were too fast. Before anyone could see clearly, the criminal was defeated! The children immediately cheered and applauded. The little girls looked at Alex as if they had seen a big hero, and the little boys looked at Alex as if they had seen Ultraman!

Eric's face flushed red as he got up from the ground. "It doesn't count. Let's do it again.. You ambushed me!"

Chapter 256: Good Driving Skills

Alex raised his eyebrows. "Alright."

Eric got up and saw Alex turn to look at Amelia... He quickly rushed up and prepared to knock Alex down when Alex wasn't paying attention!

Alex didn't seem to notice. The children exclaimed and waved their small hands anxiously. "Behind, behind..."

Eric's eyes revealed a victorious smile.

However... just as Eric's hand touched Alex, there was another bang, and he fell to the ground again.

Eric:

Some of the children were already jumping up in excitement!

"Awesome! Awesome!" A child from the big class gave Alex a thumbs up!

Alex was in the limelight in kindergarten, and Eric became a negative example. No matter what posture he rushed up in, he was thrown to the ground in the end! He was about to vomit blood!

The children were not satisfied with the explosion drill this time. When they lined up to return to the classroom, some children imitated Alex. At the same time, they envied Amelia for having such a powerful father!

At this moment, Amelia was waving goodbye to Alex and Eric. Her eyes were filled with admiration as she shouted, "Daddy is so awesome!"

Alex reached out and rubbed Amelia's head. His lips curled up slightly. "Yes."

Eric crossed his arms and was a little unhappy. When Amelia saw this, she immediately said, "Fifth Uncle was also very good today. Your acting as a criminal was so successful! You were also super powerful!" She really felt that Eric was very powerful and even gave him a thumbs up, sincerely praising him.

The little emotion in Eric's heart immediately disappeared. He hurriedly asked, "Really?"

Amelia nodded affirmatively. "Really!"

Eric immediately grinned and felt satisfied. Look, Baby Mia praised him too!

Eric left in satisfaction.

After Alex returned, he settled some matters and looked at the time. School was almost over for Amelia. He changed his clothes and drove to pick Amelia up.

Alex felt that he was arrogant enough driving. Unexpectedly, a car drove past him on the road. A young girl waved her hand in a panic. "Sorry, sorry..." Before she could finish speaking, the car drove past.

Alex raised his eyebrows and watched as the car ran crookedly past the car in front of him before slowly stopping. There were quite a lot of cars on the road. She had driven so many twists and turns, but she was actually unharmed.

Alex: "Tsk tsk, your driving skills are not bad!"

At this moment, in the car in front, Helena thought to herself that it was so close. Her brakes actually failed. What was even stranger was that there were so many cars on the road, but she was actually fine?!

"It's too magical..." Helena muttered. "Is this luck or not?" If she was lucky, why did the brakes suddenly malfunction? If she wasn't lucky, she was actually fine on a road with so many cars while her brakes malfunctioned...

Helena shook her head and took out her phone to call the auto shop. "Hello, is this the auto shop? My car..."

When Alex arrived at the kindergarten, it was just in time for the kindergarten to end.

Amelia walked out and saw all the children greeting her. "Hello, Mia. I like your father very much. Call your father to the amusement park next time!"

“Mia, Mia! Let’s go together. I’ll take the school bus too!”

“Amelia, this is for you!” A little boy ran over and stuffed a lollipop into

Amelia’s hand. Then, his eyes lit up as he said, “Your father likes Ultraman?”

Amelia thought for a moment. “I think so.” It seemed that boys liked Ultraman very much?

The little boy was instantly happy. “Then I’ll bring the Ultraman card to your father next time!”

The other boys also surrounded her and chattered as they asked Amelia questions about Alex. Just as they were asking, they saw Alex standing at the school gate with one hand in his pocket. The little boy who said that he wanted to give Alex the Ultraman card immediately exclaimed, “Look! It’s Instructor Burton!”

The group of children immediately rushed over! The teachers hurriedly pulled them back, so anxious that their foreheads were sweating.

Amelia was amazed. Her father was so popular!

At this moment, Emma ran over and held Amelia’s hand. “What’s wrong?”

At this moment, at the school gate, a group of children was surrounding the tall Alex. They asked one after another, “Hello, Instructor Burton. How did you grow so tall?”

Alex hummed. “Eat on time, sleep on time, eat less snacks, and read more books..”

Chapter 257: Same Taste

The boys were shocked. "Really? My mother keeps telling me that, but I don't believe it." Now that Instructor Burton had said so, he would go home and eat!

After finally coaxing the children away, Alex took Amelia's hand and asked,

"How are you feeling today? Are you happy in school?"

Amelia: "I'm happy! I'm super happy! Daddy, I want to eat ice cream!"

Emma immediately raised her hand. "Me too!"

Alex waved his hand and put Amelia and Emma into the car. "Let's go. I'll bring you guys to eat ice cream!" The cool SUV drove off, leaving behind a bunch of envious eyes.

At the Central Mall, Alex stood with Amelia and Emma beside the colorful ice cream truck. Amelia leaned over the transparent glass cabinet and held back her saliva. "Auntie, I want a yogurt, a mango, and a strawberry!"

The ice-cream-selling aunt took ice-cream scoops, each one round and big to Amelia's taste, and the ice-cream cups filled with three ice-cream balls of different colors.

Amelia took it and took a bite first, then reached over to share it with Emma. Emma was looking at the ice cream in the ice cream truck with shining eyes and waved her hand. "No need, no need. I'll choose!"

Amelia raised the ice cream high again. "Instructor Burton, eat."

Amused, Alex bent down and took a bite. He tapped Amelia's nose with his finger. "Call me Daddy."

Amelia: "Daddy!"

Alex smiled. The more he looked at his daughter, the more he liked her.

Elmer floated to the side and clicked his tongue. "What's so good about ice cream?"

Amelia glanced at him. "Master, you haven't eaten it before, right? Ice cream is super delicious!"

Elmer curled his lips and said, "What's so good about it? Isn't it just ice dregs?" He wasn't envious at all! Elmer thought as he quickly glanced at the ice cream in Amelia's hand.

After Alex paid, he was still sitting on the edge of the flower bed in the center. However, this time, there were one big and two small ones. A passing lady looked back as she walked and hit the door with a bang.

Emma laughed. "Hahaha, this sister must be looking at my ice cream. She's craving it! "

Amelia: ' . I think she might be watching my father."

Alex: "No, she's looking at you."

The three of them muttered as they ate ice cream. Speechless, Elmer turned around and sat cross-legged on the edge of the flower bed. He resigned himself to fate and flipped through the booklet. What was so good about ice cream? He should read the booklet! He had flipped the booklet over and over a few times these past few days, but he still could not find Helena's whereabouts.

"Where the hell did she go..." Elmer muttered.

At this moment, a girl's voice came from the ice cream truck behind him.

"Boss, I want a yogurt scoop, a strawberry one, and a mango one!"

Amelia immediately turned around. "Wow, this person has the same taste as me!"

Amelia was stunned when she turned around. She saw an older sister in a yellow T-shirt and twisted dungarees standing in front of the ice cream truck. Behind her... was a long string of ghosts! So many ghosts!

It was already past six in the afternoon. Although the sun had not completely set, in the Central Mall, tall buildings blocked the afterglow of the setting sun and allowed ghosts to appear. But even so, ghosts did not like to come out at this time of day. They waited until it was dark. So was there anything on this sister in front of them? Otherwise, why would ghosts risk following her? Amelia looked at Helena and had the strangest feeling, so much so that she had forgotten to call Elmer.

Helena paid. At this moment, the ice cream shop owner said in surprise, "Aiya, you're the 1,000th customer today. Wait a moment, we have a small gift for you!"

Helena's mouth twitched as the owner took out a doll in the shape of a small ice cream. She took it, thanked him very calmly, took a bite of the ice cream, and left.

The ice cream boss: ". . ." Why wasn't she surprised at all?

Amelia stared at Helena and saw her walking over while looking at her phone.

She took the initiative to say, "Sister, did you also buy yogurt scoop, mango scoop, and strawberry-flavored ice cream scoops? Me too!"

Helena looked up. "Huh?" She saw a cute little girl holding the same ice cream as her..

Chapter 258: Becoming sworn sisters

From Helena's point of view, the little girl looked at her with her head tilted. Her face was fair and chubby. It wasn't fat like that either, but a little baby fat. Her eyes were big and dark, and her eyelashes were curled. She had two small braids. The stray hair on her forehead was clipped up with a little white rabbit hair clip, revealing her full and round forehead.

In an instant, Helena was stunned. Something seemed to flash past, but her mind was empty and she still couldn't remember anything! She felt a pain in her heart and an urge to pull the child in front of her into her arms.

Helena steadied herself and said, "I see. Shall we have a toast?"

Amelia immediately raised her ice cream. "Cheers!"

Elmer looked up. Could ice cream be toasted? With one look, he flew up from the flower bed, and his eyes almost fell to the ground!

"F*ck, f*ck!" Elmer couldn't stay calm anymore and cursed.

Amelia was shocked. She turned around and asked, "Master, what's wrong..." Why did he look like he had seen a ghost? Although there were indeed more ghosts behind this sister...

Elmer opened his mouth and could not speak. Amelia could not see the abnormal ghost hidden in a person's body yet, but he could! The soul in the girl's body in front of him was completely different from this girl's face! In other words, the soul of this body occupied this girl's body, and who else could this soul be but Helena!

"Oh my god, why did you run into someone else's body?" Elmer felt that his understanding had been refreshed. It was too ridiculous! Could it be that there was really a soul in this world?!

Amelia saw that Elmer was acting abnormally. She looked at Helena, then back at Elmer. "Master?"

Helena looked over and saw Alex and Amelia. Master? She thought that the man in front of her was the father of these two children!

Alex knew who Amelia was calling Master, but his expression did not change. He pretended that Amelia was calling him. His eyes flickered as he sensed that something was definitely going on with Amelia.

“Eat your ice cream.” Alex glanced at the time and told Amelia, “Grandma will be here in ten seconds.’

Amelia and Emma were speechless. The two of them quickly finished the ice cream in their hands.

Helena looked away and smiled at Amelia, who was engrossed in eating ice cream. Without thinking, she handed Amelia the doll in her hand. “Here, this is for you. As a witness to our fate.”

Amelia took the doll happily. “Are you really giving it to me?”

Helena: “Yes, yes, yes!” She was about to leave.

Amelia quickly said, “Sister, wait a minute.” With that, she searched her small school bag and found a pair of underwear. She quickly stuffed it back and touched it again. She found a sweat towel... Realizing that she had nothing to give away, Amelia scratched her head. Suddenly, her eyes lit up and she took down her little rabbit hair clip.

“This is for you,” Amelia said, placing the bunny hairpin in Helena’s hand.

Helena was stunned. She looked at the little rabbit hair clip in her palm and her heart seemed to melt like hot water. It was a mess. Her soul had been reborn. She couldn’t remember anything. She was quite lonely... But now, she seemed to have made a friend, a little friend.

“Thank you!” Helena smiled. “We hit it off so well. Why don’t we become sworn sisters?”

Elmer: n ???” He was stunned by Helena’s words and quickly said, “Wait...”

Amelia, however, asked Helena happily, “What do you mean by sworn sister?”

Helena said, “We’re friends who hit it off at first sight and become sworn siblings. In the future, you’ll be my sister and I’ll be your sister. This way, we’ll be even closer!”

Amelia nodded. "Okay, okay!"

Elmer: "Wait a minute, wait a minute..."

Helena, however, raised her ice cream cup. "Come, cheers to this ice cream and we'll be good sisters!"

Amelia raised the ice cream high. "Cheers!"

The two of them took a big bite of ice cream and started gasping from the code.

Elmer:

Alex:

Helena forced herself to swallow the ice cream in her mouth and said in a muffled voice, "You're my sister from now on. Come, call me sister!"

Amelia: "Sister!"

Helena replied happily, "Yes! "

Chapter 259: Go Home Together

Elmer: "... Aren't you guys a little too hasty?! Will they not listen to him?!"

Elmer was about to say something when Amelia suddenly pointed at Alex. "Sister, this is my father. If you're my sister, my father is your father. Sister, call him Daddy!"

Helena spat out a mouthful of ice cream!

Alex's mouth twitched. 'There's no need. I don't want a daughter that age.'

Helena looked at Alex. "Um... hello, hello... this... brother?" She thought this man was the little kid's master! Now, how should she address him!

Before Alex could speak, Emma shouted, "No, you can't call him Brother! You have to call him Daddy! Daddy's Daddy is Grandpa, Daddy's sister is Auntie, and the sisters' Daddy is Daddy!"

Amelia echoed, "Yes, yes, yes!"

Helena: "... " This is ridiculous. I just casually acknowledged her as my sister. How did I acknowledge a father for myself?

Amelia suddenly frowned. "No, no, my father didn't give birth to Sister. You can't call her Daddy!"

Seeing Amelia and Helena actually fall into deep thought over a title, Elmer looked up at the sky and cried. Can't you wait a moment? Let him finish!

Elmer said speechlessly, "Mia, don't casually acknowledge others as your sisters."

Amelia had a headache. "Then what should we do? I can't just acknowledge her as my mother!"

Elmer choked. Wasn't that her mother?

At this moment, Alex's phone rang. He picked it up and held the phone receiver a little further away. Old Madam Walton's angry roar came from the receiver. "Alex! Where did you kidnap Mia and Emma!"

Helena stopped abruptly when she heard Mrs Walton's voice. This voice... and Mia... why did it give her a familiar feeling?

Helena looked at Alex, who was wiping his nose innocently. "I don't think you can call it kidnapping..."

Mrs. Walton was furious. "Did you bring them to eat ice cream again?!"

Alex: "You can't say it's again..." Seriously speaking, this was Emma's first time out for ice cream. How could she say it was again?

Mrs. Walton snorted. "I'll give you thirty minutes. Hurry up and bring her back!"

Alex was about to say okay when Mrs. Walton said, "Forget it. I'll give you an hour. I'm warning you, don't drive too fast..."

Alex raised an eyebrow. "Don't worry."

After hanging up, Alex ate the last bite of ice cream and threw the empty glass away. It drew a beautiful parabola and fell precisely into the trash can. Then he said to Amelia and Emma, "Let's go."

Emma's mouth was red from the cold. As she ate, she said, "Wait, I still have a little..."

Amelia held up her cup. "I have more too, Daddy. Why don't you help me take a bite?"

Amelia and Emma were nervous when they thought of Old Madam Walton. Alex smiled. "Go to the car and eat. Just destroy the evidence before we get home."

Emma and Amelia's eyes lit up and they nodded repeatedly.

Beside him, Helena was silent. She muttered to herself, "Mia... Mia..."

Amelia turned around curiously. "Sister, are you calling me?" Helena came back to her senses and looked at Amelia. "So your name is Mia!" Amelia nodded. "By the way, Sister, what's your name?"

Helena: "... My name is He... Hall Walton." Out of habit, she almost said her name was Helena!

Amelia exclaimed, "Your surname is Walton too!"

Elmer's eyes darkened. Hall? He immediately flipped open the booklet. He had an impression of the name!

Helena couldn't help but reach out and rub Amelia's hair. "Alright, Sister, I'll go back first."

Elmer immediately said, "Mia, you can't let her go."

Amelia made a sound of surprise and looked at Elmer. "Why can't I let Sister

Elmer floated beside Alex. Alex lowered his eyes slightly. Was it Mia's master who said that this girl could not be allowed to leave? Although he did not know why, but...

Alex looked up and smiled. He said to Helena, "Since you're sworn sisters with Mia, no matter what, you have to go home and meet your elders. Let's go back together." With that, he held Amelia's hand with one hand and picked Emma up with the other, gesturing for Helena to follow.

Helena:

Half an hour later, Helena sat in the car with a dumbfounded expression. She looked out at the road and felt a sense of familiarity, as if it had been a lifetime ago.. It was as if she had often taken this road in her previous life...

Chapter 260: She's Petty and Selfish

Alex's SUV had reached the outskirts of the Waltons' estate. Amelia leaned behind the driver's seat and said nervously, "Dad, destroy the evidence!"

Alex said, "Oh... I almost forgot." He parked the car in front of the trash can at the side. He was about to ask Mia and Emma to give him the ice cream empty cup when he saw Amelia looking left and right. She asked nervously, "Daddy, what do we do? How do we destroy the evidence?"

Alex: '

Helena came back to her senses and saw the nervous Amelia, as if she was preparing to do something big. She laughed. "Give it to me. Destroying the trash means that we have to throw the trash away before we go home. Don't let Mom find out..." At this point, she was suddenly stunned.

Emma and Amelia handed the trash to Helena, saying, "Please..."

Helena instinctively took it, opened the car door, and threw the trash into the trash can. As soon as she turned around, she saw the sun setting. In the distance was the end of the river, and the bright sunset dyed half the sky red.

Helena was in a daze. She seemed to have seen such a scenery before. What was going on? At this moment, Helena vaguely recalled an image. Her brothers had brought her home and even secretly given her snacks. Because they were afraid of being blamed by their parents when they returned home, they stopped the car halfway and threw the trash away...

Suddenly, the car horn beeped twice. Alex placed a hand on the window and said, "Get in. Why are you in a daze?"

Helena: "Oh... okay..."

As the car approached the Walton family's manor, Helena did not know what was going on, but her heart was beating faster and faster. Her breathing began to quicken. Something was about to come out of her mind, giving her a headache.

In the Walton family's manor, Mrs. Walton was sitting in a wheelchair, like an old mother waiting for her daughter to return home. The sunset shone on her white hair, adding a hint of vicissitudes and loneliness. However, when she saw Amelia, Emma, and Alex get out of the car, her weathered face came to life. She said coldly, "You're not coming home after school. Where did you go to play?"

Helena held onto the car door. She couldn't breathe, and her fingers were trembling. The moment she saw Mrs. Walton, she felt her heart hurt so much that she couldn't breathe. Tears fell unconsciously.

Helena was a little flustered and quickly wiped her tears. There was an indescribable feeling in her heart. She did not understand what was going on!

Amelia ran over, hugged Mrs. Walton, and called her Grandma obediently. Then, she snuggled into her arms and wheeled. Mrs. Walton instantly lost her temper. She looked up and saw Helena not far away. She was stunned for a moment before asking, "This is?"

Mrs. Walton frowned at Alex. Could it be Alex's girlfriend? Mrs. Walton felt a little suffocated and angry. She didn't think she was a generous person. She was even petty. She could accept Alex as her son-in-law and treat him as one of the Waltons, but only if he didn't find another woman. If Alex was going to date or remarry, then she hoped Alex would leave the Walton family. Naturally, she wouldn't allow him to take Amelia away. It wasn't that she didn't want Alex to find a partner, but she couldn't accept him bringing her home! She was so petty and selfish! If this girl was Alex's girlfriend, she wouldn't let her set foot in the Walton residence.

Mrs. Walton looked at Helena with a cold and very unfriendly expression.

Amelia sensed Mrs. Walton's attitude and quickly said, "Grandma, this is the sister Mia just acknowledged. She's not a bad person!"

Mrs. Walton frowned. "What sister?"

Alex pushed Mrs. Walton's wheelchair very naturally. As he pushed her into the house, he told her what had happened.

Amelia ran to hold Helena's hand and said, "Sister, let's go!" Her voice was soft and cute. The way she called her sister was very sweet. The pain in Helena's heart slowly disappeared and she let Amelia lead her through the door.

Mrs. Walton's complaint came from the front. "You even lied to me that you didn't eat ice cream? What time is it? It's not good for the stomach if children don't eat on time... If she wants to eat, you just bring her there? Children are insensible, but you, an adult, are also fooling around... William and the others are almost done eating. Only you..."

In the dining room, George looked up and saw Alex being scolded. He watched coldly and even raised his eyebrows gloatingly. Finally, he was not the only one who was scolded..
