

Chapter 163: All Because of You

Suzy reflected on the situation and realized that Clive was speaking the truth! While she was being harassed by Steven from Far East Corporation, Liam unexpectedly showed up and rescued her!

Amidst the chaos, Suzy hadn't dwelled much on why Liam had shown up right on time, nor had she considered it!

"And, after the incident, Liam, to prevent others from gossiping about you, gave up the opportunity to use this incident to pressure Far East Corporation.

"He was worried that if Far East Corporation got upset, they might further disclose the incident of your harassment."

Clive paused, looking at her. "I think you should know that once a girl's reputation gets tarnished, it can have lifelong consequences."

That would mean she'd carry a peculiar stigma for the rest of her life!

Despite her innocence, she'd become the subject of gossip, with some fabricating reasons, such as accusing Suzy of intentionally seducing Steven.

Having spent a considerable amount of time in the workplace, Suzy understood this truth well.

"Why hasn't Liam told me any of this?"

"How would I know? You should ask him! And it doesn't stop

"Why hasn't Liam told me any of this?"

"How would I know? You should ask him! And it doesn't stop there. He's done so much for you, but you haven't done anything for him in return.

"You even sought out other men to replace Liam as your boyfriend! If you hadn't done that, he wouldn't have ended up in that accident."

Suzy pursed her lips, furrowing her brows. "I had my reasons!"

"I don't want to know your reasons. I came here today to tell you all this because I want you to realize that Liam has already done a lot for you.

"If you've never truly cared for him, it's best to let go sooner rather than later and quickly get divorced! Don't leave him caught in the middle."

Suzy was speechless.

"Liam's mother has been rushed to the emergency room three times because of you."

Suzy stood still, Clive's words instantly challenging many of her beliefs!

She could feel that Liam liked her, and indeed, he had put in effort, but she never imagined he had done so much for her behind her back while she had always just taken it for granted.

Even Alec could sense it, yet she had never thought about it!

"I... I initially thought that he had a crush on Sophia..."

She thought Liam was doing everything for Sophia, and not her.

"You initially thought? Miss Chase, if you just pay a little attention to Liam, you'll definitely feel how serious he is about you! Don't make excuses, I won't listen to them either."

Clive sighed, continuing, "It's meaningless to say anything else now. Since you can't reciprocate his feelings, just hurry up and divorce him."

Suzy kept replaying Alec and Clive's words in her mind until she returned to Wendy's home.

Everything that happened today made her feel like the world had turned upside down!

Almost instinctively, Suzy called Liam.

She wasn't sure what she wanted to say once he answered the call... but... she just found herself really wanting to hear Liam's voice!

After a few rings, he answered.

Liam's voice sounded unusually weary, low, and hoarse.

He used to work late nights and pull all-nighters often, but he'd never sounded this exhausted before.

"What's wrong?"

"I..." Suzy hesitated, unsure what to say, "I... just wanted to ask what you're doing."

"I'm at the hospital."

Before Suzy could speak again, she heard what seemed like Sophia's voice on the other end.

"What happened to Mrs. Park again? Liam, you've gone too far this time. For goodness sake, she's your mother!"

Chapter 164: Got Involved with Mr. Park

She didn't catch the rest of what Sophia said, then Liam's voice came through.

"My mom woke up. I'll call you back after I settle things on my end."

"Okay."

Suzy gazed at her phone's dark screen, experiencing inner chaos like never before.

Actually, it would've been better if Clive hadn't looked for Suzy and told her all those things because she was already determined to divorce Liam and end their relationship!

However, after hearing what Clive told her, she suddenly didn't know how to bring up the topic of divorce with Liam anymore.

He had been incredibly attentive to her needs, even in the face of his mother's objections; he remained steadfast and refused to back down. On the other hand, it was always so easy for her to initiate a break-up.

Just like Liam had said...

Whenever she encountered something, she just wanted to give up completely and draw clear boundaries.

She lay on the bed, staring at the ceiling, every moment spent with Liam replaying in her mind.

His tenderness, his thoughtfulness, his open affection for her.

How did she never notice it before?

Suzy buried her face in the blanket, letting out a wail, when suddenly there was a knock on the door.

It was Wendy returning.

She saw the shoes in the entryway and headed straight to Suzy's room.

"I thought you weren't coming back!" Wendy exclaimed, noticing her friend's demeanor and immediately sensing something was wrong.

"Why do you look so upset?"

Initially, Suzy instinctively wanted to deny it, but... when it came to matters of the heart, it seemed she could only confide in Wendy.

"I suddenly realized that I might be a terrible person."

"Huh?" Wendy raised an eyebrow, leaning in. "What are you talking about? I don't understand."

"There's this guy, he's always been so good to me, and I never noticed and appreciated his efforts..."

Honestly, even with Jeffrey's kindness towards her, she always maintained a boundary, always stopped him the moment he crossed a line, not letting him continue to invest in her, not wanting to waste his time.

But Liam was different!

He always did things behind her back, without letting her know.

"There are plenty of guys in our company who are good to you, including my cousin. They all hope you'll reciprocate their feelings, right?"

"You always coldly reject them without a second thought. I've never seen you agonize over such matters. So, this guy you're talking about... is he an exception?"

Was Liam... an exception?

Suzy furrowed her brow, pondering.

"He... he's different from other guys! When others show interest in me, I can sense it and easily maintain my distance because I have no intention of reciprocating.

"I don't want them to waste their time on me. But what he does is subtle and hard to notice. I only found out about everything he did for me when someone else told me."

"Who is this guy, anyway?"

Wendy couldn't help but be curious! She knew every guy who pursued Suzy, so she was surprised there was one she missed.

"I hope you won't be upset when I tell you."

"Why would I be upset?" Wendy was baffled.

Suzy hesitated, feeling conflicted, then sighed and lowered her head in defeat.

"It's Mr. Park. I... I lied to you before."

For a moment, the room grew tense, as if time had stopped.

Wendy stood motionless, like a statue, for a full minute!

Then, a deafening voice erupted.

"What did you say?! You actually got involved with Mr. Park!"

Chapter 165: He Never Thought of Giving Up

Suzy's head throbbed from Wendy's shouting.

Just as she was about to explain the situation, Wendy's attention shifted.

"Did you two sleep together?"

"Um..."

"How is he down there? Is it huge?" Wendy blinked, clearly curious.

Suzy hadn't expected her to ask that and instinctively froze. "Huh?"

"What's with the hesitation? I've told you before, I'm curious about how Mr. Park performs in bed. He looks so reserved like he's warning everyone to keep their distance with his handsome face.

"Do you think a guy like that might have a hidden side? Maybe he's particularly... proactive when it comes to intimacy?"

Proactive...

Liam could be considered proactive, right?

"Wait a minute! Wendy, I'm talking about something serious here."

How did the conversation suddenly turn to this kind of topic again?

Wendy stuck out her tongue and grinned.

"I have no other way of finding out, so I have to ask you! But back to the point, if the person you're being conflicted about turns out to be Mr. Park, I suggest you stay away from him."

Suzy was confused by Wendy's remarks.

"He's secretly in love with someone! Being chaste for so many years shows how important that person is to him. His kindness to you might just be because he values your workability."Top of Form

Suzy rubbed her forehead with her hand.

"The one he secretly loved wasn't Miss Burns."

"Then who is it?" Wendy pondered for a moment. "I haven't heard of any other women around him. It couldn't be you, could it?"

After saying that, she turned to look at Suzy.

Their eyes met, and both remained silent for a few seconds, as if by mutual agreement.

Then Wendy exploded.

"It's you?! The woman Mr. Park is secretly in love with, is you?!"

Suzy awkwardly pursed her lips. "Considering everything that I know so far, it appears to be me."

When she first found out, Suzy was just as shocked and incredulous as Wendy was now. She wasn't even that certain until Clive came to see her.

"Then why aren't you marrying Mr. Park right away and securing your position as Mrs. Park?!" Wendy's excitement was evident as if she had won the lottery for a month straight.

Her reaction was expected because being married to Liam meant Suzy would hold a superior position in the Park Group. It was a status that ordinary people wouldn't even think about achieving!

"Between us... it's not that simple."

At least, there were many obstacles in front of them right now.

She sought Wendy's advice on what to do because she found this decision particularly challenging.

Suzy briefly explained the situation. It was rather easy for Wendy to understand Suzy's circumstances. Wendy knew that it wouldn't be easy for Suzy to be accepted into the Park family, especially with Sophia in the picture.

After listening to everything, Wendy remained silent for a while before suddenly asking, "What about you? How do you feel about Mr. Park?"

"I don't know."

Before, she simply thought of her relationship with Liam as a transaction. But later, she realized there were some feelings involved, like feeling upset every time she heard news about him and Sophia.

However, she never imagined that Liam's feelings for her were so deep! She only thought of it as a normal affection between a man and a woman.

Furthermore, she never entertained the idea of entering high society through her relationship with Liam

"Ah, I pity Mr. Park! He's done so much for you, and your answer is 'I don't know.'"

Suzy pressed her lips. "Even if were to answer that I also like him, can we be together? With so many things going on right now, how can anyone solve them?"

"Suzy, if you find it difficult, won't Mr. Park find it difficult too?"

Suzy was speechless.

"But he never thought of giving up."
