

Chapter 750

Henry sat by the window and studied the scroll for a long time. He didn't know what the purpose of this scroll was, so he could only put it away first and study it slowly in the future when he returned to the island.

Henry looked up at the night sky. Sylvia's figure unconsciously appeared by the window, and the woman's voice and her laugh lingered in his ears.

Henry shook his head and got rid of his thoughts. At that time, he wanted to go to the Zhu family to fight with the Zhu clan. What would be the result of that battle? Henry himself did not dare to guarantee that. He could only make preparations in advance. He used Sylvia's demolishing the Spring residential home as an excuse and quarrelled with Sylvia so that the eyes hidden in the dark could see that. Then, he took advantage of the situation and told Radiant Island to announce that they no longer have contact with the Su Family. He was afraid that if he lost the battle, Sylvia would be implicated.

At that time, the fact that the Zhu clan could exterminate the whole Zhu family proved that they were not a group of devotees.

Facts proved that Henry's decision was right. If Henry hadn't taken the initiative to draw a clear distinction with Sylvia and quarrelled with her, perhaps on the day when Henry died, Freud would have taken Sylvia's life on the spot just to get some benefits.

Henry admitted that he missed Sylvia very much and he missed his family in Yinzhou. However, it was not the time to go back yet.

There were too many enemies hidden in the dark now. Henry himself had been thrown into the Hell Prison. Before he could find a good way to solve it, he should not show up easily. Henry did not know what was going on inside the Recluse Association, but he would not naively think that the Recluse Association was an organization whose aim was to maintain justice.

There were also hidden clans. Now, the Zhu, Xiao, and Su clans had been destroyed. There must be countless people watching them in the dark. They wanted to know the cause of their death. If Henry suddenly appeared, it would be easy for others to associate their deaths with him. If the clans really realized that Henry had gotten out of the Hell, it would almost be certain that the cause of Joshua's death had something to do with Henry. At that time, no matter whether there was any conflict of interest between Henry and the clans, the clans would subconsciously consider Henry as their enemy.

After all, the descendants of the ancient kungfu were not just a casual talk. If there is not for the benefits, everyone would take their side instead of taking the same side.

This time, Henry had already prepared his own plans. The first thing to do was to find a way to solve the Recluse Association's problem. The best situation was that he could become a Punishment Messenger. As long as he could open the Hell Prison, the clans would not be a huge threat.

At the moment, the home was not the place where Henry could go. If he went back, he would not only encounter countless enemies but also would put Sylvia in danger.

Although the Su family was now under the control of the Su clan, generally speaking, they were still safe. Once they got involved with Henry, the target on their back would get bigger and bigger.

Henry shook his head, lay down on the bed, and closed his eyes to rest.

Night had passed quietly.

When Henry got up, Aaron had already left.

"Wade, where did my senior brother go? Why did he leave in such a hurry?" Henry saw Wade in the hotel restaurant. Wade was holding a meat bun in his hand.

"Who knows?!" Wade rolled his eyes and said, "My old man nags all day long. He used to tell me that all methods should be united, but now he's shouting every day to find the source of the world. He almost made me become a monk."

"Ha." Henry smiled gently. "Your father doesn't want you to become a monk. He wants you to give him more than a dozen grandsons in order to carry on the family line."

"Forget it." Wade curled his lips. "My family's ancestors have committed too many sins. Being able to inherit the bloodline alone is already a blessing. If one wishes to establish a family line, he would have to accumulate merit for a few lifetimes."

"Boss, what are we going to do next?" With her wet hair swaying, Future came over. It could be seen that she had just finished showering.

"Go back to the island first. I have something for you." Henry gave an order and also took two steamed buns to fill his stomach.

At twelve o'clock in the afternoon, a private plane flew up to the sky and headed straight toward the Atlantic Ocean.

The whole Atlantic Ocean took up 20% of the entire area of this planet. It was boundless, larger than the nine provinces in China. An island, floating on the sea, was extremely small from above.

A dozen hours after Henry and others set off, a plane was soaring above the Atlantic Ocean.

"Boss, what are you looking at? Why are you so absent-minded?" Wade walked to Henry with a cigarette in his mouth.

At this time, Henry was standing by the window, looking at the endless sea under him.

"What do you think is under the sea?" Henry suddenly asked.

Wade was stunned by Henry's words. He didn't expect Henry to suddenly mention such an illusory thing. He replied, "Who knows? Under the sea, there is a pressure that can turn tanks into iron cakes. We can't get down at all. This planet is so big. There are so many things we don't know about it."

"Yes." Henry sighed. "Indeed, there are too many things we don't know. Wade, have you ever thought that it is because of our ignorance that we treat things that originally existed as myths?"

"Boss, why have you suddenly become insane like my father?" Wade looked at Henry strangely.

Henry shook his head. He was not talking nonsense, but the more he knew, the more he was in awe of the world. In the past, Henry thought that it was impossible for people to fly and that everyone would die one day.

But now, Henry could fly in the sky. He had also seen the old monster, Silas, who had lived for hundreds of years, and all kinds of things, that he used to think were impossible, were displayed in front of him. However, these incredible things did not have so much impact on the whole world as he had imagined. After all, the number of people who could fly in the sky or those who were immortal was too tiny compared to the whole world.

"Boss and I are thinking the same way." Future came from the side. "I think there are some so-called myths, but they may not necessarily be myths."

"Future, you are engaged in scientific research. Why do you believe this?" Wade rolled his eyes.

Future twitched her mouth and said, "At the end of science, there is theology. There are many things that science can't explain."

"Oh, from a scientific point of view, is there really something like dragons in the world?" Wade pointed to his broadsword, which was engraved with a five-clawed golden dragon on its back.

"Of course." Future said with great certainty.

"Of course?" Wade's eyes widened. "Are there really some dragons in this world?"

"Nonsense! You are really an idiot!" Future would not give Wade any face at all.

Chapter 751

Wade had long been accustomed to the title of an idiot. He had suspected more than once that when his father named him, he had a bad taste.

At the moment, Wade was completely attracted by the dragons mentioned by Future.

"Future, quickly tell me what's going on with these dragons."

Future reached out and knocked on Wade's head. "I said that you are an idiot, but you are really an idiot. Have you not seen the movie Jurassic park?"

"D*mn it!" Wade stuck out a middle finger. "You're talking about the dinosaurs, and I'm talking about the real dragons. This!"

As Wade spoke, he brandished his broadsword once more.

"In the Dinosaur Era, there were all kinds of dominators in the sea and sky. A giant dinosaur with a height of dozens of metres existed. Who could say whether there was a dragon with this type of body?" Future shrugged her shoulders and said, "According to my research, many prehistoric remains of the earth haven't been completely pieced together. They are all big things. Who can tell whether or not our Chinese Dragon is one of those remains?"

"Sigh." Wade sighed, looking downcast. "I thought you were really sure of the existence of such a creature as a dragon."

"If they weren't real, how could they have been passed down for so long?" Future asked in reply. "If Atlantis was simply constructing the truth and creating the truth, how could he have been trusted by so many people? You don't agree with this sort of existence, but that doesn't mean that others don't agree. In the field of science, this world is divided into hundreds of millions of different kinds."

"Hundreds of millions of kinds? How so?" Wade's curiosity was aroused again by Future.

"It's very easy to understand. Just say take people and birds as an example." Future took out a tablet and put out two pictures on it. "People can see trees by opening their eyes. People can feel the trees because they have hands. They can smell things. It's because they have a nose and they can hear things because they have ears."

"Future, aren't you talking nonsense?" Wade rolled his eyes. "All these things you've said, all of them are known to children. It's not a science."

"It's very simple. Every time people feel a different kind of thing, it is because they have an extra organ. Just like before eating, you will first see the appearance of the meal, then smell it, and finally taste it with your tongue. While some creatures don't have a nose, and they will eat directly when they encounter something. If you have an extra organ on your body, then you will have a new understanding of this world. Let's talk about birds. People move by using their legs, but do you know what the legs of birds are used for?"

Wade was stunned. This simple question really confused him. Human legs were used to move the human body, but the birds mostly relied on their wings to move. There was almost no reason for the existence of their legs. Some birds even did not have feet.

Future turned off the tablet and said, "Look, birds' world and our world are two different concepts. Just because birds have a pair of wings more than us, in their world, trees are not trees. They may be a kind of food or a place to live. In their world, people are just another form of things. To put it bluntly, we humans are better at thinking and creating than those animals. Because of our eyes, our world may not be as wonderful as their world. Animals will evolve because of the surrounding environment. However, humans can only create something preventive because of the surrounding environment. This is the so-called gift. Most animals are talented and stronger than humans."

Wade swallowed a mouthful of saliva. He really hadn't thought about the things that Future was talking about, but when he thought about it, he felt terrified.

What people can feel is only because of these organs. If some of the organs were missing, their world would change greatly. For example, blind people can't see mountains and rivers. People without taste buds can't feel sour and bitter.

There were many things in this world, not just the things that people saw. It was very likely that when people evolved again, they would have one more organ or one day they could invent something that could imitate an animal's organ. People would see a lot of things that they had never seen before!

Thinking about this, Wade couldn't help but get goosebumps all over his body. He felt that something might be behind him. That thing was looking at him, but he was restricted and couldn't find out the existence of the other party. It was like looking at an ant, but the ant didn't know anything.

Wade didn't even notice that after hearing Future's words, he also entered a strange state. Unconsciously, he thought about what the so-called Origin of the World that Aaron had mentioned was.

Ten minutes later, an island appeared in everyone's sight.

The island was surrounded by dark and tall walls. Above the walls, there were dense cannon tubes pointing in all possible directions, and there was a radar constantly rotating.

When the plane approached, the black walls around the island began to slowly disappear, revealing the beautiful scenery of blooming flowers behind the wall.

Countless warships berthed around the island, opening a path.

The plane was getting closer and closer to the island. On the island, a large group of people had gathered together, looking at the plane with excitement.

Henry was already the soul of Radiant Island. When they heard that Henry had returned safely, everyone on the island was in a state of excitement.

The plane slid and landed smoothly on the island. As soon as the plane door was opened, Henry saw a crowd of people standing outside the plane.

At the moment when they saw Henry, all of them let out excited voices.

"Boss, I knew you were fine, hahaha!" Felix released a loud laugh and squeezed his way out from the crowd.

Valentin also followed behind Felix. "Boss, where have you been this month? Our intelligence department couldn't find any traces of you at all."

Henry shook his head and said, "I'll tell you later."

"Right, drinking is the most important thing. Boss, I have to have a good drink with you today. If you go missing for another month, your tomb will be built." Felix said with a smile.

"Okay." Henry waved his big hand. "Let's drink tonight until we get drunk!"

Although more than 20 hours ago, the people on the island knew that Henry was fine, but now when they saw Henry, they couldn't hide the excitement in their hearts.

It took Henry an hour to walk into the castle in the centre of the island.

There were fewer people inside. Outside the ancient castle, all kinds of cheers kept coming. Everyone had already started drinking to celebrate.
