I Love You Miss Genius (Bonnie Shepard) CHAPTER 61

Chapter 61

1/2

“We got a call about a group of people fighting here. That must be you!” The leading officer got out of the car. He looked around, saw the hired men lying on the ground, and glanced at Bonnie in surprise.

“Did you take on all of them yourself?”

Bonnie nodded and pointed at Sacha. “She brought those guys here to attack me.”

Sacha was shocked and yelled, “W–What nonsense are you saying, Bonnie? You’re the one who brought them here to beat me up.”

“Oh? Did I do that? Why would I beat them up, then?”

“W–Well. They found their conscience and couldn’t bear to hurt me, so they decided to help me instead. You beat them all up in a fit of rage.

What a wonderful liar. Bonnie couldn’t help but laugh.

“What’s going on here?” The officer asked again. Sacha went to him and said, “I told the truth, officer. Try asking them!”

The officer pointed to the hired men lying on the floor, “Out with it, guys. Was she telling the truth?”

The hired men looked at Sacha. She secretly gave them a look. She had hired them, after all. They had. only gotten a deposit too. They’d only get the rest of the money when this was all over.

“T–That’s right, officer! It was her.” They all pointed at Bonnie. “She hired us!”

The officer turned to look at Bonnie. “Is this true?”

Bonnie said calmly, “Not at all.”

The officer rubbed the side of his forehead and said, "You're all coming to the police department with me. I want you to call your families too."

She frowned. If she called Vera and Gresham, they wouldn't listen to her at all. They'd only force her to apologize to Sacha. She didn't even want to think about that.

In the end, she had no choice but to call Ivor. He sounded a little unhappy when he picked up. "Why aren't you back home yet?"

"I ran into a situation."

That unnerved him. "What happened? Were you in a car crash? Where are you? I'll be there right away!" Bonnie's heart went soft for a second when she heard the impatient but worried tone in his voice.

"I'm at the police station."

"Huh? The police station? Aren't you supposed to be at the hospital?"

Chapter 61

Bonnie rubbed the side of her head and said, "I wasn't in a car accident. I just had a situation."

Bonnie and Sacha sat across from each other in the police station.

"Do you have any identification with you?" Sergeant Zain was in charge of their case.

"I don't have anything with me." Bonnie said.

"Neither do I."

"I guess we'll have to wait for your families to arrive, then."

At that moment, Dwayne walked into the station.

Chapter 62

“Is that you, Dwayne?” Sergeant Zain recognized him.

“So, you’re in charge of this case, Sergeant Zain.” He was a little surprised to see Bonnie. He hadn’t expected to see her here. So was Bonnie the person Sacha said was bullying her?

Sacha burst out crying and ran into his arms as he was still in the middle of his thoughts.

“You’re finally here, Dwayne! Bonnie hired a group of guys and tried to beat me up! Luckily, the ment found their conscience and didn’t do it. Otherwise, I would be in the hospital now, Boo hoo...”

He frowned, “Why would she do that?”

“It was all because of the bet. We were just kidding around, but she insisted I shave my head. First, she threatened me in the group chat and said she’d release the video to the public if I didn’t honor the bet. She wanted to make a joke out of me. Then, she hired a group of men to beat me up. She wanted to coerce me into shaving my head. There was another reason...”

“Another reason?”

“Y–Yeah. She told me you tried to come on to her. She also said she was out of your league. She asked me to keep you on a leash.

“She even said you’re not fit to lick her boots and you grossed her out by giving her a million dollars to try to get her to marry you.

He believed every word Sacha said. After all, Bonnie had said that to him in the restaurant. Sacha hadn’t been there, so she couldn’t have known about it unless Bonnie had told her.

Dwayne was already irritated with Bonnie because she had humiliated him in the restaurant. He was beside himself with rage now that Sacha had fanned the flames.

He turned and looked at Sergeant Zain. “It’s like my girlfriend said. This woman here threw herself at me again and again, but I rejected her. That’s probably why she has a grudge against us. She insulted me in front of my girlfriend and hired someone to beat her up.”

Sacha was overjoyed to hear what Dwayne was saying. She had thought quickly and managed to kill two birds with one stone. Dwayne was going to blame Bonnie for this, and he would have zero interest in her from now on.

Sergeant Zain looked at Bonnie sternly and asked, “Is that true?”

She answered calmly, “It’s their word against mine. There’s no evidence.”

That made sense, he thought.

“There isn’t any evidence?” Sacha pointed at the hired men. “You hired them. They’re witnesses.”

Bonnie slowly turned her head toward Sacha and said, “You say that they’re witnesses and I hired them. Do you have any proof of that?”

Chapter 12

Sacha choked. It had never occurred to her that Bonnie would be able to maintain her calm under these circumstances.

“Bonnie... Her name sounds familiar,” Sergeant Zain muttered.

Bonnie picked up a cup of water from the desk and remembered what had happened in the past. She had been at this police station because of an incident once. Sergeant Zain had only been an ordinary officer back then. He had checked her social security card and inadvertently found out that she was the renowned researcher, Ms. Bonita.

“It sounds really familiar...” He kept thinking.

“Ah! I know! Is she that Bonnie?” A thought occurred to the officer standing beside them.

Bonnie’s grip on her cup tightened. Had he recognized her?

“Who?” Sergeant Zain asked.

“It is her. Bonnie, winner of the Best Scholar Award!”

“Oh. So, that’s her. My daughter said something about her.” That explained why her name sounded so familiar to him.

Bonnie relaxed a little.

“Where’s your family? Why aren’t they here?”

At that moment, they heard a deep voice at the door.

“I’m sorry I’m late.”

Bonnie turned toward the voice and saw Ivor. His hair was a little tousled, his tie was loose, and there was sweat on his forehead. It was clear that he had rushed over here.

Bonnie felt a little moved.

“I’m the one who should apologize. I dragged you into this.”

“What are you talking about? I’m your fiancé.”

I Love You Miss Genius (Bonnie Shepard) CHAPTER 63

Chapter 63

Fiancé, he said... Bonnie lowered her gaze and tried to hide her emotions.

“Fiancé?!” Dwayne and Sacha exclaimed in unison, visibly shocked. They had seen this man at the school gate and thought that Bonnie had hired an actor. They were shocked to hear that he was her fiancé

“Impossible! I’ve never heard of him!” Sacha still thought that Bonnie had hired an actor. “She’s lying, Sergeant Zain. She doesn’t have a fiancé. Her ex-fiancé called off their marriage. She must have hired an actor to pretend to be her fiancé because she didn't have the guts to tell her family about it."

Dwayne thought Sacha made a fine point.

Sergeant Zain turned to Bonnie and asked with a serious expression on his face, "Is he really your fiancé? You shouldn't lie to me."

"He is." She replied.

Sergeant Zain observed her for a while and looked at Ivor. "Please show me your identification, sir."

"Ivor gay

it to him, and he passed it to one of his underlings to verify. Soon enough, his underling came back, sweating profusely, and whispered in his ear.

He jolted and looked at Ivor incredulously. "So, you're Mr. Ivor Knight. I'm sorry, I didn't know. Someone get him a cup of tea. The finest tea we have."

What was happening now? Dwayne and Sacha looked at each other, completely baffled.

Ivor Knight? Who was he? Why was Sergeant Zain being so respectful toward him?

Ivor didn't drink the tea immediately. Instead, he looked at Sergeant Zain and asked, "Do you believe she's my fiancé now?"

"Of course I do!" He nodded hurriedly. Naturally, he had heard about Ivor's engagement. In fact, the whole of Pyralis knew about it. His daughter had said she was jealous of the woman who was engaged to Ivor. It had never occurred to him that he would bump into her today.

"Can I take her home now?" Ivor asked Sergeant Zain.

"Sure! Be my guest!"

"How could you let her walk free, Sergeant Zain?! He might be an important man, then off just because of that." Dwayne stopped him.

but you can't let

Sergeant Zain was annoyed. “You said Ms. Bonnie seduced you repeatedly and you rejected her time and again. That’s why she harbored a grudge against you, insulted you before your girlfriend, and hired someone to beat her up. Is that right?”

“Exactly!” Dwayne raised his chin and stared at Bonnie condescendingly. “It doesn’t matter if you’re pretty. You’re beneath me.”

Chapter 63

“What a load of crap!” Sergeant Zain smacked the desk loudly.

Dwayne was startled. Before he could say another word, Sergeant Zain started yelling at him. “Ms. Bonnie is the future wife of the Knight Group CEO. Why would she need to seduce you, the son of a lowly four–star hotel owner? Do you think what you said makes any sense?”

“W–What?” Dwayne was stunned. Sacha’s mouth was wide open. She looked at Bonnie, then at Ivor. Was this stunning, exquisite man the most powerful man in the Knight Group? Was he the bachelor every single woman in Pyralis wanted to marry?!

Holy moly! She remembered it now. News of the Knight Group CEO’s engagement had shaken the entire city not long ago!

“Are you saying he’s the Knight Group CEO?” Dwayne pointed at Ivor, his tone different now.

“Exactly. In the flesh,” Sergeant Zain replied sternly.

Dwayne and Sacha finally understood. Sergeant Zain wasn’t joking at all.

I Love You Miss Genius (Bonnie Shepard) CHAPTER 64

Chapter 64

Sergeant Zain took a step toward Sacha, “I’m going to ask you again, Ms. Sacha. Did Ms. Bonnie hire those guys to beat you up?”

“Well...” Sacha’s mouth opened, and her eyes were wide and round from shock. She had no idea how to answer. Whatever insults she lobbed at Bonnie would be useless because of Ivor’s presence.

Sergeant Zain was right. Bonnie was the future wife of the Knight Group CEO, Who in their right mind would give that up to seduce Dwayne instead?

‘Mr. Ivor. Ms. Bonnie. You can go,’ Sergeant Zain said.

“Very well.” Ivor took off his blazer and put it over Bonnie’s shoulders. He spoke softly so that only the two of them could hear. “We have to make sure this looks real.” Bonnie went along with him and tugged at the blazer. She raised her head and smiled warmly at him. “Thank you.”

Ivor’s hands, which were resting by his side, clenched. His breathing quickened a little.

“Let’s move.”

He turned back to Dwayne and Sacha when he was at the door. “I hope no one else finds out about what happened tonight. Otherwise, today will be the last day Prismatic Hotel stays open in Pyralis.”

Dwayne’s face grew pale and his legs trembled. “L—Leave it to me. I won’t tell anyone about this, I swear.”

Sacha watched Bonnie as she left with a mixture of fear and envy.

“Let’s proceed with the case.” Sergeant Zain looked at Dwayne and Sacha coldly. A terrified Sacha fell to the floor. It was all over now.

In the end, she was put behind bars while Dwayne’s family took him back home. They forbade him from seeing Sacha ever again under threat of not being able to inherit the Prismatic Hotel. Dwayne had brothers, after all. He might love Sacha, but he wasn’t about to ruin his future because of a woman.

“Ah!” Sergeant Zain smacked his own thigh so hard it startled his underling who was standing next to him.

“W–What’s the matter, Sergeant?”

“I remember who Bonnie is now!” He gulped.

His underling was bewildered. “I–Isn’t she the future wife of the Knight Group CEO?”

“You don’t know anything! S–She’s Ms. Bonita!”

His underling’s eyes grew wide.

It was very late by the time Bonnie and Ivor left the police station. It was getting cold in Pyralis at night. Bonnie spotted a taco truck by the side of the road.

“Do you want some tacos?” Ivor noticed where she was looking.

21/2

“Yeah. I used to eat tacos all the time in the suburbs. I could never get enough of them.” She looked at him, “I’m going to get one. Do you want one too?”

“I’ll buy them.” Ivor didn’t give Bonnie a chance to reject him. He walked briskly to the taco truck and bought her one. Bonnie gave it to him and asked, “Do you want a bite? I know it’s not as good as caviar, but it’s tasty too.”

“Hold that thought.” Ivor crouched in front of Bonnie.

What was he doing?

She lowered her head and looked at him.

I Love You Miss Genius (Bonnie Shepard) CHAPTER 65

Chapter 65

Bonnie's eyes began to flicker.

Was Ivor tying her shoes?

Who knew the big shot of Pyralis would act like this?

Bonnie felt her heart stir.

"There." Ivor stood up.

"Oh. Um." Bonnie looked a little timid.

1/2

Ivor had unexpectedly caught Bonnie being embarrassed. He couldn't help but adore her. you going to give me a bite of the taco?"

"Weren't

Bonnie composed herself and offered him the taco. She didn't know that he would grab her hand, lift it, lean in, and take a bite. Her lips twitched and she stared at him, unsure of how to react.

"Hmm... It is tasty. It's really good." Ivor smiled and looked at Bonnie. She averted her gaze and frowned at the taco. She wasn't usually fussed about sharing food, but something felt wrong after Ivor had taken a bite. She couldn't put her finger on it.

"Why aren't you eating it? Hurry up. It won't be as good when it gets cold."

"Okay." Bonnie shook away her thoughts and started eating the taco. Ivor peeked at her as she took one bite after another, his grin growing wider and wider.

As soon as Bonnie returned to her room in the villa, Jim walked out of her bathroom.

"What are you doing in my bathroom again?"

She closed and locked her door immediately, afraid that Ivor would sense something wrong. They might not be as lucky this time.

"I'm here because I heard you were in danger!" Jim looked worried.

"I wasn't really in any danger. It was just a minor scuffle. There's no need to make a big deal about it."

“That’s not what I’m doing. This is about who you are. You’re Arvador’s top researcher. I can’t allow up to me, you’d be protected by a hundred bodyguards.”

you to be harmed. If it we?

Bonnie smacked her forehead and said, “Do you think I’m some kind of endangered animal?”

“Nope. You’re the last specimen of an extinct species.”

Bonnie had nothing to say to that.

“You might have been fine this time, but we can’t just let this slide. Sacha did a terrible thing. She hired a group of men and assaulted you, an elite member of the nation,” Jim said menacingly as he squinted his sharp eyes.

Chapter 45

She waved her hand, “She got what she deserved. She’s spending a few days behind bars. There’s no need to...”

“No way!” Jim overruled her. “I’ll listen to your orders most of the time, but not when it’s about your personal safety. I won’t stand down on that! Don’t try to talk me out of it. This is my duty!”

Bonnie knew how stubborn Jim could be, so she just shook her head helplessly. “Have it your way.

The next day, Sacha’s family went to see her and told her that the university Sacha had applied to had rejected her, and none of the other higher education institutes would accept her either. Sacha was out of her mind with despair!

The Prismatic Hotel’s application to be upgraded to five–stars was also denied. All their business partners pulled out of their contracts as well. The Moss family went into bankruptcy.

The annual dinner party at the Knight premises was about to start. This was a rare occasion. Every young lady in the family would be occupied with buying a specially tailored dress.
