

God, the Real Miss Hated Everyone Equally

Chapter 116

COMMENT

Chapter 116

Oscus.

A remote little village.

This village had experienced a mudslide disaster two years ago. The residents had basically all moved away with the help of the government. However, there were two families who had quietly moved back. It was unknown if they had originally lived here, or if they had chosen to stay because there was no one living here.

The two families chose two neighboring houses to live in.

In the middle of the two houses, there was a pigsty.

At this time, a middle-aged couple with serious burn scars on their faces walked out from the left room.

The middle-aged man held a tablet in his hand.

They walked towards the pigsty.

He walked to the side of the pigsty and turned on the lights above the pigsty.

The lights illuminated the scene in the pigsty.

There were two pigs in the pigsty and two people with incomplete limbs.

Their bodies were dirty and covered with pig feces. It was almost impossible to tell that they were human.

When the husband and wife saw how inferior they were, their eyes were filled with joy.

Their poor daughter had been killed by these two animals. Before she died, she had been humiliated. They wanted to make these two animals suffer a fate worse than death.

Killing people was just a little thing. They would not kill these two animals. They wanted to make these two beasts suffer, paying the price for their actions.

Not only that, they also wanted to destroy their hearts!

The middle-aged man said with a faint smile, "Mr. Galley, Miss Galley, you haven't seen your family for a while. You should miss your family very much, right?"

"Today, we brought your family's information over. We will let you take a good look."

When the two motionless objects heard the middle-aged man's words, they raised their heads with difficulty and looked at him with muddled eyes.

The middle-aged man turned on his tablet and played a video for them to see.

As the video played, the emotions of the two people in the pigsty gradually became excited. Waves rose in their dead eyes again, and their bodies could not help but tremble.

This video was a clip that he specially edited for Brielle to go abroad to participate in Extreme Survival.

He only edited the clip of Brielle crushing other players and showing off her extraordinary skills, and the scene of her finally reaching the top and raising the national flag.

In the video, Brielle was like a super hero glowing with golden light, so dazzling.

In addition to the fragments of Brielle's participation, they also intercepted the comments that the netizens felt proud of Brielle, as well as the reports of Central TV to Brielle, as well as the national spokesman who publicly praised Brielle and wanted to select her as a teenager representative.

In short, it was all about Brielle being praising and admired by everyone.

Brooks and Pearl let out a cry of "ah", and their eyes were wide open; there were full of bloodshot, and they were glaring at Brielle on the screen.

They were now living a life worse than death, but Brielle lived so well, lived so recklessly, and became Oscus pride.

On what basis?

What ability did Brielle have?

It shouldn't be like this...

Brielle should have been trampled under her feet, and she should be the one who was the center of attention!

No, everything was wrong.

Her and Brielle's lives should be exchanged!

Pearl screamed with difficulty, but she could only make a dry and unpleasant sound. The sound was like nails scratching on a blackboard, extremely unpleasant to hear.

Brooks' turbid eyes were full of remorse.

If he had not coveted the beauty but treated Brielle well, he would still be the president of the high and mighty Galley Group now.

Brielle was the center of attention, and his face was also lit up, being envied by tens of thousands of people.

Unfortunately, one wrong step, every step next was wrong.

Now, Brielle lived in an unrestrained manner, and he lived in extreme pain. Every minute and second was like living in hell, unable to beg for death.

He hated very much why his vitality was so tenacious; his body was tortured to an incomplete state, but he was still alive.

Why did some people die after falling, but he never died?

"Ah--"

Brooks howled in grief, his voice also hoarse and unpleasant.

The middle-aged woman outside the pigsty laughed. "Honey, look at how happy they are. In the future, we will often show them some videos of Brielle and make them happy."

The middle-aged man nodded.

At this time, the couple in the other house heard the noise and came out.

They also had burn scars on their faces.

They walked to the pigsty and enjoyed the sorrowful expressions of the two people inside.

Then, the man couldn't help but say, "These two people are really tenacious. They are still alive even though they are already like this. They have stayed in the pigsty for so long, but the wounds have not been infected."

"Is this so-called scourge that remains for a thousand years?"

The woman thought for a moment and said, "When I watched the program, I found that Brielle knew medicine and was very good at it. Could it be that when she was in Galley family, she helped them recuperate their bodies, so their bodies were different from ordinary people?"

The other three people nodded in unison. "That makes sense. Brielle is so powerful. It seems that she can do it.

Brooks and Pearl, who were in the pigsty, suddenly froze, and their heads buzzed.

They seemed to be enlightened, and they figured out why their bodies were so good.

When Brielle first returned to Galley family, there was a period of time when she personally cooked to please them.

She also mentioned that she used some special materials to cook food to adjust the body.

But at that time, none of them cared.

Now that they thought about it, Brielle had really helped them recuperate.

Brooks howled even more painfully.

For the current him, this was not good news.

The better his body was, the longer his days of suffering would be. Right now, he only wanted to die.

Pearl was also crying and howling.

Why were they so cruel to her....

She just wanted to protect her wealth and everything she had. Was it wrong?

The heavens were too unfair to her!

The woman spat at them and said with hatred, "You two beasts, just live and atone for your sins!"

"Brielle is so good to you, but you want to harm her. Now, the results that she has done for you are turned into sharp blades. that stab you. You deserve this!"

"It was you who made the good fortune turn into retribution!"

The four of them ruthlessly laughed at Brooks and Pearl, and then went back home in a happy mood.

After returning home, they each took out phone and shouted for Brielle on the Internet.

Seeing that someone was mocking Brielle, they turned into keyboard warriors and greeted their ancestors for eighteen generations.

Although Brooks and Pearl were given to them by Roman, it was all thanks to Brielle that Galley family fell.

If Galley family had not fallen, Roman would not have given these two beasts to them.

Therefore, Brielle was also their benefactor, the benefactor who had contributed the most on their way to revenge.

In the future, they would be loyal fans of Brielle, and they would definitely protect her at all costs.

Noglia.

The next morning.

In the hotel.

Chapter 116

Brielle was half-asleep when she suddenly felt her nose itch.

"Achoo!"

She couldn't help but sneeze, and she was instantly awakened.

She opened her eyes, and Fleo's handsome but annoying face came into view.

At this time, he was holding a handful of her hair and sweeping it around her nose with the end of her hair.

"Sister, get up. I'll take you out to play."