God, the Real Miss Hated Everyone Equally Chapter 143

Chapter 143

The police officer continued, "I hope you can keep this a secret. In order to reduce the damage to the victims, don't spread this matter to the public. After the investigation is clear, the police will release a notice to prove your innocence."

"After the police investigation is clear, we will arrest the people who are suspected of committing crimes in the video and the behind-the-scenes boss of the website. We must also arrest them. So we can't alert them."

"Understood." Brielle nodded.

"But you better hurry up. Don't wait for a year or a half that you release the notice."

The policeman said. "Don't worry, it won't take that long"

Brielle and the others left the back door of the police station.

Because when they were brought to the police station, a lot of reporters and anchors rushed over when they heard the news and were guarding the entrance of the police station.

If they left through the main entrance, they would definitely be surrounded again.

Brielle first sent Kayden home before returning to Hewston family with Fleo.

When they returned home, it was only four or five in the afternoon.

Under normal circumstances, at this time, Mr. Hewston and Mrs. Hewston had not yet gotten off work, but when Brielle and Fleo returned home, they found that they were all at home.

Mr. Hewston and Mrs. Hewston sat on the sofa. Both of them held phone in their hands, their fingers quickly typing on phone's screen. Their hands were extremely fast, their fingers almost leaving afterimages. Their eyes were still bloodshot. It was also a little creepy.

"Dad, Mom." Brielle greeted politely.

"Mom, Dad, why are you off work so early today? There are so many things to do in the company, don't be lazy." Fleo frowned

The couple returned to their senses and finally typed a few words before putting phone down.

"If you care about the company, go to the company early to study. Don't cause trouble outside all day, thus we don't have to worry so much." Mrs. Hewston glared at him.

Mr. Hewston asked, "What happened to the two of you? How did you cause such a big trouble?"

People like them who did not pay much attention to the entertainment industry could receive the news because they had already reached the legal channel. Some people questioned whether Brielle and Fleo had a powerful background, so they did not have to go to jail for committing a crime. They were released after a night. Instead, the victims were controlled by the police.

Some people knew that Brielle and Fleo were Hewston family's friends, and they even called to ask what was going on with them.

They also wanted to know what was going on.

When the incident last night had just reached the Internet, they received the news immediately and tried to contact Fleo to ask him what was going on.

Fleo only replied to them, "Don't worry about it. Sister won't do anything wrong, nor will she do anything bad. She targeted that person and proved that there was something wrong with that person. He deserves to be targeted. I will find evidence for sister and prove that sister is right.”

After that, they called again and sent messages. Fleo didn’t even reply to them. It was even because they called too frequently that Fleo felt annoyed and pulled them into the blacklist.

The couple was so angry that they didn’t sleep for the whole night. Last night, they had been watching the public opinion online and bought a few Twitter alt accounts to reason with those netizens who scolded them badly.

Today, they were worried that Brielle can’t get ride of these troubles that Fleo might commit even more serious things. So they didn’t go to the company at all. Therefore, they stayed at home all day, paying attention to the online trends while waiting for Fleo and Brielle to come back.

At noon, they saw that Fleo was taken away by the police when he hurt people. They were all anxious..

Brielle’s matter had not been resolved, and Fleo had also committed a crime.

They had originally wanted to go to the police station to take a look at the situation, but they had never received a call from the police.

According to their experience, if the police did not inform their family members to deal with it, they would generally be fine, so they continued to wait at home with relief.

Fleo said unhappily. “We didn’t cause trouble. It was someone else who caused trouble. Sister did a good deed last night, and I was blackmailed today.”

Then, Fleo briefly recounted what happened last night, including what happened today, and what Oliver had done.

“The police have to arrest people. We can’t make a statement now to avoid alerting the enemy. Let those people who commit the crime get the news and run away early. After a period of time, when the police catch people and send a notice, the public opinion on the Internet will naturally disappear.”

When Mr. Hewston and Mrs. Hewston heard this, they were relieved.

Mr. Hewston said. “During this period of time, all of you stay at home and don’t go out. Although all of you are innocent, the netizens don’t know. I’m afraid that if you go out and meet an emotional netizen, you will be hurt.”

Mrs. Hewston said, “If you encounter any problems in the future, you must tell us that we are a family. If you have problems, solve them together. Don’t always solve them by yourself. We contact you and you even also blacklist us.”

Brielle and Fleo nodded perfunctorily.

Brielle said. “Mom, Dad, I’m going upstairs to rest. I didn’t sleep last night. I’m a little tired.”

Mrs. Hewston said with concern. “I have asked the kitchen to prepare dinner. You can go to sleep after eating.”

Brielle: “I’m not hungry. I don’t want to eat.”

“No, you want to eat.”

As she spoke, she stood up and pulled Brielle to sit beside her.

She was too clear about Fleo. If Brielle didn’t eat, he would also not eat. He would go upstairs to rest with her.

She now understood that if she wanted to control Fleo, she had to make a move starting with Brielle.

Brielle was pulled by Mrs. Hewston and could only stay for dinner.

Fleo obediently sat next to her and accompanied her.

After dinner. Brielle could finally go upstairs to rest.

After a good sleep, she woke up the next day and had the leisure to watch the news and reviews online.

The Internet was filled with curses.

[This is too disappointing. The matter with Brielle has blown up so much that the officials did not give an explanation. They allowed Brielle to get away with it and let the innocent victims suffer in jail. Is there any law in this world!]

[Requesting to thoroughly investigate the police in the capital. They were definitely bribed by Brielle, or pressured by the backer behind Brielle. We absolutely can not allow this kind of behavior to be allowed']

[I can't love this country anymore. It's too disappointing.].

[If you don't punish Brielle, I won't protect Oscus in the future. Rot and stink!]

In addition to the angry cursing, there were also some rational neutral voices.

[Since the police dared to let Brielle go openly, they must have found out that there was no problem with Brielle, so they let her go. I believe that there must be darkness in such a big Oscus, but I don't believe that someone is so stupid and lawless. So many people are paying attention to this matter, and they dare to ignore the public's indignation and favoritism. This matter was so big, and it was in the capital. It would soon reach the top. If they really abused the law for personal reasons, the top sent people to investigate, and all of them had to go in. Would anyone be so stupid?]

[I also think that since the police dared to release the person and let them go out in public, they are not afraid of being photographed and making a scene. It already shows that the problem is not Brielle, but Oliver who is still detained.]

[We have to believe in the police. Let's wait for the police to report!]

However, there were very few rational voices. Moreover, when someone spoke rationally, even if they were neutral and needed to wait for the police to report, they would be scolded by angry netizens and even be called a brainless fan.

[Hehe, Brielle has so many brainless fans. Such bright evidence is in front of you, and there is actually someone who is at her border. Are you so filial to your master?]

[Suggestion to shoot Brielle and shoot her brainless fans too!]

[I hope that the platform will expose the IP of the people who protect Brielle. Their values are so bad. Find out who they are and let their friends and relatives know what they are. Stay away from them!]

[I support exposing IP. If they are students, the school will persuade them to leave. If they work, the company will expel them. We can't let those people who have bad views affect others!]

[The public funds are asked to be hackers. If the website doesn't expose IP, we will go and search them!]

When the neutral people saw these comments, they were so scared that they quickly deleted their own comments, afraid that they would be really affected by them and then affect their life with their family.

At this point, there was only cursing on the Internet.

Things were getting worse and worse. More and more people were scolding her on the internet. There were even some who organized a protest. Every police station in the capital was surrounded by people shouting and scolding.

But the official did not report it.

Seven days later, the capital police official sent a report:

The Police Report:

[At 9:22 on September 1, 2023, Brite (female, 20) had a conflict with Oliver(male, 22) at the night market in the northern.

part of the capital. Brise testified that Oliver had secretly taken photos of the girl's skirt, and the police brought both sides. back to the police station for investigation.]

[After investigation, there were a lot of photos and videos of female privacy in Oliver's phone. Later, the police received evidence provided by enthusiastic people and found that Oliver had sold a large number of obscene videos and photos on a certain illegal website. He had made tens of millions of illegal profits.]

[There were still many people on the website who had committed illegal crimes. In order to arrest them, the police worked. overtime for seven days and worked together with many police officers. Finally, all the criminal suspects were arrested.] [At present, the case is further investigated. Please pay attention to the report of the police in the follow-up.]
