

God, the Real Miss Hated Everyone Equally

Chapter 36

In fact, Brielle had always been a very principled person.

After she returned to Galley family, although she had always tried to build a good relationship with her family, she had also lowered her attitude to curry favor with them.

But when they completely t d on her sincerity, she would no longer curry favor with that person.

And the reason why Brielle judged them to t le on her sincerity was to see if they treasured the gift she had carefully prepared for them.

He was the first to damage the gift that Brielle had given him and discard it, so Brielle was the first to ignore him.

His father was the second.

What Brielle gave his father was a watch. It was a normal purchase channel. It was a custom-made watch that needed to be ordered a few years in advance. It was very precious and was a symbol of status.

But his father had never worn that watch.

Brielle did not care. As long as her father accepted her gift, she would be very happy. She did not care whether her father wore it or not.

Usually, she still respected her father very much.

Even though her father treated her coldly, he always warned her not to s h it from Pearl, not to bully Pearl. She always had a faint smile on her face.

Until two months later, the watch appeared in the housekeeper's hand.

At that time, Brielle stared at the watch in the housekeeper's hand for a long time.

She also did not question anyone, but only digested the feelings of being tra led on.

Then, she paid the money to buy the watch from the housekeeper, walked outside, smashed it with stone, and threw the watch into the trash can.

After that, Brielle's attitude toward his father also cooled down.

The second brother was the third.

The second brother was a racer. Brielle somehow got the autograph of his second brother's favorite racerand bought the racing car that created the legend to win the world's first competition.

When the second brother first received the gift, he loved it so much that his second brother's attitude towards Brielle improved greatly. He even took Brielle for a ride.

But not long after, Second Brother lent the car to Pearl to drive.

In less than ten minutes, Pearl crashed the car.

Brielle was very angry when she found out and went to ask Pearl if she did it on purpose.

Pearl cried very sadly. No matter how she apologized, Brielle had a cold face.

In his anger, his second brother took a hammer and smashed the car that could still be repaired, and then sold it as scrap iron.

At that time, they even scolded Brielle for making a fuss over nothing. They only knew to find trouble with Pearl and force her to apologize to Pearl.

In the end, Brielle did not apologize. She was silent for a long time and did not say anything.

After that, Brielle also ignored his second brother.

The fourth was his eldest brother.

Because of his work, his big brother often had headaches and insomnia.

In the beginning. Brielle massaged his big brother's head every day. Every time she finished massaging his head, his big brother could sleep soundly.

Later, Brielle got a bag of spices from somewhere and gave it to his big brother, saying that the recipe was specially made based on his condition. Before sleeping, he could relax his body and spirit and could quickly fall asleep.

After his big brother used it, it was indeed effective.

Because of the good sleep, his big brother had been in a very good mood during that time.

But not long after, a friend of Pearl who studied medicine came home and inadvertently smelled the fragrance of her big brother's body. She said that the fragrance contained elements that harmed the human body and would cause infertility.

Thus, their family all accused Brielle of being crazy and wanted to harm her big brother.

Brielle explained that the fragrance was harmless, but it was good for the body. She also asked them to send it to a professional institution for examination, or let her big brother go for a physical examination whether the body became better or bad.

At that time, Pearl cried on the side and swore that she was her best friend. She believed what her friend said. If they suspected her friend, it would be that they did not trust her and also doubted her.

Therefore, they naturally chose to believe Pearl.

The big brother flew into a rage and scolded Brielle fiercely. He was ready to throw away the spices.

He still remembered that the enthusiasm in Brielle's eyes faded little by little and finally became cold and indifferent.

After her eldest brother took out the spices, she s ed them and ate them all in one go, leaving only one sentence behind: "As I said, these spices are harmless. They won't hurt your body even if you eat them, not to mention just using them for perfumes.

Just wait and see if I'll die from poison!"

After saying that, she went upstairs to her room.

At that time, they were all a little shaken.

However, Pearl said that Brielle must be in a hurry to go back to her room to make her vomit. Naturally, she would not be poisoned after spitting it out.

They believed it and felt that Brielle was full of tricks at such a young age.

The fifth was his mother.

It was only three months away, which was what happened on the day Brielle fell off the stage.

That day, Brielle failed to frame Pearl and fell off the stage. They were very angry and rushed to the stage to check on Pearl's situation.

Pearl fell on the dance stage and trembled in fear. She kept shedding tears. No matter how they comforted her, she cried until her eyes were full of tears.

Her mother was very distressed about Pearl.

How much she loved Pearl was how much she hated Brielle's vicious behavior.

Her mother angrily walked in front of Brielle. She looked at Brielle, who was lying on the ground motionless and only barely opened her eyes. She cursed angrily. Then, she took off the p e hanging around her neck and threw it on Brielle. She said that she did not want the gift given by her vicious daughter. It was disgusting to wear it.

The p e was given to her mother by Brielle. She said that the p e had been soaked in special medicine. and could delay aging. It was unknown whether it was because of the psychological effect. When her mother wore the necklace, her skin had indeed become much brighter. Every day, the neighbors who met her praised her mother for being young and beautiful.

But at that time, they all thought that it was because Pearl comforted her mother that her mother was in a good mood and her skin would be good. She looked young, and no one thought it was because of the p e.

How could a necklace have that kind of effect?

But after throwing away the necklace, in these three months, Mom's skin seemed to have begun to turn dark yellow....

He still remembered that when his mother smashed the necklace on Brielle, she turned around and returned to Pearl.

Brielle held the necklace in her hand with difficulty, and the light in her eyes dissipated bit by bit.

Later, Brielle was unconscious. After an hour, they comforted Pearl and found out.

They called an ambulance and sent Brielle to the hospital.

At that time, he didn't see the shadow of the necklace. He only saw that there was some powder in her palm.

He thought that it was just ordinary dust powder. The necklace should have been picked up by someone else.

Now that he thought about it, it was the necklace that she crushed before Brielle fainted.

At the same time, she crushed the last bit of hope she had for Galley family.

Perhaps she was disappointed with everyone in Galley family. She no longer hoped to get affection for Galley family, so after she woke up three months in a coma, she would go home and make a fuss, wanting to cut off relations with them.

Jordan laughed at himself.

Now that he thought back to the past, he realized how bad the family was to Brielle.

It was them who pushed Brielle to the opposite side step by step.

The reporters were right,

It was because they were d and bad that they believed in Pearl's framing of Brielle and t d on Brielle's sincerity.

They had never seen Brielle frame Pearl with their own eyes, but they all felt that it was Brielle's fault.

Every time, it was after Pearl and Brielle were alone, and then she cried and came to find them.

They asked her what had happened, but she just shook her head and said that it had nothing to do with Brielle and told them not to blame Brielle.

They believed that Brielle must have bullied Pearl and then stood up for Pearl to teach her a lesson.

They were really st id.

Pearl used such a low-level trick, but their whole family was actually played around.

If not for this time, they might never be able to see Pearl's real face for the rest of their lives.

Jordan's face was full of regret, pain and suffering.

With a "plop" sound, he knelt down to Brielle.

Brielle had already stood on the other side of the stage, separated from them by more than ten meters.

Seeing Jordan kneel down to her, her face was calm, and there was no ripple in her heart.

Jordan looked at Brielle guiltily. His eyes were red, and he choked with s bs. "Brielle, I'm sorry. I didn't know that you were the one who saved me on the night of my injury and fever. I thought that it was Pearl who saved me. That was why I chose to help her hide it after she pushed you off the cliff."

"I thought that you didn't care about my life. That was why I hated you and wanted to push you into the river to teach you a lesson. In the end, I still wanted to protect Pearl and draw Quinn and the others to discredit you..."

"You usually call me and you didn't scold me wrong at all. I was indeed st id, and that was why I was played by Pearl. In order to protect her, I constantly hurt you, my own sister."

"Brielle, I have let you down..."

[Tsk, tsk, tsk. The late feelings are worse than grass. The late regrets are meaningless. The damage has been caused. What's the use of apologizing? Can you erase everything you have done to Sister E?]

[To be honest, if it was a normal person and not a superhuman existence like Sister E, Sister E would not be able to walk out of the forest alive.]

[That's right. Sister E is now walking out alive. It is not because they showed mercy. It is all because Sister E is too powerful. Their little tricks can't hurt Sister E!]

[In the past few days in the forest, Jordan helped Pearl and wanted to kill Brielle. There is no use in apologizing now!]

[You deserve it!]

(Sister E, don't forgive him. Even if he is stu id, he is still bad. Simple stu id people won't do those nasty things!]

[I think the worst person is Pearl. Jordan was deceived by Pearl and ght that Pearl was his savior. That's why he helped. Pearl bully Brielle. Now that he knows his mistake, I think I should give him a chance to change his ways.]

[I also think that Jordan is a little pitiful. The person who pushed Brielle down the cliff was Pearl. Jordan was only helping to hide it. The reason why he helped to hide it was also because he misunderstood that Pearl was his savior. He just wanted to the kindness but he was wrong. What was wrong with him?]

repay

[Now that Jordan has realized his mistake and apologized so sincerely, I think I can give him a chance. After all, Brielle and he are a family. The family should be tolerant and understanding towards each other, and not argue over a little bit of the other party's fault. That is too heartless.]
