

God, the Real Miss Hated Everyone Equally

Chapter 80

Chapter 80

In order to prevent the fierce beasts from fighting among themselves, the staff shipped the dozens of fierce beasts to different places to release them.

In order to prevent the fierce beasts from attacking the staff, before releasing them, they injected them with a sleeping potion before they dared to open the cage.

The big white tiger was not released immediately.

The big white tiger's combat strength was too strong. Letting it out was equivalent to directly ending the game.

In the rich people's cinema.

"Sir John, why don't you release the big white tiger directly? That Brielle is too hateful. I must teach her a lesson and let her know that she, a low Oscusian, will never be better than the man from Widi!" The bearded man said angrily.

Helly's rich man named Toofucker also said, "That Brielle is really too much. She keeps provoking Jebel. If she looks down on Jebel, then she looks down on Widi. She must be taught a lesson!"

Lafayette's rich man pounded the table with a face full of anger. "F*ck! D mn Brielle, she beat up my Lafayette's people so badly. She made Lafayette leave the stage right after the start. I must let Jebel teach her a lesson!"

He placed his bet on his country's players. He bet that they could last for at least half a month.

However, in less than half a day, they were all eliminated.

Not only did he lose money, but he also lost face!

The rich man from the kangaroo country was also furious. "Oscus is really despicable. They actually stole other people's smoke bombs. They used smoke bombs to make our country's players lose their direction and then attacked!"

"Our people can defeat kangaroos and fight openly. We can't lose to Oscus disgusting people!"

The people from other countries were also full of anger.

They did not bet on Brielle to win, but before the launch of the program, many rich people from Oscus had invested a lot of money to bet on Brielle.

Because the people of all countries looked down on Brielle and felt that she could not win...

If Brielle won, they would lose a lot.

The more powerful Brielle became, the more bounties issued by wealthy people went unfulfilled, leaving them without any money to earn.

John drank a mouthful of wine and said calmly, "Don't worry, I am here. Widi can't lose this match."

"That big white tiger is too strong. If we let it out now, all those people are finished, it won't be fun anymore."

"Let this group of beasts go out first and tease those who don't know their own strength."

"Let Brielle know that there are many people and animals in the world who are stronger than her!"

Everyone nodded and flattered with smiles on their faces. "John, you really know how to play!"

"Let's order some appetizers first. If she is lucky enough to pass, then release the big white tiger and scare her to death!"

"When she sees Jebel subdue the big white tiger, she will definitely kneel down and beg Jebel to protect her."

"When that time comes, all the bounty missions will be completed. Won't our money come?"

"Hahahaha, cheers for the money that is about to be made!"

In the forest.

The beasts that had been released gradually woke up.

Tigers, lions, black bears, brown bears, jaguars, cheetahs, grey wolves, wild boars, and so on.

There were beasts of the same type, but the origin was different and the variety was different.

There were more than a dozen of them.

Those beasts had all been injected with drugs and were extremely irritable.

As soon as they woke up, they howled violently and walked into the forest, looking like they were going to find someone to fight.

They had all been trained and had great hostility towards humans. They were also very familiar with the aura of humans.

Therefore, when they smelled the scent of human beings in the forest, they followed the smell and continued to search as if they had smelled stimulants.

Tana and Maen were still waiting for rescue in the forest.

But when it was all dark, they had not seen the helicopter come to rescue them.

If not for the drone and a mechanical bee shooting beside them, they would have thought that they had been abandoned.

They did not have a flashlight, but on the drone and mechanical bee, after the sky darkened to a certain extent, a weak light source would be turned on and they could barely see the things in front of them.

Tana could not help but ask, "Maen, why hasn't the program team sent people to pick us up? Didn't they see that we said to give up?"

Maen said, "I don't think so. We've said it more than once."

Maen was very weak.

When he landed on the ground, his head hit the ground. Not only did his head break, but he also probably had a concussion.

Now that he stood up, he felt dizzy and nauseous. He could only lie on the ground and rest, waiting for the rescue helicopter to pick him up.

However, after waiting for such a long time and not waiting for rescue, he began to feel a little uneasy.

"What is that sound?"

Suddenly, Tana heard a rustling sound coming from a distance behind him and immediately became alert.

Maen also perked up his ears to listen.

"Roar!"

A ferocious beast's roar was heard.

"Not good, it's the roar of a lion. From the sound of it, its physique should be very big. I can't beat it. We have to hurry up and move!"

Tana quickly stood up and helped Maen up.

She helped Maen to stand up, not daring to look back, and quickly left the place.

The drone followed them to move, proving that there were staff watching.

Tana was so angry that she scolded the drone, "Bastard, quickly send someone to pick us up. We have given up the game!"

No one responded to her. She could only support Maen and continue walking forward.

"Ah..."

"Help!"

At this moment, a scream came from behind.

It was the four people who had their hands and feet broken by Brielle, who had waited for a long time without coming to rescue them.

Judging from the sound, it should be the lion attacking them.

Tana's face was pale, and she did not dare to stop for a moment. She simply carried Maen on her back and ran forward quickly.

The screams behind her quickly disappeared.

She didn't know if they had fainted from fear or if they had been bitten to death.

Tana guessed that it was most likely the latter.

Suddenly, she heard rustling sounds coming from behind her.

Was that lion chasing after her?

Didn't it just bite four people to death? Why did it chase after them?

Could it be that it only enjoyed the pleasure of biting its prey to death, and the main point was not eating?

Tana's face became even paler, and her two legs moved quickly, wishing she could turn into a wind and fire wheel.

She ran out of breath, covered in sweat, and did not dare to stop.

Suddenly, a few people appeared in front of her.

Tana's eyes lit up. If they moved together, they might be able to defeat the lion!

However, the next second, she recognized who the three people were and her face immediately sank.

She immediately avoided them and ran away.

But she had not run far when Fukuyu quickly ran in front of her and kicked her fiercely.

Tana was carrying Maen and could not avoid his kick. She was kicked to the ground and Maen also rolled off her back.

Fukuyu said with a faint smile, "Oh my, aren't these two dogs by Brielle's side? Have you been abandoned by your master?"

Deadie also walked over and said sarcastically, "Why are you in such a hurry?"

At this time, the lion behind them caught up.

The huge lion saw that there were many people on their side and stopped, staring at them warily.

Deadie revealed a malicious smile.

He kicked Maen towards the lion, propelling him in front of it.

Tana shouted in horror, "No —"
