

God, the Real Miss Hated Everyone Equally

Chapter 82

Chapter 82

Brielle dashed forward, circled behind the gray wolf, and directly pounced on its back. She reached out and grabbed its neck, then sat it down on the ground.

The gray wolf struggled violently.

However, Brielle was very strong, and the gray wolf could not struggle free even after struggling for a long time. Instead, its neck was tightened more and more.

Brielle clenched her fist and punched the gray wolf's head again and again.

Although the wolf was large, it could not be compared to the lions and tigers.

If it launched a sneak attack, it could still bite a human to death.

However, when it met someone who fought it head on, it could not retaliate at all.

The gray wolf was beaten until it cried out, and its struggle gradually became smaller.

In the end, it stopped crying and its body remained motionless.

Brielle let go of it and stood up.

The gray wolf's head was caved in and an eyeball ran out, blood flowing out of its mouth.

It died a very miserable death.

Lov was dumbstruck, the hairs on his body standing on end.

This woman was too terrifying.

She was even more terrifying than their Blackbear's woman!

Brielle's face darkened as she walked towards the group of ferocious beasts.

"Brielle, what are you going to do?" Lov quickly followed.

Brielle said without looking back, "I made the wrong decision from the beginning. We shouldn't have escaped."

"Even if we take advantage of that group of ferocious beasts biting other people and successfully escape, the danger has always been there. We need to be on tenterhooks. We need to have one eye to stand guard at night when we sleep."

"So why run away? just kill them!"

Lov heard this and his blood boiled, but he was still a little worried. "There are a lot of ferocious beasts, and it is at night. It is not good for us. What if we can't beat them..."

Brielle said, "If we can't kill them, we can let them die from overeating!"

"Anyway, they will die tonight!"

"Hahahaha, good good!" Lov was amused and laughed.

Oscus' live broadcast room:

[Hahahaha, I didn't expect Sister E to be so humorous. Originally, I was worried for Sister E. Her words "die from overeating successfully destroyed the sad atmosphere.]

[Although Sister E is very optimistic and brave, I am still very worried about Sister E. There are tigers, leopards, and bears over there. No matter how strong a human is, it is impossible to defeat them. Sister E is too reckless.]

[Ah Sister E, calm down. I know you are very powerful, but the beasts in the forest are the kings of the forest. You will die if you go!]

[Speaking of which, doesn't anyone find it strange? Beasts all have a strong sense of territory. Even if they live in a forest at the same time, they can't be so concentrated. If other beasts enter their territory, they will first defend their territory and not attack humans.]

[Right, I also find it strange. I have never seen bears, tigers, cheetahs, and wolves live in the same area.]

[It can't be man-made, right?]

[It shouldn't be. Making these beasts out to kill people. Although the previous program is also very dangerous, there hasn't been any deaths. It should just be a coincidence that these beasts have gathered together...]

Because the group of rich people behind the scenes thought that Brielle would definitely be severely punished by the beasts tonight, they arranged for a broadcast to transfer the live broadcast to all the countries around the world about Brielle.

Originally, if there was no special situation, every country's live broadcast was broadcasted by their own country's players.

After their country's players were eliminated or gave up on the competition, they automatically synchronized with Widi's live broadcast.

In addition to transferring the live broadcast of the world to Brielle and seeing her being humiliated, they also arranged for Jeb1 to watch nearby. When they saw that Brielle was about to die, they would appear to save her.

This way, not only would they be able to humiliate her and slap Brielle in the face, proving that she was inferior to Jeb1, they would also be able to help Jeb1 complete the bounty mission.

If Jeb1 saved Brielle, Brielle would be Jeb1's slave. He would do whatever he wanted to her!

John had an expression that seemed to control everything. "Tonight, I will definitely let Brielle know that Widi is the most powerful!"

"In the end, she still has to kneel down and beg Widi's people to save her!"

Widi hated the most that other countries were stronger than him.

If he found out, he would use all of his dark and despicable methods to deal with and suppress the other party.

John perfectly inherited Widi's traditional concept.

The bearded man laughed, "Sir John is right. Oscusian is a group of overconfident people. They always want to surpass Widi. They don't know whether they are worthy or not."

"No matter where we are, Widi is the No. 1. No one can be a match!"

Toofucker said, "Only by following Widi will she be able to keep her life and live comfortably. She will know very soon!"

"This is a good opportunity to teach Oscusian a lesson through this program. Let them know that in front of Widi, they, Oscusian, can't be arrogant!"

"If they want to live, they need to follow Widian!"

John smiled and clinked glasses with them.

He could not wait to see the scene of Brielle kneeling down and begging Jeb1.

Jeb1 was smeared with special medicine, and those beasts would not attack him on their own initiative.

Brielle would definitely beg Jeb1.

Unless she didn't want to live.

The broadcast rooms of the various countries in the world were also crazily discussing.

Other than worrying about the players from their own country, they were also mocking Brielle, thinking that she was too arrogant.

[Oscusian is still as annoying as ever. There are so many beasts but she still dares to take the initiative to go over. Isn't this just courting death? Self-righteous, does she think she is invincible after defeating a few people?]

[Oscusian is always like this, reluctant to admit defeat, but if they really fight, they can only be defeated.]

[Hahaha, wait to see her be torn to pieces by the beast!]

[Is the program team playing so big this time? I saw that several people were bitten by the beast and fell to the ground motionless. Is this dead? This is too crazy!]

[They volunteered to participate. If they want to win a huge bonus, they naturally have to take the risk.]

In the forest.

Brielle and Lov were already close to the beasts.

At the same time they rushed over, there were also some other contestants who were chased by other beasts to the river.

At this time, five or six beasts were biting at more than a dozen people.

Most of these people did not have weapons, only one of them had a hammer in his hand.

However, because of the surprise attack of the beast, it came too suddenly. Before he could react, he was knocked down by a tiger, and the hammer fell to the ground. There was no chance to use it.

After Brielle approached, she saw the hammer that fell to the ground at a glance and immediately picked it up.

Behind a big tree not far away, Jeb1 looked at Brielle with his hands crossed over his chest and a contemptuous smile on his face.

This arrogant Oscus woman was about to kneel down and beg him for help.

He just had to wait.

Fukuyu and Deadie stood on his left and right sides. They were also gloating and waiting for a good show.

Soon, the people of Oscus would understand that only by clinging to Widi's thighs like them and being a good son of Widi would they be able to survive under his protection.

Those who had mocked them would eventually become them!
