

God, the Real Miss Hated Everyone Equally

Chapter 95

Chapter 95

Brielle looked at the little white tiger's protruding buttocks and was silent for a long time.

Even if she racked her brains, she still could not figure out why she would arouse the interest of this little female tiger.

Because she had not moved at all, the female tiger was a little anxious as she waited, her buttocks sticking out as she continuously retreated towards her.

"Roar!"

The big white tiger roared in anger.

The female tiger trembled in fear and reluctantly walked away.

"Pal"

Brielle slapped the big white tiger on the head with a backhand.

"Why are you shouting so loudly? My ears are going to go deaf."

"Just lie down. If you dare to scream again, I will make sure your anus is destroyed again."

The big white tiger snorted twice and did not dare to be fierce. Its tail also silently protected its buttocks.

"Give me the small medical box in the supplies bag. Brielle looked at Lov.

Lov flipped through it and found the palm-sized medical kit. He threw it to Brielle.

The small medical kit that was officially released was not filled with many things. It was also very simple. Basically, it could only deal with simple external injuries once. It was still the type that was not serious.

Brielle took the medical kit and flipped through it. She found three cotton swabs.

Then, she waved to the female tiger, "Come here."

The female tiger instantly became spirited and immediately stood up to run in front of Brielle.

Turn your back to me."

The female tiger was even happier and immediately turned around, even sticking up her buttocks.

Was the upright ape going to give it excellent genes?

Brielle held a cotton swab....

It was painful for animals to have sex, so she treated it as a good person and helped it solve

She also specially helped it to stab a certain acupoint, so that it would not have sex again during this estrus.

A minute later, the female tiger lay on the ground and began to roll.

After cats mate, they like to roll on the ground to increase the probability of pregnancy.

[Oh my god, Sister E really did it!]

[Sister E, tell me honestly. Why are you so skilled?]

[Sister has such good cooking skills. It's a pity that you don't have to use it on me!]

[Sister E, I can do it! I need your help too!]

[You all pay attention. Sister E is my wife. Don't talk nonsense. I'm jealous and Sister E still has to coax me.]

[Nonsense. Sister E is clearly my wife. Last night, I already registered my marriage with Sister E in my dream!]

[How many dishes in front of you? How are you drunk like this?]

The third day.

After Brielle got up, she let the big white tiger take the two little white tigers to hunt. After washing up, she made a set of Eight Part Vajra Technique by the river.

The morning in the forest was a little cold, but after the exercise, her body was warm and comfortable.

After the big white tiger returned with the prey, Lov and Tana were responsible for handling and baking it.

After they finished eating, they started on their way.

Brielle sat on the back of the big white tiger.

Tana and Lov walked on their own first. When they were tired, they would let the two little white tigers carry them for a while so that they could walk further in a day.

Although the two little white tigers were big, Tana and Lov were not small either.

They could not carry them for a day.

While they were moving forward, the big white tiger kept following the smell on the ground.

The tigers that were sent out last night left a scent along the way, making it convenient for them to find Jebi and his

At this time, Jebi was traveling with a tired face.

The group of people who followed him were also exhausted.

They did not rest last night and traveled the whole night.

group.

Because it was dark at night, although there was a light source on the drone, the visibility was still not high, which severely affected their speed of travel.

After more than ten hours, they had only walked about thirty kilometers.

But even so, Jebi did not dare to stop.

His feet were tired and painful, so he gritted his teeth and walked forward.

Brielle originally had a bow and arrow in her hand, so it was very difficult to deal with. Now that there was a big white tiger, it was even more difficult to deal with.

If he faced Brielle head-on, he would have no chance of winning.

Therefore, he could only keep a distance from her overnight to avoid meeting her.

He had been in a hurry and did not dare to stop to cat.

Jebi was furious in his heart. It was all because of that damned Brielle who made him so miserable!

At this moment, the director's voice came from his earpiece.

"Jebi, I will send a helicopter to drop the supplies in advance today. Find a slightly wider open space and throw the supplies directly above your head."

"Brielle is about thirty kilometers away from you now. She can't take your supplies away."

"I have prepared food for you in the supplies bag. There is also a crossbow."

"I broke the supply of Brielle's arrows. As long as she finishes shooting the arrows in her hand, she will not be your opponent."

"Even if she keeps withdrawing the arrows she shot, the arrows are not as powerful as the arrows!"

"Although she has subdued the big white tiger, the big white tiger does not dare to approach you. It will not pose much of a threat to you. You can firmly suppress her with the arrows!"

Jebi, whose face was full of frustration, heard the sound of nature through the headphones.

Great!

The program team finally gave him a reliable prop!

With the crossbow, he wouldn't have to be coward and hide from Brielle!

Jebi immediately went to find a suitable place to drop supplies in high spirits.

"Jebi, are we not going on our way? Where are you going?" Deadie asked wearily.

Previously, they had been walking in a straight line, but now Jebi was going in another direction, so he felt very strange.

The rest of them also looked at Jebi with a tired face.

There was a hint of resentment in their eyes.

Originally, they thought that they could be fearless by relying on Jebi and obtain a higher ranking.

However, the result was completely different from what they had imagined.

Not only did they not receive any protection, they even ran away overnight like stray dogs.

It was too depressing.

However, although Jebi could not defeat Brielle, it was more than enough to deal with them. They did not dare to voice out their dissatisfaction.

Jebi smiled confidently, "We don't have to run. This time, I am confident that I can subdue that damned Brielle!"

"I just deliberately ran away last night to let her be proud of herself."

"She is not my match at all!"

"A mere woman from Oscus is not qualified to make me fear her. Hmph!"

If it was in the past, when everyone heard his words and saw his confident appearance, they would definitely rush to praise him, and their hearts would be filled with confidence.

However, after an entire night of escaping, they were greatly disappointed in Jebi. They only felt that he was stubbornly refusing to admit that he was inferior to Brielle.

When he went to find Brielle yesterday, he was also as confident as he was.

But what was the result?

Wasn't he still scared away by Brielle?

With a fawning smile on his face, Deadie asked. "Jebi, do you have any trump cards that you haven't revealed yet? Can you tell us first and let us have a bottom line in our hearts?"

SEND GIFT