

Chapter 210 Killing Them

The attack took Gunter by surprise.

There was a sharp ache in his back, but he did not realize how serious it was. He turned his head to look at his attacker. "Audrey..."

His eyes widened when he caught sight of the knife in her hand. "You bitch..."

At once, he reached out and took her hand. Audrey's eyes were cold and full of venom. She wanted Gunter dead. It was too much for her to take, to be betrayed in such a way.

She shook off his hand. Without hesitation, she plunged the bloodied knife into his heart. "I was loyal to you, but what did you do?"

Blood oozed from the wound, soaking Gunter's clothes. He stared at Audrey in agony, unable to defend himself. "You're so vicious..."

"I'm vicious?" Audrey snarled, "You drove me to do this!"

Gunter wished he could strangle her but lacked the strength to do so.

Audrey did not panic because she knew he was powerless to do anything to her.

She sneered.

"This is your end, Gunter." Her gaze was ice-cold and without emotion.

She realized she had no way out, and since she was doomed regardless, she might as well kill him and drag him with her to hell.

"I've never been this humiliated before. I had my dignity shattered by a girl, all because of you. I can't think of a greater insult to my pride than this."

"You fucking bitch..." Gunter's face had gone pale. His vision was starting to blur, and he was rapidly losing blood.

In one swift motion, Audrey withdrew the knife, and more blood gushed out of his wound. His dark red blood began to spill onto the floor, and he collapsed.

He landed at her feet with a loud thud.

Audrey picked up a scrap of paper and wiped the knife clean of blood.

She then walked out of the room, closed the door behind her, and headed to Fidelia's place.

Fidelia was relaxing on the couch in her casual attire, eating fruit and watching TV.

Suddenly, the doorbell rang.

She did not move to open the door but asked, "Who is it?"

No one responded.

Once more, the doorbell rang.

With a grumble, Fidelia got to her feet and slipped into her slippers. She looked through the peephole on the door and saw Audrey outside. Her brows furrowed, wondering why the woman was there again.

With Gunter on her side, she was no longer intimidated by Audrey and opened the door without hesitation.

She crossed her arms over her chest and asked haughtily, "What are you doing here? Are you here to beg for mercy? Just so you know, I won't be lenient with you. Anyway, I'd rather not see you, so don't come here again. Otherwise, I'll have to convince Gunter to upgrade my current villa to something fancier."

"I don't think he can do that now," Audrey stated with an eerie smile.

Fidelia was completely oblivious to the danger that was about to befall her. She did sense that cold air emanating from Audrey, though. She straightened her shoulders and pretended to be calm. "He'll buy it for me if I ask for it. Then, he'll divorce you..."

Before she could finish her words, she noticed the knife Audrey was hiding behind her.

Her eyes widened in bewilderment. She turned around to flee, but Audrey shot forward and grabbed her by the hair.

"Where do you think you're going?" The moment Audrey closed the distance between her and Fidelia, she immediately felt the latter's body trembling. She smirked. "Watching you tremble is such a delight."

As she talked, she pushed the knife near Fidelia's middle.

As long as she exerted more pressure on it, the sharp blade would go right through the other woman's stomach.

Fidelia's whole body stiffened. "This is illegal, you bitch! You're going to prison..."

Before Fidelia could even complete her sentence, Audrey pressed the knife harder against her stomach.

Fidelia struggled furiously, and with all her might, she pushed Audrey away. However, the place became a mess as Audrey gave chase.

Audrey grabbed Fidelia by the hem of her clothes and raised her other hand with the knife to stab her.

Fidelia failed to dodge the attack, and the knife pierced her waist. Following that, Audrey made the most of the chance and stabbed her multiple times in rapid succession. After a while,

Fidelia lay lifeless on the floor.

"This is what you get for humiliating me! Had I not fallen into Isaac's trap, I would've tortured you first before killing you. Damn, I'm running out of time. I'm going to die anyway, so I might as well kill the people who betrayed me first." Audrey got to her feet and wiped the blood off her face. Her lips curled into a spine-chilling smile.

She discarded the knife, and it landed on the floor.

Having not got enough with it, she ended up tearing Fidelia's clothes and kicking her repeatedly.

Afterward, she went to the bathroom to wash her face and hands.

Once she was inside her car, she glanced at the house one more time before starting the car.

She then drove to the Paramount Corporation.

Meanwhile, Travis had just returned from his trip to the Hexagon Inc.

His mind wandered while he sat on his office chair.

All of a sudden, the door was pushed open. Travis clicked his tongue in annoyance. "I told you I don't want to see anyone..."

"It's me." Audrey walked up to him.

Travis did not bother pretending to be calm as he stated, "Mom, something terrible happened. Hexagon's product contains illegal goods..."

"I know, Travis. Calm down. Don't be afraid." Audrey's gaze on him was gentle as she continued, "Listen, we've been set up. The issue with the Hexagon Inc. is a trap..."

"It's Isaac's doing, isn't it?" Finally, it dawned on Travis.

"I'm going to talk to him..."

"No." Audrey grasped her son's hand. She knew he was no match for Isaac.

"I don't have much time left. Now, listen to me and do as I say. Tell them to write up an agreement and make me the president of Paramount Corporation."

Travis caught on immediately to what she was planning. "No. I can't let you take the blame..."

"Travis! As much as I'd like to, I can't continue to be by your side. You have to stop being so impulsive. You must think twice before you act. Also, you need to watch out for Isaac."

Travis stared at her blankly.

Audrey pulled him closer for an embrace. "It's okay. I've made up my mind. I'll take the hit for you and keep you safe."

His eyes began to brim with tears. "Mom."

After taking a few deep breaths, Audrey said, "I know I'll go to hell after all I've done. This is my karma, but you're my son. I must protect you at all costs."

She released her hold on her son and added, "We don't have much time left. Do as I say now."

"No!"

"Don't be stubborn. Do it before it's too late!" Audrey gave her son a push.

In the end, Travis had no choice but to follow his mother's instructions.

Since she knew she was going to die anyway, she decided to end Gunter's and Fidelia's lives.

Travis was the only person in the world who mattered to her now. "I'm sorry. I failed to provide you with a secure future..."

While shaking his head, Travis interrupted, "No, don't apologize.

Chapter 210 Killing Them

 +120 Points at most

"I know you're doing this for me..."

Suddenly, they heard sirens blaring from the outside.

At the moment, the police had already surrounded almost the entire building.

Soon after Audrey signed her name on the paper, the door to the office was kicked open.

Our ads aim to provide better support for authors.