

Chapter 278 I Have A Secret To Tell You

"Who is it this someone?" Camila asked.

The waiter shrugged. He was asked not to say a word. "I'm afraid I can't tell you that."

"Well then, I've received it."

The waiter nodded and left.

Camila then opened the note and frowned at the message. "Come to Room 502, 26th floor. I have a secret to tell you."

Camila rolled her eyes, crumpled the paper into a ball and threw it into the closest trash can.

Of course, she remained seated and didn't move an inch.

It didn't look like anything good. All the mystery. And the person didn't even leave a signature.

She wasn't so stupid as to just go there.

Not long after, the wedding finally began.

The crowd dispersed and went to their seats.

Isaac soon sat down beside Camila.

"You're back. You've really been busy," Camila said in a casual tone.

He came for the wedding with her, yet he was surrounded by other people all the time.

She took another sip of her drink and slammed the glass on the table a little too strongly.

Isaac frowned his eyebrows. "Are you angry?"

Camila shook her head. She had no right to be angry, right?

Besides, she didn't really have any reason to be angry. He was simply engaging in social activities.

It was just that she felt so insignificant when she was with him.

She looked at the stage and changed the topic. "The bride is so young and beautiful."

"Not as beautiful as you," Isaac said, staring at her.

Camila looked at him with squinted eyes.

Was he making fun of her?

She thought of the note, wondering if she should tell him, then finally said, "I just received a note telling me to go to Room 502 on the 26th floor. Apparently, this person has a secret to tell me."

"Really?" Isaac's eyebrows furrowed.

"I didn't go because I thought it was a trap."

However, she was dying to go inside.

She was very curious. What would be waiting for her there?

The host's high-pitched blessing words for the couple broke through her thoughts. "We all grow in the same planet, but we are all different in our ways. Women and men live a very romantic and interesting life together. What is love? Love is like roses with thorns. To be able to get it, you need to have courage and faith in it. Today, we are here to celebrate two people who have chosen the path of love and are ready to begin their own dream."

At this time, a flying veil fell on the bride's head.

A warm and loud applause followed this, and the wedding soon came to the most important part.

Finally the host looked at the couple and declared, looking at Forrest, "You may now kiss the bride."

A few seconds passed, and Forrest just stood there.

Divya had looked at him expectantly, waiting for it to happen.

But when she saw the look on Forrest's face, she smiled in understanding and said, "I know you're not used to it. I'm not either."

Forrest smiled softly. He was really grateful to Divya for this.

While they seemed to have a tacit understanding, the crowd looked at them in confusion.

Mrs. Walters sat under the stage, a deep frown creased her forehead. She wished she could tell her son to just do it, but she didn't want to alert Divya's mother who wasn't far from her.

Divya's parents on their side were already frowning slightly. What was wrong with Forrest?

Having hosted many weddings before, the host had seen it all and could easily handle the situation. So, he said with good humor, "Our bridegroom is shy. He must want to give his bride the sweetest kiss in the privacy of their honeymoon suite. Now, please enjoy the rest of the night. Drink as much as you want and bless this couple."

After another beautiful round of applause, the bride went backstage to change her dress.

The dinner began immediately after.

Seated at her table, Camila didn't have appetite.

Just one look at her and Isaac knew what she was thinking. Isaac pursed his lips and said, "I know you want to go. Come on, I'll go with you."

Camila acted confused for a moment. "Where to?"

"The 26th floor?"

Camila pressed her lips together and looked at the hall. "Is it okay for us to just leave?"

"It's okay. We won't be long," he answered.

The two of them left the hall from the corner so they wouldn't be noticed and took the elevator to the 26th floor.

They stopped in front of Room 502, and found that the door was half closed.

Chapter 279 Anthomaniac

She effortlessly pushed the door open.

However, the room was empty.

Camila's forehead creased in a frown. "Is someone playing some sick joke on me?"

Isaac remained silent, but he had a rough idea of what was going on in his mind.

Maybe it wasn't a prank after all. It seemed more likely that the person who had planned to set Camila up had cleaned up the place thoroughly, leaving no trace behind. They must have realized that she was too smart to fall into such an apparent trap.

"Let's head back," Camila simply said.

She felt it was a bit improper for them to be wandering around during someone else's wedding.

Isaac nodded in agreement.

At the elevator door, Camila leaned towards Isaac, intending to take his hand. However, before her hand could wrap around his, the elevator came up and the door slid open, interrupting the moment.

Camila hesitated, then pulled her hand back, but Isaac reached out, took her hand and held it firmly.

She was taken aback.

The sensation of their hands touching caused a sudden flutter in Camila's chest.

She couldn't quite explain why she felt so anxious.

She couldn't understand why she was feeling so nervous, considering they had shared the same bed for a long time.

She was so anxious that her heart was beating faster and her breath was becoming ragged.

Divya, who had a youthful appearance, was dressed in a custom-made red gown adorned with various gemstones and shimmering sequins. The dress had a waistband and a comfortable waist and hip design. Its hemline was adorned with fringed beads, which swayed gracefully as she walked, making her look even more captivating.

That dress was smart and elegant. It complemented Divya's shape perfectly.

Even though she was supposed to be the center of attention, there were other lavishly dressed people in attendance, but her dress distinguished her. The style was unique.

She was holding onto Forrest's arm and her stunning appearance clearly had everyone's attention.

After raising a toast to several highly honoured elders of the family, Forrest escorted Divya to meet Isaac.

He had previously mentioned that he wanted to formally introduce Camila to Divya.

Isaac was one of his closest friends and held a special place in Forrest's heart.

He headed straight to where Isaac was seated.

Forrest approached his closest friends, Isaac and Camila, and handed them a glass of wine each and urged them to drink up. Divya had held the glasses while he poured before handing the glasses to them.

"This is my best friend, Isaac Johnston, who flew back to attend our wedding." Forrest introduced Isaac to Divya.

Divya smiled sweetly as she expressed her gratitude to Isaac for attending their wedding. Her aristocratic upbringing had instilled in her a sense of grace which could be detected even from her smile.

Isaac raised his glass and took a sip to acknowledge Divya's toast.

Forrest then introduced Camila to Divya, mentioning that she was his junior schoolmate and also a good friend.

"It's good to see you again, Camila," Divya said as she turned to look at Camila. "Thank you for coming to my wedding. I hope we can be good

She showed great enthusiasm and warmth towards Camila.

Camila responded with a gentle smile, "As Forrest's friend, we are already friends."

Her response was tactical. She was careful not to explicitly agree to being good friends with her.

Given her connection with Laura, she felt it was necessary to maintain some distance from Divya.

Camila decided to maintain a cordial yet distant relationship with Divya due to her limited knowledge about her.

Her polite response and friendly attitude towards Divya were solely to show her respect for Forrest.

At that moment, an unexpected visitor burst into the room and exclaimed, "I have some urgent news to report!"

Forrest's expression turned serious as he questioned the man who had just entered. "What's the matter? Why do you seem so frantic?"

The man informed Forrest about a commotion outside and urged him to check it out.

Setting aside his glass, Forrest said to Camila and Isaac, "Excuse me. I need to step outside and check what's happening."

"Please do," Camila said with a nod.

Divya offered to accompany Forrest to see what was happening outside.

As soon as they stepped out of the venue, they couldn't believe their eyes.