

Chapter 296 The Only Man She Loves

Isaac's intuition told him something was wrong with Camila.

He saw her break free from the men's grip and run towards the river in a split second.

He reacted quickly and ran after her, like a gust of wind, catching her wrist and pulling her into his arms.

He said soothingly, "Don't do anything stupid."

Camila shook her head frantically. "I don't want you to be threatened."

Isaac's words about being good to her because of their child left her desperate.

She didn't want Travis to use her to threaten Isaac, so she saw this as her final sacrifice for him.

After all, he was the only man she ever loved.

As they hugged, Travis, thinking of his deceased mother and disabled father, pressed the button intending to blow them up.

Camila sensed his intentions and bit Isaac's arm hard.

The pain made Isaac loosen his grip, giving her an opportunity to push him away and shout, "Save Joel!"

Camila then jumped into the river.

The sound of an explosion rocked the air.

Although Camila had pushed Isaac away, the explosion knocked him down to the shore due to his proximity to Camila.

The blast lit up the sky, filling it with fire and smoke.

The smell of gunpowder wafted through the air, and water from the river splashed all over the shore.

When Isaac arrived with his men, he had a plan in mind.

He had purposely driven the car to provide his men with a hiding spot.

They were armed with anesthetic guns, ready to strike at any moment. However, their plan was foiled before they could act.

Travis, determined to find out if Isaac was still alive, pulled a steel knife from his subordinate's waist and headed towards him. His intention was clear - to kill Isaac.

But just as he took two steps, he was hit with a precise shot from an anesthesia gun.

He dropped to the ground, unconscious.

Isaac's men swiftly took care of Travis's subordinates, incapacitating them all. The leader of Isaac's men ordered, "Jump into the river quickly. We must find her."

In the hospital, Isaac soon regained consciousness.

He remembered what he had seen before passing out and asked, "Where is she?"

"In the emergency room," Alick replied, hurrying to Isaac's side in an attempt to comfort him. "Don't worry, Joe and Rowena are safe. Willie's taking care of them."

Isaac's gaze turned cold as he glared at Alick, causing the latter to lower his head in shame.

"Take me to her," Isaac demanded, standing up and striding out of the room.

As they made their way to the emergency room, Isaac asked in a hushed tone, "Is she okay? How bad are her injuries?"

Alick looked down.

He didn't know how to answer.

Camila was in critical condition, and he didn't know if she would make it.

"Tell me!" Isaac's voice rose, his hands clenched into fists.

"She was badly hurt," he replied reluctantly. "When they pulled her ashore, she was covered in blood. Her face was severely burned and mutilated."

Isaac stopped in his tracks, his heart sinking. "What did you say?"

Alick repeated himself, "She is seriously injured."

Isaac's hands trembled as he balled his fists, his knuckles turning white, and the veins in his hands bulging with intensity.

Alick lowered his head and continued, "The doctors are doing everything they can to save her, but we don't know if she'll make it."

"Which operating room is she in?" Isaac asked.

Although Isaac made an effort to calm down, his voice shook uncontrollably.

"Room number one. We've got the best doctors on the case," Alick replied.

Isaac strode towards the operating room, his mind racing with fear and uncertainty. When he reached the door, he saw that the light was still on, indicating that the surgery was still in progress.

Time seemed to crawl by. Each moment felt like an eternity. Isaac felt the urge to barge into the operating room, but Alick cautioned him against it. "You'll only disturb the doctors. You don't want to risk her life, do you?"

He could have lost control and stormed in if Alick hadn't been there.

Isaac felt suffocated like he couldn't catch his breath. He tried to calm himself by taking deep breaths, but it didn't seem to help.

He remembered the anguish he saw in Camila's eyes. She had obviously

< Chapter 296 The Only Man She Loves

 +120 Points at most misunderstood what he had said.

In a moment of despair, she jumped into the river with the intent to end her life.

Finally, after what felt like an eternity, the light went off, and the door slid open.

Isaac rushed forward, but the lump in his throat made it difficult to speak.

He finally managed to choke out a question. "Is she okay?"

 Limited-time offer: 30 minutes of free reading>>

Claim Now