Chapter 741 Tasha's Interview

"Janet?" Tasha was also shocked to see that the interviewer was Janet.

"Janet?" Tasha was also shocked to see that the interviewer was Janet.

She knew that Janet was a designer in W Marks, but she didn't expect that she would be the one to interview her.

As for why Tasha came to W Marks, she had her reasons.

After divorcing Seth, Tasha got a lot of money in alimony and she went back to the Jarvis family.

What Dalores said was unpleasant to hear and made Tasha look like a terrible candidate. Tasha herself couldn't help but fall into silence.

What Dalores said was unpleasant to hear and made Tasha look like a terrible candidate. Tasha herself couldn't help but fall into silence.

"That's because—"

She didn't know how to explain, but just as she tried to, Dalores cut her off abruptly.

"Besides, you're pregnant now. Working will only burden others, not just yourself. And you haven't had a job in a long time. Is fashion just a game to you? As you know, W Marks is not just some small studio on the side of the street. People like you will only drag us down."

When Dalores saw Draco come in, she practically ran to him.

When Dalores saw Draco come in, she practically ran to him.

She stuck out her lower lip and complained to Draco, "Mr. Wesley, Janet knew this applicant Tasha beforehand. How can she interview her fairly? I know Janet is still young and inexperienced, which probably biases her judgment. I don't blame her, but I'm just saying it for the sake of our studio."

Although Dalores was speaking in a hushed voice, Janet clearly heard her.

How dare Dalores accuse her of such a thing right in front of her face?

Chapter 744 Welcome To W Marks

Draco said calmly, "Well, I've decided to hire Tasha. Dalores, you don't need to worry about those things."

Draco said calmly, "Well, I've decided to hire Tasha. Dalores, you don't need to worry about those things."

Since Draco had the final word, Dalores said nothing more. She forced a smile and shrugged seemingly nonchalantly. "Okay, it's up to you."

Then she lowered her head and focused on tidying up the papers on the table.

She refused to look up and didn't talk to anyone.

Chapter 745 The Quarrel In The Corridor

Elizabeth's expression darkened. "Ever since Dalores joined W Marks, she has always hired acquaintances to work as interns here. But Draco never cared about these things. He only looked at their works. Fortunately, all the people that Dalores had hired before weren't that bad. It seems that she made a mistake this time."

Elizabeth found this behavior extremely unethical, so she was never fond of Dalores. W Marks was supposed to be a prestigious place for professional designers, but it was polluted by people like Dalores.

Chapter 746 The Ghostly Phone Call

After taking Tasha to her cubicle, Janet went back to her seat and began to work.

Truth be told, she had been very anxious the whole day—and it wasn't because of the interviews.

She just couldn't get the matter of her laptop out of her mind. She tried searching online as to why there would be such a strange thing, but she found nothing.

Fortunately, after that, it didn't happen again. But she couldn't log in to the website anymore.

Since her only connection to the mysterious drug dealer had been severed, she had met another dead end.

Chapter 747 Charis's Return From The Dead

"Don't worry. I'll escort you to hell personally. I'll be back again soon!" Then, there was a burst of crazy laughter from the other end of the line, which sent shivers down Janet's spine.

Janet gripped her phone tightly, uncertain as to how to react.

She reminded herself to take deep breaths and gradually calmed down. If she exposed her fear, she would be giving whoever was behind this exactly what they wanted.

So Janet decided to hang up.

Chapter 748 The Figure On The Rooftop

"Watch out!" With sharp eyes and quick reflexes, Brandon immediately lunged at Janet.

The billboard slammed into the ground behind them, fragments flying everywhere. The people around screamed and scattered in all directions.

"What the hell? What just happened?"

"That billboard just fell! It could have hit someone!"

The riled-up passers-by broke into a heated discussion.

Janet looked up in the direction from which the billboard fell. Amidst the smoke and chaos, she caught a glimpse of a petite figure on the roof.

At first glance, this blurry figure looked just like Charis!

Chapter 749 Grown Ups

Brandon answered the phone. As soon as he heard what the caller had to say, he stood up from the sofa angrily.

"How did this happen? Where's the technician on duty tonight?"

Janet wanted to say something, but then she stopped on second thought.

She could tell that Brandon was having a hard time running the company all by himself.

Chapter 750 Janet's New Bodyguard

The following day, Janet woke up alone in bed.

Yawning slightly, she went downstairs and found Brandon, who was already dressed.

"Still sleepy? Why don't you get some more sleep?" Brandon smiled at her gently as he fixed his tie. It seemed he was about to leave for the company. Seeing that Janet was still groggy, he walked up to her and pecked her lightly on the cheek. "The bodyguard I hired for you is waiting outside."

Janet nodded sleepily and watched as Brandon put on his coat and left.
