

STOP MESSING AROUND, MR BO!

Chapter 14

Chapter 14: Because You Offended Our Future Lady Boss

In the face of Bo Jinchuan's sudden words, Yu Song did not spend a minute delaying. After muttering a reply, he left the private room.

At Ru Yixuan's door, the driver rolled down the window, revealing the stern-looking face of Jiang Rongrong. Shen Defan and Yang Liwei each sat on one side, the three directing their gaze towards Ru Yixuan.

The servant who was sitting on the passenger seat got off to get the queue number.

"This shop is indeed popular. It's a pity that the boss doesn't want to open a franchise. I wonder why?"

"This is precisely the unique trait of this shop. Every chef has different ways of preparing the same dish, where the taste will differ. If a franchise is opened, it will ruin the signature board."

Jiang Rongrong said, her heart feeling the same doubt. Ru Yixuan had been flourishing since decades ago, when she was younger. Till today, there isn't a single franchise to be seen.

The boss was indeed wilful to let go of such a profitable business.

It seemed like there were fewer people than usual. After many wasted trips, it was a blessing that they could eat to their hearts' content that day.

However, in that instant, the servant who was responsible for getting the queue number was stopped even without getting the queue number.

Jiang Rongrong frowned.

After living for so many years, it was blatantly obvious to her that that action was intentional, otherwise she would have lived in vain.

What was more obvious was that the customer behind the servant got the queue number!

“They... what do they mean?” Yang Liwei was also surprised. She said again, “Why are they targeting us?”

The servant who was queueing up had obviously felt the biased treatment and was in the midst of an argument with them.

Jiang Rongrong squinted at the direction ahead. Not long after, the servant came back with a darkened face.

“What’s the matter?” Jiang Rongrong asked in a low voice.

“Old Lady, the shop workers said they are not working today.”

“That’s nonsense! The person after you obviously got the queue number, why did they refuse to give it to you?”

Seeing the darkened face of Jiang Rongrong, Yang Liwei scolded.

Chagrined, the servant was clueless as well.

“I’ll go down to find out what happened.”

Feeling disdainful, Yang Liwei could not get over it and decided to alight to find out what happened.

When the waiter saw someone alighting from the car, a sound came from the earpiece he was wearing. The expression in his eyes changed and he switched the numbering machine off right before Yang Liwei’s eyes.

Yang Liwei halted in her footsteps, immense agitation overwhelming her.

This was obviously intentional!

Suppressing that immense anger, she walked up to the waiter and asked coldly,

“What does your shop want? Why is it picking on us? You opened up a business to be selective about your customers?”

The waiter gave a smile that told of the official professional mannerism that he should have and said politely,

“Yes, Madam. However, you’re the only selected customer in our shop thus far!”

Yang Liwei’s legs turned jelly-like and nearly sat on the ground with the immense anger she felt.

“You... you all... I... I want to sue all of you!”

“Please go ahead.”

The waiter gave an impeccable smile, as if he could not be bothered with being reported.

Yet, it was precisely so that got Yang Liwei hesitant. She decided not to take any steps rashly.

Ru Yixuan was not such a simple place. There was a reason why it did not collapse after years of operation.

Given that someone as insignificant as the waiter was given the right to be this arrogant, the owner must be someone powerful.

But—

“We did not steal or create trouble here before. Why are we given this differentiated treatment?”

Though Yang Liwei no longer felt incensed, she still felt angry.

“That’s because you offended our future Lady Boss.”
