Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 1041 [Eleven Jewell]

If Hylda could not get an abortion in time, she would have no choice but to undergo an induced delivery later in the pregnancy.

She gave birth to Hugo at a private hospital, where it was easy to alter his blood type and stuff like that, but things were different now.

Albert registered her name at a public hospital, so she had to give birth there. Putting everything else aside, the blood type alone would expose her lie.

Albert had blood type A, and Hylda was type O. It was impossible for them to have a child with blood type B.

Hylda figured Albert would find out the truth by then, no matter how foolish he might be. She was very worried.

Sophia had no idea what was going on. She put the collage drink on the table and sat beside Hylda's bed. "Mom, you've got to look after your health. Otherwise, how are you going to compete with that little slut?"

Hylda paused. "Has that slut gotten an abortion?"

"Not yet!" Sophia got angry upon hearing that. "I brought a few men with me and planned to force her to get one. However, Dad hired several bodyguards to watch her, and I couldn't even get close."

Hylda clenched her fists. 'I knew I couldn't trust that scum! He's full of shit!'

'Where's your dad? Bring him here!'

Sophia sneered. "It's not going to help anything if I brought him here. That slut is having a baby boy. I guess you know him well enough. There's no way he'll get rid of a boy."

Hylda was so surprised that she sat up abruptly. "What do you mean? A baby boy?"

Sophia said with a serious expression. "She went to an unlicensed clinic to find out her baby's gender. Otherwise, why would Dad suddenly change his mind and not let her have the abortion? He only hired so many people to protect her because he feared we'd hurt her. Haven't you noticed he's avoided you these past few days?"

The look on Hylda face was awful.

'A boy... she has a boy!

'That baby will be Albert's only son once he is born.

'What about everything that I've done? I can't let her take my place!

Actually, Sophia was not very happy about Hylda's pregnancy either.

There was initially just one daughter and one son in their family. Although Albert favored boys over girls, he treated her pretty well. However, things may be different if she had another baby brother.

So, she did not want Hylda to have another child.

But before Hylda could decide whether to keep that child, Albert's mistress had already confirmed being pregnant with a boy, which bothered Sophia very much.

She got someone to force Xenia to have an abortion and claimed that she did it for Hylda, but she actually did it for herself.

However, she failed to do that. So, she could only manipulate her mother into taking matters into her own hands.

As expected, Hylda would explode with rage when she heard that Xenia was pregnant with a baby boy.

She gritted her teeth and said, 'Call your father and tell him my stomach's hurting. Tell him to come back now.'

That was everything Sophia waited to hear. She comforted Hylda and asked her to calm down while calling Albert.

Albert was overjoyed when he found out that the baby inside Xenia was a boy.

He claimed to be at the office but spent most of his time at Xenia's place to protect his precious son.

And when Hylda and Sophia were looking for him everywhere, he wore an apron to cook a meal for her at her place.

Albert's phone rang on the table. Xenia glanced at it without notifying Albert. Instead, she picked up her phone and took a picture of Albert cooking in the kitchen. Then, she sent the photo to Stella

Stella was taken aback when she saw that photo.

Stella asked: [What is he doing]

Xenia replied: [He's cooking porridge for me. I told him I was having very bad morning sickness and had no appetite. He got so nervous and worried that the baby would be affected if I didn't eat and came with a bunch of things. I said that I wanted to eat the porridge he cooked, so he started learning and cooking it on the spot.]

Stella was dumbfounded.

She had no idea whether to laugh or mock Albert.

Albert had never set foot in the kitchen before. He used to score very well in exams since he was young, and although he came from a village, his family doted on him. His family had several plantation fields, and his parents always asked his little brothers to do all the farming work, never letting him break a sweat.

So, despite coming from a small town, Albert was treated like an heir of a wealthy family who got to enjoy all the best resources his family could offer him with.

He probably did not even know how to hold a scythe properly, let alone cook.

Not only had he not cooked before, but he also had his own principles. When Stella used to argue with him when she was young, she always heard him say that women should stay at home to care for the family while men should earn money. He even told Stella that her future husband would feel inferior and disrespected if she were to take the lead in everything.

It was strange that a misogynist like him would suddenly start cooking.

However, his actions started to make sense when the motivation behind him doing all that was because he knew that Xenia was pregnant with his son.

Stella said: [He didn't suspect anything about the report, right?]

Xenia replied: [Not at all. He wouldn't stop staring at my stomach in these two days. He even said my stomach looked a little pointy, so it must be a boy. I guess he has already imagined what the child will look like.]

Stella: [Hylda is a wicked person. She will probably take action when she finds out you're having a baby boy. So look after yourself and call me immediately if anything goes wrong,]

Xenia read Stella's message and sent her another reply: (She probably already knew it. Sophia already came to harass me, but she was stopped and warned by Albert's bodyguards. I'm sure she'll tell Hylda about it since she can't do anything to me.)

Stella thought for a while and replied: [Post the photo you took on your Twitter and make it visible to only people working in Albert's company,]

Xenia did as Stella said.

Sophia could not reach Albert on the phone and walked back and forth anxiously.

At that time, Hylda's phone rang. She took a glance at it, and her pupils immediately contracted.

One of the spies she placed in Albert's company sent her a screenshot of the photo Xenia had just posted on her Twitter.

In the photo, Albert was busy cooking in the kitchen. Xenia's caption was: [A man who knows how to cook is so attractive.]

Hylda was breathless with anger. That was the moment she felt an unprecedented sense of threat.

When she was pregnant with Hugo, Albert took good care of her too, but mainly in materialistic ways. He did not go so far and did something so diligent to her.

Judging from how similar Xenia and Rainee looked, it was difficult for her not to suspect that the scumbag, Albert, still had not completely moved on from his old lover.

If that was really the case, her position in the family would be at a greater risk.

The more Hylda thought about it, the more restless she got. 'I can never let her give birth to this baby.' She thought to herself.

After that, she quickly called Albert without thinking any further.

Xenia waited for Albert's phone to ring thrice before giving it to him, "Mr. Jewell, your wife's calling."

Albert paused and almost cut his finger.

He frowned as he took the phone over. Then, he heard Hylda question him assertively, "What are you doing? What took you so long to pick up?"
