Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 1151 [Eleven Jewell]

Andrea's suicide note was also revealed online. The contents detailed the night she had dinner with Bella. She did not suspect Bella at the beginning and even regarded her as her best friend. Andrea was terrified after being sexually assaulted, so she consulted Bella immediately to discuss the matter. She thought about calling the police, but Bella stopped her.

Bella advised her not to call the police on the grounds that she was about to be signed on as an actor. She told Andrea that the casting directors would definitely rethink their choice if things came out, despite the fact that she was the victim. "I think you should wait till they sign the contract before calling the police," she said. Andrea felt alone and helpless at the time. So, she had no choice but to trust her good friend, Bella.

Andrea had nightmares every night about the torture she suffered. To add to the trauma, her private pictures were uploaded to the internet. Netizens started calling her all kinds of names when the photos surfaced. Each word hurt her deeply. Andrea was horrified at the sight of people calling her a slut and a whore. She was scared, and she tried to contact Bella. However, she was unreachable.

The incident festered, and the movie crews who had worked with her previously ended up taking her off the shows. The directors from unaired dramas and agencies even asked her to compensate them for liquidated damages.

It was also at this time that Bella was officially announced to play the role that Andrea had previously auditioned for. Andrea watched the news in dismay. She immediately chose to call the police after finally connecting the dots.

The police brought the person who sexually assaulted her in for an investigation, but the other party insisted that the two had a one-night stand. Since the incident happened quite a while now, traces of rape could not be found on Andrea's body anymore. The staff at the hotel also mentioned that she was conscious when the two went into a room together. Thus, there was no solid evidence to prove that Andrea was sexually assaulted. So, she could not build a case.

Her rapist even spread rumors about what had happened that night on the internet. Andrea was on the verge of breaking down, and her family members finally noticed that something was wrong with her. They took her back to their hometown to recuperate, and her mental health gradually improved.

One day, Andrea decided to tell her brother about the evil she had encountered. Her older brother was shocked and heartbroken when he heard the news. He went to settle the score with Bella without anyone knowing and never returned.

Andrea's brother died trying to avenge her. Her family was left in tatters while Bella made a name for herself. Andrea could not accept this outcome and wanted to leave the world behind. She left a farewell message to her parents and fans, and her last line read, "I am off to see my brother."

The suicide note arguably added new evidence to the matter, but Bella's fans were still stubborn. They claimed that the document was forged and stated that Andrea would have published it before her death if it was real. They also said that someone was trying to use this to cover up the fact that Stella pushed Bella down the stairs.

But soon, Andrea's fans posted her signature to prove that the handwriting on the suicide note was hers.

Then, one of Bella's previous fans came out to say her piece. "I was the first few people to follow Bella. Before Bella's accident, she and Andrea frequently interacted with each other. Andrea often visited her workplace to give her food. Bella's old fans would know how close they were. All of us expected them to reach the top hand in hand, but shortly after Andrea's private photos were leaked, Bella took over her role in one of her dramas. I felt disturbed by this at the time. When Andrea was being called names on the internet, Bella did not stand up for her at all, not even when she passed away. I could not believe it, so I decided to leave the fandom. Now, it seems like I made the right choice. She's such a shitty person."

As expected, Bella's followers were not happy about that comment and tried to attack her verbally. However, the former fan did not back down. "So what if I'm shitting on her? Why should I provide any evidence to prove that I was once her follower? Don't I have the right to speak about her?"

I don't see Bella defending herself in the comments. Why the hell do you guys care?"

The former fan then posted pictures of all the magazines and posters of Bella she collected during the early years.”

Seeing that you guys love her so much, I’m willing to sell my collection for 50 thousand dollars.”

After seeing all the merchandise, people recognized that the person was Bella’s number one fan. The former fan had managed Bella’s fan group when the celebrity had not blown up yet. She ran around and took various paparazzi photos of Bella during the early years. However, she suddenly disappeared from the face of the earth after Bella became famous.

Bella’s fans then started to believe the former fan because they knew that she had a lot of contact with their idol and was aware of what kind of person she was in private.
