Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 1181 [Eleven Jewell]

After a while, Spencer stood right in front of the group. He looked at Stella first, then at Keegan and Vermont. "Mr. Graham, this is Mr. Snyder from Green Hill Media," said the young man beside him.

Spencer nodded slightly, stretched out his hand, and warmly said, "It's nice to meet you, Mr. Snyder."

Spencer had just returned to Hustuabourg recently. His father, Penn Graham, had assigned the young man beside him to show him around and familiarize himself with the people in their circle.

Although Green Hill Media and SP Entertainment were competitors, Vermont and Penn maintained a good relationship in private. So, he reached out to shake Spencer's hand and said, "Ah, you must be Spencer Graham. I've heard a lot about you. You remind me so much of your father."

"My father has also told me a lot about you, Mr. Snyder. He said you are a promising young man with a unique vision and asked me to learn more from you," Spencer politely replied.

"We can learn from each other," Vermont smiled and said.

Spencer's assistant then introduced him to Keegan. "This is—"

"Mr. Kane from the Vinci Rivera Group," Spencer said without waiting for the assistant to finish. "I have often heard about you in my social circle abroad. You're very well-known there, Mr. Kane." He then stretched out his hand and said, "It's a pleasure to make your acquaintance."

Keegan shook his hand and immediately let go of it after that. He and Penn knew each other, but they were not close. However, Penn had a good relationship with Chandler. Naturally, he was not very enthusiastic about getting to know his son, Spencer.

Keegan did not like to deal with strangers, but Vermont was the opposite. Vermont liked to chat because that was how he got all the juicy gossip in the circle. So, after introducing each other, he asked, "What are you doing here at this wedding, Spence? Are you friends with the bride or the groom?"

Spencer was uncomfortable by how Vermont called him Spence. He pressed his lips together and said, 'I don't know either of them very well. But my cousin is dating their daughter, Ms. Jewell. So, I was asked to come and congratulate Mr. Jewell on the union.'

'Oh, I see. So, he is the cousin of Sophia's boyfriend,' thought Vermont. "Do you know how your cousin and Ms. Jewell got to know each other, Spence? Why would your family have you come over if they aren't engaged or married yet?" he continued to inquire.

Spencer's eyebrows twitched once again at the nickname Vermont gave him. "Their engagement is already on the way," he replied. "By the way, you can just call me Spencer, Mr. Snyder."

"Oh. Yeah. Sure, Spence."

Spencer was utterly speechless when he heard that.

'It seems like Sophia and her boyfriend are making things official. No wonder the Grahams asked Spencer to come,' thought Stella. That was when she discovered why Sophia was acting more arrogant than before. 'I knew she wouldn't have dated someone who had gained wealth only recently.'

Just as she pondered about the situation, a male voice came from above her and said, "Stella, long time no see.'

Vermont, Keegan, and Felicity were shocked and confused to hear that.

Stella saw Keegan's questioning gaze and proceeded to say with a straight face, "I'm sorry. You are...?"

Her reply caused Spencer to be at a loss for words.

Vermont looked back and forth between the two and thought, 'What's going on here?'

Spencer frowned when he heard Stella ask him who he was. 'Don't you remember me?' He asked in disbelief.

Vermont, Felicity, and Keegan were struck hard by those words.

After some time, Vermont was no longer shocked. Instead, he was waiting for everything to unfold. 'So Stella knows this man who has similar features as Keegan? Interesting...'

He then looked at Keegan, who had slightly pursed lips and an indifferent expression, calmly staring at Stella. She felt so guilty for pretending not to know Spencer and did not dare to meet Keegan's gaze.

Still, she was as steady as a rock. 'You do look familiar, but I'm afraid I don't remember. Care to refresh my memory?'

Spencer was silent. He looked at the woman before him and realized she had actually changed quite a bit since high school.

Her facial features were much more refined. 'She looks completely different from the girl who danced on stage during our school's talent competition.' The only thing that remained unchanged was her unforgettably bright, beautiful eyes.

Though, Spencer knew what kind of mischievous person hid behind those seemingly harmless eyes. He recalled the time Stella told him that she wanted to perform a magic trick and pull out a cute little animal. But to his surprise, she pulled out a rat instead.

Spencer stared at Stella for a few seconds and smiled. He looked up and said, "It's fine if you don't remember. Let me introduce myself." He held out his hand and continued, "Hi. I'm Spencer Graham, class of 2015 from Rivera High."

Before Stella could say anything, Felicity chimed in, "Rivera High? Stella, isn't that where you went? And didn't we graduate in 2015 too?"

At that moment, Stella wanted to sew her best friend's mouth shut. 'Can't you see how upset Keegan is already? God!'

“Oh, so you’re an alumnus. It’s nice to meet you,” said Stella as she shook the tips of Spencer’s fingers and let go immediately. “I didn’t know we had such a prestige member in the Rivera High alumni,” she continued.

Spencer touched his fingertips and put on a faint smile. His assistant then whispered something in his ear, and he nodded. “I’ll go say hello to Mr.

Jewell and catch you later.”

“Oh. Um. That’s fine. You don’t have to come back. You can just go about your business,” Stella said, unclear whether Spencer heard her. The man then turned around and walked into the crowd with his assistant.

Stella felt relieved as she watched Spencer leave. She saw Keegan staring at her with no apparent expression and began to feel anxious.

Vermont quickly tried to gossip and asked, “Stella, is Spencer one of your high school classmates?”

“Yeah. I think so,” Stella replied.

“What do you mean you think so? Do you not remember him at all? I mean, it’s impossible to forget a face like that.”

Stella could feel Keegan’s stare becoming more intense as Vermont said that.

“I didn’t have the time to look at men when I was in school, Vermont. I had so much homework to do back then!”

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 1183 [Eleven Jewell]

Vermont did not quite believe Stella’s denial of knowing Spencer. He could tell that something was off judging by her reaction. It seemed like there was more to them than just classmates.

He was about to say something when Stella interrupted him, “Let’s go grab some food, Felicity.”

“Okay. Sure,” Felicity replied.

Once the two women left the table, Vermont leaned into Keegan's ear and whispered, "There's something fishy going on with your partner. She's the type who can't take her eyes off a handsome guy, but she barely looks at Spencer. She would even avert her gaze everytime their eyes met. Since when she has ever been shy around guys?"

Vermont's words caused Keegan to suspect that something was going on. He had also noticed Stella's unusual behavior, but he still chose to defend her for now. "Is she acting shy? I hadn't noticed. It seems to me that she doesn't find him attractive."

Vermont did not say a word. 'I didn't know Keegan could be so protective over Stella,' he thought. 'Still, I think there's more to the story than what she is letting on.'

At the food section of the wedding, Stella grabbed an egg tart for Felicity with a pair of tongs.

Felicity picked up the pastry and ate it as she asked, "Stella, isn't Spencer your ex-boyfriend whom you dated for two weeks before you guys broke up?"

Stella did not answer. Felicity confirmed her suspicions after seeing her reaction. "Ah hah! I knew it! There's no way you would forget him since we've only graduated not too long ago, especially since he's so good- looking."

Stella sighed. "Please don't say anything about this in front of Keegan, or he'll get upset."

"He might've been fine with it if you had just admitted it earlier. Why did you even pretend like you didn't know Spencer? I'd be upset too if I were Keegan." Felicity paused a while before saying, "Wait a minute. They look so similar; you clearly have a type. You're not using Keegan as Spencer's substitute, are you?*

Stella's eyelids twitched when she heard that. "What are you talking about? They're nothing alike. You've been watching too many dramas.'

Felicity did not care much about the resemblance between the two men. Instead, she was more curious about how Stella managed to date the campus heartthrob. "Come on, tell me. How did you win him over?"

“Why can’t it be the other way around? Maybe he was the one who hit on me first,” said Stella.

Felicity scoffed and said, “I would believe you if you looked the way you do now back in high school. I’ve seen the pictures, you know? You literally weighed at least 130 pounds back then. I don’t think an attractive teenage boy would’ve wanted to hit on you.”

Stella’s face darkened upon hearing that. “Excuse you? I didn’t weigh 130 pounds. I was 120 pounds at most. Plus, I’m tall. It’s normal for me to weigh a little more than the other girls in school.”

“Okay, fine. So who was the initiator of the relationship?”

Stella hesitated for a moment and finally said, “I randomly confessed to him one day, and he accepted it.”

‘It was surprisingly easy to win him over,’ she thought.

“I don’t think that confession was random.” A cold voice suddenly came from behind her.

Stella’s hands trembled, and she almost dropped her plate. Thankfully, Spencer was there to catch it. “Why did you pretend not to know me earlier?” he asked.

Felicity’s mouth dropped open wide. ‘Oh, shit. She’s been caught red-handed!’ She continued to eat her egg tart, pretending nothing had happened while eavesdropping on their conversation.

Stella fidgeted around and thought, ‘Everything’s going to be fine as long as I remain calm.’

“Well, you have a different status now, and we’re no longer in the same circle. I just don’t want people to get the wrong idea,” she said.

Spencer pondered upon her answer and asked, “Who would get the wrong idea, exactly? Keegan? I thought you guys were divorced.”

Felicity was shocked to hear what the ex-boyfriend had to say. 'Spencer seems to know a lot about Stella's affairs. He had just returned to the country, yet he knew she and Keegan were divorced. Could he have been secretly keeping tabs on her? I mean, there's no way he'd get the news so soon, right?'

Felicity wished she could give Vermont a video call at that time so that they could tune into the love triangle drama together.

"I don't have to explain myself to you," Stella frowned.

Spencer smiled faintly and said, "I was just asking. But I suppose it's not him since you've always been good at cutting ties.'

Felicity could not believe her ears. 'Wait. Does that mean Stella dumped him? Oh my god.'

"Are you done? If you are, I'm leaving," said Stella. She put her plate down and was about to go when Spencer stretched out his hand to stop her. He then grabbed a mango pudding and placed it in her hand, saying, 'It's really nice to see you again.'

Without waiting for Stella to respond, Spencer left. She stared at the pudding cup in her hand and decided to put it back. When she looked up, she saw how stunned Felicity was and threatened, "Don't tell Keegan, or it's the end of our friendship!"

"Don't worry. Your secret is safe with me," Felicity swore. After that, she whispered, 'Were you the one who dumped him?'

"I brought up the idea of breaking up, and he agreed. It was an amicable breakup," Stella replied.

"But why did you do that? Isn't he your type? Plus, he seems to have a much better temper than Keegan."

Stella sighed. "It's nothing, really. I just decided we couldn't be together anymore when he told me his parents were sending him abroad to further his studies.'

"That's it?" Felicity asked.

“Yeah. He was going to leave the country, and I wasn’t going with him. Though I wished he would stay, I didn’t want him to change his decision because of me. Relationships are hard, especially if you’re doing long distance. We were going to be miles apart when I didn’t even get to know him yet. There was no way we would have lasted. So, I suggested we break up. I didn’t want us to waste each other’s time. Plus, it made more sense to end the relationship since we weren’t really that into each other yet.”

It was true that Stella did initiate the breakup, but Spencer did not agree to it. However, since they were unmarried and not legally bound together, Stella did not have to wait for his consent. After suggesting the idea, she immediately blocked Spencer’s number and all his social media accounts.

Moreover, she had met Spencer’s father before and realized he was not someone she could get along with.

“You’re so heartless. Would you break up with Keegan if he told you he had to leave the country for a few years to expand his business abroad?’ Felicity asked.

Stella shook her head and said, “No because I love him. Plus, I’m an adult now. I can just book a flight and see him anytime I want, no matter where he is.”

“So you’re saying you didn’t like Spencer that much.”

Stella smiled and did not say anything. She was infatuated with Spencer, but her feelings for him were incomparable to her deep love for Keegan.

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 1185 [Eleven Jewell]

Not long after, Keegan and Vermont finally freed themselves from social engagements and walked over to the girls. Keegan casually grabbed a banana and handed it to Stella. When she was about to peel the fruit, Keegan signaled her and said, ‘Albert’s here. Time to put on a show.’

Stella paused and threw the banana at Keegan, saying, ‘Stop getting ahead of yourself. I don’t like eating bananas.’

Vermont was taken aback by how fast Stella got into character while Albert stood nearby, observing the two.

Keegan held the banana in his hand and asked after a while, "Well, what do you want to eat? I'll go get it for you."

"What does it matter to you what I want to eat?' Stella sounded impatient. "Can't you just go away?"

"Stella, what are you doing? Keegan is just concerned about you. What are we going to do about that temper of yours?" Albert came over and said.

Stella kept a straight face and stayed quiet.

Albert wanted to find out what Stella was to Keegan now that they were divorced. He nearly had a heart attack when he saw Stella throwing the banana at Keegan. 'Sigh. This brat is as stubborn as her mother. Who does she think she is? Does she really think Keegan would spoil her and let her have her way forever?'

Albert was afraid Keegan would get angry, so he quickly apologized on Stella's behalf, "Are you okay, Keegan? Sorry for the trouble. Stella's temper is getting worse day by day. I can't believe she hasn't taken the time to reflect on herself after the divorce.'

Felicity was mad that he would say such things about her best friend.'

Didn't Keegan and Stella divorce because of her mother's death? Albert didn't even lift a finger during the funeral. How dare he have the nerve to criticize her?'

"It's nothing, Mr. Jewell. Stella didn't do anything wrong," Keegan pursed his lips and said.

His words left Albert aback, wondering if Keegan's love for Stella had clouded his judgment. Soon, Albert realized that it was a good thing. 'Given that he's obeying Stella's every wish and command, I could benefit from his company if I win Stella over,' he thought.

With that in mind, Albert changed his tone immediately. "You're spoiling her, Keegan. I know my daughter," he said before continuing, "Stella, the fact that Mr. Kane showed up means that he values your relationship. You should work on your attitude. Do you think other men would dote on you like Keegan does, especially since you're a divorcee now?"

Stella found that funny. 'Just say you want to suck him dry.' She pretended to sulk and impatiently replied, "Who cares?"

"I just think it's better that you work on things with your initial partner rather than finding someone else, you know?" said Albert.

"But, Mr. Jewell, your current bride isn't your initial partner either,' Felicity interrupted.

Albert did not know what to say. It was ironic of him to judge Stella when he cheated on his wife and married his mistress. He was embarrassed, but he quickly regained his composure. "I'm speaking from experience. Sadly, there's no way to turn back time and stop myself from doing what I did. The only thing I can do now is to make up for my past by preventing my daughter from making the same mistake."

'I can't believe he's trying to spin things around. I bet Mom wanted a divorce because she had seen through all his lies,' Stella thought.

As the conversation progressed, Sophia walked over arm in arm with a man. "Dad, what are you doing here? The ceremony is about to begin. Mom is waiting for you."

"There's no need to rush," said Albert, calling the two over and introducing them to the others. "Keegan, this is Ethan Shaw. He is Sophia's boyfriend and one of the founders of Celestial Media." He then turned to the man next to Sophia and said, "Ethan, this is Keegan Kane, the CEO of Vinci Rivera."

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 1186 [Eleven Jewell]

Stella glanced at the young man named Ethan, thinking it was impossible that he was Spencer's cousin. 'He looks rather average. His eyes are small, and his forehead is huge. He's not really short, but his proportions are not that great, either. Moreover, he slouches when he stands, which makes him look even more unattractive,' she thought.

Perhaps sensing Stella's gaze, Ethan looked over at her. She immediately averted her eyes.

Albert was so eager to introduce Ethan to Keegan that it seemed like he genuinely liked the man. Keegan shook Ethan's hand nonchalantly and kept his eyes on Stella.

Seeing this, Albert became even more convinced that Keegan still had feelings for her. 'I must find a way to get them back together. That way, I can continue funding my business.'<sup>1</sup>

With that in mind, he turned around and whispered to Stella, "I will publicly announce the adoption after the wedding ceremony. The Jewell family will always have your back from then on, Stella."

Stella looked down and said, "I think you should discuss this with Hylda. It's her big day. An announcement like that would ruin the occasion."

'Hylda would never agree to this. She's so short-sighted; she never sees the bigger picture,' thought Albert. "Yeah, okay. Sure," he said to Stella. After that, he turned around and told Sophia to entertain the guests while he checked up on Hylda.

'Alright, Dad,' Sophia replied as Albert left the scene.

Sophia noticed that Keegan was still looking at Stella and could not help but feel irritated. She had mixed feelings about him; she admired, feared, and liked him all at once. At the same time, Sophia held a grudge against Keegan for dismissing her at the press conference. Although she had no proof as to who caused the incident, she believed that Stella was behind it.

Sophia was overjoyed when she heard that Keegan and Stella got divorced, but... 'What the hell is going on? Why are Keegan's eyes glued to that bitch?' she thought as she stepped forward between Stella and Keegan.

"Mr. Kane, there are freshly grilled steaks over there. Allow me to take you to grab some." Sophia tried to take Keegan's arm, but he avoided her touch and coldly replied, "I'm not hungry."

Vermont glanced at Sophia and then at her boyfriend, Ethan. He noticed Ethan's eyes darting toward Stella from time to time. 'Interesting...' He approached the couple and said, 'Ms. Jewell, Mr. Shaw. I haven't eaten much today. How about you take me to the steaks?'

Sophia did not have a good impression of Vermont because he always seemed like he was plotting something, making her uncomfortable. However, Sophia had no choice but to reluctantly agree to his suggestion.

Felicity could hear Vermont chatting up a storm as the three of them walked away. "So, how did you two meet?" he asked.

Felicity was furious. "Can't that Stinky Cucumber get his own steaks? Why did he have to ask that annoying ass girl to take him to the grill station? Also, her boyfriend looks hideous. I can't imagine why she would date him, let alone kiss him."

"Because he's wealthy, of course," Stella replied.

Keegan's eyelids twitched when he heard that. "Money can buy kisses?" he asked.

Stella paused and quickly clarified, 'That only applies to Sophia. I prioritize looks.' She then teased Keegan, saying, "I would kiss any guy who had your looks, though."

Keegan felt slightly comforted by her calling him handsome. But he was also a little weirded out by the thought of Stella kissing every man who looked like him. He was about to say something when he heard Felicity say, "So does that mean you kissed Spencer Graham?"

Stella was at a loss for words, while Keegan was confused. He slowly turned his head to look at Felicity and asked, "What did you just say?"

Felicity immediately covered her mouth and whispered, "I didn't say anything."

"You said that Stella kissed Spencer before," Keegan said in a deep voice.

Then, Felicity said awkwardly, "You must have misheard."

After that, she abandoned her best friend without a second thought and said, "Anyway, I'm hungry. Let me check if there's any steak left." Then, she hurriedly left.

Stella was stunned, 'I knew I shouldn't have trusted her big mouth!'

Keegan turned around and looked at Stella with a stern face. "Please explain."

Stella swallowed and said softly, "Can I do that later? We still have a show to put on."

Keegan kept quiet, and his expression remained serious. Stella saw that and realized that she had to explain right away. So, she cleared her throat and said, "It's not a big deal. It's just that, the guy, Spencer... he was my first love."

Keegan's expression immediately darkened. He gritted his teeth and asked, "Didn't you say you didn't know him earlier?"

Stella replied softly, "I just didn't want you to get angry."

"Why did you hide it from me if you knew I'd be angry?"

"I didn't mean to do that." Stella gently held his hand. "I didn't expect to see him here today, and I just didn't know how to tell you about it. You know how jealous you could be, too, right? Our plan would be in vain if you got upset and stopped acting with me."

Keegan's face still looked very sour.

Stella softened her tone. "Keegan Kane? Keegan? Mr. Kane?"

Keegan remained silent.

Then, Stella gathered her courage, clenched her teeth, and said, "Babe, please don't be mad at me anymore. You can punish me however you like when we get home later, okay? It hurts me to see you angry like this."

Suddenly, Keegan's heart skipped a beat.

He lowered his head and saw Stella looking at him pitifully as he thought to himself. 'Sknows just how to handle me.'

Keegan really wanted to take a stand and be mad at her, but he just did not have the heart to. He swept his gaze across her and asked in a deep voice, "When did you date him?"

Stella answered truthfully, "During the second semester of my senior year."

Keegan frowned as his fatherly temper exploded, "How could you have the time to date when you had the college entrance exam coming up?"

Stella replied softly, "I was worried it would affect my studies too. That was why I broke up with him after two weeks."

Keegan reluctantly accepted that explanation before he continued, "How did it start? Did you or him make the first move?"

Stella pursed her lips. "Can we talk about this when we get home later?"

Keegan glared at her, "It was you!"

Stella kept quiet.

She licked her lips and said, "We were in the same class back then, and we sat next to each other. He always couldn't remember what the teacher told us and would often borrow my notes. After some time, I felt he was nice and asked him if he wanted to date me. Unexpectedly, he said yes. I wasn't expecting it to be so easy at all."

Keegan scoffed. "It was mainly because he looks good, right?"

Keegan was not convinced by what Stella said. He was not doubting Stella but rather the excuse Spencer used to approach her.

He had heard about this son of Penn Graham studying at a prestigious institution abroad that was not easy to get into. Besides being exceptionally good at studying, one also had to be talented at something to be selected.

So, he did not believe Spencer would have trouble understanding what their teacher taught them and even needed to borrow Stella's notes.

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 1188 [Eleven Jewell]

‘What a cunning man!’

Stella had no idea what Keegan was thinking about as she said softly, ‘ We were just kids back then. How would we know anything about love?’

Keegan glanced at her, and she quickly added, “To me, you’re the most handsome man other than my brother.”

Keegan was at a loss for words. ‘Whatever. I don’t mind losing to Trevor.’

“Why did you break up?”

“He was going aboard, and I didn’t have confidence in a long-distance relationship,” Stella answered.

“Is that it?” Keegan was doubtful.

Stella continued truthfully, “His father met me and said some things that made me very uncomfortable.”

Keegan immediately understood what happened.

Penn Graham was a person who took social status very seriously. He probably said something harsh to Stella after learning about her family background.

They were just a young couple who had just started dating each other without deep feelings. Also, Rainee treated Stella like a treasure at that time. There was no way Stella would compromise herself for such a relationship.

Keegan thought about it and realized he had met Stella at the perfect time. If he were to meet her when Rainee was in good health, he figured he might not be able to win her over with how arrogant and conceited he was. Keegan smirked with that in mind. “What a difficult relationship you had.”

Stella knew that Keegan was simply gloating. Then, she snorted softly, “ You wouldn’t be here if it wasn’t difficult.”

Suddenly, Keegan remembered Felicity's question and asked, "How far did you guys go? Did you kiss?"

Stella was speechless.

Then, she shifted the topic. "The ceremony's about to start."

Keegan's expression turned gloomy. "Was he your first kiss?"

Stella felt a headache coming on. "What could high school students like us do? We only kissed each other's cheeks. Is that considered a first kiss?"

Keegan smoked with anger. 'I knew I shouldn't have asked! I'm even more bothered now!'

Stella could not help but find it amusing after seeing how angry Keegan got because of her.

"Keegan, you're such a fool. I didn't choose to be with him eight years ago; what makes you think that I'd still have feelings for him after so long? Your mother offered me money to leave you back then, but I didn't take it. However, if his father did the same thing, I'd take the money without a doubt."

Keegan paused. "What did you say?"

"I won't leave you," Stella said.

Keegan asked, "Did you say my mother offered you money?"

Stella sighed. "It was a long time ago. We just got married that time, and your mother offered me five million to divorce you."

Keegan's expression darkened. He would be completely unaware of this if Stella did not mention it.

If he had known earlier, he would surely suspect something was wrong with Dahlia's "secret method to conceive", and Stella would never have had to suffer the way she did.

Keegan suppressed his discomfort and said, "Were you not tempted by the five million?"

"To be honest, a little."

Keegan's eyelid twitched. He was about to say something, but he heard Stella continuing, "However, I hadn't slept with you at that time. That was why I didn't take it."

Keegan was speechless. Just a few words from Stella had eased his jealousy. He extended his finger and hooked Stella's hand gently. 'Let's talk about it later.'

Meanwhile, Hylda was getting her makeup done in the dressing room. Her tummy was getting bigger, so she decided to wear a flowy maxi dress instead of a wedding dress.

The makeup artist complimented her while styling her hair, "Mrs. Jewell, out of all the brides I've done makeup for, you have the best skin."

The makeup artist figured she could receive more tips from the client by saying flattering words on a joyous occasion like this.

However, Hylda was not having that at all. Instead, she was a little annoyed. "You can leave if you're done. I want some time alone."

The makeup artist's mouth twitched as she cursed inwardly. 'What a stingy woman.' Then, she left with a sulky face.

After that, Hylda immediately made a phone call. "How is it going? Is it done?"

[Read Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 1189 \[Eleven Jewell\]](#)

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 1189 [Eleven Jewell]

The person on the other end of the phone said something before Hylda replied worriedly, ' Did they suspect anything.'

"No, they didn't."

Hylda pinched her brows and said softly, "Thank you for your help. I can finally be at ease after this is done."

The door of the dressing room was forcefully pushed open as she spoke. Hylda was startled as she hurriedly hung up the phone.

Turning around, she saw Sophia and was immediately relieved. Then, she scolded, 'Don't you know how to knock? You're the heiress of the Jewell family now. Behave yourself, and don't make people think that you're uncultured and embarrass yourself.'

Sophia's face was angry when she said in a hateful tone, "That bitch Stella is here!"

Hylde paused and frowned. "Why is that?"

"My dad invited her. You should see how he talked to her just now. He treated her as if she was his own daughter. Why would he want her here on such an auspicious day? I hate her!"

However, Hylde immediately put her guard up. She said in a deep voice, "Who did she come with?"

"She's alone, I guess." Sophia thought for a moment before answering.

Indeed, Stella did arrive alone earlier. "I can't believe that she's still acting and dressing like a rich person after everything that had happened."

Sophia's stupidity was driving Hylde mad. "Who asked you about that? I was asking if Keegan was with her." Hylde spoke with a frown.

Sophia pouted. "Keegan did come, but not with her."

Hylde was doubtful. "Are you sure?"

"Of course. Mom, you haven't seen the look on Stella's face. She doesn't even give Keegan a proper look. However, I have no idea what spell she cast on Keegan. He just couldn't take his eyes off her."

Hylde thought about the strange things Albert did back then and suddenly understood what was happening.

She figured Albert probably believed there was a chance for Stella and Keegan to reconcile, so he wanted to use this opportunity to win Stella over. In that way, he could leverage the Kane family's name to gain more business opportunities, just like he did in the past.

'What a fool! Does he really think Stella would be satisfied with the small benefits he offered her? She insisted on suing him in court even though she had nothing left after the divorce. Can't he tell how much she hates him?' Hylda thought to herself.

Although there was no evidence to prove that the supernatural incidents in the house were fake, as an atheist herself, Hylda firmly believed that it must have something to do with Stella. She just had not found anything to prove it yet.

Stella had already become suspicious about the car accident that happened in the past, and Hylda couldn't understand why Albert would be so foolish to keep such a huge threat so close to him.

She could not help but wonder if Albert thought money was more important than his life.

They had already earned enough money to sustain them for several lifetimes, yet Hylda just could not figure out why Albert was so insatiable.

"I know Stella is cunning. I'm sure she did something to make Mr. Kane so obsessed with her. She's probably faking a pregnancy!"

Hylda was irritated by what Sophia said as she replied with a stern face, "She can't get pregnant anyway. That's not possible."

Sophia paused. "Mom, what did you say?"

Hylda pursed her lips. "I was just saying that she would've done this long ago if that's really the case. Keegan is not stupid." Then, she shifted the topic, "Where's your father? Tell him to come inside. I have something to ask him."

After a while, Vermont came back with the steaks.

Felicity followed behind him as she muttered under her breath, "There are so many people running a multi-channel company, yet why do you have to work with someone like him? Not only that he looks sleazy, but he's also Sophia's boyfriend. You could partner with anyone else with the money you have. Why did you choose them?"

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 1190 [Eleven Jewell]

Vermont grabbed a cherry tomato and stuffed it into her mouth, which would not stop talking. "You don't understand. This is called spying. How can we fight without knowing our enemies well?"

Felicity swallowed the cherry tomato. Then, she snorted, "You're just jealous of how much a multi-channel company can make. That's why you want to learn from them and get a piece of the pie, right?"

Vermont smiled and pinched her face. "Oh, tiny brain. How did you become so clever today?"

Felicity swatted his hand away. "I know you well enough. You just can't resist money."

Vermont scoffed. "That sounds more like your bestie, isn't it?"

Felicity kicked his calf. "Stella loves money, but she'd never betray her friends for it. Unlike you, how many times have you betrayed Keegan?"

Vermont tried to defend himself. "He wants to learn from the master. Isn't it reasonable for him to pay some tuition fee?"

"What's there to learn from a person full of scheming ideas like you?"

Vermont smirked. "Any ideas are good as long as they work." He then put a sliced steak on Felicity's plate before adding, "Why are you here instead of staying with your bestie to protect her? Do you miss me this much?"

Felicity paused as she was caught off guard.

Vermont thought he was right about it as he immediately raised his eyebrows and said in a deep voice, "It seems being apart from me even for a while is driving you crazy, huh?"

Felicity rolled her eyes at him. 'Dream on!' She hesitated for a moment before continuing, "I'm afraid that Stella will beat me up."

"Why would she do that?"

Vermont was puzzled and only found out what happened after asking Felicity about it.

“You know me. I can never control my mouth. I’m sure that Keegan is confronting Stella about it now. After that, Stella will come to confront me about it.”

Felicity smacked her mouth as she spoke.

Vermont immediately grabbed her hand. ‘It’s better to say it now if Keegan will know about it sooner or later. If he were to find out about it on his own, something worse would happen, and all of us who know the trouble will also be in trouble.’

Felicity still felt very guilty but also somewhat comforted. “Really?” she asked softly.

Vermont wrapped his arm around her shoulders and replied with a smile, “There’s nothing to be afraid of. I’ll always back you up no matter what.”

Felicity finally felt a little at ease. She turned to Vermont as she felt a strange sensation building up inside her. “Vermont.” She called him softly.

Vermont was tickled by her voice, but he pretended to be calm. He lowered his gaze and asked, “What is it? Do you think I’m very hot?”

Felicity chuckled. “How about you become my super-close buddy? What do you think?”

Vermont was dumbfounded. It seemed like he was still in her friendzone despite all his efforts to look like boyfriend material.

He figured there was probably something wrong with his way of pursuing Felicity, which was why she did not have any romantic feelings toward him. Felicity nudged him with her elbow. “Hey, I’m asking you a question.”

Vermont snapped out of his thoughts and glanced at her. Suddenly, he reached out to pinch her chin and said with a smirk, “Miss Bandit, do you know what you’re talking about?”

Felicity paused and was confused.

Vermont leaned closer to her ear and whispered, “For straight guys like me, super-close buddy means... fuck buddy.”

Felicity widened her gaze in shock as her ears turned red. She immediately shoved Vermont away.

Vermont's smirk turned even more mischievous. "This is why you don't want to say things like that to a guy. He might interpret it in a completely different way."
