Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 1256 [Eleven Jewell]

“You traitor!” Felicity gritted her teeth. “Why didn’t you tell me you were on call with Keegan?”

Stella could not stop laughing. “I was about to tell you, but you were too quick.”

Felicity threw a pillow at Stella’s head. “You’re the worst!”

Then, she went to grab her jacket and put on her shoes.

Stella sat up. “Where are you going?”

Felicity glared at her while putting her shoes on, “Running away for my life! Keegan is downstairs, isn’t he? He’s going to kill me if he sees me here later.”

Then, she opened the door and hurriedly ran to the unit next door.

The doorbell rang less than two minutes after Felicity left. Stella went to get the door and saw Keegan standing outside with a bag in his hand.

She could not help but laugh after seeing him.

Keegan went inside and closed the door. Then, he gazed at Stella and asked, “What’s so funny?”

Stella crossed her arms and replied playfully, “Thank god Felicity can run fast. Otherwise, she’d be stuck in here with you.”

“Am I the kind of person who holds grudges?” Keegan asked.

Stella shook her head. “No, you’re the kind of person who’d take revenge as soon as they can.”

Her response left Keegan speechless.

He placed the bag he was holding on the dining table and said, “I bought some pork loin rice for you both.”

Stella paused, and a faint smile appeared on her face.

Keegan was becoming more and more like a thoughtful boyfriend. He not only looked after Stella but also made sure to include her best friend.

“We already ate. Put it in the fridge later. We'll heat it tomorrow and eat it.”

Keegan nodded. Then, he took off his jacket and placed it on the back of the sofa before sitting down. After that, he gestured for Stella to come over.

As Stella walked towards him, Keegan grabbed her wrist and pulled her to sit on his lap. Then, he wrapped his arm around her waist and rested his chin on her shoulder.

Stella rubbed the back of his head and asked, “Are you tired? rv

“Yeah,” Keegan responded with his eyes closed.

So, Stella began massaging his head to help him relax.

“You don't have to come here if you're working overtime. I know how tiring it can be,” she said softly.

Keegan's eyes were still shut as he said in a low and deep voice, “This is the only time we can meet. I won't be able to see you anymore once I go home.”

Stella found what he said funny. She pinched his ear and whispered, “Mr. Kane, you're thirty now. How can you be so clingy?”

Keegan tilted his head and pecked her lips. “The older I get, the more I want to start a family.”

Stella kept quiet as she thought to herself. ‘That's all he thinks about. I'm impressed.’

“Have you seen the news today?” Stella asked. Keegan thought for a moment. “About Bella?”

Stella nodded. “Was it you who leaked the recording?”

Keegan shook his head. “No, it was her assistant.”

“Tammy Gull?” Stella was taken aback.

“Yeah.”

“Aren’t they cousins? Why would Tammy do this to her?”

Keegan replied flatly, “Aider found out that Tammy had tricked Bella into signing some sort of transfer agreement, claiming to help her manage her assets. However, Tammy did not fulfill her promise and ran away with the funds. It was she who leaked the recording online. Maybe she’s taking revenge on her.”

Bella was never an honest person, and she had been taking advantage of others and exploiting them in the entertainment industry. Tammy was the closest person to her and naturally became one of her victims.

Not only that Tammy had not earned any money from Bella over the years, but she also had to endure Bella’s reckless humiliations and insults.

There was solid evidence that proved Bella’s wrongdoings, leaving no room for suspicions. Tammy knew that Bella’s glory days were over because there was no chance of turning the situation around, especially in a criminal case like this.

So, she lied to Bella and told her that she could be released on bail, but it would require a huge amount of money. Bella’s assets had already been frozen by then, but there were still sizeable funds she invested in under her parents’ name.

Bella had fallen from grace, and the time she spent in the lockup was not pleasant at all. She was a famous person in the country, so almost everyone she met there knew who she was.

She was insulted, ridiculed, and marginalized. In just over a week, she had lost almost ten pounds.

She had always been a slim person, so shedding ten pounds made her face look almost skeletal. She no longer exuded the charm of an idol. Instead, she seemed extremely dejected.

The days she spent in the lockup had taken a toll on her sanity. That was why she immediately authorized Tammy to withdraw funds from her investments to bail her out as soon as Tammy lied to her about it.

However, Tammy took the money, fled, and even stabbed her in the back.

Stella listened to Keegan's words and said, "It's pretty sad."

Keegan was puzzled.

Then, Stella continued slowly, "It's pretty sad that I couldn't see the look on her face when she found out that Tammy had fled with her money. It must have been the most vivid expression she's ever had in her life."

Her words left Keegan speechless.

"It's going to be the third day tomorrow. Is there any update from the kindergarten?"

Stella shook her head. "No. The students are attending classes as usual."

"What is Ted's plan?"

"Mr. Eldrich said that he'll get the police involved tomorrow and let them handle it."

Keegan frowned. "Won't that escalate the situation?"

"Mr. Elrich said that is exactly what he wants."

Keegan kept quiet for a moment before he said, "Will doing that have a negative impact on you?"

Stella massaged the back of Keegan's head and replied with a you personally hired for me?"

"I'm just worried that something similar to the mall incident would happen again," Keegan said in a low voice

Stella responded, "The kids in the kindergarten and their parents are the only leverage they have. We'll have to resort to this eventually if we want to evict them from the land. Mr. Eldrich has it all planned out. Getting scolded and criticized is probably the worst thing that could happen, but I couldn't be bothered less if it can cut off Hylda's source of income."

Keegan pursed his lips. "I'll sleep here tonight," he said.

Stella was taken aback.

"I'll be staying here until this matter comes to an end," he added.

Stella was now confused.

Keegan looked at her and said, "I have to watch you and make sure that you won't get hurt again."

Stella helplessly replied, "Felicity is staying here with me. How can you live here?"

"I'm not going to sleep in the living room. I'm staying in your room." Keegan confidently said.

Stella's eyelid twitched. "Who cares where you'll be sleeping? It's inappropriate for you to live here!"

Keegan seemed to realize something. After thinking to himself for a moment, he said, "I'm not going to do anything like that as long as you don't actively seduce me."

The edge of Stella's mouth twitched. "What nonsense are you talking about? I'm saying that it'll be inconvenient for Felicity if a grown man like you were to stay here! She's not going to feel comfortable bumping into you while going to the washroom to get a shower or something!"

"Just ask her to stay with her boyfriend for now."

Stella was speechless.

“Are you working together with Vermont? Is he just trying to get Felicity into his bed?”

Keegan kept quiet.

It was nothing like that at all. He simply got inspired by his grandmother’s words.

However, he could not think of another better idea than letting Vermont take the blame at that moment.

“No, Vermont is not that kind of person at all.”

Stella became even more convinced of her assumption upon hearing what Keegan said. “What a scum! He only started dating Felicity not long ago, and he already wants to do the deed with her!”

“I guess he just loves her too much,” Keegan said.

“My foot!” Stella retorted, “He’s been spending nights with Felicity these days. Felicity would have been his victim if I hadn’t called her!”

“You’re overthinking. Vermont wouldn’t force Ms. Thompson if she is not willing to...” Keegan paused before he corrected himself. “Vermont can’t force her into doing anything anyway. He’s no match for her.”

“That’s not the point! Vermont is very persuasive, and he might succeed with a few sweet words! No way, I’ve got to make her come back!”

Stella was about to get up as she spoke, but Keegan wrapped his arm around her waist before pulling her back down.

“Stella, I know you’re worried about Ms. Thompson, but as outsiders, it’s not right for us to meddle in their relationship too much. You can never guarantee that your interference will lead to the outcome that your friend truly desires.

“Ms. Thompson is an adult, and she can make her own judgment. If you were to interfere after she asked for your help or you found out that Vermont mistreated her, then I won’t stop you.”

Stella frowned. Although she did not want to admit it, she figured that what Keegan said was right.

She was worried that Felicity might be taken advantage of, but she could never be sure of how Felicity felt toward Vermont.

Felicity had always been talking about Vermont lately, and she would even think of buying him groceries when they were shopping in the supermarket. And, when the light bulb in their house went out, she immediately asked Vermont to help without hesitating.

Perhaps she really was being overprotective.

Stella kept quiet for some time before she finally spoke again. "I've got to call Felicity and ask her if she's willing to stay with Vermont first. I can't just allow things to go you and Vermont's way like this."

"Sure." Keegan nodded.

Then, Stella dialed Felicity's number.

Felicity was still thinking about how Keegan would deal with her, and she did not even have to mood to eat the snacks Vermont offered her.

The phone in her hand vibrated, and it startled her. However, she felt a little relieved after she saw Stella's name. Then, she answered it.

"Has Keegan left?" she asked softly.

"No." Stella paused before asking Felicity in a low voice, "Felicity, do you have any plans to live together with Vermont?"

"Pfft—" Vermont took a sip of the water and almost spurted it out.

Felicity could not process her words. "What did you just say? n

"Keegan told me that Vermont wants to live together with you, and he asked him to stay in our place. Vermont is trying to make you stay with him. But, I didn't agree to it because I wanted to ask for your opinion first. So, do you want to live with Vermont?"

"I—" Felicity was not having that at all!

However, a WhatsApp message popped out on her phone before she could say anything more. [If you agree, you live. If you don't, you die.]

Felicity's face twisted in frustration.

'What a shameless thing this Keegan is! How could he threaten me again!'

"Felicity?" Stella spoke in a gentle tone when she did not get any response. "I'll tell Keegan to leave if you don't want to stay with Vermont." She thought for a moment before she continued, "You two just started dating not long ago, so there's no need to rush things."

Felicity clenched her teeth. 'Does that mutt really think that I'm afraid of him?

I'm going to bite back this time!'

She took a deep breath and was about to explode at Keegan. However, Vermont put his hand over her mouth as soon as she was about to speak.

He threw her phone away, and whispered in her ear, "Keegan is a very vengeful person. I'm sure that he's determined to stay with Stella now. If you were to ruin his plan and he goes berserk on you, there will be nothing I can do to help you."

Felicity remained silent and widened her gaze to express her anger.

Vermont looked at her glazing big eyes and felt a tickling sensation inside.

Then, he tried to convince her. "To them, you're my girlfriend. Stella will start suspecting our relationship if you reject them too blatantly, and my reputation will be ruined. You said you'd help me. How can I consider you a friend if you were to back out now?"

Felicity heard that and a slightly hesitant expression appeared on her face.

She would have no problem going against Keegan, but she could not turn her back on her friend, Vermont.

Vermont noticed her expression softening and immediately took the chance to persuade her further. “We’re clearly at a disadvantage here. Just agree with him, and I’ll find a chance to get back at them for you next time.”

Stella’s voice rang out again after Vermont said that.” Felicity? Are you there?”

Vermont rubbed her head and let go of her.

Felicity’s face darkened, but she seemed a lot calmer now. Then, she cleared her throat and reluctantly said, “Ah, I mean, I do have thoughts about it...”

Vermont gave her a big thumbs-up and silently said, “Talk about it more to convince her.”

Felicity gritted her teeth and shyly continued, “Vermont talked to me about it before, but I never had the courage to tell you... I didn’t want you to think that I’m an easy person...”

Stella kept quiet.

She could not believe that she had been making a fool out of herself. She thought she was helping Felicity, but it turned out that she was simply ruining a happy couple’s relationship.

Stella sighed. “Why would I think that? You should’ve told me sooner.”

Felicity replied nonchalantly, “I was shy.”

“When are you going to move, then?”

“I...I’ll probably stay here tonight. He’s acting very clingy today.”

Then, Stella hung up the phone with a worried expression on her face before turning to look at Keegan.

Keegan locked the screen of his phone without raising any suspicion.

Stella did not notice anything strange at all, as she asked in a low voice, “Do you think Vermont will do that thing to Felicity?”

Keegan lifted his gaze. “What thing?”

Stella kicked him and glared at him. “Quit pretending.”

Keegan chuckled. “That’s none of our business. It’s not something that you should be worried about.”

Then, he pulled her back into his arms again before he asked in a deep voice, “Which room am I sleeping in tonight?”

Stella was still thinking about Felicity, so she replied absentmindedly, “Whichever you want.”

Keegan lifted his brows.

‘Is that... an invitation?’

Stella ignored him and ordered something from an app on her phone.

Keegan leaned closer to her. “What are you buying?”

Then, he saw Stella browsing the webpage of a pharmacy and adding a box of Durex to her cart.

Keegan was confused.

“Why are you buying that? We don’t need them anyway,” he asked in a low voice.

Stella placed the order as she spoke. “Who told you I’m going to use them with you? I’m buying them for Vermont.”

Keegan’s eyelid twitched, as he raised his voice unintentionally. “For him? Are you that close to him to the point you can buy something like this for him?”

Stella rolled her eyes at him. “What are you talking about? I’m just looking out for Felicity! Can I expect men like you to have any integrity?”

Keegan kept quiet.

“There are different sizes.” Stella frowned and turned to Keegan. “Which one should I buy?” she asked.

Keegan was taken aback.

“How am I supposed to know?”

Then, Stella said puzzledly, “Have you never taken a peek at him when you go to the washroom together? Just to compare?”

The edge of Keegan’s mouth twitched. “Stop reading those trashy novels!”

Stella curled her lips. “I have no idea which one to buy.”

Keegan glanced at her. “What is the question that Vermont didn’t answer in Duncan’s wedding?”

Stella paused, as a question immediately popped into her head. ‘More or less than twelve?’

‘He skipped it without answering. Could it be... less than?’

She looked at Keegan. “Just follow your heart,” Keegan said flatly.

So, Stella picked the smallest one.

In unit 902, Felicity vented, “Keegan is such a scum! He didn’t win Stella’s heart back through genuine means! He’s playing dirty! How could he put the blame on you and threaten me just because he wants to stay together with Stella? He’s such a wicked person!”

Vermont sighed. “He lost his father at such a young age, and his mother never cared much about him. He had a tough childhood, and it’s normal for him to have some personality disorders.”

Felicity continued to vent her anger and scolded Keegan until she ran out of breath. She turned around and saw Vermont sitting on the couch and playing with the cat. She immediately felt frustrated. "Aren't you mad that he's putting the blame on you?"

Not only that he's not angry, but he still has the mood to play with the cat. Is he that kind-hearted?' Felicity wondered to herself.

Vermont lifted his gaze and said, "I am, but what can I do about it? Keegan has always been like this anyway. And, he's been through a lot to win Stella back. As his best friend, I can't just ruin his chances at a time like this, right?"

Felicity pouted. "You're a pretty loyal friend."

Vermont smiled without speaking.

Keegan had already handed Vermont the opportunity on a silver platter, and Vermont figured that he truly deserved to be single if he could not seize it.

Then, he said, "There are two empty rooms here. You can sleep in either of them."

Felicity did not really mind, as she thought that Keegan would leave after staying for a few days. So, she casually answered, "Any of them will do. Just let me sleep in the room that you're not using."

"Well, sleep in the one next to the master bedroom. The window faces the sun and has good lighting." Vermont said that because the two rooms shared a balcony, and he figured that it would make things easier for him.

Felicity replied absentmindedly, "Sure."

Vermont smirked. "I'll bring you pillows and a blanket later."

Felicity poked the kitten's head. "Have you named it?"

The kitten that Vermont adopted was a stray that had just turned one month old, and there was still a layer of blue membrane in its eyes. The kitten had snow-white fur all around with a hint of black around its mouth.

Its chubby belly made it look very lively and active.

Vermont glanced at the kitten upon hearing Felicity's question. 'Blockhead.'

Felicity was speechless.

“What about Ruler?” He pinched the kitten’s ear as he spoke, and the little thing immediately used its paw to push his hand away.
