Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 1356 [Eleven Jewell]

'Ugh! That Stinky Cucumber!' thought Felicity. She wrung the towel dry and stormed back to the bedroom with a tense face.

Upon reaching the master bedroom, Felicity noticed that the door was closed.

When she tried to open it, she discovered that it was locked from the inside. She knocked on the door, and a woman's voice emerged from within.

"You should get some rest. Don't worry. There's a bathroom here. I'll take care of him."

Felicity was at a loss for words. She threw the towel into the bathroom sink and went back to her room, slamming the bedroom door behind her. She then grabbed her phone and realized that Stella had sent her several messages.

[Does he only have erectile dysfunction? What do you mean he's not interested in porn? Are there any other symptoms? [When did he discover this? [Have you two tried having sex yet? Did he not become hard at all? [Give me more details, so I can discuss it with the doctor.

[Felicity? Are you asleep?] Frustrated with Vermont, Felicity typed out the responses to Stella's texts angrily.

While Stella was eagerly waiting for her best friend's reply, her curiosity was growing more and more intense.

When Keegan noticed her repeatedly glancing at her phone and sighing, he eventually asked, "What's bothering you?"

Stella was eager to share the gossip with someone, and Keegan's question almost prompted her to spill the beans.

But, when she opened her mouth, she hesitated and decided not to tell him about it.

Even though she knew he would not spread the news around, the topic was simply too awkward to talk about, given his close friendship with Vermont.

Hence, she cleared her throat and said, “It’s nothing. I just told Felicity about something I saw online, but she hasn’t replied yet. A woman had publicly accused her husband of having an affair.”

Keegan had no interest in such gossip and returned to checking his emails.

Stella then got up, sat behind Keegan, and massaged his shoulders.

“You must be tired, huh? I’ve noticed that you’ve been staying up late.”

Stella had gotten up to use the bathroom at night for the past few days and saw that Keegan was still working every time.

Once, she had even found him in the living room with the lights on at 3 a.m. She had a vague sense that there was something big going on in Vinci Rivera, which explained Keegan’s busy schedule.

However, she did not want to pry into his work. She refrained from disturbing him even when she saw him working late at night. She feared that it might disrupt his flow.

“Yeah. I’ve halted several projects that were under my uncle’s supervision and received some complaints from his team. They’ve been getting riled up recently, so I need to pacify them.”

Even though Keegan explained the situation in a casual manner, the issue was far more severe.

Not only were the people in Vinci Rivera expressing their discontent, but they were also joining forces with top executives in the company and threatening to resign.

They were hoping that this would impeach Keegan.

However, Keegan was not willing to surrender. He did not care whether they wanted to leave the company.

To him, those positions could be easily filled. He had already begun recruiting new talents.

It was clear that he was unbothered by their actions.

Keegan knew that the shareholders were merely looking out for their interests.

They were threatening to resign as a form of pressure and did not genuinely intend to leave.

Even if their profits had decreased due to their projects being stopped, it was still more than what other companies would be able to give them.

As long as Keegan maintained control of his team, he was not worried about their threats.

Nevertheless, Keegan's unwillingness to compromise still angered the shareholders.

However, it was not entirely Keegan's fault either.

When he started cleaning up the mess of these problematic projects at Vinci Rivera, Aldor suggested Keegan to compromise a little by hosting a dinner event for the shareholders so that they could have an easy way out.

Most of the shareholders were around the same age as Chandler, whereas the others were as old as Cordelia.

They were all older than Keegan, and people around that age generally cared about their images very much.

So, it would not been a good idea to handle things too harshly.

Keegan listened to Aldor. He booked a private room at The Deli and scheduled a time to meet up with the shareholders.

They agreed to attend the dinner event, but on the actual day, Keegan waited at the restaurant for more than an hour, and none of them showed up.

It was not until the next day that they started calling Keegan to tell him that they had family matters to take care of and could not make it.

Keegan was not convinced by their excuses.

Clearly, the shareholders had decided to work with each other against Keegan for their own interests.

They left Keegan with no other choice, but to stand against them with his own team.

The fight for power within Vinci Rivera had begun, and Keegan could not afford to lose at all.

He was determined to gain control of Vinci Rivera not only because it was his father's wish to carry the company's legacy forward, but there was also another reason.

It was because he firmly believed that a person could only protect the people he cherished by being powerful enough.

This belief had stuck with him for a long time, and now that Stella's real identity as the heiress of the Saun family was revealed, it grew even stronger.

After all, Trevor would have another reason to oppose their marriage if he could not gain control over Vinci Rivera.

How could he marry the heiress of the Saun family if he could not even hold onto his own company? Stella had no idea what was going on.

She only felt sorry for him, considering how he kept working long hours these days.

"You should take a break if you're tired. Don't overwork yourself. You're not a robot, after all. I'll prepare a bath for you in a while, so you can relax, okay?"

Keegan's heart softened. He grabbed Stella's wrist and pulled her onto his lap before gently placing his finger on her nose.

"Would you join me?"

Stella wrapped her arm around his neck and gave him a peck on the corner of his lips.

Then, she smiled and said in a soft voice, "I have no problem with that, but I don't know if I can say the same about you." Keegan paused, and his gaze darkened. He raised his arm to undo a button on his collar and stretched his neck. He gazed down at Stella, as his Adam's apple bobbed.

“Who do you think you’re talking to? Hm?”

Stella could not resist Keegan unbuttoning his shirt at all. He simply looked stunning while doing that.

Her heart raced. She was about to tease Keegan with some sensual words, but her phone rang. It was a new message.

Stella recollected herself, pushed Keegan away, and grabbed her phone. Felicity had replied to her.

However, Stella was stunned, and her heart pounded profusely after looking at Felicity’s text.

Felicity’s response read, [It’s okay. I’ll just let it be. It’s kind of cute when it’s soft anyway.] Stella was shocked.

‘How...serious is his condition that she decided to give up completely in such a short time?’ Stella was incredibly curious, as she asked, [Is it really that serious? Why don’t you go see a doctor if it really doesn’t work? Don’t give up just yet.] Felicity did not reply to that message.

Instead, she sent a sticker that said, “You do you!”

Her reply left Stella speechless. She had a feeling that something had happened next door.

Keegan was not pleased with her looking at her phone while she was teasing him. He reached out and turned her face toward him.

“Is this really the time to check your phone?” he asked.

Stella hugged him and gave him a kiss.

“Babe, could you run the water for yourself later? I need to talk to Felicity about something.”

Then, she hopped off his lap and went to the room with her phone.

Keegan sat there in a daze.

‘Relax? What a liar! I knew that women can never be trusted! Stella called Felicity after going back to the room. Felicity did not feel like answering the phone. She felt uneasy inside, and her mind was in chaos. She figured that Stella had noticed something wrong with her, and she was worried that she might accidentally reveal something if she answered the phone. So, she declined the call and sent Stella a message.

[I'll talk to you tomorrow. I'm tired.] After sending the message, she put her phone aside.

One minute later, Felicity turned over and lay on her right.

'They are just staying in the same room, right? Stinky Cucumber has a condition anyway.

What could that woman possibly do?' Half a minute later, she turned over again and lay on her left side.

'Well, there are plenty of things for them to do even though he has a condition, right?' Ten seconds later, she was lying flat on her stomach.

'After all, Stinky Cucumber can be pretty attractive. He has the face most women love'

After three seconds, she turned over once more and lay on her back, staring at the ceiling.

'Who cares what they did in the room? It has absolutely nothing to do with me!' Then, she abruptly sat up on the bed.

'Fuck! Why should I let them have all the fun!' Felicity grabbed her phone and called the property management's number with a stern face.

"Hello, a woman locked my nephew inside the room. Please get her out."

The person on the other end agreed but turned hesitant after hanging up.

'It's happening inside their unit. It's probably not something that we can interfere with, right?' So, the person "thoughtfully" reported the incident to the police.

More than ten minutes later, there was a knock on the door.

Felicity opened the door and saw a security guard accompanied by two police officers outside. She was stunned.

The police spoke politely.

"Hello, we've received a report that someone has unlawfully entered this residence of yours, is that correct?"

Before Felicity could say anything, the security guard on duty spoke.

"A woman entered her home and locked herself with this lady's nephew in a room. She's doing the deed with an underage kid in there! This is unacceptable!"

Felicity was speechless.

'What? Why is he exaggerating things? When did I ever say anything like that? Underage?' The police officer turned serious, as soon as they heard that the boy inside was underage.

"Where are they?"

Felicity was about to correct what the security guard said, but she changed her mind and pointed toward the room's door. She just did not want those two to stay in the same room! Then, the police officers walked inside toward the master bedroom.

They knocked on the door and requested the people inside to open it.

However, even after waiting for a few minutes, there was no response at all.

Felicity's heart sank.

'It's only been such a short while. Have they already started doing it?' The police officers told them to stand back after they did not get any response. So, they were going to forcefully barge in.

Felicity clenched her fists tight, and her mind was filled with images of Vermont messing around with that woman.

She shook her head and thought to herself, 'Stinky Cucumber is not capable of doing that at all.

Why am I overthinking it?' However, she felt very uncomfortable with those images in her head, as if her heart was getting poked by needles.

She concentratedly watched the policemen kicking on the door three times before it was finally opened.

In the next second, a woman's piercing scream suddenly rang out.

When the door swung wide open, Felicity could finally see what was happening inside the bedroom.

Vermont was still lying down in the same position he was in when she left, but all of the buttons on his shirt were undone.

And there was a damp towel on the nightstand.

The woman's dress and bra were thrown on the bed.

She was wrapped in a bath towel, as she walked out of the bathroom when all that happened.

She screamed with a terrified look on her face when she saw the police officers.

The police were not expecting to see anything like that at all.

'Didn't they claim that there's an underage boy in here? 'Is this man on the bed underage?' The police were about to ask Felicity what this was all about when one of the officers looked at that woman and said, "Have I seen you somewhere?"

The woman looked anxious, as she tried to avoid eye contact with the officer.

Then, she grabbed her clothes and wanted to head back into the bathroom.

“I know her!”

The police officer said, “You were arrested before, right? Is your name Emily or something?”

“No, you got the wrong person.”

The woman covered her face with her clothes, but the officer did not go easy on her.

He continued asking, “What’s your name, then? Do you have an ID?”

“I don’t have it with me right now…”

A wallet fell out of her clothes, as soon as she said that.

The officer immediately picked it up and looked at her ID.

Then, his expression darkened.

“It’s you. You were arrested for participating in an orgy last month. What’s going on now? Are you providing door-to-door service?”

The woman’s face turned extremely pale.

Felicity was taken aback, as she was not expecting that twist at all.

She had only intended to kick the woman out of the unit.

However, not only did the security guard call the police, but the police even found out that the woman was a prostitute.

Since she was caught in the room with Vermont, the police assumed that they had engaged in transactional sex, and they were about to take him away as well.

Felicity immediately stopped them from doing so.

“Sirs, I’m sure that he wasn’t doing it with the lady over here. Look at how drunk he is. How can he possibly do anything? He couldn’t even walk into the room by himself, and I had to help him.”

However, the police did not listen to her at all.

“We’ll ask him about what happened once he sober up.”

He paused briefly before he added, “Is he your nephew?”

Felicity pursed her lips and said after a while, “I’m his roommate—girlfriend.”

The look on the police officer’s face turned even more confused.

“Then, why did you say that he’s your nephew on the phone earlier? What are you trying to do?”

Then, he shifted his gaze to the woman as if he had realized something.

“Is this a threesome?” he asked with a stern expression.

Felicity was left speechless.

Then, all three of them were taken to the police station.

It was not the first time that the woman had been arrested.

Apart from sobbing for a little while when she was caught, she appeared rather calm at the police station.

She insisted that it was Vermont who wanted her in his home, and Felicity only called the police out of jealousy.

Felicity and Vermont were locked in the same room.

Vermont had not woken up yet, and there was just no way that the police station would provide him with a bed to sleep.

He was about six feet two.

He lay on the narrow bench, and it was so uncomfortable that his brows were tightly furrowed.

Felicity asked one of the officers on duty for a cup of water.

Then, she crouched on the ground and gently shook Vermont's arm.

"Stinky Cucumber, have some water when you wake up, or you'll feel terrible."

Vermont opened his eyes in a daze, and he saw the blurry figure of Felicity.

Her delicate brows were brought closely together with her eyes filled with concern.

Vermont shut his eyes and thought to himself, 'I don't want to wake up.

At least she won't reject me so resolutely in my dream"

"Stinky Cucumber..."

After seeing him open his eyes only to close them again, Felicity called out to him again.

Felicity's gentle voice echoed in his ears, making him very annoyed.

He opened his eyes abruptly, grabbed her wrist, and pulled her toward him.

Then, he pressed the back of her head and kissed her lips before Felicity could react.

Felicity froze in place.

Vermont sensed her "compliance" and kissed her even harder.

The kiss was completely different from when he forcefully kissed her in the club in front of Steven previously.

They were both a French kiss, but Felicity felt both shocked and angry back then.

However, not only was she not mad this time, but she also felt a hint of delight.

Her heart raced, and her mind was in chaos.

Vermont sucked on her tongue and her lips gently.

Then, he let go of her and nuzzled her neck.

“Miss Bandit...”

Felicity’s heart tightened for a moment and relaxed afterward.

Suddenly, she felt like the problem that had been bothering her seemed unimportant now.

‘So what if he can’t get it up? We’ll just find a doctor who can cure him. To be honest, it feels pretty good kissing him. I’ve never had a feeling like this before’

The next morning, Vermont finally sobered up. He had spent the night on the hard bench, and his entire body felt sore. He sat up, and his head felt sluggish. He swept his gaze across his surroundings and saw a table with a sign on it that said—Heroic Police, Criminal’s Nightmare.

Vermont was taken back.

‘Why am I at the police station?’ While he was still wondering about that, the door was pushed open.

A police officer came inside with a cup of tea.

Then, he asked after seeing that Vermont had finally woken up, “Do you want to wash your face?”

Vermont shook his head.

The police officer walked around the table.

“Let’s begin, then. How long have you known Emily Barr? Who introduced her to you? How many times have you done it with her? And where do you two normally meet?”

Vermont kept quiet.

Then, he asked, "May I know who Emily Barr is?"

The police officer paused.

"Didn't you bring her back home last night to have a threesome with your girlfriend? But, the two women got jealous of each other, and your girlfriend called the police."

Vermont was shocked.

It felt like he had just listened to an unbelievable story, and he was the protagonist.

However, he was starting to remember what had happened last night bit by bit, upon listening to what the police officer said.

He paused and his expression turned somewhat strange when he heard that Felicity called the police.

Then, he asked in a low voice, "Sir, what was my girlfriend's reaction when you broke in last night?"

The police officer was puzzled.

"What do you mean by that?"

Vermont said hesitantly, "Um...Her expression.Did she look sad?"

"I don't think so.

Instead, she looked like she didn't really care about you.

She even said that you were his nephew when she made the report."

Vermont was speechless.

While they were talking, Felicity returned from the restroom and went inside.

Upon seeing that Vermont had woken up, she suddenly remembered about the kiss from last night.

Her expression turned somewhat awkward, as she coughed and said, "You're awake."

Vermont glanced at her without saying anything.

Instead, he spoke to the police officer.

“Sir, it was just a misunderstanding. Ms. Barr came with one of my friends last night, and I didn’t really know who she was. I had too much to drink, so my friend asked Ms. Barr to send me back home. I had no idea what she did for a living, but we don’t share that kind of relationship with each other. I was in the Sapphire Clubhouse last night and plenty of my friends can prove it.”

He paused before he continued, “As for Ms. Thompson here, she’s not my girlfriend. She’s just my roommate, and a very close friend of mine who’s just temporarily staying with me.”

Felicity was completely stunned.
