Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 1381 [Eleven Jewell]

Vermont invited three players. One of them immediately came online, while the others were still launching the game.

So, the three of them waited for the other two players.

Felicity did not know who the other player was. So, she appeared rather quiet as compared to her usual chatty behavior.

Vermont was probably very familiar with that player. As soon as the player with the gamer ID "IAmFragile" joined the party, he said, "My handsome man, it's been so long since you played with me."

The player was speaking to Vermont because Vermont's gamer ID was "TheHandsomeMan".

"I've been busy," Vermont said.

IAmFragile chuckled. "I've seen you coming online a few times recently but every time I tried to invite you, you had 1 Do not disturb' mode on. Busy with your new girl, huh?"

"Is she this pig-stealing girl?" he asked.

Felicity's gamer ID was "ThePigThief".

Vermont laughed and said, "This is my good friend in real life."

That person understood immediately. "That's fine, then. Otherwise, your wife would be heartbroken if you cheated on her."

"His wife?" Felicity was surprised.

The player added, "That's his partner in this game. She plays a support role and has a really sweet voice."

As they chatted, the other two teammates logged in.

One of them was called “FleeingPrincess” while the other was called “ComingForYou”.

Their gamer ID sounded like a couple’s.

As soon as they joined, FleeingPrincess said, “Darling, it’s been so long since we played together!”

She sounded so cheesy that even Felicity got goosebumps as a girl.

Vermont, on the other hand, remained expressionless as he replied, “Busy.”

His simple response sounded nonchalant and distant.

FleeingPrincess complained, “You’ve been gone for so long, and you have another girl with you now. What is this about?”

Vermont said flatly, “You can quit the game if you don’t like it.”

ComingForYou immediately chimed in. Terminate your relationship with him and let’s form a new one. I’m an exclusive V10 member too. I can give you everything he can. It

FleeingPrincess scoffed. “No way! I’m very loyal, and I’ll only be with TheHandsomeMan for the rest of my life.” Then, she said to Vermont, “Are you expecting me to give my place to another woman? Dream on!”

Felicity was speechless.

‘It’s just a game. They’re so dramatic.’ Felicity thought to herself.

The match began, as they spoke.

Felicity took the middle lane while Vermont played as the Jungler. FleeingPrincess went to the same lane with her” husband” and picked the support role.

Vermont seemed to play very frequently with those players, and their teamwork was excellent.

FleeingPrincess was not just a poser either. Her support role paired seamlessly with Vermont’s play style.

Every time Vermont got a kill, she would praise him in a flirtatious tone, “Darling, you’re amazing!”

“Darling, get him!”

“Darling, that guy is such a bully! Avenge me!”

“Darling, save me!”

Felicity tried to stay focused on the game at first, but her mind was filled with the words darling as the game continued.

She found it somewhat annoying.

The enemy’s Jungler kept coming to the middle lane to harass her, making it hard for her to farm and advance in the game. So, she could only stay close to her tower and play safe.

When she was distracted by FleeingPrincess, the opponent seized the opportunity and killed her while taking down two towers in the process.

FleeingPrincess complained, “Can you not throw away the game? The advantage we fought for is gone now because of you.”

Felicity pursed her lips without saying anything.

Vermont said to her softly, ‘Stay under the tower and farm. Don’t go too far out.’

“Okay,” Felicity responded.

However, in this type of game, one would become very vulnerable to the enemy team once the opportunity to farm in the early stage was lost.

The enemy team found out that the middle lane was their weak spot, so they kept targeting Felicity.

Her teammates were busy pushing the top and bottom lanes. They were not available to back her up, and they would only come to the middle lane after she died in the game.

In just a few minutes, she died thrice. The enemy would go past the tower to kill her, and she died almost instantly after respawning.

After that, her teammates began to suspect that she was intentionally feeding the enemy team.

ComingForYou said, "Stay near the tower if you can't beat the lane. How hard is that to understand?"

FleeingPrincess added, "You died seven times in just fifteen minutes. Look at how much gold they got because of you.

Darling, who is this noob that you invited into our team?"

Vermont responded flatly, "None of us here could handle that kind of pressure in the middle lane."

FleeingPrincess scoffed. "That's just an excuse!"

Felicity clenched her fingers, and for the first time, she remained silent and did not retort.

Vermont glanced at her but quickly looked away. "Shut up and play the game!" he said in a deep voice.

IAmFragile cleared his throat and said, "ThePigThief, I'll go help you."

"Okay," Felicity responded flatly.

She was not in the mood at all.

It was not because of her teammate's criticism, as she would never take them to heart. She was the best at roasting people while gaming.

However, she had no mood to do that at all today. Her mind was completely occupied by the word "darling" repeating over and over again.

She just could not get it off her head.

When she previously played the game with Vermont, she had already noticed that he had an in-game lover.

However, who would take in-game relationships seriously?

But, after playing with his in-game wife today, she suddenly realized something she had never considered before.

Felicity realized that Vermont did not necessarily have to play with her. He was very good in the game and could play every role. He would play well with just anyone. It did not have to be her.

He already had a gaming partner before her, and she was not his perfect match. Even without her, he could have easily replaced her.

This realization made her feel very uncomfortable.

The match ended, and they lost badly.

Felicity had the lowest score on the team.

FleeingPrincess could not help but complain, "I finally get to play a game with my darling, and we ended up losing. Damn it."

Vermont calmly replied, "Shut up and let's play another match."

The team captain, IAmFragile said, "ThePigThief, get ready."

Felicity pursed her lips and said in a flat tone, "You guys go ahead. I still have work to do. Bye."

Then, she exited the lobby and headed toward her room.

Vermont paused and quickly followed behind her. "Let's play two more rounds. We rarely get to play together."

Felicity suppressed her emotions and softly said, "I'm not playing anymore. You guys can go on. I need to work on the script."

"It's already so late. You can continue working tomorrow. Humans aren't very productive at night anyway."

He was about to grab Felicity's hand as he spoke, but Felicity reacted the same way as he did and instinctively pulled her hand away. Then, her eyes turned red, as she said, "Don't touch me! Go play with your darling!"

Vermont was taken aback.

Tears welled up in Felicity's eyes, and her nose was red. She seemed like she was going to start crying at any moment.

Vermont's heart ached, and he spoke softly, "Miss Bandit, are you okay?"

Felicity's tears started streaming down her face as soon as Vermont asked her that question. "Vermont Snyder, what are you doing? What are you trying to do? Is it fun to play with my feelings?"

"Why are you saying that?"

Vermont reached out and wanted to wipe away the tears at the corner of her eye, but Felicity quickly brushed his hand off.

"Why did you confess to me, then? You messed up my mind. Yet, you acted as if nothing happened and played games with another woman while flirting with her online. Am I just a toy for you to play with when you're bored?"

Her voice turned nasal, and due to how emotional she was, she began stuttering. "You come hugging and kissing me when you like it. And, when you don't, you just throw me aside like I'm nothing. Did you see how you reacted just because my hand touched you? Am I like a thorn or poison to you? Why did you confess to me if you don't like me?"

"I'm the dumbest person alive. I knew what kind of person you were, and I knew how many exes you have. Yet, I still became so bothered by a casual confession from you. I couldn't even sleep well after rejecting you. I kept thinking about giving you a chance, but turns out, you don't even care. If

She lifted her arm and forcefully wiped her tears. "Thank you for taking me in for the past few days. I won't disturb you anymore. I'll transfer you the rent by tomorrow, and I'm moving out."

She was about to speak after saying that, but Vermont would never let that happen. He grabbed her wrist without a second thought and pulled her back into his arms. "It's already so late. Where would you go?" he said in a hoarse voice.

Felicity struggled, as she did not want him to touch her." Anywhere but here. I don't want to stay with you anymore, you heartless playboy. Why did I even believe in your sweet words?"

She could not help but burst out crying.

Vermont's heart broke when he saw her crying.

"You said we should stay as friends. I didn't want to touch you because I was worried that you might not like it. I only went to have a drink because I felt too restless after getting rejected by you. I want to spend time with you, yet I fear that you'd get tired of me. I'd do anything to make you like me."

Felicity was dejected, as she cried out, "You liar. You're just playing with me, and you would never stop teasing me.

You're only doing all this to watch me struggle like a fool, right? Do you like me? Why did you spend the night with another woman after confessing to me if you like me? Why did you allow another woman to call you darling if you like me? Do you really like me? What do you like about me? My figure is not as good as your exes, and I don't know how to cheer you up like they do either. I'd hit you when I get angry, so what is it that you like about it? Do you enjoy getting punched? Don't lie-Ugh-

Vermont lowered his head and kissed her on the lips before she could finish speaking.

He held her waist with one hand and kissed her passionately, while he held her hand with the other and placed it on his chest.

His kissing skills were amazing, and Felicity could not keep up with him at all. Her initial resistance soon turned into compliance, and Vermont could taste her faint and salty tears between their mouths.

Vermont teased her tongue and sucked on it repeatedly, trying his best to please her.

Felicity gradually stopped crying, as the faint scent of citrus from Vermont surrounded her.

After some time, he let go of her and lowered his gaze to her. “Did you feel it?” he asked.

He caressed the back of her hand and continued in a hoarse voice, “My heart beats uncontrollably every time I get close to you. I’m not an immature kid who doesn’t know whether I like you or not.

“I feel happy whenever we’re cooking, playing games, or even when you hit me. I enjoy the feeling of being with you, and this feeling can’t be replaced by anything or anyone. It can only be you.”

Felicity’s eyes were still red, as her heart pounded.

She felt powerless. She had just cried and wanted to storm off in frustration, yet Vermont managed to change her mind with just a few words.

Vermont’s usually carefree eyes were filled with sincerity and concern. In an instant, she felt like she was going to drown in those eyes.

Felicity looked away and said in a soft voice, “What do you want now?”

Vermont lifted her hand and kissed it. “I want to be your boyfriend. Would you... still want me?”

Felicity’s eyes were filled with tears again, as she said in a nasal voice, “I would, but I have one condition.”

Vermont’s heart raced, and he was ready to agree to just anything, even if she had a million conditions!

He suppressed his excitement and softly asked, “What is it?”

Felicity gathered her thoughts and said, "I'm the only child in my family. My mom hopes that I can marry and have children with someone who will carry my family name. I don't really care about that, but I'm sure that my mom will definitely insist on having more than just one child."

Vermont nodded.

Having a few more children was not a problem for Vermont. He liked kids too, and if Felicity's body could take it, it would be perfectly fine for him. Otherwise, he would just go with the flow.

However, Felicity was not done yet, as she continued, "If we got together, my mom's dream of having grandchildren would be impossible to come true.

"I don't care if you're capable of having children or not. I like you for who you are, and I'm totally fine with a relationship without doing it.

"But, if my mom insists on having a grandchild, you have to be willing to adopt a child. And, you can't mistreat the child just because they're not biologically related to you. Can you do that?"

Vermont kept quiet.

He got so happy that he had forgotten that to Felicity, he was still someone with erectile dysfunction!

Damn it, I should've come up with a better excuse back then! I

However, his heart melted when he realized that Felicity still accepted him despite his condition.

After not getting any response from him, Felicity said in a low voice, "Are you not willing to do that?"

She wanted to make everything clear before starting the relationship, so they would not have to argue about it in the future.

Vermont pursed his lips and replied softly, "You're the boss."

His condition depended on whether he could win her over. If he succeeded, he would naturally recover.

Felicity heaved a sigh of relief before she said, “We still have to see a doctor. Stella went to one with Keegan back then and tried some alternative remedies. After that, Keegan did not have a problem anymore. We should try it out too, just in case it helps.”

Vermont remained silent.

He clenched his fists tightly and gritted his teeth, forcing a smile. “Sure, whatever you say.”

How could she tell Stella about my condition!'

Vermont knew that Stella would not be easily fooled as compared to Felicity, so he had to come up with a way to cover up his lie.

Hylda contacted Ian after disappearing for two days.

She was in a difficult situation and had almost spent all her cash. Her credit card had been frozen by the police.

However, she would not dare to withdraw any cash even if her account was not frozen. The police’s surveillance system was so advanced that if she showed up to withdraw money, she would instantly get arrested.

She figured that she could no longer depend on Albert. And, as for Sophia... she could not even save herself.

Sophia could not sell the shares she had bought and could not turn them into cash to repay Ethan. So, the Shaw family was now hounding her for the money.

Even worse, Ethan had also posted plenty of Sophia’s private photos in their circle, threatening to release all the uncensored ones online if she failed to pay up. He wanted to show everyone how slutty she looked around men.

Sophia did not dare to speak harshly to Ethan anymore and had no choice but to beg him for more time.

She spent two days tracking down Albert and finally saw him around his office.

Compared to the miserable state she and her mother were in, Albert looked relatively radiant.

As soon as he heard that Sophia came to him for money, he immediately said, "Your mother took all the money, and she's nowhere to be found. I'm worried too. Do you think I would keep all the money to myself if I had them? You're my own daughter, after all."

Sophia could not contact Hylda at all, but it did not mean that Albert could fool her with his words.

Hylda could simply ask her for money if she wanted to scam her. There was no need to get Albert involved.

"Dad, at this point, you're still lying to me!" Sophia had been driven to the brink of madness after the Shaw family forced her to pay up. She could not help but scold her father when she heard his lies. "The details of the case have been messed up. The driver asked for two million. Don't you have two million? Why did you have to take eight million from me and sell me shares in a shell company that can't even make a profit? Even if you did give two million to the driver, what about the remaining six million? Are you trying to send me to my death?"

Albert still did not want to give her any money, and he scolded, "The Shaw family is being unreasonable. You and Ethan were going to get married. How can they do this? I was going to treat them very well after you get married."

"I don't care about what's going to happen in the future. I just need the money now! Ethan wants to expose my private photos, and he's turning on me. How am I supposed to live if those photos went public?!"

Not only did Albert show no concern, but he also blamed her. "I told you to find out his true colors back then. You didn't listen to me and even slept with him before getting married. You weren't being cautious enough, and you have only yourself to blame for what's happening right now."

Sophia got so angry that her face turned pale. "Are you going to give me money or not?!" she gritted her teeth and spoke.

Albert pursed his lips. "Eight million dollars is not a small amount. Tell Ethan to wait a little longer. Once the company settles the accounts for this quarter, I'll pay you back for the shares you bought no matter what.'

Sophia immediately calmed down.

Her mother was right about Albert being a selfish and self-serving man. He had never intended for her to take over the company. Even if he did not have a son, he would simply find another male descendant of the Jewell family to inherit the company. He would never give her the company.

She was nothing but a tool for making the Jewell family strong.

Stella faced the same fate, and so did she.

Sophia even had it worse than Stella, who had never experienced the fake fatherly love of Albert and got married to a decent man.

As for Sophia, she was about to be dragged into some serious trouble.

Her gaze turned cold with those thoughts in mind.

After parting ways with Albert, she immediately went to Xenia's place.

Xenia heard somebody knocking on her door and immediately checked the surveillance camera. Then, she informed Stella after seeing that it was Sophia.

[Sophia came to see me.]

Stella had been monitoring the situation on Xenia's side, as they were approaching the final stages of their plan.

Stella read the message from Xenia and quickly texted back. [Albert tricked her for money, and someone is pressuring her to pay her debt. She's probably going to use you as leverage to threaten Albert.]

Xenia frowned. [Should I still open the door, then?]

[Forget about it. I'm scared that she might hurt you.]
