Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 1577 [Eleven Jewell]

That slap was incredibly hard, leaving Sophia feeling dizzy.

Just as the man was going to slap her again, she closed her eyes in despair.

However, the second slap never landed. Instead, she heard a familiar voice saying, "Gentleman, I've recorded a video of you assaulting this lady. If you do it again, I'll submit this video to the police. Your face is captured, and I'm sure you'll be detained for a few days."

The man gritted his teeth and said, "Mind your own business! She owes me money!"

Aldor stopped speaking to the man and pretended as if he was about to call the police. Seeing that, the man immediately let go of Sophia and threatened her,

"Just wait and see!"

Then, he took the money from Sophia's wallet and threw it on the ground before leaving.

Aldor picked up the wallet, dusted it off, and handed it back to Sophia.

"Ms. Jewell, do you have a moment?"

A cold smile appeared on Sophia's face, "Why's that? Has someone ordered you to add insult to my injury?"

Aldor replied warmly, "I only have a few questions for you."

One side of Sophia's face was swollen. "What are they about?" she replied impatiently.

Aldor said, "How did you enter Mr. Kane's room on Mr. Snyder's birthday night?"

Sophia was taken aback as she looked at Aldor from head to toe. Then, she asked, after a long pause, "Why do you want to know?"

"You just have to tell me who let you in."

Sophia chuckled softly, "You want to know, huh? Clear my debt, and I'll tell you."

Aldor kept quiet.

Sophia could not be bothered to speak with him anymore. In her eyes, Aldor was just another useless assistant, no different from the assistants Albert messed around with. They were all just pets that would do whatever their master said.

She was about to leave after not getting any responses from Aldor. The debt collectors had already found where she was hiding, so she had to move out as soon as possible.

However, the money she had left was barely enough to cover her rent.

Just as she was about to turn away, Aldor spoke, "I can help you get rid of Ethan."

Sophia paused and looked at Aldor, "What did you say?"

Aldor's expression remained calm as he continued slowly, "I said I can help you break free from Ethan's control. Ms.

Jewell, with your capabilities, I'm sure you can easily make enough money to support yourself."

The look on Sophia's face changed.

She despised Stella and Keegan but had worse things to worry about. Despite her hatred toward them, she did not have the energy or means to deal with that.

So, if Aldor could really get rid of Ethan for her, she would not have to live so pathetically without any money.

“Can you really do that?”

Aldor returned to his initial question, “As long as you tell me the truth.”

Sophia kept quiet momentarily before saying, “Someone handed me a note telling me which room Keegan was in. Also, I got the room card from that person, too.”

“Who was it?” Aldor asked in a deep voice.

“It was...” Sophia paused and smirked. “Find me a place to stay and help me get rid of Ethan. Then, I’ll tell you the rest.”

Aldor frowned, “You’re giving me too little information. How can I be sure that you’re not lying to me?”

“What happened that day was too strange, so I took a picture of the note,”

Sophia replied.

She took out her phone and showed Aldor the picture as she spoke.

The number “0713” was written on the note, and a room card was next to it. The date in the picture showed that it was taken on Vermont’s birthday, so Aldor knew that Sophia was not lying.

As Aldor was about to take a picture of that note, Sophia quickly put her phone away, “You do what I asked, and I’ll send you the picture.”

Aldor frowned, “Weren’t you worried it might be a trap? Why would you just go to the room without knowing anything?”

“Your trick is not going to work on me,” Sophia said coldly. “If you want to know who gave it to me, do as I say.”

Aldor glanced at her and said in a deep voice, “Okay then, I’ll help you.

However, you can't tell anyone we spoke today, including the person who handed you the note. You'll be responsible for the consequences if anyone else ever finds out about this." He paused before continuing, "I have other ways to find the truth, even if you won't tell me."

Sophia's gaze darkened, and she nodded, "I promise."

After Aldor left the cheap rented room, he immediately called Keegan to explain the situation. "Mr. Kane, you were right. Someone indeed guided Sophia to your room.

However, she won't reveal who that person was unless I help her get rid of Ethan. So, I've agreed to help."

Keegan's gaze turned deep as he asked, "Who do you think it could be?"

Aldor dared not make any assumptions. After all, most of the guests at the venue that day were people they knew.

"I believe that the person who handed Sophia the room card was not one of the guests at the birthday party that night. It could've been a staff member, someone she wouldn't have to meet again after that night. Otherwise, she would've definitely held that person accountable after she messed up that night, which also explains why she kept the note."

What Aldor said aligned with Keegan's suspicions. Keegan even had an idea who that person might be, but he found it hard to believe.

Keegan closed his eyes and said, after a long silence, "Proceed with your plan and try to get as much information as you can from Sophia. Then, investigate the list of hotel staff who resigned in the past six months. Also, I want you to find out every person who performed that night and ask them questions. Keep it low, and do not raise any alarms."

“Understood.”

After hanging up, Keegan paced back and forth. Then, he picked up his phone and made a call. “Hello, Doctor Walford. It’s me, Keegan. Are you free this afternoon? I’d like to ask you some questions. Great, I’ll see you later at 3 p.m.”

Aldor was very efficient. He rented another house for Sophia the next day and even paid a year’s rent upfront.

Sophia was very satisfied with her new place and quickly moved in.

As promised, she sent a picture of the note to Aldor.

However, she still did not disclose who had given her the room card. She said that she would only do that after Aldor helped her completely eliminate Ethan.

Aldor soon contacted Ethan through his connections, attempting to negotiate with him to let Sophia go.

However, Ethan offered a ridiculous twenty-million-dollar compensation because Sophia had breached the contract.

Of course, Aldor was not going to let his boss pay. Although investigating the matter through Sophia was the fastest way, it was not the only option.

He then made a few calls to put pressure on Ethan, which he quickly succumbed to.

Ethan did not believe a word of the promises Aldor made. However, he realized that his social media accounts and company would continue facing severe restrictions if he did not give in. His source of income would be destroyed.

So, he reluctantly agreed to terminate Sophia’s contract but insisted that she repay the five million within three years or he would take legal action against her.

Sophia was desperate to break free from him, so they quickly agreed. However,

Ethan played a dirty trick and exposed Sophia as the illegitimate daughter of the Jewell family, who had also falsely accused Stella of abusing her. He also revealed that Sophia was the daughter of the cofounder of Sunlight Kindergarten.
