Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 1749 [Eleven Jewell]

As soon as Keegan picked it up, Stella snatched it from him and swallowed one.

Keegan's lips twitched. Then, he got up and handed her a glass of water from the table.

This time, Stella did not reject it. After taking the medicine, she lay down on the bed.

Keegan was about to go downstairs to call for help when Stella said with her eyes closed, "I'll jump out of the window if you dare leave this room."

Keegan froze, "I think you need to go to the hospital."

Stella ignored him. She stared at the ceiling and said, after a long pause, "Keegan Kane, let me ask you again. Are you sure you want to cut ties with me?"

Keegan curled his fingers slightly as he shifted his gaze away from her face. "I don't remember who you are," he said.

Stella remained silent for a long time before she said coldly, "Get lost then. You can do whatever you want now."

Her voice carried no emotion at all. From the moment he regained consciousness, that was the first time Stella had spoken to him in such a tone.

Keegan clenched his fists tight as his lips twitched. After a long silence, he said, "Have a good rest."

After saying those words, he turned around, walked out of the room, and quietly closed the door.

When Stella could no longer hear the footsteps from outside, she sat up from the bed. In an instant, her sickly appearance vanished.

She walked to the French window, and in a short while, she saw Keegan walking out of the house. Jaylene followed closely behind him, seemingly telling him something.

Keegan did not stop walking at all until he got into his car. She could vaguely feel someone staring in her direction, but the feeling quickly disappeared.

Stella watched the Mercedes that Keegan often drove leaving. She stood by the window for a while, took out her phone, and dialed a number, "Hello, I'd like to make an appointment for an abortion..."

Shortly after she ended the call, someone knocked on the door.

Stella put her phone away and went to open the door.

Jaylene stood outside with her brows furrowed. Then, she questioned her in a displeased tone, "Stella, what exactly did you say to Keegan? Why did he leave right after he came downstairs without even changing his clothes?"

Stella looked at her indifferently, "Why don't you ask him if you want to know?"

He trusts you a lot now, doesn't he?"

Her words caught Jaylene off guard. Her expression turned somewhat ugly.

Stella thought, 'If Jaylene openly told me that she likes Keegan and wants to compete with me fairly, I'd still show her some respect.' However, Jaylene did not dare to do that at all. Because of Keegan and Stella's engagement and her past, no matter how much she was in love with Keegan, she dared not express her true feelings.

She could not bear the title of a homewrecker and was even more reluctant to distance herself from the Saun family. Yet, she could not control her own heart, repeatedly making inappropriate moves on Keegan. Perhaps she wanted Keegan to actively express his love for her. That way, even if no one agreed to their relationship, Keegan would suffer all the criticism.

However, she did not know Keegan well enough. Even if he lost his memories and did actually develop feelings for her during their time together, he would never be with her once he found out about the relationship between her and his ex- wife.

Jaylene had no idea how fundamentally conservative Keegan truly was.

If she could find out what Stella said to Keegan from the man himself, she would not need to come and ask Stella.

Considering both of their attitudes, it did not take Jaylene long to realize that something bad had probably happened between the two earlier.

As Jaylene thought about that, she changed her tone, "Stella, I know that you really want Keegan to regain his memory, but we can't rush it. Dr. Stone said that his brain condition isn't very stable yet. If he's excessively stimulated, there might be a side effect. I know you're doing this for Keegan's well-being, but could you please control yourself for now? Keegan only became like this because of you. He risked his life for you, yet you can't do something as simple as distancing yourself from him?" i Stella chuckled upon hearing that, "You'd love for him to forget me forever, wouldn't you?"

Jaylene was about to deny it, but Stella said without holding back, "Jaylene Saun, there's only the two of us here. Just stop finding excuses for your disgusting desires. Everyone knows what you're thinking. Did you really think that you're a saint just because you saved him? • "Enough of reminding me why Keegan got hurt. Are you trying to make me feel guilty or simply want me to back off? Dream on! Even if he can't recover his memory, he's not someone that you can ever be with. Believe it or not, I can make him fall in love with me again, no matter what you do." i Jaylene was shocked. She thought that Stella had noticed something, i However, Stella's expression was icy and disdainful. Jaylene figured that she was just feeling scornful instead of suspicious.

She suppressed her emotions and finally looked Stella in the eye.

"When I was six, my mom married dad. When they first married, my brother, who had always treated me well, suddenly began to dislike me. I knew that he wasn't happy that I became his sister because he had another sister who passed away."

Stella was taken aback. She was not expecting Jaylene to bring up this past.

She pursed her lips without saying anything. She looked at Jaylene calmly, trying to figure out what she would say next.

“My body has always been weak. I could never figure out why he stopped liking me. I followed him wherever he went every day, and he eventually accepted me.

Because of my poor health and shy personality, I was often bullied. I remember when I was eight, someone threatened me to give them money when I was walking to school. I told them I didn't have any, but I lied. I had saved some money because Trevor's birthday was around the corner, and I wanted to buy him a present. ' “Those people didn't believe me and started searching for money on me. I didn't hide my money well; they quickly found it. They took my money and got mad that I lied to them. Then, they took turns bullying me until a boy on a bicycle stopped by.

“The boy rescued me and helped me get my money back. After that, he even told me to get on his bicycle and took me to school before he left. I asked him his name, but he didn't tell me. However, I heard the people with him called him Keegan and asked him why he was so busybody.”

“Sometime later, I met him again at his birthday party. He couldn't recognize me back then but still treated me extremely well because I was his little sister. I've known him for so many years and know almost everything about him. If it weren't for my health issues and had to receive treatments overseas, Stella, you wouldn't have had the chance to even get close to him.” 2 Stella scoffed, “Treated you extremely well? Are you talking about when he bought your Red Agate bracelet just to give it to me or when he taught you how to cook tea eggs with Da Hong Pao Tea?”
