

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 1756 [Eleven Jewell]

Felicity finally understood why Stella would be so obsessed with Keegan. He just needed to wear some nicer clothes, and he would look incredibly handsome.

His tall figure also made him stand out wherever he went.

However, his expression did not look too good. His lips were tightly pressed together, his brows were furrowed, and his hawk-like eyes were fixed on the two of them. As soon as the elevator door opened, he strode over.

His legs were long, and he walked briskly. It did not take him very long to stand before the two.

“Where is she?”

As soon as Keegan spoke, Felicity could feel the icy and aggressive aura emanating from him.

Vermont pointed to the closed door of the operating theater, “Inside.”

Keegan’s face turned pale as he gritted his teeth and said, “Why didn’t you stop her?”

He then walked directly over to the operation theater and pounded on the door.

“Stella Hall! Come out!

“When did you get pregnant? Why didn’t you tell me?! Just because I want to break off the engagement, you’re going to abort the child? How could you do this?”

“The child is not yours alone! Have you talked to me about this? You can’t be so selfish and decide its fate on your own!

“Stella Hall! Come out here and talk to me now!”

Keegan was very loud, and his voice began to tremble as he shouted.

“What do you want me to say?”

A familiar voice rang out from behind. Keegan’s body stiffened, and he turned around, bewildered.

Stella was wearing a patient gown and looking at him calmly with her arms crossed.

Keegan’s eyes were red as he stared blankly at her, stuttering, “Didn’t you…”

Then, he suddenly looked at the culprit, Vermont, and said with his teeth clenched, “Go inside?”

Vermont blinked his eyes, “She went inside the toilet.”

Keegan stomped on the floor as his anger instantly surged. At that moment, he felt a strong urge to send Vermont into the operation theater to cut his tongue off.

As they spoke, the nurse came over with a file, asking, “Which one of you is Stella?”

Stella turned around and said, “I am.”

“Sign this for me and get ready for the procedure.”

“Sure.”

Stella did not even look at Keegan. She walked over to the nurse and took the pen, intending to sign the paper.

However, Keegan grabbed her hand, “We’re not doing it.”

He then said to the nurse, “Cancel the surgery.”

After that, he pulled Stella away and left.

Stella struggled, “Let me go! Who do you think you are? Why does it matter to you whether I’m going to get an abortion or not?”

“Because half of the baby in you belongs to me too!” Keegan’s grip on her arm tightened as he clenched his teeth, saying, “I have every right to stop you!”

Stella scoffed, “How can you be so sure? It could be Marshall’s or even my ex’s.

I have so many men around me.

What makes you think that it’s yours?”

Keegan stared at her with his reddened eyes and said stubbornly, “I just know.”

Stella pursed her lips. “So what if it is? Do you expect me to give birth to a child for a man who doesn’t even want to marry me? Dream on! There’s no way I’ll keep this child.”