Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 1831 [Eleven Jewell]

Having been in the circle for so many years, Vermont thought he had seen it all.

When the woman embraced him, he sensed trouble brewing.

Several accusations were thrown at him without him being able to defend himself.

His expression turned icy. Just as Vermont was about to address the situation, he noticed Felicity in the crowd, looking at the scene. He felt a tight knot in his chest.

'Oh dear. Is she going to overthink this?' Vermont was in a panic. He almost pushed through the people to provide an explanation when Felicity suddenly sank to the ground and burst into tears.

"Ah!" She clutched her stomach, appearing distressed." Vermont, my belly hurts.

Is something wrong with the baby?"

Her cry drew everyone's attention.

The woman who had hugged Vermont turned pale and confronted Felicity, "Who are you? What's your relationship with Vermont?"

Vermont's eyelid twitched, and he forcefully pushed Elsa away. He approached Felicity, crouched down, and helped her up.

Before he could speak, Felicity asked, "Vermont, who is that woman? Why is she saying that you're here to win her back?"

Didn't you bring me here to take notes for our engagement party? Are you actually here for her? Don't you want me and the baby anymore?"

She then discreetly pinched her thigh to force out more tears.

Vermont nearly laughed out loud at her amateur acting. Biting his tongue, he looked heartbroken and said, “What are you thinking? Why would I bring you to this engagement banquet if something is going on between me and her?”

‘But you’re wearing your love token,” Felicity whined.

“Love token? I bought this watch myself. There’s only one symbol of love in my life.” Vermont touched her small abdomen and continued, ‘And it’s this baby you’re carrying. I won’t let anyone here off the hook if something happens to you and the baby.”

Felicity’s eye twitched, and she threw herself into Vermont’s arms. In a hoarse voice, she said, “Vermont, I’m scared.”

Vermont lifted her, “Don’t be afraid. Let’s take you to the hospital.”

As they moved to leave, Xander refused to back down, “You ruined my engagement banquet and seduced my wife.

Where do you think you’re going?”

Vermont glanced at him and kicked his knee hard.

Xander’s leg gave way, and he knelt on the ground.

Vermont stepped on his shoulder, bent over, and coldly said, “Don’t think I don’t know what you’re up to. Look in the mirror before you try to play the hero.”

He kicked the man once more and carried Felicity away without looking back.

Felicity’s heart pounded, ‘Gosh. He’s so handsome when he’s being serious.’ As they passed by Elsa, Felicity heard her calling Vermont’s name, but the man did not stop. He went straight through the crowd and into the elevator.

Once inside, Felicity wanted to get off, but Vermont did not put her down. He held her in his arms and whispered, “Don’t make a scene. Think about the baby.”

You’re really testing my patience,” Felicity grumbled, tugging at Vermont’s hair.

“Why does drama always follow you in your love life?!”

Vermont let out a sigh. “Who could have guessed they’d pull off such a stunt at their own engagement party? They’re just crazy.”

Giving him a sharp look, Felicity said, “Would they have done it if you weren’t involved with the bride-to-be?”

Her question left Vermont speechless for a moment. Finally, he responded, “Is it my fault for being too charming?”

“You’re shameless!”

With a chuckle, Vermont bent his head and lightly nudged her face with his chin.

“Sweetheart, I didn’t expect you to have so much trust in me. I was worried you’d believe those troublemakers and leave me.”

Felicity shot him a disdainful look. “That was your first love. Do you think it’s appropriate to call her a scoundrel?”

“First love my foot,” Vermont gritted his teeth at the memory. “We dated for a semester in high school. She ran off with someone else when I interned at the company during summer vacation. I didn’t know she was the bride-to-be until I arrived at the party. Those two sure are something.”

“Why did she even do that?” Felicity asked.

Vermont opened the car door for Felicity and went to the driver’s seat.

He picked up his phone and glanced at what his assistant had sent. “The groom-to-be must have played a part in it. That scumbag hooked up with a model I used to date.”

It turns out the one Xander in love with was actually another Vermont’s exes.

She used to be an artist in Felicity’s former company.

She took advantage of Vermont’s support and terminated her contract with the company, incurring a heavy breach-of-contract fee.

Vermont broke up with her after that. Since then, her resources decreased, and her popularity declined. Hence, she harbored a deep resentment toward Vermont.

Later, the model met Xander, and they fell madly in love.

Unfortunately, due to her previous tumultuous relationship with Vermont, Xander's family disapproved of her.

So, Xander devised a plan to make a scene on his engagement day. He had Vermont's first love to play the role as his bride-to-be and intended to catch her in the act of "infidelity", turning it into a massive scandal.

The wedding would undoubtedly be called off, allowing him to present that his real lover as someone good and secure his parents' approval.

At the same time, he would be helping his lover get back at Vermont.

Vermont adjusted his tie and cursed, "I wondered why he would bug me to attend his engagement banquet when we're not that close. I wouldn't have shown up if it weren't for the fact that he hired a good chef, and I wanted you to taste the food. His old man literally bows to me whenever he sees me. Who does he think he is?"

Felicity watched as Vermont complained and couldn't hold back her laughter.

"All this happened because you're too popular among women. Both his lover and ex are your ex-girlfriends. Serves you right for being such a player."

Vermont laughed upon hearing that. "I genuinely didn't know that the bride-to-be was someone I knew. If I had known, I wouldn't have come. Why would I bring you to my ex's engagement party? I'm not crazy."

Felicity snorted, "If it weren't for my quick thinking, you'd be in trouble."

Tomorrow's headlines would read, 'CEO of Green Hill Media disrupts engagement: A Love Triangle'."

Vermont's eyelid twitched. "Can we create a better learning environment for our baby?" 'Felicity glared at him and said, "Shut up!"

Vermont chuckled as he started the car. Just as they were about to leave, Felicity suddenly asked, "Will Jaylene snatch Keegan away in our absence?"
