Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 2011 [Eleven Jewell]

Keegan opened his WhatsApp, and his eyelid twitched. He said, “I’d never send such long texts to anyone. Isn’t this too fake?”

Stella snorted, “If it was sent to Vermont, he might notice, but Jaylene definitely won’t. If you were to send her a love poem now, she’d only think that you finally fell in love with her.”

Keegan had an incredulous expression on his face upon hearing that.

Stella said, “Keegan Kane, let me ask you this. If I’m going to attend a film festival and ask you to drive me to the venue, what am I trying to do?”

Keegan’s eyes flickered as he said slowly, “You want me to witness the glorious moment of your career, you want to share the joy with me, and you love me.”

“All wrong. I would do that because it’s free.” Keegan’s heart shattered into pieces. 1 Then, she told him, “People in love tend to focus on themselves more, and you’re the prime example of that.”

Keegan was speechless.

Of course, he was not going to admit it. However, shortly after Stella finished speaking, Jaylene texted him again after her call was not answered. It said:

[Keegan, don’t mind whatever my mom said. She loves to meddle in everything, but I’m already an adult. Whether I want to get drunk or come home later, it’s my choice. It has nothing to do with you.] Keegan did not say anything.

Stella, propping her chin, imitated Jaylene's tone, "Keegan, say something."

He tossed the phone onto the bed, bent down, and lifted her horizontally.

She hugged his neck and said, "Keegan, why are you getting so rough?"

Keegan's eyelid twitched fiercely, "Speak normally!"

Stella leaned close to his ear and exhaled gently, "Can you be more specific? I can speak in just every voice for you. Do you want to hear a mature voice, a cute voice, or the voice of your beloved?"

Keegan looked at the seductive woman in his arms and said in a serious tone, "Well, will you imitate the voice of my mother-in-law then?"

His response left Stella utterly speechless.

Keegan then carried her into the bathroom, put her down, and said while squeezing toothpaste for her, "Hurry up and get ready. Let's go to the cemetery and share the good news with Mom."

Stella paused, "Which Mom?"

Keegan handed her the toothbrush, "Both."

Keegan had already changed into his red suit when she finished brushing her teeth.

Stella stared at him for a while, making Keegan somewhat uncomfortable, "Is everything okay?"

She pursed her lips and said, "Are you going to wear this to the cemetery?"

"Why not? It's a lively color, isn't it? When we got married last time, I didn't really visit her in the hospital with you. I always felt that it was pointless to talk to someone in a coma."

“At that time, I didn’t realize that some of Dahlia’s behavior was subtly influencing me. I’m not someone unrelated to her; I’m the husband of her most beloved daughter,” Keegan explained.

Stella remained silent.

He sounded very genuine. She did not want to say anything to dampen his spirit.

‘Forget it. Let’s not ruin the mood since he’s so sincere. Besides, we won’t necessarily run into someone we know anyway, right?’ Stella thought to herself.

However, not long after they visited both Rainee’s and Freesia’s graves, Vermont tagged Stella in the group chat.

[Stella, did your mom have any deep-seated grudges with someone back then?

A shameless guy in a red suit is dancing around her grave.]

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 2012 [Eleven Jewell]

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 2012 [Eleven Jewell]

Vermont shared a picture in the group chat-an open cemetery with a striking red spot in front of Rainee’s grave.

The photo, taken from a distance, showed only Keegan’s back, making him unrecognizable to Vermont. However, having been to Rainee’s funeral, Vermont could pinpoint her gravesite accurately.

Stella fretted that someone they knew might see Keegan in his flashy suit at the cemetery. She reassured herself, thinking it wasn't a holiday, and no one would likely be around. But the unexpected occurred.

Someone at the cemetery noticed this unusual sight and posted it on Twitter.

Vermont, being as nosy as ever, quickly recognized Rainee's grave right after stumbling upon that picture while browsing Twitter. So, he immediately sent it into their group chat.

Spade? Stella, do you want me to find this person and give him a beating?] Felicity chimed in: [Who's that scumbag? I'm going kill him!] Stella discreetly aimed her phone's camera at Keegan, who was engrossed in checking emails, snapped a picture, and sent it.

Just as Vermont and Felicity were strategizing on how to handle the guy in the red suit, they suddenly went silent.

Felicity texted: [He's so damn hot.] Vermont, puzzled, replied: [???] Felicity wasn't joking; she genuinely found Keegan good-looking.

None of them had seen Keegan in red, a bold color to pull off.

However, Keegan, with his fair skin and handsome features, didn't look bad at all in the red suit; it even elevated his charm.

The red suit, paired with a black shirt sans tie, added a hint of daring elegance.

Felicity finally understood why Stella was so smitten with him.

Vermont, a bit annoyed, typed: [No matter how good he looks, it can't cover up the fact that he has a non-functional brain. Who wears a red suit to visit their mother-in-law's grave?] Stella responded: [He normally wouldn't do this. Perhaps he's just too excited.] Vermont clenched his teeth as he typed: [Just a pair of twins, isn't it? What a dork!] Stella paused, thinking to herself, 'Has Keegan, the show-off, already spilled the beans about our twins to provoke him?’ ‘If that’s the case, I should play along.’ Then, she replied: [It’s not about the babies. It’s something else. Why don’t you take a guess?] Felicity texted: [Keegan gave you money!] Vermont texted: [Money is the last thing Stella needs now. Did Keegan manage to find out the gender of the babies through some unconventional means? Are they a boy and a girl?] Felicity texted: [It’s impossible. Stella told me that she wanted to keep it as a surprise. He wouldn’t do that.] Vermont texted: [What else could it be then? Stella, just tell US. Share the joy] Stella replied: [Well, it’s not a big deal. We just got our marriage certificate.] In the next moment, Vermont exited the group chat, leaving only Stella and Felicity inside.

Stella wasn’t expecting that.

In less than a minute, Felicity added him back in.

Felicity wrote: [I’m going to block you if you dare to leave the group again! If you ever want to talk to me, you’ll have to transfer me money like Keegan did to Stella back then. Trust me, you wouldn’t want to do that!]

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 2013 [Eleven Jewell]

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 2013 [Eleven Jewell]

Vermont was not having it. He retorted: [They teamed up to provoke me, yet you don’t allow me to get angry? You’re my girlfriend, be on my side.] Felicity fired back: [What did they do to provoke you? Stella was just sharing the good news with you. Look at how petty you are!] Vermont stopped texting right away.

‘Telling good news, my foot! Keegan was just being all fake and annoying. I’ve known him for ages, and I’m sure Stella was up to the same tricks!’ Vermont thought, feeling really angry.

On the flip side, Felicity had a different take. ‘Is Keegan okay now? I was thinking of throwing a brick at his head to help him remember faster.’ Stella thought about it and decided not to tell them about Keegan regaining his memory for now because Felicity could never keep a secret, and she was worried that she would mess things up for them.

So, she replied: [No, he still can’t remember anything now. He just doesn’t want anyone gossiping about my growing belly, so we decided to get a marriage certificate first.] Felicity’s happy face suddenly went away. [He’s just worried that you’ll run away with his babies, so he’s using the marriage certificate to tie you down! What a crafty scum!] Stella sighed and typed: [There’s nothing I can do since he lost his memory.

Let’s just hope that he’ll start remembering things in the future, especially now that we have children.] Vermont read their chat and noticed how Stella fooled Felicity. Stella acted quite differently before and after learning that Keegan got his memory back.

Vermont recalled her saying, before she knew about Keegan’s memory,” Even if he can’t remember me, I’ll make him fall in love with me again. I’m not going to marry anyone else!” Now that she knew Keegan had recovered his memory, she said, “There’s nothing I can do since he lost his memory.”

Vermont considered exposing her lie, but he thought Keegan might get off too easily. So, he held back and silently schemed his “revenge.” Soon, a plan formed in his mind.

Meanwhile, after Jaylene took a shower, she headed to Caline.

Arriving at the office, she went straight to Darice’s office and pushed the door open without knocking.

Darcie was in a meeting with several managers from different departments, and the sudden sound shocked all of them. Darcie raised her gaze and frowned.

“Don’t you know how to knock before entering? Where are your manners?”

One of the managers quickly tried to smooth things over, “Mrs. Saun, young people now have their ways of doing things. There’s no need to be so harsh on her. Jaylene, you’ve gotten so much prettier. You were still in high school when I first saw you. You grew so much!”

Jaylene was in a bad mood and felt extremely repulsed by such flattery.

So, she said coldly, “Don’t try to flatter me. Do I even know you?”

The manager’s expression stiffened, looking somewhat displeased.

With a cold face, Darcie said, “What has gotten into you so early in the morning? Say sorry to Mr. Morgan now!”

Jaylene showed no sign of wanting to apologize. Seeing that Darcie was going to explode in anger, Aubrey quickly stood up and said, “Jaylene, let me take you to the lounge first. Mrs. Saun still has some work to handle.”

Jaylene had purposely come here to confront Darcie, but when she was met with her icy gaze, she became somewhat timid. She nodded with her fists clenched and followed Aubrey to the lounge.

Half an hour later, when Darcie was done with her work, she went to the lounge.

Jaylene was sitting on the sofa, obsessively scrolling through photos of Keegan.

Upon hearing the door opening, she immediately kept her phone away and greeted, “Mom.”

Darcie replied calmly, ‘ Not only that you didn’t knock just now, but you also didn’t greet anyone in the room. When did you become so disrespectful?’

Jaylene frowned. “They’re all working under you. What’s the big deal?”

Darcie’s expression turned displeased. “Jaylene Saun, those are the people I spent tremendous effort roping in for you. When Stella comes to Caline, they’ll be the ones supporting you. Yet, you just offended one of them for no reason!”

Jaylene snorted. “Mom, it’s just Stella. Do you have to make such a big fuss over it? She has no experience in perfumery. If she wants to take over Caline, she’s got to earn the respect of everyone working in the company first.”

"What's wrong with that? He's Stella's fiance. Why would you want to get so close to him?" said Darcie.

Jaylene frowned. "This is not what you said back then. You even had Ms.

Crosby try to match US up. You-" "Don't talk about the past," Darice cut her off, ' Back then, Stella had not returned to the Hall family, and they were still divorced, so I supported you. But now Stella is your stepsister, and she's engaged to Keegan.

"What will others say about you if you keep seeing him? Are there no other men in Rivera? Why do you have to mess around with someone else's fiance?"

Darcie's harsh words made Jaylene look somewhat embarrassed. Then, Jaylene bit her lip and said softly, "What if Keegan likes me?"

Darcie replied coldly, "Do you think he'll fall for you just because you took care of him for a few days after he lost his memory? If that's the case, he'd also like every nurse and doctor who pulled him back from the brink of death.

“Even if he does, you still have to get past Mrs. Kane Sr., who valued the family reputation the most. She would never allow Keegan to marry you, and Keegan listens to everything she says.

“So, are you planning to be his secret lover? Also, have you thought about what would happen if he suddenly recovered his memory when you two overcame everything and eventually got together?

“Jaylene Saun, you and Keegan were not even supposed to spend those days together. Once he remembers Stella and everything between them, do you think you’ll stand a chance against her?

“All the scars and wounds on his body came from protecting Stella, and he even put Stella as the main beneficiary in his will. The weight Stella holds in his heart is not something you can surpass by just saving his life. What will you do then?”

Jaylene had never thought so far ahead. She just wanted to be with Keegan as soon as possible; otherwise, she wouldn’t have hired a hypnotist to erase his memory.

She was on the brink of achieving her goal when Darcie suddenly stood against her, causing great upset.

Darcie understood how deeply Jaylene loved Keegan. When news of Keegan getting married spread, Jaylene fell ill. It was during a flu epidemic in the country they were in, affecting both Darcie and Wenham.

So, they couldn’t go back to Hustuabourg for the wedding.

The family doctor, who looked after Jaylene, took out a notebook from her room, and every page was filled with her admiration for Keegan.

So, after Keegan and Darcie split up, Darcie thought it might be nice to set up Jaylene and Keegan. She wanted Jaylene to have a happy marriage. 1 But here’s the thing: Keegan didn’t have any romantic feelings for Jaylene. So, Jaylene’s dream of a happy marriage with Keegan couldn’t happen.

“I’m kinda feeling bad about telling you not to date before. If you met more people, you’d see that Keegan isn’t all that special.

“Even though he’s super loyal, loving him when he’s into someone else is just gonna hurt you.

“Instead of wasting time on a guy who’s got someone else in his heart, focus on your career.

“Once you’re in charge of Caline, you can choose any guy you want. You’ll be the one doing the picking, not waiting around.”

Darcie’s words made a lot of sense and were pretty forward-thinking. But when you’re deep in love, it’s like talking to a wall.

Jaylene asked, “What about you? You stayed with Dad even though he couldn’t get over his dead wife. In the end, you still got what you wanted, right? If you can do it, why can’t I?”

Darcie’s expression darkened. “I can do it because my rival is a person who’s not alive anymore.

‘However much your dad misses her, she’s not coming back. Instead, he’ll always appreciate how devoted I was, taking care of his mom and risking my life to find him in that dangerous place!

“He saw all the effort, the blood, climbing those rocks to desperately search for him. He knows how important he is to me. That’s why, even if he doesn’t love me the same, he won’t easily leave me.

” And you? Your rival is alive and well. She was married to Keegan for a few years and jumped in the water to save him without thinking. What can you do to compete with that?

” Sure, you saved Keegan, but can you openly say what you did to save him?

Jaylene was left without words after Darcie confronted her.

Darcie's face lost color as she sighed. "Jaylene, you've always been such a good listener and excelled at everything since you were a child. I worked hard to raise you to be someone independent, not just someone's wife.

"Even though Keegan did develop feelings for you, think about it. If he could leave Stella for you, what's stopping him from leaving you for someone else?"

Darcie clenched her teeth and added, "You have Saun as your last name, but you're not tied by blood to this family. No matter how much your dad and brother love you, their blood ties will always be stronger. You can't rely on the Saun family forever.

"You've got to become strong on your own. When you become a big deal in Caline, no one will dare to underestimate you.

"Don't get worked up every time I mention Stella. She's back with the Saun family, living a good life with Keegan. But notice something? She hasn't slowed down at all, managing The Velvet and her acting career. She's keeping up the pace.

"Even though her life wasn't as good as yours in the beginning, she's on track to surpass you if you don't step up. Once she makes her mark in Caline, you might find yourself in her shadow forever."

Jaylene stayed quiet, her eyes getting red.

Darcie gave her a cup of water and went on, “The fact that Keegan is willing to see you less just because of something I said tells a lot. It shows you’re not that important to him.

“This might not necessarily be a bad thing. You should start joining the company officially after a few days. I’ll have Aubrey guide you by then.”

Jaylene lowered her gaze and nodded, seemingly taking in Darcie’s harsh advice.

Darcie patted her shoulder and stopped speaking. She believed that Jaylene was already an adult and should know the right thing to do.

Jaylene’s grip on the glass gradually tightened.

She knew that although Darcie claimed that she feared that Stella would take away Caline, deep down, she knew that Darcie was just afraid that Wenham would blame her if she got together with Keegan.

After Stella’s return, Darcie had been accommodating her in every way possible.

Everytime there was a conflict between Jaylene and Stella, Darcie would never be on her side.

Darcie’s sole concern was ensuring Wenham’s approval of Jaylene, leading her to neglect Jaylene’s feelings.

Just as Jaylene was deciding whether to follow what Darcie said, her phone rang.

It was a text from Keegan. [I guess this is it. Darcie doesn’t like me, and I don’t want your relationship with her to be affected by me. I should’ve treated you like my little sister, and what I did last night was inappropriate. I’m sorry.] His message was too suggestive, and Jaylene instantly replied without thinking.

[But I don’t want to be your little sister.] However, Keegan did not reply after she hit send.

Jaylene gripped her phone, feeling uneasy.

“I don’t want to be your little sister; I want to be your girlfriend!” Stella suddenly got into character as she looked at Keegan with sparkling eyes. “Do I sound like Jolin Harder?”

Keegan looked at her, confused. “John who?” “Tsk,” Stella clicked her tongue.

“You’re so outdated. Please don’t talk to me.”

However, Aldor praised. “Yeah, you do, especially the way that your voice is going to crack. It’s exactly the same.”

Knowing that someone would back him up, Aldor was fearless when he met this boss’s intimidating gaze.

Stella smiled. “Fantastic! I’ll ask Keegan to... treat you to a meal!”

Aldor was taken aback. ‘Mrs. Kane is getting stingier now. My life is so difficult.’ Keegan and Aldor were really into their work, and Stella couldn’t sit still after watching two online seminars on her phone.

She paced around the room, stretching now and then. Staying in one spot for more than a few seconds just wasn’t her thing.

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 2017 [Eleven Jewell]

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 2017 [Eleven Jewell]

Keegan juggled work while keeping an eye on her. After observing her for a while, he could not hold back any longer but asked, “Why can’t you just sit still?”

Stella sighed. "I have no one to talk to and I'm bored. Moving around makes me feel less dull."

Keegan was speechless. "Do you want me to call Vermont over, so you two can talk?" "It's okay. I can chat with Aldor too. Aldor, you're not busy, are you?" Stella blinked her eyes as she asked, looking hopeful.

Aldor shook his head. "I'm almost done with my work, just waiting for Mr. Kane to look through."

Stella immediately sat down. "Aldor, how are things between you and Aurora now?"

Her question caught both Aldor and Keegan by surprise.

She was not bored. Instead, her curiosity was driving her crazy and she finally decided to unleash it.

Aldor chuckled awkwardly. "Mrs. Kane, can we talk about something else?"

Stella said, "Did Keegan threaten you with something and force you to marry his sister? It's okay, you can be honest with me. I have your back and won't let him force you into a marriage against your will."

Keegan paused. 'Does she really think I'd do such a thing?' Aldor said, "No, Mr. Kane will never do that." "So, you do like Aurora, huh?"

Her question was too straightforward, and Aldor did not know how to answer as he looked for Keegan for help.

Keegan glanced at him as if saying, "Well, weren't you very proud when siding with her to make fun of me earlier?' However, Keegan still decided to chime in, "Why are you so concerned about Aider's love life?"

Stella was immediately distracted by Keegan's question. "I'm just worried that Aurora will bully Aldor. She used to do that a lot, didn't she?" "Aldor is not that easy to bully. Aurora worked under him when she first joined the company. Do you think that Aldor can't handle her?" Keegan spoke as he signaled Aldor to leave first.

Stella said, “You might not be necessarily right. Aurora is your sister, and if she mistreated Aldor, would he ever dare to tell you?” “He won’t, but Aurora will. She can’t keep things to herself,” Keegan paused before he asked softly, “Do you still hate Aurora for what she did before?”

Stella shook her head. “I don’t exactly hate her, but what she did still bothers me. However, when she went against what your mother told her to do, she kind of saved me.”

Then, she suddenly shifted the topic, “But that’s a story for another day. I’m pretty sure you know what Aurora’s temper is like. How can you do this to Aldor?”

Keegan sighed. “You’re always so clever, but why do you sound so foolish now?”

Think about it, if Aldor had no feelings for Aurora, he would’ve straightforwardly rejected me.”

Stella paused as her expression became somewhat strange. “I really can’t imagine that Aldor would like someone like Aurora.”

Keegan said flatly, “What can I say? Before I met you, I never thought that my other half would be someone so greedy and lustful either.”

After a brief pause, Stella said angrily, “I dare you to say that again!”

Keegan took her hand and gently pulled her into his embrace. Then he rested his chin on her shoulder and said in an affectionate tone, “I’m right in front of you, yet you just wouldn't stop asking about another man's love life. That doesn't sound very appropriate, does it?" "Well, should we talk about our own love life then?"

Keegan nodded, looking expectant.

Stella stared at him for a long time but found it difficult to speak. After some time, she frowned and said, "I don't feel like talking about it anymore.

Keegan felt disappointed.

Stella playfully covered his eyes. "Don't give me that cheesy look. It's weird how fast you remembered everything. Before, if I touched you, you'd back off like a super proper guy." She blushed, admitting, "I kinda liked that."

Keegan was quiet.

He let go of her hand, creating some space between them. His expression turned cold again.

Stella felt her heart race, thinking, 'This is it.' Then, she moved closer to Keegan.

Keegan took a step back. "Ms. Hall, please behave yourself."

Stella grinned and playfully grabbed his collar.

Keegan held her hand, looking embarrassed. "You're a lady. How can you be so rough with a man? Have you no shame?"

Stella teased, pretending to unbutton his shirt. "Shame? My husband lost his memories, and I never got to have any fun before. Let's enjoy it while it lasts!"

Keegan was taken aback.

His expression darkened as he said, “Aren’t you supposed to be an aloof? How could you change the script halfway through?” Keegan could not accept that Stella was pretending to cheat on him.

Stella leaned on his shoulder and laughed for some time before sitting up. She hooked her arm around his neck and rubbed her nose against his while caressing his ears. “You don’t have to play along with everything I say.

Have some principles.”

Keegan’s ear were heated by her touch as he spoke slowly with his gaze lowered, “I’m not going to play along with just everything.” “Hmm?”

Keegan leaned close to her ear and said, “If you wanted something more violent, I’d never say yes.”

Stella was taken aback.

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 2019 [Eleven Jewell]

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 2019 [Eleven Jewell]

“But I don’t regret it.” Keegan looked up at her with a loving gaze. “If I didn’t let go of myself that day, perhaps neither of us would be alive, let alone having them.”

He placed his hand gently on her belly. “One for three, it’s worth it.”

Stella was upset. “What’s worth it? Do you still expect me to give birth to your babies when you’re dead? Impossible! If you don’t come back, I’ll find another man immediately and show him off to you on your grave.

You may be a hero, but you're still going to need someone else to take care of your wife."

Keegan could not help but smile at her complaints. "I must have heard your 'ungrateful' whines and couldn't bring myself to leave, so I came back."

Stella hugged him tightly and whispered, "I'll pack a lunchbox for you tomorrow.

You got so much thinner after the incident. You're not as huggable anymore."

Keegan frowned. "How can I let you cook for me while you're pregnant? Do you think Trevor would let that slide if he knew? He'd probably kill me."

Stella burst out laughing and said, "Serves you right for what you did to him last time.

"Oh, by the way, did you manage to get anything out of Jaylene after hypnotizing her?"

Keegan nodded, "She wasn't the one who pulled me out of the water, someone else did. They took me to a clinic and left her number." "So, Jaylene was lying when she said she rescued you from the shore?" "Yeah. I was about to drown when someone grabbed me. Although I couldn't see clearly, I felt that person's strength and it did not seem to be a woman."

To single-handedly pull an unconscious adult male out of the water required extraordinary physical strength and excellent swimming skills.

Whoever saved him did not want him to die but instead left Jaylene's contact information. That person also wanted him to stay with Jaylene, giving her a chance to hypnotize him and erase his memory. Clearly, that person did not want Keegan to return so soon. 1 'If I got hypnotized even more and believed in those illusions, would I still be with Stella?' Keegan pondered to himself.

Someone wanted him to live but drift away from the person he loved.

A name kept circling in his mind.

The accident back then happened because Albert messed with the car. Rainee and Stella were innocent. So, Keegan thought the person might not necessarily be after Stella.

Now, seeing that Stella had been safe all along, Keegan wondered if that person was only targeting him.

Stella asked softly, “What’s on your mind?”

Keegan snapped out of his thoughts and shook his head. “Nothing. Why don’t you have Ms. Thompson accompany you to see Ms. Warren? Discuss compensation for the two injured cleaners and invite some reporters over to stir things up a little.”

Stella hesitated, “If this matter goes public, Dahlia’s reputation will be tarnished.

Are you sure you want to do that?”

Keegan replied nonchalantly, “You don’t understand her. She can rise again anytime as long as she has the slightest chance. But it can undoubtedly make her stay put for a while now.”

Stella totally agreed with what Keegan mentioned. After a bit of thinking, she said, “Your mom always goes to Chandler when things happen, and he’s always ready to help. What’s his deal? At work, he’s against you, but then he helps your mom.”

Keegan paused without uttering a word.

Stella was surprised. ‘Keegan’s reaction is kind of weird.’ She whispered, “Could it be that he likes your mom?”

Keegan’s face tightened for a moment, and he stayed quiet.

Stella sensed that something was off from Keegan’s reaction. Knowing he didn’t enjoy discussing his elders, especially when it involved his mom, she chose not to press.

Yet, after a brief silence, Keegan opened up, “Before she married my dad, she was in a relationship with Chandler.” ¹ □

Stella’s eyes widened in surprise. “I can’t believe your family has such a secret.

Please, tell me more.”

Keegan had kept this secret for so many years, so Stella figured that probably only a handful of people knew about it. Otherwise, she would have heard Olivia gossiping about it long ago.

Keegan kept stuttering as he explained it and it took a long time for Stella to finally understand what happened.

Keegan himself was not clear about the exact details of their past, but at his father’s funeral, he saw Chandler and Dahlia hugging each other.

However, once he started having suspicions, he could not help but pay extra attention to them. After all, there were no secrets that could not be exposed.

The Crosby family was quite well-off back in Rivera. Dahlia and her brother, Blake, were prominent figures in Rivera’s social circles. The Crosby siblings were exceptionally good-looking and caught the attention of many.

The Crosby family doted on the siblings, but the excessive affection backfired on them.

Blake developed a gambling addiction at a young age, and the Crosby family nearly went bankrupt before Dahlia got married. After Dahlia's marriage, she often had to send Blake money.

Quentin despised gamblers, so Dahlia dared not tell him about it.

Whenever Blake got detained after losing all his money, she would call Chandler to bail him out.

Keegan did not know anything about this until one day, Blake got drunk and said to him, "Sigh. My sister has made the wrong bet. She thought she could have everything after marrying your father, but not only that your father didn't appreciate her, but he also died at such a young age.

"Can you imagine how much better her life would be if she married your uncle instead? She could still be Mrs. Kane after your father dies and nobody would dare to disrespect me."

Keegan, who was just a teenager, felt a chill run down his spine. After that incident, he distanced himself from Chandler and told Aurora to also stay away from him.

However, at that time, Aurora lived with Dahlia and trusted her more. So, she never took Keegan's warnings seriously. To her, Chandler's affection for her was purely because he was her uncle. Therefore, whenever she got into trouble, she would always hide at Chandler's house.

Although Dahlia maintained a distance from Chandler in public, whenever she faced a problem, she would immediately seek Chandler's help, which Keegan did not like.

But with Cyrene and Cordelia nearby, they couldn't risk going too far.

If this scandal got out, it would shame everyone. Cordelia would surely be furious. So, it was better to pretend they didn't know.

The last time Blake's company faced problems, Dahlia had asked Chandler for help. Keegan had warned her not to do it again. He didn't anticipate Dahlia turning to Chandler once more after getting herself arrested.

The incident had already gotten a lot of attention. If Chandler were to bail Dahlia out at this time, everyone would immediately know about it. The Kane family might become a laughingstock to everyone, but Keegan was more worried that Cordelia would be so angry and get her health affected.

Stella kept quiet upon hearing what Keegan told her.

‘No wonder Keegan always treated Chandler so coldly. I used to think it was because of work, but I didn’t expect there to be such a hidden backstory.

‘Dahlia is really something. Chandler doesn’t seem like a foolish person, but how did she manage to charm him for decades?

‘They both have children now, why would he still be so devoted to her?’ Stella wondered.

She believed that Dahlia probably had something Chandler craved to keep him by her side, causing him to grow so attached to her.

‘Could it be that they...’ She had a suspicion and she really wanted to ask Keegan about it. But when she saw the empty look on Keegan’s face, she could not bring herself to ask him, so she gave up the idea.

She changed the subject and said, “Keegan, Murder for Motives is hitting a one billion box office soon. I’m going to be a billion-dollar actress.”

Keegan was surprised and chuckled. “That’s impressive.”

Stella said, “You’re so different now. If I had said the same thing to you before, you would have said something like, ‘Just one billion, what’s there to be proud of? You’re not even the lead actress. What’s there to boast about?’”
