Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 2067-Upon seeing Stella, Felicity immediately sat next to her and talked about various things, from work to life. Stella could tell that Felicity was feeling very contented.

After drinking a glass of water, Felicity suddenly remembered the important stuff. "By the way, you texted me saying you wanted me to write you a short drama. What kind of short drama is it?"

Stella took out the rough plot she had drafted in the office that afternoon and handed it to Felicity. "It's going to be about these character settings and storyline. Take a look and see if you can write it."

Felicity read it briefly and smiled. "This is perfect, but we need to come up with another narrative style. This is too slow; audiences nowadays prefer revenge-themed stories. We just need to make some minor changes to it."

She then discussed the storyline as she envisioned it with Stella. Stella nodded and said, "Okay. I feel like I'm watching it already, just listening to you."

Felicity replied excitedly, "I'll stay up these days to rush it out for you. We can talk about it again when the script is ready."

"Sure."

Vermont came out of the kitchen and said, while grabbing his jacket, "Miss bandit, I'm going out to get some ginger. Can you watch the pot for me?"

"Wait, I'll go with Stella. You can continue with your cooking." Felicity stood up while holding Stella's hand. "Is ginger all you need? Anything else?"

Vermont put down his coat. "We're running out of snacks. Buy some if you want."

"There's some change in the drawer."

As the two of them left the house, Felicity pursed her lips, hesitating to speak.

Stella gazed at her. "What do you want to say?"

Felicity sighed. "On New Year, I told my mom that I have a boyfriend."

Stella was shocked. 'She already told her mom, huh? Judging by the conflicted look on her face, I guess it didn't go well.' Upon thinking about that, Stella asked softly, "What happened? Did she not agree?"

Felicity said, "It's not that she didn't agree, but she brought up some really strange requirements."

Stella was puzzled. "Is it about money?"

"No, she doesn't care about that at all."

"Then does she want to live with you and Vermont after you two get married?"

"Nope."

"Then-"

"It's not about money, not about where she's going to stay, not about a house, and not about a car as well."

Felicity bit her lip, seeming hesitant to speak. However, as she realized that there was no one else who could help her with this, she decided to confide in Stella and seek her advice. So, she gathered her courage and spoke out.

"My mom wants me to live together with stinky Cucumber."

Stella was confused. "Aren't you two living together now?"

Felicity blushed. "She doesn't mean it that way. It's what you did with Keegan.

She said if I can get pregnant, then we'll get married. If I can't, then I should not waste my time with him."

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 2068-Stella froze for a moment as if she understood. But she did not.

Felicity spoke even more straightforwardly, "What my mom meant was that we must have a child. If Stinky Cucumber can't give me a child, then my mom will never agree to our relationship, no matter what.

“She needs someone to inherit her ‘throne’. I’m not up to the task, so she plans to have a little successor.”

Stella was speechless.

‘It seems like our roles are switched,’ she thought. Then, she asked bewilderedly, “What ‘throne’ does your mom have?”

Felicity hesitated for a moment before pointing at the Deron Supermart at the side. “Can you see that supermarket over there?”

Stella glanced over, looked at it, and thought, ‘What does one of the top ten supermarket chains in the country have to do with her mom?’ Then, she heard Felicity continuing, “She founded Deron Supermart. Also, she has a lot of vegetable and fruit plantations, livestock breeding bases, various beverage and meat processing factories...”

Stella was so shocked that she could not utter a word.

Felicity was always so low-key and even more financially savvy than her. Stella had always thought that she came from an average working-class family and never considered that she might be a secret wealthy heiress.

Looking back, Stella noticed some signs. For instance, Felicity always had a Deron shopping card, and the products there were not cheap. While she hesitated when shopping elsewhere, she hardly ever checked prices at Deron.

Also, on one of Stella’s birthdays, she gifted her a shopping card from Deron Supermart worth five thousand dollars. However, Stella did not dare to accept it as she thought Felicity was drunk and had mistakenly reloaded the wrong amount.

Moreover, when Dahlia froze Stella’s card, and she urgently needed to pay Raine’s medical fees, Felicity gave her a million dollars in no time.

Stella did not think much of it when Felicity said she got the money from her friend.

Later, she realized that one million was not a small amount, and given how urgent it was, even a good friend would need to consider the other party’s ability to repay such a large sum.

So, Stella figured Felicity most likely got the money from her family.

Stella massaged her temples, still digesting the news of her best friend suddenly becoming the heiress of Deron Supermart. 'Hold up, why are you putting yourself through the hardships of a regular person when your family is so rich?"

Felicity frowned. 'My mom is rich, not me. She never wanted me to come to Rivera. She wanted me to stay in our hometown after graduation to take over her business. But I know what I'm capable of, and I simply can't do business.

"We had a huge fight because we had different opinions, so she stopped giving me allowance right after I graduated. You know very well I can never stand to be treated like this, so I told her that I won't go back home until I become a successful scriptwriter!"

The period right after graduating was the toughest for Felicity. Stella had helped her a lot during this time. Back then, she had just married into the Kane family and was treading on thin ice in the house. However, when Felicity asked for her help, she did not hesitate to use her savings to help her out of her predicament.

Over the years, although Felicity had not achieved anything remarkable, she got herself a stable job. She was already very happy that she got to work in the industry she loved and had a friend like Stella.

Stella was speechless. "You could've lived like a princess, yet you chose to be a corporate slave?"

Felicity said, "My mom was deeply hurt by her previous relationship and felt that nothing in this world can be relied upon except money. This is why she works so hard to make money. But deep down, she knows that money alone can't do everything.

"Especially toward kids, money can breed laziness and discourage ambition.

So, she would always give me just enough for my living expenses. When I was in school, I boasted to my classmates that I could get anything from Deron for free.

“When I got home that day, my mom chased me with a broom for two miles and gave me a two-hour lecture I’d never forget. She’s afraid that having money will have a bad influence, so she’s been very strict with my finances.

“As time passed and she realized I became independent, she became worried about other things. When Stinky Cucumber lied to me about being impotent back then, I tested my mom by asking if she could accept it if I didn’t have any children. This is probably why she immediately connected the dots herself and made that request.

“She wants a child to inherit our family business, but I know that is not her main concern. My cousins are doing very well in the company, and my mom has also been gradually delegating authority. Since I don’t have any siblings, she’s just worried that I might be alone if something were to happen to her.”

Although Stella disagreed with using one’s perspective as a parent to force their children into marriage and having children, she could understand it from Florence’s point of view.

It was impossible for a mother not to worry about her child as long as she was still breathing.

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 2069-“What do you plan to do now, then?” Stella asked.

Felicity sighed upon hearing that. “Stinky Cucumber is such a fool. I went to his room wearing a nightdress one night, and he asked me to play games with him until he fell asleep!

“He’s always so flirtatious with me, but he becomes so clueless given the chance. I really don’t know what’s going on in his empty brain!”

Stella laughed as she thought to herself, ‘This is so funny. Vermont is trying so hard to meet Florence and get her approval of their relationship, yet all Felicity wants now is to sleep with him.’ Felicity was feeling frustrated. When she saw Stella laughing, she suddenly asked, “Stella, how do you hint to Keegan that you’re in the mood?”

Suddenly, Stella could not laugh anymore.

But Felicity got excited. “Come on, share your experience with me so I can take Stinky Cucumber down!”

“... I don’t have any.”

Felicity glared at her. How could you get pregnant then?”

Stella did not feel like sharing this with Felicity. But as she was faced with such a thorough and humble learner, she changed her mind.

‘How did I hint to Keegan? All I had to do was kiss his neck....’ Stella coughed and said, “Well, it depends on the atmosphere. When the atmosphere is right, it’ll happen naturally.”

“How do you get the atmosphere right then?”

Stella paused momentarily before saying, “Do you really want to know?” Felicity was puzzled.

It was not until she saw the link Stella sent her for role-playing costumes that her face immediately turned red. Then, she glared at her and said,” You two are so inappropriate!”

Stella said inwardly, ‘The bunny costume I sent you is already one of the most appropriate ones. Otherwise, I’m afraid that you’ll end up like my first time.’ Felicity asked hesitantly, “If I order it, will it show anything on the parcel?”

“You can add a note for discreet shipping,” Stella suggested.

However, she actually wanted to tell Felicity that every package had to be checked upon arrival at the warehouse so the delivery person could easily see what was purchased. Choosing the discreet shipping option was pointless.

Felicity’s ears turned red. “I’ll buy something else with this order to make it look less suspicious.”

Stella pursed her lips, thinking that Felicity was simply deceiving herself.

Felicity chose a few pairs of men’s underwear, and Stella typed in her promo code before checking out.

When they returned to 902, Felicity went to change in her room. Vermont went to Stella and asked in a low voice, “Stella, what did she say?”

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 2070-Stella glanced at the bedroom door and whispered to Vermont, "Exercise more and make sure to eat more folic acid. Soon, your wish will come true."

Vermont was puzzled.

Then, he handed the fork on the table to Stella and thoughtfully pushed the fruit plate closer to her, humbly seeking her advice.

"Exercise for what? I wanted to know when I can finally meet miss bandit's parent."

Stella speared a piece of apple with the fork. "And I am telling you how you can do that as soon as possible."

Vermont paused before he suddenly said, "Are you suggesting that I should jump the gun so she'll have no choice but to marry me?"

'Folic acid is for boosting fertility, isn't it?' Vermont wondered to himself.

After a moment of silence, Stella said, "You can think of it that way if you want."

She figured that she could not possibly tell Vermont that his mother-in-law was worried that he was incapable of having children, so she wanted to test him before meeting him. It would be too hurtful.

Vermont's gaze toward Stella instantly changed. "Felicity treats you as her best friend. How could you come up with such a horrible idea?"

"Aren't you trying very hard to get her mother's approval? This is the quickest way possible. With a child, her mother will have no choice but to ask Felicity to marry you."

Vermont's expression darkened. "You're her best friend, yet you're encouraging me to do this. Aren't you afraid that I'll dump her after doing it? Let me get this straight: I do want to marry her, but never with such despicable means."

He glared at her when he snatched the fork from her hand. He said, "You'd better stop eating!"

Stella was speechless.

She was about to explain herself, but Felicity came out with a pot of soup and saw what was happening. "Stinky Cucumber! Why are you scolding Stella?" she yelled.

Vermont did not want Felicity to know that he was asking for Stella's help to probe her. Also, he was very angry that she treated Stella wholeheartedly, yet Stella came up with such an idea to betray her trust.

Stella quickly said, "It's nothing. Mr. Snyder is just reminding me that fruits have a high sugar content. But I didn't listen to him, so he took my fork away."

Felicity looked at Vermont suspiciously and asked, "Is that true?"

Vermont, who would always keep calm in all kinds of situations, unexpectedly lost his temper. He turned around and went back into his room without saying anything.

Felicity was puzzled. She asked, "Stinky Cucumber, what do you think you're doing?"

Stella grabbed her and said, "Felicity, it was just a joke. It's all good."

Although Vermont just scolded her, Stella was not upset at all. In fact, she was very happy that he stood up for Felicity because the idea she came up with could hurt Felicity's feelings.

While it was true that he had lied to Felicity before, he had his principles and knew not to step over the line. He had never mistreated Felicity throughout their relationship.

Felicity said, "He rarely acts like this and would never get angry for no reason.

This is strange."

Stella said softly, "Felicity, about... your mom wanting you two to have a baby before getting married, do you think you should tell Mr. Snyder about it?"

Felicity paused, and her face immediately turned flushing red. “H-How can I bring that up to him? It’s so embarrassing,” she stammered.

“Why weren’t you embarrassed when you kept asking Dr. Corbin to help you check for breast nodules?”

“That’s different! I was just saying that for fun, but this is what I have to physically do! Besides, if we fail to have a baby, what should I do? Do I just tell him directly, Tm sorry, we can’t get married.’?”
