

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 2121-“Can you give me a more specific direction?” Larry asked.

“Are you mute? Just ask somebody else when you get up there. Please leave US alone now. We’re all going to be late for work.”

Larry felt a little embarrassed. Just as he was about to pull back his hand, Jaylene suddenly said, “Sir, come inside the elevator. I’ll bring you there.”

Larry quickly thanked her and got into the elevator.

When they reached the second floor, Jaylene led Larry out of the elevator, took him to get his meal card, and taught him how to use it.

Larry held the meal card tightly and thanked Jaylene.

As she was about to leave, Larry stopped her. “Hey, Ms. Saun.”

Jaylene turned around. “Is there anything else?”

Larry took out a plastic bag from his pocket and handed it to her tremblingly. “My family cooked these eggs. Please take them as a token of my gratitude.”

Jaylene lowered her gaze and noticed that Larry’s hands were dirty, with traces of gray gunk under his fingernails. People who often performed heavy work developed marks and stains on their hands that became impossible to clean over time, just like Larry’s.

She looked back up and smiled. “Your family made this for you, right? What are you going to eat if you gave them to me?”

Larry said awkwardly, “I already ate. I’m not hungry.”

Then, he extended the bag toward her and said, “Please accept them.

These eggs are from our own chickens at home. They’re very nutritious.”

Jaylene fell silent for a moment, then reached out to take the bag. “Thank you.”

When she held the eggs, they were still warm. She figured Larry had probably kept them very close to his body.

Then, she waved her hand at Larry and got into the elevator.

When the elevator stopped, she stepped out and casually threw the eggs into the trash can at the door.

'People who are overly grateful for even the smallest favors are the best to take advantage of. Stella had made a mistake by hiring this old man this time,' Jaylene thought.

Soon after Jaylene arrived at the office, Julia came knocking on her door.

"Ms. Saun, are you free now?"

Jaylene looked listless as she asked, "Is there anything I can help you with?"

Julia closed the door behind her and approached Jaylene. "Ms. Saun, are you still upset about what happened earlier?"

Jaylene did not say anything, but the answer was obvious.

Julia added in a low voice, "Jaylene, I have an idea to help you vent your frustrations."

Jaylene frowned. "What is it?"

"So, Mrs. Saun would always try to satisfy her because she doesn't want to lose such a big client. Although you might not be able to deal with Ms. Hall, Mrs.

Saun definitely can.

"If Ms. Hall messes up and loses Mrs. Esper as our client when Mrs. Saun is not around, not only will Mrs. Saun resent her for it, but everyone's bonuses will be deducted too. I'm sure that no one will be on her side after that."

Julia responded, "Mrs. Esper loves perfume. As long as there's a new special fragrance on the market, she'll definitely come to try it out. We can use this as an excuse to bring her here, and when she arrives..."

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 2122-Julia continued to whisper in Jaylene's ear. After hearing everything, Jaylene frowned, if we really lost Mrs. Esper as a client because of Stella's mistake, I'm afraid that my mother won't let me off easily, too."

Julia spoke softly, Ms. Saun, you're mistaken. How could we possibly give up Mrs. Esper as our client? What I mean is to make Stella offend her, and you step in to salvage the situation. That way, you'll be able to win Mrs. Esper over and make her your own client and contact."

Jaylene's expression changed. "Are you suggesting that I steal my mom's client?"

Julia said, "Ms. Saun, didn't Mrs. Saun bring you to the company to train you as Caline's successor? If you can pull this off, I'm sure Mrs. Saun will be impressed by your vision and abilities.

"Also, you're indirectly telling her that you're capable of taking over Caline from her and that Stella Hall is no match for you."

Julia's words convinced Jaylene. Although she had joined Caline and became one of the group leaders in the fragrance blending department, she did not have any authority herself.

Even when Darcie went on vacation, she placed Aubrey to supervise her, fearing that she might make a mistake.

Jaylene had her temper and pride, too. She had excelled in everything Darcie had taught her. But when it came to working in Caline, Darcie was always overly cautious, showing no trust in her abilities. So, Jaylene needed an opportunity to prove herself in front of Darcie.

Jaylene figured that if she could win over Grace as a client through what Julia had suggested, and at the same time deal a blow to Stella, Darcie would definitely be impressed.

And Keegan, who was into career-oriented women.

With all that in mind, Jaylene asked, "Do you have any ideas on how to make Mrs. Esper come here?"

Julia immediately said, “Mrs. Barlow recently customized a perfume called ‘ Cloud Nine’ at our shop. After it was formulated, she hasn’t come to pick it up yet because she is busy. The bottle is still in our office.

“The perfume uses a very rare plant extract, which has a dopamine-like charm.

Sniffing the scent will make people feel cheerful. It is also unique and hard to replicate; it’s one of a kind.

“Those who have smelled it will never forget its fragrance. I’m sure that a perfume enthusiast like Mrs. Esper will be attracted to it.”

If Grace, with her temperament, were to set her eyes on a perfume customized by someone else, she would surely want to get it. If Stella tried to please Grace by giving her this bottle of perfume, causing Mrs. Barlow to lose her customized perfume, she would definitely cause a scene.

However, if Stella refused to give it to Grace, then Grace would be the one causing the scene. Either way, Stella would be in trouble.

After learning the corporate history of Caline, Stella could not help but marvel at Freesia’s talent in perfumery.

The significance of the company was entirely different for Freesia and Darcie.

Freesia was the precious daughter of the Hall family from Royalburgh.

Even without founding Enchanted, she would still be a prominent figure.

The sole reason she ventured into perfumery was out of interest.

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 2123-When Freesia founded Enchanted, she did not need Darcie as a partner since she had the necessary expertise. Her parents also provided the startup capital.

Despite her ordinary background and lack of talent, Darcie was a very hardworking person who knew how to deal with people. People like her were the best in business negotiations. Also, Darcie was also once Freesia’s classmate.

Stella figured that Freesia chose Darcie as a business partner for those two reasons.

But jealousy was a terrifying thing.

Freesia had caring parents, a loving husband, and a bright son. Also, she was exceptionally talented in her professional field.

Meanwhile, Darcie had to scrap together money to be a shareholder of Enchanted, faced financial difficulties during the company's initial stages, and even had to support herself and her child after her ex-husband's early demise.

With how life had treated Darcie, it was impossible for her not to be jealous.

However, people dealt with jealousy differently-some suppressed it and turned it into motivation, while others plotted to seize what they envied.

After Freesia's death, although Wenham held the majority of Caline's shares, he knew nothing about perfumery. The company was essentially under Darcie's control. She leveraged the reputation of Caline and Mrs. Saun in the high society and rose to prominence.

Stella thought that if Freesia had been alive, all of this would have been hers.

Assuming Darcie was the one responsible for Freesia's death, she and Jaylene would obviously benefit the most.

Clearly, Darcie did not suppress this jealousy. She did not even mention Freesia's name in the company's history.

But she was very good at disguising her ambition. She spoke highly of Freesia in front of Wenham and even opposed it more vehemently than Wenham when Jaylene wanted to join Caline at first.

Of course, that was not her original intention. She just needed an opportunity for Jaylene to prove herself and join Caline legitimately.

But the true heiress of the Saun family suddenly returned, and Wenham even gave Stella all of his shares without consulting Darcie. That was why she got anxious and hurriedly recruited Jaylene to the company.

Caline was different from The Velvet as Darcie had been in control of Caline for over twenty years, and her influence in the company ran deep. Removing her from Caline would be much more difficult.

Stella felt a headache coming on as she thought about that.

However, when she arrived at the restroom, she heard the sound of sobbing from one of the cubicles.

It was Wren from the finance department, who had gotten a dress from Stella when she joined the company.

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 2124-Wren was not expecting to see Stella here at all as she hastily wiped away the tears on her face and called out in a hoarse voice, "Hello, Ms. Hall."

She was only a few years older than Sonia. She was a young lady with an oval shaped face, looking very youthful. However, her skin seemed somewhat pale, giving her a fragile appearance that reminded Stella of Colin Craven. That left a deep impression on Stella.

Stella handed her a tissue and said gently, "Here, wipe your tears."

Wren took it and thanked her.

Stella was not a nosy person, but when she came in earlier, she overheard Wren on the phone with the hospital mentioning payment and surgery.

It reminded her of the helplessness she felt when she could not afford to pay for Raine's treatment in the hospital to keep her alive. So, she could not help but ask, "Are you facing any difficulties back home?"

Wren had already stopped crying by then, but as soon as Stella asked that question, tears welled up in her eyes again. Wren fought them back, shook her head, and said, "Ms. Hall, everything's fine. Thank you for asking. I'll get back to work now." She then left in a hurry after saying that.

As soon as Wren left, the sound of flushing came from another cubicle, and the door opened. Kiara Lark, the leader of team B in the perfume blending department, poked her head out and said, “Ms. Hall, no matter how much you ask, she won’t tell you about it because it’s related to you.”

Stella was taken aback. “Related to me? What do you mean?”

Kiara was not one to gossip, but Wren was probably one of the most helpful people from the finance department. When everyone went to reimburse work expenses, others would always make excuses and delay their payments.

One would even have to treat the employee from the finance department to a meal if they wanted to get reimbursed as soon as possible. Otherwise, the whole process could take up to six months.

However, nobody dared to offend anyone from the finance department, so most people could only play by their rules.

But Wren was different from those seasoned employees in the department as she would not give anyone a hard time. Generally, when anyone went to her for reimbursement within the company’s approved scope, she would process them promptly and efficiently.

So, Kiara figured that she should step up for Wren after she got targeted this time. However, she was not in a position to make waves, fearing that she might offend someone and get herself into trouble.

When she heard Stella’s conversation with Wren in the restroom, she hesitated but decided to tell Stella the whole story anyway.

It turned out that a few days ago, when the salaries were paid, Wren only received her basic salary; almost all her bonuses were deducted. She did not come from a well-off family, and she lived with her grandmother, who suffered from uremia and needed regular dialysis, which could be very expensive.

Most of her monthly salary would go toward that, leaving a small amount to cover their daily expenses.

Her bonuses made up a big part of her monthly salary. Now that they have been deducted, the remaining money would not be enough to cover the next dialysis session.

After all, hospitals were built to make profits. Without money, Wren’s grandmother would not be treated. That was what made her cry.

Stella finally realized that everything stemmed from the dress she gave to Wren.

She could not believe how petty Jaylene could be.

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 2125-“Other than that, the entire finance department is also ostracizing her. Even people from other departments who used to have good relationships with her are now afraid to talk to her, fearing they might be associated with her.

“If this continues, Wren will probably resign in less than two months. Even though she can find another suitable job quickly, she won’t be able to afford the medical expenses for the next few months.”

With a tense expression, Stella asked, “Kiara, are you close to Wren?”

Kiara said, “We’re okay. I’m responsible for claiming reimbursement for my team, so I deal with her the most. We also often eat together.”

Stella whispered a few words to her, and Kiara was taken aback momentarily.

Then, she nodded solemnly and softly said, “I’ll try.”

After coming out of the restroom, Xavier came to Stella, saying that Grace Esper, a major client of Caline, had arrived and needed her reception.

While heading to the reception area, Stella asked Xavier, “I haven’t heard about any clients visiting today. What’s going on?”

Xavier shook his head. “The secretary just told me about it. I have no idea, too.”

Stella did not have information about Caline’s major clients. She did not even know who Grace Esper was, but she knew that Darcie usually personally attended to these high-profile clients who required customization.

Since Darcie had posted photos of herself on vacation in Maldives on her social media, Stella figured that her major clients would not probably show up at this time.

After all, Darcie would never allow her to approach these contacts.

She suppressed her suspicion and pushed the door open to the reception room.

The reception room was luxurious, and there was an elegant and noble woman sitting on a genuine leather couch. Although she was not very young, she still looked rather attractive.

Although her clothes were loose, the embroidery on them looked exquisite.

Stella could tell that they were handcrafted and very expensive. Grace's hair was neatly tied, and her makeup was delicate.

When Stella pushed open the door, Grace was sipping tea with her legs crossed. Her pinky raised slightly upon hearing the sound, but she remained unbothered, exuding an air of elegance.

Stella walked forward slowly and greeted her, "Hello, you must be Mrs. Esper."

Grace only put down her cup and looked at Stella from head to toe upon hearing her speak. "Who are you?" she asked.

Grace clicked her tongue and said, "Have your boss gone crazy? How could she recruit just anyone into the company? Is she not worried that people like this will ruin her company?"

Aubrey pretended to say awkwardly, "Mrs. Esper, Ms. Hall is actually Mr. Saun's daughter."

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 2126-Grace paused for a moment before saying, "So, she's the lost daughter that just returned to the Saun family, huh? No wonder she can become the Vice President here."

Stella pursed her lips and smiled, not showing any anger. "I'm sorry, Mrs. Esper.

I indeed don't know too much about our major clients yet, and I apologize for any negligence. Which series of perfume would you like to try? I'll arrange it for you."

Grace's tone softened a little upon seeing how good Stella's attitude was." I'd like to try the new 'Cloud Nine' perfume you've formulated. If it's as good as you described it, I'm going to order a batch as door gifts for my son's wedding."

Stella did not know about the 'Cloud Nine' perfume. She glanced at Audrey for clarification.

Aubrey then said in a low voice, "Ms. Hall, we can't sell 'Cloud Nine.' Mrs.

Barlow customized it; she would not appreciate it if we sold it to others. We have an agreement not to sell it as 'Cloud Nine' is formulated exclusively for her.

"Besides, the ingredients of 'Cloud Nine' are very rare. The whole process of creating it is very complex and will take at least three months. Even if Mrs.

Esper likes it, we can't guarantee it will be ready before the wedding."

Stella frowned. "If it's agreed not to be resold, how did Mrs. Esper know about it?"

Aubrey did not know what to say because she did not even know who had leaked the information about 'Cloud Nine.' If Stella were to directly tell Grace that she could not try 'Cloud Nine' after she specifically came for it, she would surely offend her. After all, someone must have told her that she could try it before she came here.

Judging by Aubrey's attitude toward Grace, Stella figured that this client must be extremely important to Darcie. It was impossible for Darcie to notify Grace to come try the perfume, knowing it could not be sold.

Darcie was not foolish enough to offend two of her major clients at once.

Stella speculated that this was likely related to Jaylene, who wanted this conflict to happen and bring her down.

'What an idiot! This is not going to be good for anybody. If we really lost Mrs.

Esper as our major client, it would be a loss for the entire company!' Stella cursed inwardly.

Grace noticed the two of them whispering and became somewhat displeased.

“What are you two talking about?”

Stella turned around and immediately figured out what to say to Grace.” Mrs.

Esper, if you’re planning to choose a door gift for your son’s wedding,’ Cloud Nine’ might not be the best choice.”

A puzzled expression grew on Grace’s face. “Why is that?”

Stella said, “The scent of ‘Cloud Nine’ is very unique, and it’s made for attending important events. It might lose its uniqueness if it is used as a door gift and given out to all the guests. Doing this will even make them feel like the gift isn’t thoughtful enough.”

Grace paused and figured that what Stella said was right.

Before Stella could say anything more, someone else chimed in, “More importantly, these other series are all more affordable and not as expensive as ‘Cloud Nine.’ They have better value for money.”

Jaylene smiled and looked at Stella after saying that. “Is that right, Ms. Hall?”

Stella’s gaze darkened.

Stella then said in a low voice, “That’s not what I meant at all-“

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 2127-Grace refused to listen any further and said with a stern face, “I want to try1 Cloud Nine’. Let me tell you: as long as it’s good and can uphold the reputation of the Esper family, I can afford anything, no matter how expensive!”

Stella tried to explain, “I didn’t mean it that way-“

Grace cut her off and said impatiently, “I don’t have any more time to waste. Just tell me right now; can I try the perfume or not?”

Stella clenched her hands and forced a polite smile. “Of course. I’ll go get it for you.”

With a slight nod, she turned around and left the reception room.

As soon as she stepped out, her expression darkened. 'I've never seen anyone dumber than Jaylene! Her brain must be rotten!' Then, she quickly called Keegan and explained the situation to him, hoping to get some advice.

After listening, Keegan calmed her down and suggested that she see what was so special about 'Cloud Nine.' Stella went to the display cabinet where the perfume bottles were stored and found the bottle named 'Cloud Nine.' The moment she opened it, a refreshing fragrance filled the air.

It was a very soothing scent, not overpowering at all. It smelled like a plant, very natural and organic. If someone walked past wearing this perfume, Stella figured that she would probably mistake it for their natural body scent.

Those who were into fragrances all pursued an ultimate sense of naturalness.

She was sure that Grace would love the perfume because she liked it too.

"No wonder they used this perfume to make Mrs. Esper come here. It's nothing like what I've smelled before." Stella carefully closed the bottle and said agitatedly, "What should I do now? Should I tell her that this perfume takes a very long time to be produced and can't be ready before her son's wedding?"

Keegan said, "If you told her this when she first said she wanted to try it, maybe you could've gotten away with it. But now, if you go back and say it can't be produced in time, as a customer, I'd think that you're unwilling to sell it to me.

This is the last thing you want to happen when doing business.

"Should I call Darcie then? She'd definitely be restless after knowing that her idiotic daughter is messing with her clients. I'm sure that she'd personally persuade Mrs. Esper."

Keegan shook his head. "Stella, this is a test and also an opportunity for you. If you can find a solution to this and win over Mrs. Esper as your client, it'll be your first achievement in Caline. With this achievement, others will see your ability and reconsider your side.

"People are selfish. None of them cares who the boss is. They care more about their salary and the prospects of their career. This is why you need to prove yourself to them, understand?"

Stella felt helpless. "I do, but I just can't think of anything right now."

Stella retorted. "My ideas only work on you because you allow them to.

Mrs. Esper is Caline's client; I can't possibly treat her like how I treat you."

Keegan spoke gently, "Go ahead and do it. I'll be here supporting you mentally."

"Just shut up."

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 2128-Jaylene followed along. She did not think that Stella had any way to deal with the situation. After all, Grace was not an easy person to persuade. If she had really tried 'Cloud Nine,' she definitely would not be interested in anything else.

When Grace arrived at the fragrance testing room, Stella was already waiting at the table full of perfume bottles. Grace frowned. "I only want to try 'Cloud Nine'; why did you bring so many other ones?"

Stella smiled and pointed to an ordinary-looking bottle next to her and said gently, "This is 'Cloud Nine.' I was afraid that you might not like it, so I brought some others for you to try." "That's pretty thoughtful of you." Grace crossed her legs and said calmly, "Let's begin." "Sure," Stella responded and picked up a test strip to sample the perfume.

Julia saw what Stella was doing and suddenly said, "Ms. Hall, should we let Mrs.

Esper try 'Cloud Nine' first?"

Grace paused and realized that the bottle in Stella's hand was not 'Cloud Nine,' and her expression darkened. "What are you doing?"

Stella calmly explained, "We've got to keep the best for last. Only then can you appreciate its uniqueness when compared to other scents."

She then turned to Grace and added, "Mrs. Esper, this perfume is called 'Dream Weaver.' It is formulated by our chief perfumer. Just like 'Cloud Nine,' it has not yet been released to the public.

“These two perfumes belong to different fragrance families. So far, no customers have tried them. I know you’ve used countless perfumes and have your own insights into fragrances.

“I’d like to invite you to help US test it. Feedback from esteemed clients like yourself is crucial for US to improve our products.”

Her words immediately softened Grace’s expression. After all, everyone liked to hear flattering words, and Grace was no exception.

Especially the line “no customers have tried them,” which highlighted how important she was compared to other clients.

“Fine, I’ll give it a try and give you some feedback since you need my help so badly.”

Stella smiled. “Thank you.”

Then, she gently waved the fragrance strip in the air a few times in front of Grace. Grace sniffed lightly, and her eyes showed a hint of astonishment.

The perfume was formulated by the chief perfumer, ensuring its quality.

The fragrance had a refreshing citrusy top note, floral middle notes including mandarin, and a base of musk and vetiver, giving it a dreamy feeling.

Grace tried it and remained silent for some time.

Stella asked softly, “Mrs. Esper, what do you think?”

Grace nodded. “It’s not bad. The top notes smell good, but the middle and base notes are nothing too special.” Then, she offered some more of her own insights.

Stella had someone note down Grace’s experience with the perfume.

Jaylene frowned, not knowing what Stella was up to. She was still confident that after Grace tried ‘Cloud Nine,’ she would not be interested in any other perfumes.

However, for some reason, Stella’s confidence made her feel uneasy. So, she spoke up, Ms. Hall, Mrs. Esper is very busy. You’re going to waste a lot of her time by testing each of the perfumes here.

“It might be better to let her test ‘Cloud Nine’ first and then the rest later. If she’s not satisfied with it, we can schedule another time for her to try the other series.”

Grace paused, looking very surprised. “How did you know I took a bath before coming here?”

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 2129-Stella said gently, “When I first met you in the reception room, I didn’t smell any scent on you. You have makeup on, but most makeup products have some scent to them. The ones you’re using are scent-free, yet you’re not someone who doesn’t like fragrances. So, I had a feeling that you came prepared.”

Grace was impressed by how observant Stella was. She then figured that a person like Stella would only promote products that suited the client from their perspective and would not fabricate things just to make them buy their products.

Then, she said flatly, ‘Let’s carry on.’”

Jaylene’s expression darkened.

Stella lowered her gaze, nodded, and continued letting Grace try the other perfumes.

She let Grace test nine perfumes in a row and said great things about each one, continuously impressing Grace. However, smelling so many perfumes made Grace’s sense of smell numb, especially since each perfume required her to identify the top, middle, and base notes.

The whole process took some time. After repeatedly doing the same thing, Grace was beginning to lose her sense of smell. Although Stella described each perfume’s uniqueness to her, she felt there was nothing special about them.

Stella noticed Grace’s fatigue from her expression and spoke at the right moment, “Mrs. Esper, why don’t you take a break and have some water? Let the scents dissipate a bit, then I’ll let you try ‘Cloud Nine’.” Grace waved her hand, looking somewhat impatient. “Just bring it to me.

It's taking too long, and I'm getting tired." Stella nodded. "Sure. I'll get it ready for you now."

The entire room was silent as she sprayed the perfume on the fragrance strip.

Jaylene could already imagine Grace's expression of astonishment when she finally smelled this perfume.

But when she did, she did not say anything.

She just furrowed her brows, lost in thought.

That was not what Jaylene and Julia expected at all.

Julia was afraid that things might go wrong, so she quickly asked, "Mrs. Esper, what do you think?" Grace pursed her lips. After a long pause, she said, "It's indeed somewhat different from the other ones, but it feels a bit too bland."

'Dream Weaver' had greatly impressed her. The subsequent perfumes were not bad, too, so she had very high expectations for 'Cloud Nine.' But when she finally smelled it, she felt somewhat disappointed.

However, the rare ingredients and hefty price tag of 'Cloud Nine' made her hesitant.

Stella kept a calm expression, but she was extremely nervous inside.

Mr. Kane Got Blacklisted Chapter 2130-Stella had heard a few perfumers talking about olfactory fatigue in the pantry.

She learned that when one smelled various fragrances for too long, the sense of smell would weaken, so they would not continuously smell fragrances for more than three hours a day.

She then looked at the time and found out that it had been two and a half hours since they started. Grace was not a professional perfumer, so two and a half hours should make her sense of smell less sensitive.

But seeing Grace's hesitation, Stella became nervous, fearing that her plan would fail.

Grace glanced at 'Dream Weaver,' then at 'Cloud Nine.' Finally, she settled her gaze on the latter.

Stella's heart sank. Just as Grace was about to speak, the phone in her bag rang.

She opened her bag and took out her phone. When she saw who was calling her, her expression turned gentle.

Upon answering the phone, she said, 'Where are you? Don't you have class today? Oh, okay. Give me a little more time. I'm still testing the perfumes.

"I'm starting to get tired of the ones I've been using. I want to try something new to make myself feel younger.

"Cheeky boy, you have such a sweet tongue.

"I have my eyes on two perfumes now, but I just can't decide.

"Buy both?" Grace chuckled. "It's not your money; of course you'd say that.

"It's not that I can't afford them, but I just don't want to buy something I won't use. Your grandmother will nag me about it, and your father will do the same thing when she's done. I just can't take it.

"You want to help me choose? Do you know anything about perfumes? You couldn't even tell when I wore a new perfume last time.

"Stop lying to me. I know you better than anyone else.

"Fine, fine. Come over then. I'll buy the one you pick. Drive safe, and don't make me worry."

After hanging up, Grace lifted her head and said, "Let's wait for a while. My son said he's coming to help me choose."

Stella felt even more nervous now. Grace's son might not have dulled senses of smell like hers. She would not know what to do if her son chose 'Cloud Nine,' and she would insist on buying it.

Also, she had no idea who her son was and whether he would be easy to fool or not.

On the other hand, Jaylene was feeling very confident. 'Cloud Nine' had been tested many times, and it was a scent that could be accepted and liked universally. She believed that the young man from the Esper family would pick it.

About ten minutes later, there was a commotion outside the door before it was pushed open. A young man in motorcycle gear walked in with a helmet in his hand.

His golden hair caught the attention of everyone in the room. His features were attractive and somewhat resembled Grace's. He was tall and slim, probably about six feet, with the frame of a young man.

'What... He's probably about the same age as Julian, right? He's getting married this young?' Stella wondered.

He abruptly stopped speaking the moment he saw Stella.

Stella froze, too. Then, she instinctively adjusted her clothes, thinking something might be wrong with them.

Grace's son stared at her for three seconds before he snapped out of it when Grace spoke.

Grace glared at him. 'Why did you take the bike? Your father will break your legs if he finds out!'