

Chapter 24 I don't want you

Mrs. Jones really didn't like the idea of them divorce because it was bad for their image and also, she doesn't want her son to get involved with a woman like Nora Alexander. She knew very well that William was with Nora Alexander.

"I don't have any problem with that but I know that Layla wouldn't agree." William said.

Layla tilted her head up when she heard what William said. She couldn't believe what she just heard.

And he acted like he didn't mind it a bit but she knew he hoped that she would be the one who rejected this suggestion.

He wouldn't remarry her because he had chosen Nora.

Layla doesn't want to force William even though she doesn't want him to leave her.

"Mom, we are already divorced and remarry will just make things more complicated. I believe William will find a better woman." Layla said.

"Layla....." Mrs. Jones wanted to persuade Layla.

"Mom, we will settle this on our own, don't worry." Layla said, avoiding this topic.

"Okay then. I will make time to meet your parents and we will talk about this again." Mrs. Jones said, not giving up.

"Layla." William called after she walked out the front door.

Layla stopped in her tracks and William's voice made her mood worsen.

William walked up to her and stood in front of her, "Is this you mom doing too? Did you ask your mom to do all of these?"

He said, blaming Layla for what happened in there just now.

Layla felt like her heart was being squeezed by a pair of hands forcefully and that hurt, "What do you mean?"

"Didn't your mom tell my mom about me and Nora? Otherwise how would they know? Why can't you just watch your mom's mouth? We already divorced and what more does she want?"

He was blaming her for what she has never done.

Layla laughed coldly and asked, "Why would I do so?"

She liked William and that doesn't mean that she will do anything in order to get him back.

She wouldn't agree to remarry! He has already made Nora pregnant!

William didn't believe that Layla was innocent so he kept asking her, "What can you get from separating me and Nora?"

"When did I separate both of you? If I really want to do so, I would have agreed with mom's suggestion. Am I just a bad woman for you?" Layla shouted at him. She couldn't contain her bottled up emotions anymore.

She didn't know what to do to make him believe that she was innocent. She didn't know what she could do so that he wouldn't hate her so much. She didn't know what she could do more to stop him from hurting her again and again.

She has never thought that loving him was a bad decision until now.

Maybe it was time to end all of these.

She should forget about this man.

William froze in his spot and looked at Layla. He was surprised by her sudden outburst.

Layla laughed bitterly, "You blame me for Nora's miscarriage. You blame me for my mom causing a scene because of Nora. And now, you even blame me because of your mom's suggestion. Who do you think you are, William Jones? I have never wanted to make the both of you break up! I don't have to do that because I don't care about you. I have another man now. I don't want you anymore because you don't deserve my love."

"What?" William looked at her, he didn't believe that Layla would have another man.

"Yes, I have another man."

She said confidently. She won't let this man in front of her hurt her ever again, because from this day onwards, she would stop loving him.

A car stopped beside them.

"Doctor Layla." George suddenly appeared beside Layla, gesturing her to get in the car.

Layla didn't expect that Blake Spencer would ask people to come fetch her.

He is so sweet and kind to her even though they don't share any relationship.

Layla would have accepted Blake Spencer if he didn't lose his memories.

William was surprised to see another man come and fetch her because he couldn't believe that Layla found another man in such a short time.

The car that came to fetch her seems very expensive.

William felt uncomfortable because of the idea of Layla with another man even though he doesn't love her, but he has been seeing her as his wife.

"I hope the both of you will be happy and you finally found your happiness. I hope that the next time we see each other, we wouldn't fight again."

Layla found it ironic that William said he doesn't want to fight with her because he was the one who started every fight they have.

"Bye." Layla said coldly.

She got in the car and waited for the car to drive away. She quietly hugged her leg and buried her face in between her knees.

This is the first time she ever said something so hateful to William. But she was too angry.

After a long time, George finally said, "We are here, Doctor Layla."

It was raining and George quickly pulled out an umbrella for Layla.

No one has ever taken care of Layla before; she was the one who took care of everyone. But things changed after she met Blake Spencer.

Does she deserve to be loved?

"Where is Mr. Spencer?" Layla asked after not seeing him in the living room.
