

Chapter 34 Fetch her home

Layla was surprised by the amount of cars which all stopped by the road at the same time.

George came down from one of the cars and said, "Mr. Spencer asked me to fetch you home, Doctor Layla."

So, all of these cars are Blake Spencer's?

"What does he want to do?" Layla was surprised by the convoy.

"It has been one day, Doctor Layla. You should have forgiven Mr. Spencer, so he asked me to fetch you back."

"I said I will never work for him anymore."

"You have signed a contract, Doctor Layla. You should know that you might get fired from the hospital if you decided to leave just like that."

Layla kept quiet and she knew what George said was true,

If she just left the job like this, the president would fire her. And no hospital will accept a doctor who simply breaks a contract.

"Mr. Spencer knows you are angry at him because of what happened that day, so he decided to give you some space to calm down. It has been one day and I think you have calmed down, Doctor Layla."

"We are just not the same people, George. You have been working for Mr. Spencer for a long time and I believe that you know people like me wouldn't be able to have a relationship with him if he didn't lose his memories."

A normal person wouldn't just stand there and watch someone die like how he did.

"You are just like Miss Spencer for Mr. Spencer now. He will never hurt you and you don't have to worry about that."

"But....."

"Mr. Spencer wants you to come back, Doctor Layla." George said, not giving Layla the chance to protest.

All of the bodyguards came down from their car, and they stood beside the car.

It was raining and none of them was using an umbrella.

"Mr. Spencer wants you to come back, Doctor Layla."

"Mr. Spencer wants you to come back, Doctor Layla."

"Mr. Spencer wants you to come back, Doctor Layla."

All of them shouted and that made Layla feel awkward.

"Seemed like Doctor Layla still doesn't want to come back with us." George smiled and walked to the car, he opened an umbrella and opened the door.

Blake Spencer then came down from the car.

Layla didn't expect that Blake Spencer would come himself.

He then walked towards Layla and smiled, "Come home with me, wifey."

Many cars slowed down to look at them and Layla said, "Ask your man to leave and stop bothering me."

She doesn't want to have anything to do with Blake Spencer. She was afraid of him.

"Come back with me?" Blake asked cautiously.

"I won't go back with you. I want to ask for leave for two days." Layla said.

Blake knew it was just an excuse she made; she doesn't want to come with him. But Blake wasn't having it, "You can rest for the next two days, but you have to go back with me."

"You are just my patient. I can go wherever I want to go and I don't need your permission."

Blake then smiled at her and said, "You are my Doctor Layla when you work and when you don't work, you are my wifey. I have permission."

"When did I become your wifey? We don't have any relationship; how many times do you want me to repeat that? Do you know what 'wife' means? That means we are legally married and I am your legal wife."

"Is it?" Blake looked at Layla and said, "Then why can't you forget William Jones after you are no longer his legal wife?"

"What?"

"You would mumble his name when you are asleep!" Blake said angrily. He has heard it several times.

"So, if you only want to be my wife legally, I don't mind marrying you tomorrow." He said it like he was inviting Layla to a high tea tomorrow.

Layla then looked at George.

"I will support every decision Mr. Spencer makes."

"You guys must be kidding me." Layla said speechlessly.

"I am not. This is the most serious decision I have ever made." Blake said seriously.
