

Chapter 35 His body

"Aren't you afraid that I am a bad woman who wants to steal your money?" Layla asked

Blake Spencer and George laughed at her after they heard what Layla said.

"You wouldn't say that if you are really a bad woman, Doctor Layla." George said.

"You put too much trust in me. Don't forget that I am William Jones' wife. You know the Jones family? They are your enemy, Blake Spencer."

Blake looked at Layla calmly and said, "If you don't want to come back with me, I will stay here with you."

The only purpose he has tonight was to fetch Layla back to Spencer's mansion.

He didn't want to leave Layla here, it was dark and it was raining here. He wanted to protect his woman.

Layla looked at all the cars and bodyguards who were still standing under the rain.

What if her mom and dad found out this?

Layla's phone started to ring when she was still asleep.

Layla quickly grabbed her phone from the nightstand and accepted the call.

"Look what have you done, Layla Alexander!"
Caroline's voice echoed through the phone to Layla's ear.

Layla sat up slowly. She was back at Spencer's mansion last night.

And Blake Spence has been sweet and respects her, he didn't come into her room last night.

Layla was wide awake after hearing her mom scream at her.

"Did you see the news today? I told you to go find William last night and what have you done?"

"What news?"

"Check your twitter!" Her mom said angrily.

Layla quickly hung up and logged in to her twitter.

'Rich wife meets boyfriend in the middle of night. Look at the convoy!'

Layla quickly clicked into the tag and saw a picture someone took last night. You can't see the face of Layla clearly because of the rain but in the post was Layla's name and jobs. Plus, the news of William just divorced her.

Someone even commented and said that the reason William divorced her was because of this.

Layla was speechless when she saw this news. She never thought that this would be news.

Caroline called again and said, "Explain to me, Layla. Who is that man?"

"I was waiting for a cab last night. This has nothing to do with me." Layla lied.

"Stop lying. Our driver said that he saw all of this and that man was looking for you. Tell me now, who is this man?"

Layla quickly hung up the phone. She didn't know how to explain to her mother now.

She quickly rushed out to find Blake Spencer to talk about this.

Layla pushed open the door of his bedroom and froze at her spot.

Blake Spencer was standing there shirtless.

Layla quickly covered her eyes with her hands.

Blake smiled and slowly put his clothes on. This is the first time Layla saw his body clearly.

"I didn't know that you are changing. Sorry." Layla said.
