

Spoiled by Mr. Russell Chapter 788

All this created a better impression of Benedict for the executives.

Although he was not interested in the business, he was not brainless. He would still offer some constructive opinions.

The current computer system in the company was his idea, and he even hired someone to set it up.

There were also several other profitable projects within the company that was all from his suggestions.

Everyone still looked up to him, but due to Derrick's poor health, he had been in a hospital for a long time.

As for Benedict, he went missing, and no one had seen him for a long time.

Everyone was losing their patience when someone pushed the meeting room door open with a bang.

Damian stood at the doorway, out of breath. His tie hung loosely around his neck, and his eyes were blank, staring ahead lifelessly.

knew what day it

he showed up late

could smell a waft was lucky that what he was about to report was in his favor. He could easily offset his tardiness and be revised, it was better than called out and quickly walked toward

Then his voice softened.

matter how busy and tired you are from the project, you shouldn't show up this late. Everyone here is waiting for you. Hurry up and apologize to nudged Damian, probing him to do took a deep breath and straightened himself up overslept and did not show up on time. I am willing to accept my punishment. I ask all of you, seniors, to forgive here, let's just get started. We've all been most anticipated and promising project we've developed, and your achievement has been great. So, Mr. Damian, please share with us about it," one the middle of the room and put one hand look at the big screen, he felt his head spin. He must have unknowingly