Observing her anxious demeanor, frayed thoughts, and tiny hands hastily unbuttoning him, Alexander started laughing at how nervous Lily had become.

He gently held her hand and said, "The water was not that hot. What are you so anxious about? Don't worry about it."

"Hey, since you have the time to talk, can you unbutton yourself? Burns can be big or small. It's not a joke!"

Lily was about to get angry.

How could he not know how to take care of himself?

"What did you say?"

Raising his eyebrows, Alexander smiled.

His fingers slid down the shirt, unbuttoning one at a time.

Although it was a simple action, Lily felt herself warming up as she watched his fingers flick lightly on the button.

He was gradually opening the button, exposing his skin.

She looked over and swallowed unconsciously.

"would you like to..."

Her expression changed completely.
