

Mr. Warner Your Ex-Wife is Brilliant by Paula Chapter 342

Chapter 342

After Christine delivered to Jane her new phone and card. The first thing she do was call April.

Just when she thought that might still be unavailable, the phone got connected, but the person on the other side of the phone was not April. What she heard was a man's voice.

Jane's heart sank, subconsciously thinking that the Middlam's people had already found her.

"Who are you? Where's April?" Jane asked in a cold voice.

"This is William." However, what Jane never expected was that the person on the phone would turned out to be the Dr. William Harrington.

After hearing William's answer, Jane was stunned for a long time, she haven't recovered from the shock when she ask again,

"Where were you? Where's April?"

"She's...vomiting..." Before William could finished speaking, April's voice could be heard from the phone, accompanied by her vomiting.

There was something wrong with his voice, and Jane's nerves immediately became tense, and asked anxiously.

"What happened to her?"

"It's nothing, it's just morning sickness." William gave another answer that shattered Jane's consciousness.

They...they are developing so quickly! William looked reserved, and he didn't seem to be such a person.

Besides, April, although she escaped from Matthews's grasped, she still has feelings for him. Did she and William already develop into that stage?

After she escaped, from that kidnapping, she was then placed under house arrest by that fool Giovanni, with all his tricks. Not to mention, that she was there for more than half a month.

Even if we count the days, from day they first met until now. It would've gotten to the point of morning sickness right? Could it be that this child...

"The child isn't yours?" Jane asked in shock.

"Of course not." William quickly gave an affirmative answer.

Jane breathed a sigh of relief, and then her heart ached again, if it wasn't William child, the could it be...

Jane didn't dare to think about it, so she hurriedly asked the two of them where they were and decided to go there in person.

"Where are you?"

"My house." William answered concisely.

Hearing that, Jane felt relieved. After getting his specific address, she immediately rushed over. William lives in a luxury apartment in the city center, which is quite close to Maplewood Mansion. In just twenty minutes, Jane arrived downstairs.

Chapter 94.

Jane took the elevator with her bodyguard/driver Thea and punch in the floor where William is residing.

When the doorbell rang, William who was dressed in casual clothes, opened the door soon after. Unlike his previous gentle appearance in a white coat, he looked a little more refined and handsome in casual clothes.

Although not as strong and handsome as Matthew's mixed blood, he is also handsome.

"Where's April?" Seeing William, Jane immediately asked.

“In the bathroom” William replied.

“Ugh...” Following William’s words, was another sound of vomiting from the bathroom.

Jane didn’t care too much, and went straight to the bathroom, and sure enough, she saw April holding the toilet bowl throwing up in the dark.

“April, are you okay?” Jane immediately stepped forward and asked worriedly.

April raised her pale face in a mess, looked at Jane and smiled reassuringly.

“Honey, it’s great that you’re all right.”

According to William, April already knew that the person who was lying in the hospital who looked exactly like Jane was an impostor.

Jane was kidnapped, and later when Drake found out he went to rescue her. Even if April wanted to come and pick Jane in person, she couldn’t, because her morning sickness attack again.

And it was even more serious this time. When she had morning sickness last time, William thought it was only due to a bad stomach. So he prescribed medicine to treat her stomach and managed to suppress it.

This time it relapsed again, and it made her vomit until she couldn’t bear to eat anymore. She couldn’t help but feel sick when she moved around and she spent most of the time by the toilet.

William let her drink some traditional Chinese medicine, but it didn’t help as well. She still vomited. everything that she ate every day.

Jane help her up to sit on the sofa when she finally calmed down a little. Jane glanced at her worriedly, and wanted to ask what was going on with the child in her belly.

But considering that William was still on the sidelines, she hesitated for a while and didn’t ask.

“Why did you come to William’s house and not in my apartment?” Jane asked a random question.

instead.

"I've been watched over there. I have no choice but to come over to him first." April said.

When she said this, Jane guessed who those people are who's watching her. It should be Matthew's "Drake disclosed your location to Matthew. He already knew that you were in Silverbourne, and he probably sent those people to watch you." Jane said with some guilt.

Hearing this, April wasn't angry at all, but she smiled miserably, "It's okay, Drake told me that he was doing it for your uncle, and even if he knew, he wouldn't dare to take me back for the time being, and just sent people to watch me." April said with a disheartened face.

Chapter 342

Jane look at her with a puzzled expression.

"He and the daughter of the royal duke are getting married soon. He'll have no time to take care of me."

Hearing this, Jane thought of a woman's voice she heard on the phone when Drake called Matthew before, it should be his fiancée.

What a disgusting man, he's about to marry another woman, yet he still clings to the person in his heart.

"April, don't be too sad. You don't need such a man in your life." Jane comforted her.

April's smile changed, and she said calmly, "I never thought of wanting him, otherwise, I wouldn't try every means to escape in his grasp."

Although April said so, Jane knows that she still loves him very much.

Jane had also experienced such emotional pain, and she knows the feeling of not being able to love, but April's situation is exactly the opposite of hers.

Matthew had her in his heart, but he has to marry another woman because of family obligation. At the beginning, Drake obviously didn't have her in his heart, but he married her anyway.

What a cursed luck!

"Don't think too much anymore, the most important thing now is the child." Jane took April's hand and comforted her softly.

"Do you think... this child, should I let it stay?" April asked raising her eyes, and looked at Jane seriously.

Hearing this, Jane replied without any hesitation, "Of course let it stay. This is your child too. Do you want to let it go?"

Jane was a little shocked, she didn't expect April to have this idea of killing the child, but after pondering about it, she understood April's reason a little bit.

When she first found out that she was pregnant, she was also at a loss and thought about not having the child, but in the end, she let go of her hesitance and decided to give birth to the child.

It was fortunate that she didn't choose to abort the child at the beginning, otherwise, she would definitely regret what she had done. Considering how cute those three little buns are.

"April, I hope you will keep the child. If...you don't want to take care of the child after giving birth, you can give the child to me."