

Mr. Warner Your Ex-Wife is Brilliant by Paula Chapter 379 -

Chapter 379

April had expressed her refusal to Dr William many times, but he stubbornly continued to pursue her, believing that she still had some feelings for him.

Knowing that

Dr William wouldn't listen to her rejections, April decided to use a resolute approach to force him to give up.

"I will give birth to the child in my belly because it is the child of the man I love the most. In the future, I will raise this child, and my heart will no longer beat for anyone else. So, please keep your distance from me and stop causing me distress," April said firmly.

Dr William had always believed that April had some feelings for him, maybe not love, but at least some fondness.

But now April had personally told him that she wanted to have the child of the man she loved the most. Did that mean she never liked him?

"April, I know about the situation between you and that man. I don't mind your past. We can see how things go in the future..." Dr William tried to suggest.

"There is no future, Dr William. Don't you understand what I mean? From the beginning to the end, the only person I have loved is that man. I won't develop feelings for anyone else," April said coldly.

"I know you like me, but your liking has already become a burden for me. So, I hope you can keep your distance from me. Do you understand?" April's words were decisive and cold, piercing Dr William's heart like a knife.

April was the girl he fell in love with at first sight and the person he wanted to protect, but now she told him that his liking had become a burden.

Dr William closed his eyes in pain and then slowly opened them again after a long time. He looked at April and couldn't give up just yet.

"Do you not even have the slightest liking for me?" Dr William asked again.

Hearing his question, April recalled the time they had spent together and the many beautiful moments they had shared, even though their time together was short. If it weren't for the painful past and the unexpected child, she might have liked Dr William.

But everything had no "ifs." She suppressed the pain in her heart and looked at Dr William calmly, her lips parting slightly to speak in a cold tone.

"No."

After saying this, April turned away, unable to look Dr William in the eyes. Tears silently streamed down her face.

"I've said enough. Leave now. I came to Eldoria to relax, and you following me like this only makes me more annoyed," April stated firmly.

Dr William wanted to say more, but April's words cut him off completely. In the end, he could only turn and leave the room.

On the balcony, Jane didn't know what Dr William and April talked about, and she enjoyed the peaceful scenery, feeling the gentle breeze against her skin.

1575

Mr Warner Your Ex-wife is liant

185.3%

Suddenly, an unpleasant voice shattered the tranquility of the balcony.

"Miss Bentley seems to be enjoying yourself!" The voice came from the balcony entrance, and it was none other than the despicable Adolf.

“What are you doing here?” Jane questioned coldly, not believing in coincidences. She suspected that this man had followed her.

“Of course, I’m here to find Miss Bentley.” Adolf didn’t hide his intentions and approached Jane with a teasing smile.

“What do you want?” Jane became alert. She knew this man had bad intentions if he followed her all the way to Eldoria.

“I just want to spend a pleasant evening with Miss Bentley... To be honest, I am quite interested in you. It’s a pity you married Drake at such a young age,” Adolf continued with a smirk.

“If I’m not any worse than Drake, how about Miss Bentley divorces him and marries me?” he added, continuing to taunt her.

Upon hearing his shameless remarks, Jane’s face turned cold.

“Last time, Mr. Schmidt claimed that you had no interest in a married woman like me, and now, what is the meaning of your words?” she retorted.

Recalling the incident at the party, Adolf’s expression darkened, feeling a little embarrassed.

That man, Drake, not only did not give face to his Schmidt family but also dared to threaten him. Adolf had heard that Drake reported to the higher-ups, trying to have his father removed from his position as a city mayor, but the higher-ups didn’t agree.

This grudge couldn’t be easily let go, and he was determined to bring down the Warner family.

The woman in front of him was Drake’s legal wife, so he would start with her to get back at him.

In a gloating tone, Adolf said, “I might not be interested in you, but my people are very interested in you.”

Hearing this, Jane felt a strange sense of foreboding.

Before, when Adolf’s father, Friedrich Schmidt, appeared at the party, he seemed to be afraid of Drake, but now, Adolf acted like he was no longer afraid of him.

It couldn't be that they had something on Drake, right?

But upon careful consideration, Jane thought that Drake was not the kind of careless person who would leave himself vulnerable to blackmail. How could there be something that Adolf could use against him?

If it wasn't about some leverage, then it was likely that they had gained new assurances and were no longer afraid of Drake's power.

Jane didn't say anything; she didn't want to argue with Adolf at this time. Instead, she turned to leave the balcony.

Seeing that Jane was about to leave, Adolf reached out and grabbed her arm, trying to stop her.

At the moment of contact, Jane recoiled like a frightened bird, immediately breaking free from his grasp and putting some distance between them.

185 51

"Don't touch me!" Jane's voice was as cold as ice.

Undeterred by her rejection, Adolf's face didn't look good. However, he thought of the future opportunities to torment Jane and suppressed his anger.

"Heh, we'll see," he said provocatively.

Jane didn't bother to deal with him any longer. She shot him a cold glare and then turned and walked away.

As Jane left, she couldn't help but feel an unsettling sensation in her heart.

(0)

Mr. Warner Your Ex-Wife is Brilliant by Paula Chapter 380 -

4

1(0)

Chapter 380

Jane quickly returned to the room, as she and April were staying in the same room to take care of her during the pregnancy.

When she entered the room, Dr William was no longer there. April sat on the sofa near the French windows, covered with a blanket, staring blankly at the scenery outside with a gloomy expression.

“Did you finish talking?” Jane’s expression was also not good, but seeing April like this, she still went forward to express her concern.

April snapped out of her thoughts and looked at Jane. Before Jane could ask about their conversation, April burst into tears and threw herself into Jane’s arms.

“Sob... Jane, my heart hurts so much!”

Seeing April like this, Jane could guess the general content of their conversation. It must have been a very heartbreaking talk.

“Sob... Jane, am I so bad that I hurt him with my words? How could I do this!”

“He’s such a good person. On the first day we met, he took me to eat delicious food and didn’t mind my messy eating. He even peeled the shrimp for me and spoke very gently...”

“I was moved by him. I’ve always wanted to find a boy like him and have a sweet and beautiful love story, then... get married, have children, and live a perfect and happy life...”

“I met that person, but we are destined to be apart, and I hurt him so badly.”

Through April’s fragmented words, Jane got a rough idea of their conversation. The words she said must have hurt him deeply, and April was feeling very upset about it.

“It’s alright. Everything will pass, and I’ll be here with you, okay!” Jane hadn’t experienced what April had gone through, so she couldn’t fully empathize, but she had also felt the pain of heartbreak in the past.

At times like this, she didn't need to do much, just be there for April, listen to her, and let her vent.

"Sob... Jane, I'm so sad... really so sad. Why am I not an ordinary girl? Why can't I have a complete family..."

April cried with great sadness, tears continuously falling. As her emotions gradually stabilized under Jane's consolation, she instinctively placed her hand on her slightly protruding belly, a glimmer of motherly love appearing on her face.

"You're right, I still have a child." April finally felt a little better.

"Jane, Dr William is a good person, but I don't deserve him." April lowered her gaze.

Jane

acknowledged that Dr William was a good person, but she disagreed with April's self-deprecating statement.

"April, you are wonderful. Don't put yourself down. If you two couldn't be together, maybe it's because you weren't meant to be," Jane said softly.

"Thank you, Jane." Having a friend who could accompany her at this moment made April feel much better.

"Don't thank me. You were there for me when I went through tough times too," Jane mentioned the past, grateful for April's company during that time.

Upon hearing this, the two exchanged smiles and chose not to dwell on the past sorrows.

The next day, after a night of rest, their spirits had improved significantly. Jane packed up and took April out for a leisurely stroll.

Since April was pregnant, they canceled the plan to climb Elysian Crest Mountain. Instead, Jane took her to the shores of Luminesa Lake for a leisurely walk.

Luminesa Lake was called a “sea,” but it was actually a large freshwater lake. The water was clear and one could see the fish and stones at the bottom.

In the evening, the two went to the ancient city, ate local specialties, and bought many unique souvenirs. For a while, they forgot many of their worries.

Because they were so comfortable, the two stayed in Eldoria for half a month. During this time, Drake also went abroad to attend Matthew’s wedding. Otherwise, how could he endure half a month without Jane by his side?

Drake had left for a business trip abroad earlier. Jane went to Eldoria to accompany April to relax, and the three little ones were well-behaved and didn’t make trouble. But when Drake attended the wedding, the three little ones became less obedient and insisted on following him.

Zachary knew Matthew because of his father’s friendship. Later, Drake also got to know April through Jane. When he heard that Matthew was getting married, he couldn’t help but think of the two together.

“Daddy, Uncle Matthew and Aunt April have the same last name, are they related?”

Zachary called April “Aunt April,” just like his siblings.

Hearing Zachary’s question, both Zane and Zoe looked at Drake.

Drake didn’t expect Zachary to ask this question. He hesitated for a moment before nodding. “Yes.”

“Wow, they really know each other! Are they siblings?” Zachary was delighted with his own discovery.

“It’s kind of.”

“Why didn’t Aunt April go to Uncle Matthew’s wedding? Instead, she went on a trip with Mommy?” Zachary kept asking.

Now, Drake didn’t know how to answer. If April appeared at Matthew’s wedding, it would probably turn into a scene of disaster.

“That’s an adult’s matter. Kids shouldn’t ask about it,” Drake tapped Zachary’s head lightly, not wanting him to inquire further.

Zachary pouted, feeling dissatisfied, but he didn't dare to challenge his father's authority.

Zane and Zoe exchanged glances, feeling a mix of emotions.

After they returned to Silverbourne, April had come to visit once, but she only stayed for a few days before being taken away by a man. They witnessed it themselves and told their mommy about it.

And that man was Matthew. However, what they saw at the time was that Matthew forcibly kissed their mommy and then took her away. Can siblings kiss each other like that?

Chapter 380

Drake didn't know what was going on in the minds of the two little ones. After arriving at the airport, he took them directly to Matthew's castle.

As an honored guest, Drake was invited to stay at Matthew's castle before the wedding, which was a rare privilege. The three little ones followed him into the castle.

The three little ones thought their own villa was already luxurious enough, but when they saw Matthew's ancient castle, they were amazed.

"Is this the castle where the princess in fairy tales lives? It's so beautiful." Zoe sincerely praised.

"It does look good, but our home is still better. This place is like a maze Zachary followed suit.

"That's because you're not smart enough," Zane couldn't help but take a jab at him.

"Hmph, it's just that I'm not good at this. Let's see who's better at horse riding when we go back." Zachary raised his proud little head.

After Zachary's words, Zane fell silent. In terms of sports, he was not as skilled as Zachary. This was the door that Heaven closed while opening another for him.

♡ (0)

(0)