

Mr. Warner Your Ex-Wife is Brilliant by Paula Chapter 393

Chapter 393

In the Royal Group, Jane was busy with paper works. She had to deal with both her and her husband's company so she was very busy.

Daniel pushed open the door and found Jane with her nose buried in papers.

"Miss Jane." Daniel hesitantly called.

Jane looked up from the pile of documents and saw that Daniel was frowning his brows.

"The people from the prosecutor's office are here to do a thorough inspection."

"Isn't it already checked?" Jane frowned in confusion. The sudden inspection is weird.

Daniel sighed. "The order was from the new mayor."

Daniel need not say anything else. Jane knew that Adolf is starting to perform his revenge.

Just the thought of the scum gets her blood boil with fury. She desperately hoped for her husband to return and deal with that son of a gun.

"If they want to investigate, let them be," Jane told Daniel. Since they arranged for someone to investigate, they definitely did not plan to let Drake go. Let them check it out.

Sure enough, after the prosecutor's search, Drake was accused of tax evasion. He was asked to suspend work and go with the investigation.

Seeing the warrant filled Jane with dread. But she cannot do anything about it now.

The man who handed her the warrant smiled cruelly.

“Miss Bentley, Mr. Schmidt has prepared a drink for you. I hope you will appreciate it.”

“Go back and tell Mr. Schmidt to go to hell.” Jane wouldn’t show them any sign of weakness.

“Okay then, it’s your choice. Your message will be delivered in detail” The man snorted and turned to leave.

When they were gone, Daniel hurriedly went to Jane and asked anxiously, “Miss Bentley, what should we do now?”

She stared at the warrant in her hand, her face unreadable. “We’ll stop the operation; you pass the word on. All the staff of the Royal Company will be on vacation, they’ll be notified once the work resumes.”

Daniel scowled. “They’re going too far.” He said indignantly.

“They want to bring the Royal family down, they must be planning different plots to do it, this is just the beginning.”

Jane can only trust Drake’s promise to protect the family.

Jane sat down on her bed to rest for a while, it has been an exhausting day. However, Courtney came barging in and started throwing questions. Jane groaned.

“Why did you stop working?”

Jane sat up again, “The prosecutor issued a warrant.”

Chapter 393

Courtney’s face turned unattractive. “I heard that it’s the newly elected mayor’s son doing. Is it because of you?”

Jane felt like someone punched her in the gut. “You clearly have it investigated already. Why bother asking?”

Jane was worn out; she doesn't have the energy for pleasantries right now.

The woman was taken aback but quickly regained her composure.

“Jane, you should just stay at home and take care of your family. You always show yourself in public. It's no wonder that some perverted men see you as a target.” Courtney fired back.

The words Courtney spat brought a wave of anger in Jane. She was aware that Courtney was a popular artist, the type of actress who won big awards. But she was later married to Drake's father and left the spotlight for her family.

She has nothing against women like her mother-in-law, she even admires their bravery to leave their passion and profession for the ones they love.

However, telling her to become one is another story.

During her few years abroad, Jane realized in a hard way that a woman should be independent and career-oriented, and that she should never lose herself for love.

“Courtney, with all due respect to you, if you came here just to tell me how to run my life, then I would have to ask you to leave. The door is over there.” Jane pointed at the door; all courteousness flew out the window.

“Is that how the young ones talk to the elders now?” Courtney was furious.

“If you don't like to be talked that way, then don't come here to provoke me.” Jane was exhausted and angry, so many happened that day and all she wanted was to take a rest.

The older woman just stood there, speechless, mouth agape.

Then thought of how his son loved this woman and how he was so protective of her stopped Courtney from throwing something hard on the bratty woman's head.

She doesn't want to end up like Marina who was all alone with no children with her, so she forgot the idea of breaking the two up.

As much as she hates her daughter-in-law, she still wanted to be close to her grandchildren.

“Okay, I won’t bother you anymore. What are you going to do about the company?” Courtney asked.

“I’ll talk to Drake when he comes back.” Jane saw Courtney’s attitude change, so she tried to be nice too.

“Speaking of which, why did you let my son go? Do you know how dangerous that place is!” Thinking of Drake who had gone to that dangerous place just to resolve the ruckus caused by Jane, her hostility for her daughter-in-law came back again.

“Yes, we both know the danger, but you still sent my son there.” Jane’s voice was cold again.

The mention of the past made Courtney uneasy.

“I did it for our family. If only Zane stayed in that place, the Warners wouldn’t be in such a dilemma now.”

10:48

Me Warrya Maur

“Here in Silverbourne, nobody can touch our family, not even the mayor, and whoever dares to do so will face a grievous consequence,” Courtney said.

“But you have lost too much,” Jane told Courtney.

Drake has been sharing facts about his family. Drake’s father and younger brother both died in that special place.

If someone has to be sacrificed just to achieve the so-called status and respect of society, she would rather have none of it.

Courtney was saddened by Jane’s words.

Yes, she had lost a lot.

“Where are the kids? I’ll go see them.”

“They’re at the martial arts training ground at the back.” Jane hasn’t seen the kids since she got home.

Ever since they started practicing martial arts, the kids have grown quite a bit.

And they are quite good at it too, which was good, considering their current situation. Jane supported them and will continue to do so.

Courtney said goodbye and went out to find her grandchildren.

As soon as Courtney closed the door, Jane immediately lay down. Claiming back the interrupted rest.

Over the years, she had worked hard to strengthen herself but the connections she made were only in the business sector. Not many people in politics know her.

10:48

♡ (0)

(0)

Pillion

19251

Chapter 394