

Mr. Warner Your Ex-Wife is Brilliant by Paula Chapter 429

(0)

Chapter 429

Chapter 429

Alice looked at the group with obvious envy.

“Mom, that aunt is so beautiful. It must be wonderful to be her daughter.”

Hearing her daughter’s words, Sarah’s heart hurt.

Of course, she knew how good Jane was. The more she compared, the more she felt inferior. She is nothing compared to the famous Jane.

“How about your mommy? Is she not good?” Sarah tried to ease her sadness with laughter.

“My mommy is not good. She doesn’t even buy me delicious food. My granny is much better than her. I want to go home. I want to find my grandmother!” Alice daughter immediately burst into tears.

Hearing her daughter’s words, Sarah felt a knife twist in her heart.

If it wasn’t for her daughter, she would have left her bastard for a husband without hesitation, it was all for her daughter’s sake.

But her daughter was still young and was spoiled by her grandmother. Sarah was depressed, she just took her daughter home.

Because the divorce was not pushed through, Sarah moved back home yesterday. Later that day, her daughter begged her to take her to eat outside, so she did, thus meeting Jane.

When she got home, she heard her mother-in-law curse.

“All she knows was to hang. She didn’t even do the house chores, she just left it with this old lady. I really don’t know what my son saw in her. I don’t see it..”

As soon as she put her daughter down, she heard her mother-in-law in the kitchen cursing, and Sarah's day was ruined even more.

She could only endure her grief and walked towards the kitchen. She softly talked to her mother-in-law.

"Mom, Alice wanted to eat outside so I took her out for a while. Leave the kitchen to me."

Even though she heard Sarah's humble voice, her mother-in-law did not bend

"You are using Alice as an excuse to be gone all day. You have the time to take her out but you always have no time for house chores and other responsibilities. I think you are just being lazy.

After her litany, her mother-in-law walked out of the kitchen, which relieved Sarah. The woman was impossible

However, in the evening, her husband came back drunk again, and Sarah immediately took care of him as usual

As she was taking off her husband's suit jacket, she was shocked to see a lipstick mark on her husband's white shirt, an evidence of yet another episode of cheating

Looking at the red stain made her blood boil to its limit. She grabbed the water glass on the table and poured it directly on the man

The sudden coldness made the man recover from his drunkenness. When he looked at Sarah who was holding the glass, he too, lost his temper

0931

Chapter 429

"You son-of-a-b*tch, what is this again?"

Sarah grabbed her husband's white shirt, pulled the lipstick mark in front of him, and asked loudly.

“Didn’t you say that you’ve already broken up with that woman? What is this? Tell me, what the hell is this gain? The words you told me are lies. They’re all lies. You lying bastard, you’re disgusting.”

The scene of the man begging her not to get a divorce was still itched in her mind. But with the evidence in her hand, she knew that her husband’s promises were all empty. They were never real.

Seeing that Sarah had found out, the man did not pretend.

“Yes, I did sleep with her again? Do you know why? Because when I see you now, I am always reminded of how disgusting you looked when you gave birth. Looking at you makes me want to vomit. I don’t even want to touch you. What can I do but to look for another woman to touch?”

Sarah’s world shattered when she heard what her husband said.

They were once a sweet and loving couple. Now she regretted it extremely. Why did she let her husband see her when she gave birth to the child?

“But Michael, I gave birth to our own baby? How could you say that to me now?” She shouted hoarsely.

“No, it was your boy, you did not give me my baby?!” Michael was shouting to her.

Sarah finally realized what her husband means. He was blaming her for not giving birth to a son.

His original family valued sons over daughters, and when she was said that to Michael, He had said that he would not care whether it was a boy or a girl.

But at this moment, Sarah finally understood. There was not a single word from a man’s mouth that could be trusted.

“You’ve finally revealed your true colors, eh? I was a fool to believe what you said. Oh, it’s really ridiculous.” Sarah laughed out loud, but tears kept falling from the corner of her eyes.

Then, she looked up at the ceiling and felt dizzy.

Jean’s words echoed in his mind again. After a long silence, Sarah lowered her eyes again. Eyes that are clear with decisive determination.

“Okay, let’s get a divorce. This time, no matter what you say, I don’t care any more.”

Hearing Sarah’s decisive words, Michael finally came back to his senses, then immediately stepped forward and pulled his wife’s hand.

“Sarah, I was wrong. I’m sorry. I did not mean it. I’m sorry, please don’t divorce me? Give me a chance, I’m sorry.”

His words were ridiculous to Sarah’s ears. She looked at him with tearful eyes and said coldly

“You confuse me. You said that you don’t want to touch me anymore. Why don’t you want to divorce?”

I am giving you the choice to be free. Without me, you can be all the woman you want.”

A hint of hesitation flashed across Michael’s face, but then he shook his head and then he immediately said.

“Sarah, I never meant a single word I said. I still have you in my heart, no matter what. And we still have a daughter, how could I give up on her?”

Chapter 429

If Michael said those words to the still foolish Sarah, she might have believed him. But after so many things, she finally understood that men were simply unreliable.

Immediately, he fiercely pushed Michael’s hand away, her face still cold.

“Just shut up already, you have already said it very clearly. You don’t have any interest in me anymore and you only want to keep me in your house as a free nanny!”

Sarah could not think of any other reason why Michael still refused to divorce her.

One second, he cursed and called her disgusting, and the next second, he’s begging her to stay.

There must be a reason why.

“Sarah, it’s not what you think, please let me explain.” Michael tried hard to convince her, but Sarah had enough of his lies. He can now go to hell for all she cares.

“Let me go, you’re making me sick!” Sarah coldly pushed Michael away.

Michael, who was pushed, was so furious he forgot all about his plans and let the b*tch go. But not without teaching her a lesson first.

♡ (1)

(0)