

Second Chances Protecting Mrs. Hall by Colby Stanford

Chapter 173

Chapter 173

Chapter 173 "Honey, you're the best," Liam said. He thought, 'Sorry for doing that this time, but I'd do it again.' They looked at each other and smiled. The atmosphere in the car was so sweet that it was sickening.

However, they knew very well that they would soon have on a private estate in the suburbs.

to face the serious truth. The Krot Competition was held The car drove along a road with big sprawling fields on both sides.

Liam and Emma had already notified them in advance. The journey was smooth and no one stopped them.

Soon, they would reach the venue.

Emma's heartbeat gradually sped up. Everything she had persevered for during this was for this moment. She thought, 'Dummy, I'll be able to avenge you soon... Wait for me...' There was a screeching of brakes. The car stopped.

"Mr. Hall, Mrs. Hall, this is where the Krot Competition was held five years ago," the driver said.

"Thanks," Emma said as she gave the driver a stack of pounds as a tip.

The driver happily accepted it and left.

Emma and Liam looked at each other, took a deep breath, and walked into the arena hand in hand.

Due to the lack of competition recently, many places that had not been used for a long time were dilapidated and dusty.

When Emma saw this, she frowned slightly. She did not know what her chances were of finding out what happened five years ago in such a place. If she couldn't find it here, she did not know how she would investigate the truth about Justine's death.

The sky was overcast as if it was about to rain.

They walked to the low piling netting.

"It's here." Emma looked down at the ground coldly.

This was where something went wrong with Justine. If it wasn't medicine or disease, then it had to be a problem with the venue.

Emma knelt and ran her hand across the sand on the ground. The fine and soft white sand flowing through her fingertips was dry and nothing special. She lifted the netting on the ground again and saw thin wires emerging from the netting.

Emma knew about this. Slow piling netting would have wire weaved into the netting to maintain its shape and ensure its toughness. Perhaps it had not been repaired for a long time, wires had poked out.

Suddenly, raindrops fell from the sky.

Liam, in a black suit, suddenly opened a big black umbrella and covered Emma who was kneeling on the ground. "Emma, it's raining. Don't catch a cold." Emma got up and smiled at Liam. "You have to stay out of the rain too." Boom. Another clap of thunder pierced their eardrums.

Emma frowned slightly.

Liam looked up at the dark sky. "There's thunder as soon as we get off the plane. Yenovia's weather is indeed unpredictable..." "Wait." At this moment, Emma suddenly thought of something.

Emma bent and pressed her fingers into the sand. She traced the symbol the person had left on the cliff in the white sand. In an instant, her beautiful eyes widened. It was as if she had suddenly thought of something. Emma exclaimed, "I got it. It's not a drug or poison. It's lightning. He drew a lightning symbol." The protruding wires had come into contact with the body. When Justine died by that day, someone maliciously ambushed her with high-voltage electricity and electrocuted her to death. Instantaneous electrocution would cause one to faint, have a cardiac arrest, and die. These symptoms are very similar to sudden death from acute heart disease.

That was why so many people mistakenly thought Justine had died of a sudden heart attack because she had taken the wrong drug.

Emma looked at the lightning symbol in the white sand that was instantly washed away by the heavy rain. She suddenly laughed out loud. "I see. I truly get it now." Emma had been wronged for so many years in vain. It turned out that someone had framed her.

Everyone said it was because Emma had a conflict with Dummy that Dummy took drugs and committed suicide. However, they did not know that someone had plotted out the murder secretly.

Liam was also a little surprised that Emma guessed the truth so quickly. "Emma, if you say the word, no matter who it is, I'll deal with it with you." 88% Chapter 173 Emma clenched her fists in the rain. "I want to avenge her and let everyone know the truth." +5 Justine did not take drugs, and she did not have a heart attack. Instead, someone had killed her with an electrified net.

Perhaps it was because Emma was tired from the journey and had a cold, she started to have a low fever when she returned to the hotel.

Liam took good care of Emma. His heart ached so much that it was about to shatter.

Liam immediately called the best doctor in Yenovia over. The doctor prescribed medicine for Emma and gave her an injection. When Liam saw that Emma's temperature had dropped, he heaved a sigh of relief. However, he did not let down his guard because of this.

Because Emma was ill, Liam felt even worse.

Emma knew what Liam was worried about and tugged on his finger. "It's okay. I just have a slight cold." "Don't keep thinking about it if you're not feeling well." Liam stroked Emma's hair lovingly. "I've asked my men to follow your line of thought and investigate. They'll give the results tomorrow morning." Liam kissed Emma's neck. "Sleep well." Emma nodded. It was easy to feel cold when one was cold. Liam's body was very warm. She curled herself into a ball and snuggled into Liam's arms.

 The next day, the investigation results of the people sent by Liam out.

The subordinate reported, "Mr. Hall, Mrs. Hall is right. We pulled up the video of the competition and m watched it again. Justine's reaction was the sas the symptoms of electrocution. However, there was one other thing that was very suspicious." "What?" Liam asked.

"The clothes Justine wore for the competition indicated that they were taken by someone from Nuverland that day. The logistics department and the hospital can testify to this," the subordinate said. The clothes would show that Justine was electrocuted. These people were afraid that their crimes would be exposed, so they took Justine's clothes.

Liam asked in a low voice, "Who has it?" 04.25 Chapter 173 The subordinate said, "Dana Coast." Three days later, the fully recovered Emma and Liam returned to Troln City.

Serene had already been discharged X from the hospital. When she heard Emma had saved her, she was m extremely grateful. Although she was still recovering and could not thank Emma personally, Serene's parents brought many gifts to Icovine Estate to thank Emma. Of course, Emma did not let the older couple make a fuss about it.

After reminding Serene about the things to take note of in the future, Serene went to the hospital to look for Dana.

Emma had investigated. There were only Dana's managers and coaches guarding the ward. Emma only used slittle tricks to send them away easily.

Emma's face was cold as she stepped into the room with her black boots.

The door of the ward opened and closed.

Dana was wearing an oxygen mask in the bed. When she saw who it was, she immediately began to tremble violently. "What are you doing here?" They had undergone the most professional training and could easily sense the killing intent of another person.

Emma was indeed feeling murderous. She looked at Dana's terrified expression and suddenly smirked, like a blooming dahlia in the night.

Emma pulled out the information Liam had given her. "Tell me, why did you take Bunny's clothes?" □

Chapter 174

Chapter 174 Dana was stunned. "What do you mean? I don't know what you're talking about." "The evidence is here. Are you trying to deny it?" Emma said coldly, "Talk! Why did you take her clothes?" After another round of questioning, the woman wearing the oxygen mask trembled slightly. She reached out to press the emergency alarm.

However, Emma reacted quickly and slapped Dana's hand away.

Dana tried to scream, but Emma grabbed her neck.

"Who told you to do this? Who killed Dummy?" Emma demanded.

Dana found it difficult to breathe. "I-I don't know. It's a mission from the King's Association." "You're lying," Emma said.

"I'm not lying..." Dana stammered and coughed. "It's really the King's Association. Who else could it be?" Dana was already having difficulty breathing. Her pale face flushed unhealthy.

At this moment, Liam, who had been standing outside the door, sensed something amiss and walked in.

Seeing this, Liam went forward and reminded, "Emma, they'll be back soon." Emma then let go of Dana. Her expression was cold as she looked down at her. "I'll let you off this time, but this matter with Justine is not yet over." With that, Emma and Liam turned and left.

However, when the door opened, Dana suddenly revealed a strange smirk behind them.

Everything happened extremely quickly.

There was a quiet sound. Something flew past Emma's ear.

"Watch out." Out of instinct, Liam subconsciously took a step forward to block Emma.

Poof! It was a whisper, but it was deadly.

Emma watched helplessly as a silencer shot a 10-centimeter-long acupuncture needle, piercing Liam's shoulder.

1/4 88% Chapter 174 The other party was very fast. Emma only caught a glimpse before the person disappeared.

Emma was worried about Liam's health and did not give chase. Although it was just an acupuncture needle, a strong sense of uneasiness arose in her.

"Liam, how are you feeling? I'll take you home. Hang in there..." Emma's voice trembled slightly. Liam was hurt for her sake.

Liam's handsface had instantly turned pale. But he smiled calmly and comforted, "Emma, don't be afraid. I'm fine. I'll be fine after going hand resting for a Emma had never seen such a needle before. However, she had heard the King's Association had many unknown but deadly secret weapons. Furthermore, she had left the organization for a long time.

The last bit of color left Emma's face. If it were someone from the King's Association, the consequences would be unimaginable.

At this moment, a sinister laugh came from behind them.

"I've already told you that once you join the King's Association, you'll be utterly miserable." Dana stared at Emma. Half of her body hung down from the hospital bed. "Even if you beat me, so what? When they find out you have someone you care about and have a weakness, everyone in the King's Association will hunt him down. Emma, this is the curse of joining the King's Association. It's a disgrace. It's a curse you can't get rid of for the rest of your life." Suddenly, Dana screamed. She widened her eyes in shock. Her hand hung down limply.

Emma looked at Dana in shock. She wasn't sure what had happened. She could only watch helplessly as the heart of the once insufferably arrogant killer Dana stopped beating right before her.

Dana was dead.

"Liam, hang in there. I'll bring you back." Emma gritted her teeth. It was not safe here. She immediately left with Liam.

The acupuncture needle was poisonous and could kill Liam in a few seconds.

Emma was temporarily unable to identify this poison. She could only give Liam a life-saving pill first and quickly return to Icovine Estate.

Liam fell into a coma. Everyone in Icovine Estate was in a panic.

88% Chapter 174 +5 Levi locked down this news. However, the uneasiness in his heart was growing. "Madam... Will Mr. Hall be okay this time?" Emma couldn't be sure. Even she had no cure for this poison. However, Emma knew that since the King's Association did not kill her, there had to be room for negotiation.

If Emma couldn't find the cure, no one in the world could... except for that person.

Emma regained her senses and said to Levi, "No matter what the price is, I will save him." After saying this, she immediately turned and walked out of Icovine Estate.

"Madam, where are you going so late at night?" Levi's face was filled with worry. He thought, 'Mr. Hall is unconscious. If anything happened to Mrs. Hall, we will be done for.' Emma left in the silent night looking determined. She only said, "Levi, no matter what happens, protect Liam." After leaving Icovine Estate, Emma ordered her subordinates to protect this place in secret at all costs.

Josiah knew where Emma was going. After guessing her countermeasure, he hesitated for a long time. He knew Emma wouldn't change her mind once she decided something, but he still couldn't help but ask, "Boss, are you seriously going to see him alone?" "Don't worry. He doesn't want dead," Emma said calmly. Dana was right. If she hadn't made a name for herself in the International Boxing Competition, Blaze's identity would not have been noticed so quickly.

But Dana didn't know the reason that person waited until now to make a move. It was not because he wanted to kill Emma or Liam. Instead, he wanted to use Emma.

That person would not keep someone alive because of human nature or friendship. If someone still had value, he wouldn't do anything to the person for a while.

Unless it was like Dana... She was drained of her last bit of value.

Emma took a deep breath.

The car drove at high speed. Two hours later, Emma arrived at the brightly lit ancient castle.

Before Emma could enter, she was stopped by a guard at the entrance. "The King's Association's leader said he doesn't want to see you." In the night, Emma looked at the guard/indifferently.

Bang! In the next second, the guard was knocked to the ground.

09.25 Chapter 174 Emma said, "I'm the one who wants to see him, not the other way around." Seeing this, everyone cup to stop Emma.

Emma glared at them. "Can you win against me?" 88%% The former Blaze was the number one expert of the King's Association. Of course, these people knew that they were inferior to her. They were stunned by her aura and no one dared to make a move.

At this moment, the doors of the been gothic castle opened. A man in a black suit and a mask clapped his hands. "Blaze, it's been a few years since we last met. You've been increasingly domineering." That person's voice was sometimes rough and hoarse, and other times sharp. It was difficult to tell his age.

In reality, no one knew the true identity and gender of the King's Association's leader. They only knew that he was a terrifyingly powerful existence. He was also the only one with a cure for the King's Poison, the strongest and most lethal poison of the King's Association. "What did you poison Liam with?" Emma went straight to the point. "Don't forget, when I promised to capture Dana, you swore to return my freedom."

"I did. But, so what?" The voice under the mask turned into the rough voice of a middle-aged man Dana is dead NO припи Who's going to work for me? You're always the disobedient one. I can only threaten you with the King's Poison." The poison that they used the acupuncture needle to poison Liam was indeed the King's Poison.

Chapter 175

Chapter 175 The King's Poison was the most lethal poison in the King's Association. Other than the King's Association's leader, no one else in the world had a cure. This poison would destroy a person's immune system and eventually cause them to die helplessly.

When Emma heard that the poison in Liam was the King's Poison, she clenched her fists tightly. Her shoulders trembled uncontrollably.

Emma took a step forward, her voice as cold as ice. "Give Liam the antidote immediately. You know the consequences of provoking me. You won't have an easy teither." Emma was the number one killer nurtured by the organization.

The organization's strength had declined over the years.

Emma knew that if it weren't because the leader had no successor, he wouldn't have pestered her.

The masked man sneered. "In terms of strength, I really can't restrain you anymore. But Blaze, you have a fatal weakness. You will never be able to defeat because of that." Emma's eyes were sharp. She said nothing.

The masked man said arrogantly, "As long as you still feel, you will never be the real number one killer. You used to feel for Bunny. Now it's Liam. Go on... Choose. Return to the King's Association, or watch Liam die. I will give you three days to think about it." After Emma left the castle, she drove back to Icovine Estate unscathed.

Josiah was very shocked by this result. "Boss, you're the first person who dared to speak to the King's Association's leader like this and cout unscathed." Otherwise, the guard at her door could have killed Emma many times over.

Emma snorted. "He can't do anything to me." Emma was no longer that little girl who could be controlled by anyone. Instead, she was the world's famous number-one killer, Phantom, and the boxing professional, Blaze.

Josiah asked in confusion, "What are you going to do now? He said you have three days to consider. Boss, will you go back?" Emma's breathing deepened. She wouldn't go back.

It would take three days from the tLiam was poisoned to the tthe poison took effect. Emma had to think 09:25 Fri, 19 Jul G & W Chapter 175 about it carefully. Perhaps there was another way...

88% Many years ago, the King's Association spent ten years destroying a special plant worldwide. Emma thought perhaps this plant was related to the cure for King's Poison. However, after ten years, this plant had almost gone extinct.

If Emma wanted to find it, she had to use all her capabilities. And she might not be able to succeed...

In the middle of the night, Emma stayed by Liam's bed and held his hand tightly. She stared at his sleeping face, her eyelashes fluttering slightly.

Emma bent down and kissed Liam.

After two lifetimes of entanglement, Emma had long seen this man's heart. In this life, Liam was her only obsession after her rebirth.

"Liam, you have to be fine..." Emma repeated silently.

Suddenly, there was a hurried knock on the door. "Madam, bad news. Mr. Brad is here," the butler said.

Emma opened her eyes at once. "What is he doing here at this hour?" Levi also said anxiously, "Someone must have leaked the news. What should we do? Mr. Hall is still unconscious." Liam was now the CEO of the Halls Group. Brad had been eyeing his position. If Brad knew the truth about Liam, he would start a vicious battle in TroIn City.

"Leave it to me. I'll go down now." Emma quickly changed into black silk pajamas. She deliberately messed up her hair and slowly walked down the stairs lazily. She looked like a cat that had just woken up. There was no trace of her nervousness and rushing around.

"Brad, what are you doing at your brother's house so late at night? Are you drunk?" Emma asked.

Of course, Brad did not drink. He kept staring at Emma, hoping to find clues on her face.

However, Emma did not expect Simon to calong. She glanced at Simon and called out coolly, "Simon." Simon was dissatisfied with Emma showing the photoshopped nude photos to everyone. Naturally, he did not give Emma a good attitude.

Brad said sarcastically, "I heard my brother is sick. Emma, why don't you let Dad and I go up to see him?" "Who did you hear that from?" Emma retorted.

Chapter 175 "-" Brad was a little stunned. "Emma, do you mean Liam is fine? Then why didn't he cdown?" "What's he doing down here so late? I wouldn't be here too if it weren't for Simon," Emma retorted.

"Emma, we're just concerned about Liam. Why don't you let us take a look? I'll leave after that," Brad said. "Sure. Go ahead." Unexpectedly, Emma agreed quickly.

Brad wanted to rush up at once.

Suddenly, Simon spoke. "Enough!" He looked angry. Every the saw Emma and Brad arguing, he would be furious. His son was like a retard in front of Emma.

88% 45 Simon felt stupid now. Because of a little gossip, he followed his younger son, who had nothing to do, to Icovine Estate in the middle of the night and made themselves look like clowns before Emma.

"Hmph." Simon looked at Emma coldly, then turned and left.

Brad didn't dare to mess around anymore when he saw his father's reaction.

They didn't get far before Emma pondered and stopped Simon. "Simon, I have something to say. Let Brad go first." Brad did not want to give up. However, Simon scolded, "Don't you find it embarrassing? Get lost." Simon did not believe Liam would be seriously injured so easily. Therefore, in his opinion, everything was just Brad making a fuss.

However, Emma felt that as Liam's father, he had a right to know the truth.

After Brad left, Emma and Simon sat in the living room alone.

Emma made Simon a pot of coffee first. She poured him a cup. Then she told him the whole truth.

Simon was shocked when he heard this. "What did you say? Liam is really..." "Yes," Emma said. "The only way now is to find the cure as soon as possible.

Although Emma had people all over the world, she had always known the Hall family's connections had always been unfathomable. Perhaps with Simon's help, they would have a better chance of winning. Simon was trembling. The cup in his hand almost slipped. "What do say that poison is called?" Emma said, "King's Poison. It's not very well known, but it's one of the most terrifying poisons in the underground market." "How do you know all this?" Simon demanded.

09:25 Fri, 19 Jul Chapter 175 Emma looked at Simon silently. She could not simply reveal she was once the subordinate of the one who produced it.

+5 Simon saw Emma's reaction and understood most of it. He narrowed his eyes. He had long known Emma was not ordinary.

In the past, Simon had admiration for Emma and felt she had the demeanor of a Hall-family's matriarch. But from the looks of it, his son had been in danger because of her repeatedly. He had to get rid of this danger from his son as soon as possible. "I can find the cure but only if you leave Liam," Simon stated.

Emma expected this reaction.

There was a moment of silence in the living room.

The butler and Levi gasped.

Just as everyone was feeling anxious for Emma, she suddenly laughed.

Emma placed her cup on the table.

This time, she didn't even bother with civilities. "Mr. Hall, I will not leaven Liam, I'm his wife. Of course, I'll do my best to save him. But don't forget, he's also your biological son. Whether you save him or not is your own business."

Chapter 176

Chapter 176 +25%1 Emma turned and went upstairs. She didn't even send Simon off. Instead, she asked the butler to send him off. Simon was so angry that he almost fainted. However, he could not do anything to Emma. After all, whether it was Grail or Youth, he could not underestimate either of her identity...

Simon left Icovine Estate angrily. He would never allow Emma to continue harming Liam...

Emma and Simon sent their subordinates to search for the antidote at the stime.

However, the King's Association's elimination over the last ten years was too thorough. Even finding one plant was extremely difficult.

Two days passed. Whether it was Simon or Emma, they did not find a trace of this plant.

There was not much tleft. If Emma could not find it, she could only...

Finally, Josiah could not hold it in anymore. "Boss, there's something I've been hiding from you..." Emma had not slept for two full days. She sat beside Liam, perked up slightly, and asked calmly, "What?" Josiah said, "Actually, Liam... is Toby who fought with you that day. He was the one who secretly protected you from Blanche that time. The entire Team Thunder is his..." When Josiah told Emma about Liam's identity, she was shocked for a few minutes, but it was expected. That was why Liam had so many experts around him. Even the second-best assassin, Daley, could not get close to him...

After hesitating for a moment, Emma found Levi. "Levi, do you trust me?" "Ma'am?" Levi was confused.

Emma said, "Liam is Team Thunder's Toby, right?" Team Thunder was an existence comparable to the King's Association. The King's Association's leader probably did not know Liam was Team Thunder's leader. Otherwise, he would not have acted rashly when such a huge matter was involved.

Shock flashed across Levi's face. "Ma'am, how did you...

"Shh." Emma glanced outside the door. After confirming there was no one there, she said, "Charter a plane now and use Team Thunder's nto go to Aubreland to look for this person... We still have a day. Go and cback quickly. There may still be time." 09:19 Chapter 176 If there were still no results, Emma would compromise with the King's Association tomorrow night.

25% Levi was surprised that Emma already knew everything. However, the situation was urgent now. He could not care less and could only set off immediately.

When Emma returned to the bedroom, she saw that Liam was still unconscious and sighed. She held a towel and gently wiped his eyebrows, nose, and lips. She thought, 'This will end soon. I will definitely wake you up.

In the latter half of the night, Emma fell asleep leaning against the bed.

The next day, at five o'clock, Emma was woken by a knock on the door. "Madam, there's a letter for you," the butler said.

Emma was not in the mood to care about a letter. She turned on her phone and was relieved to see that Levi had successfully arrived in Aubreland. "Leave it there." "Alright. Madam, you haven't eaten for a few days. I'll get the kitchen to send sfood up. Eat something, at least," the butler said.

"Okay." Emma did not have much of an appetite, but she still agreed.

Anxious and emotionally hollowed out, Emma opened the letter. After reading the contents, her eyes widened. The letter was written in a coded language. Ordinary people would think it was a prank after reading it, but Emma had already learned hundreds of languages in code over the years in the black market. Very few people knew the code in this letter. In the entire world, there would not be more than five.

With just a glance, Emma understood the code in the letter.

The butler saw Emma's demeanor and asked, "Madam, who sent this letter?" Emma suddenly stood up. "Liam is saved." Although Emma did not know who sent this letter, according to her numerous years of extensive medical analysis, the letter included the cure for King's Poison.

Moreover, the sender could use this code and knew Emma could understand it. This meant that not only did the sender know her full identity, but had medical skills better than hers.

Emma did not know why the sender would help them.

After formulating a cure according to the given method, Emma observed Liam's symptoms. Liam was indeed cured.

09:19 Sal Chapter 176 The butler could not suppress his excitement. "Madam, is Mr. Hall cured? Don't we have to wait for that plant?" Emma shook her head. "My previous guess was right. They destroyed the plant samples worldwide because they were afraid the cure for King's Poison would leak out. Without this medicine, it would be very difficult to recover from the poison." "Then Mr. Hall..." The butler's heart skipped a beat again.

Emma said, "But I followed the method in the letter and used acupuncture to get rid of the poison. The toxins are almost out of Liam by now. Although a small dosage of King's Poison can be fatal, Liam's physical fitness is much better than ordinary people. He only needs tto metabolize it." "That's great." After the butler learned that Liam was fine, he wanted to kneel and thank Emma. He knew that even with that letter, without Emma's decoding and medical skills, Liam would not have survived. "Madam, it's all thanks to you-" Seeing this, Emma quickly stopped the butler. "No need to make a fuss. I had to save him." Now that Liam was out of danger, Emma was relieved. However, after what happened recently, she was exhausted.

Emma thought, 'Who is the sender? How could this person know so well? The sender didn't even leave a name and helped them without asking for anything... Emma frowned slightly. Suddenly, her vision turned dark and she fell to the ground...

When Emma woke, Liam was already awake. He held her hand and looked at her without blinking. He didn't even look away for a second.

"Emma," Liam called out.

"Liam, you're awake." Emma felt like she was dreaming.

Seeing that Liam was unscathed, Emma finally smiled.

Liam had just heard what Emma had done for him when he was unconscious. He gripped her hand tightly, fighting the desire to possess her deeply. "You've suffered the last few days, Emma." Emma shook her head. "It's nothing... Let's not talk about this. You haven't fully recovered yet. You have to pay more attention to your recovery." Liam needed to properly metabolize the remaining poison.

On the other hand, Emma was unwilling to return to the King's Association this time. Now that she knew the antidote to the King's Poison, that person would deal with her even more harshly. In fact, he might even kill her...

If it were in the past, Emma would have had a small chance of winning against the entire King's Association alone. But Emma now knew Liam owned Team Thunder. It was not that easy for the King's Association to deal with Team Thunder.

After a few days of rest, Emma and Liam discussed their countermeasures.

Emma knew Liam's identity, and Liam knew she was Blaze. They decided to join forces and officially declare war on the King's Association. This time, they wanted the King's Association to cease to exist...

Chapter 177

Chapter 177 By the tEmma returned to Charon Military School, the mid-term exams for the students had already ended. It was less than two months until the International Krot Competition.

Emma had won first place in the Youth Boxing Competition and becthe spokesperson of the National Boxing Association.

Although Emma did not take the midterm exams, she was already recognized as having the perfect score.

When Emma returned to school, Erza cto welcher. Although he now knew Emma was Liam's woman, and Liam was someone he could not afford to offend and could not compare to, interacting more with beautiful women was the only good thing he had going in this boring military school.

When Emma returned to school, Erza begged Lane to welcher together.

However, when they just met up, a slender girl in a green military-uniform with long eyelashes and an oval face ran toward Erza. "Erza, I have a move that I've been unable to master. Can you teach me?" The girl's voice was very flirty. Erza was a little stunned, but he was waiting for Emma. "Sure, but I'm a little busy now. Maybe next time." As Erza spoke, Emma walked over.

When Erza saw Emma, he spoke with a completely different attitude and enthusiasm. "Emma, honey, you're finally back." The girl naturally felt the difference in Erza's attitude toward them. She clenched her fists and secretly looked at Emma. 'She is indeed very beautiful,' she thought, 'She is much prettier than me.' Faith Jennings gritted her teeth. It was rumored that Erza liked the most beautiful women, but he was cold to her. She thought, 'Is it because I'm not beautiful enough?' Faith also knew Emma and smiled awkwardly. "Emma, you're back." Emma nodded without saying anything. She asked Erza, "What are you doing here?" Erza scratched his head. "I'm here to welcyou. Do you not like it?" "I didn't ask you to welcme," Emma replied.

Erza started, "Hey, how could you..." Emma said to Faith, "Don't you want to learn a move? Go on. Let him teach you." She wanted to get rid of Erza as 09:19 Sat, 20 Jul Chapter 177 soon as possible.

However, Erza was not happy. He chased after Emma and left the Faith behind. He said perfunctorily, "We'll talk about it next time." He didn't even look at Faith.

Faith's expression becuglier.

A few of her best friends hiding in the bushes also cought. Everyone went to comfort Faith.

One of them said, "Erza is a snob. Didn't he fall for Emma because she is currently ranked first in the boxing association?" Another added, "I'm sure he hasn't seen your Twitter photo album." "That's right. Faith, don't be sad. You're the goddess in military training who became popular all over the country recently. No man will be unmoved by your photos," a third remarked.

Faith found comfort from her best friends. "Really? But I think Emma is much prettier than me... Otherwise, Erza wouldn't have ignored me..." At this point, Faith lowered her head again.

"No way. You look more innocent than Emma," one of them said.

Another added, "Yes. Although Emma is good-looking, her facial features are too sharp. Men don't like that..." Faith's friends tried their best to comfort Faith. Their words were effective.

After morning classes, Emma changed clothes in the changing room and prepared to go for lunch.

Charon Military School was not like other schools. Their military training was intense.

At noon, everyone was very hungry. They had to fight for food.

Emma quickly changed and prepared to leave. However, she realized the lock of her locker had been pried open, and the clothes inside were all gone. Even her meal card was gone.

All students had to have a meal card to eat.

Lane happened to eat with Emma at this time.

Seeing this, Lane immediately shouted at the other girls in the changing room. "Who stole Emma's stuff?" No one answered.

Chapter 177 Emma had an indifferent expression as she closed the locker.

As Emma shut the locker door, she stared at the reflection of the scene behind her for a while. "Did anyone touch my things when I wasn't here?" Emma knew that Lane would watch over her stuff for her.

Lane said, "No. I went to your dormitory to get information once. Your things were fine and no one touched them." In other words, it was not the accumulation of old grudges, but a new grudge.

There were about five or six girls in the changing room.

Emma remembered one of them.

Faith was also there, but she lowered her head and did not say anything.

A girl beside Faith stood up and said, "What kind of tone is that? Do you think you can talk to other students like that just because you're first in the boxing association?" "That's right. We didn't steal," another added.

Of course, Emma would not simply suspect anyone.

However, they did not know that when Emma was closing the locker door, she saw these girls chattering to each other in the reflection of the metal locker as if waiting to see her make a fool of herself.

Emma instantly knew what was going on. She didn't have to think to deal with these people. She walked straight over and looked loftily at Faith.

Faith raised her head and looked at Emma innocently. "What's wrong?" Emma smiled. "You're Faith, right? Are these your friends?" "They're my friends," Faith replied.

Emma continued, "Let give you a piece of advice. Erza doesn't like girls who play tricks secretly. It's fine for e.

Faith immediately clenched her fists. Having been stabbed in the heart, she could no longer pretend) "I do like Erza. Even though he doesn't like me, my feelings for him are real. I'm serious about it. Why are you mocking me?" Faith's tone was pitiful. Her shoulders were shaking. It was as if she had suffered a huge grievance.

09:19 Sat, 20 Jul Chapter 177 Seeing Faith like this, Emma felt that it was hilarious.

Lane pointed at Faith and retorted, "What's wrong with you? When did Emma stop you from liking Erza? You're the one who's doing bad things and still being reasonable. Hurry up and return Emma's stuff." She snorted. The few lackeys beside Faith were furious. With a bang, they threw all of Emma's items to the ground.

Lane quickly helped Emma pick up her clothes. She was completely enraged.

Lane rushed up, wanting to beat them up.

Emma pulled Lane back. "Forget it, Lane." She had been quite tired recently from dealing with King's Association, investigating the truth behind Justine's death, and participating in the competition.

Emma couldn't be bothered to care about these trivial matters in school. It was more important for her to take her meal card so she could eat.

Emma wanted to let them off, but something happened in the afternoon. During lunch, Emma and Liam spoke on the phone for 20 minutes.

After hanging up, Lane saw a message from someone nearby. "Fuck. Why is she so pretentious?" "What's wrong? Letsee," Emma said.

Chapter 178

Chapter 178 Lane quickly handed the phone to Emma.

A Twitter user called "Aim for the Sky, Faithie" had just sent a tweet. [My fitness is bad, my results are average, and it's so difficult to survive in military school. When the people I care about are bullied, I can't speak up for them.....

But I mustn't give up. I must work hard and make a nfor myself.] It even included several encouraging emoticons.

"Faithie" has millions of followers on Twitter. She becpopular because of a recent set of photographs of Charon Military School's students in uniforms.

Emma roughly looked at it. Other than sselfies, the tweets on Twitter were all encouraging and positive. When this tweet was posted on Twitter, it immediately received a bunch of comments.

One of them typed: [Fuck. Who bullied our Faithie? Reveal her. We will avenge you.] Another said: [Hugs, Faithie. Don't cry. You must have been wronged. It's okay. You're beautiful.] There were a few comments which had the most likes. It seemed like they were sent by Faith's best friends. The first friend wrote: [Isn't she only the champion of the last competition? She's bullying others just because she has good physical fitness and good results.] A second friend added: [Honey, don't be sad. We're with you.] These people did not nEmma, but anyone with a discerning eye could tell at a glance that they wanted to involve Emma and let the netizens bully her. After all, there were only so many people in the sschool who were famous and had good results.

The first person the netizens thought of was Emma, who had recently won the International Boxing Competition. Someone asked: [Is it Emma?] Another pointed out: [From Emma's looks, it is obvious she is not to be trifled with. She must have bullied Faith.] There were one or two comments who wanted to cyberbully Emma, but were quickly suppressed by other comments.

A netizen remarked: [Are you guys kidding me? Emma is our current hero in traditional boxing. And she's the winner of Grail Hero Emblem. She's not on the slevel as us at all. Why would she target your Faithie for?] Another commented: [Isn't this woman just a small intecelibrity who becfamous with a set of photos? How dare she involve our national hero?] Chapter 178 These comments were not paid for by Emma or written by Lane.

When Lane saw these comments, she was finally a little relieved. "Faith still wants to try this kind of cyberbullying. They probably didn't expect your popularity online to be much higher than theirs now." Emma pursed her lips and smiled. Originally, she did not want to fuss over it. She had already let them off this morning. However, she didn't expect them to be so insensible.

Emma didn't want to be nice anymore. "Giveyour phone." Lane quickly passed the phone to Emma.

Emma's slender and agile fingers danced on the screen quickly. In just a few minutes, strings of codes flowed on the screen.

The next second, Emma hit send. She exited the program and opened Twitter.

Faith's sarcastic tweet that was gaining in popularity had disappeared.

When Lane saw what Emma did. she could not help but remarked silently, "Damn. Emma's good." At the stime, Faith stared at her phone in shock. "What's going on?" The website officials did not send a message saying Faith had violated the rules. However, when she went to the draft box to look for the tweet, it was also gone. Hundreds of thousands of comments had disappeared in an instant.

Faith quickly searched for her non the Inteand realized all the relevant news was gone. She wondered what the hell was going on.

It wasn't easy for Faith to becfamous. She didn't know why her nand photos disappeared on the Internet. All her painstaking efforts had vanished. There was no record at all, Emma had erased all traces of Faith on the Internet.

In this fast digital era, there were countless intecelibrities like Faith.

As the Intelegend Stox, it did not take much effort to deal with such a morally corrupt, thieving intecelibrity.

After deleting Faith's account, new intecelbrities would still continue to appear. Everyone would immediately forget about her. It was direct, simple, and merciless.

Chapter 178 25%1 At the headquarters of the Halls Group, Simon was coming to the company for a meeting.

Everyone was ready to go. Liam was also sitting in the CEO's office.

The computer in front of Liam was filled with complicated data analysis diagrams. Dressed in a black suit, he looked like a business elite as he listened attentively to Levi's report.

After all the business talk, Levi adjusted his glasses. "Mr. Hall, we've checked the address of the coded letter. It is fake. There's no such address internationally. It looks like the sender is deliberately hiding his address." Liam played with the black fountain pen in his hand. "If we can't find the address too, could it be someone close to Dad?" Levi shook his head. "According to the people around Mr. Simon, he has also been trying to find the antidote, but to no avail." Therefore, the sender was neither Simon's friend nor someone from Emma's side. Instead, the sender was a completely independent and unfamiliar person to them.

They were surprised that there was such a powerful mysterious person in this world above Team Thunder and King's Association. It was hard to tell if such a powerful force was friend or foe.

However, be it friend or foe, they had to be on guard.

Liam ordered, "Tell everyone to be careful, especially on Mrs. Hall's side." Levi understood what Liam meant. "Alright, Mr. Hall, Don't worry. We will protect Mrs. Hall." After Levi left, Liam thought of Emma. Intense longing instantly overwhelmed him. He thought of her curly eyelashes and glowing skin. She had a bright smile and a cute canine tooth.

Liam couldn't wait any longer. He glanced at his watch. It was break tfor Charon Military School. Seconds later, Emma received a call from Liam, "Hello, hubby?" Liam felt refreshed when he heard Emma call him 'hubby. His brows relaxed slightly. "What are you doing?" "I just finished training. I'm exhausted. I'm going back to the dormitory to take a shower," Emma replied.

"I miss you, honey," Liam said.

The sudden confession made Emma's heart skip a beat.

In a beat. Everm though Liam had doted on her many times, when he professed his love to her, she would still be seduced. 09:20 Sat, 20 Jul Chapter 178 Emma licked her lips and said playfully, "Do you want to cand helpshower?" Emma was teased and teased back.

These words instantly made the cold m Liam sitting in the CEO's office smile meaningfully. His Adam's apple bobbed and his voice was deep.

"Hm? If you misso much, then wait." "Oh, I was just joking. Don't cover." Emma knew that Liam would really rush to Charon Military School. If he came, she would be done for.

Liam chuckled. His voice was very sexy. "Train well. When you cback next time, don't complain about being tired again." Emma went quiet.

"Did you hear what I said?" Liam repeated.

Unable to withstand Liam's advances, Emma blushed slightly. "Yes, sir." After hanging up, Emma walked alone in the school with a smile.

When Lane saw Emma, she noticed her usually glowing skin was a little pink.

Lane said innocently, "Miss Wilson, are you very hot today? Why don't you drink swater from very cooling." my bottle? It's Lane even fanned Emma as she spoke.

Emma didn't know how to explain it.

Only Erza, who was a player, recognized it at a glance. "Tsk. You like you're in heat. How charming.

Honey, are you in the mood for love? Wantto satisfy you?" X

Chapter 179

Chapter 179 Emma threw a punch. "Do you think I'll not kick your ass?" Only a player like Erza would dare to tease Emma like this.

Erza covered his head and fled. "I was wrong. Sorry." They chatted and laughed as they walked around the campus.

Under a pine tree in the distance, Faith clenched her fists. Her nails dug into her palms as she watched everything jealously. She thought, 'Erza, I've liked you for 10 years.' Faith had never seen Erza so devoted to any girl.

Faith stared at Emma's back and her eyes suddenly turned cold. She thought, 'Emma... I won't let you have it easy!' The Halls Group meeting today was related to the new project. It was a serious matter, and everyone felt anxious.

Only Liam was calm and composed. It was obvious he had everything under control for this negotiation. As expected, the project ended up in the hands of Liam's team. There was no suspense.

After the meeting ended, Simon suddenly said, "Liam, stay for a bit." Levi understood at once. He bowed and left first.

Only Liam and Simon were left in the room.

Liam instantly knew Simon wanted to talk about private matters.

Simon clenched his fists and cleared his throat. He went straight to the point, "I'm not satisfied with Emma. I hope you can separate. If you agree, all my shares and assets will be notarized-immediately and transferred to you. You should know what I mean." Simon knew how capable his two sons were. However, the matter of inheritance had never been settled. He had his considerations.

These words undoubtedly meant Liam would be officially listed as the heir, This was the position Brad wanted his entire life. If Liam agreed, Brad's plan would fail.

However, Simon's condition was to separate from Emma.

1/4 09:20 Sat, 20 Jul Gu Chapter 179 Liam's face instantly turned as cold as ice. Without any hesitation, he spat out, "No." □24% Liam refused so quickly that Simon was surprised. The dignified middle-aged Simon instantly glared at Liam. "Do you know what you're saying?" "I know." Liam stood up immediately. There was no room for negotiation on this. "I will not leave Emma, no matter the conditions, threats, or consequences." It was a triple refusal. Liam's tone was firm and resolute. He pushed his way and left.

Simon sat alone on the chair with his face flushed. The veins on his forehead were bulging, and his hands trembled with anger.

Derek was a little worried. He had never seen Simon so angry before. He hurriedly went forward to comfort him. "Mr. Simon, it's not healthy to be so angry. Mr. Liam might not be able to accept it for a while. He might change his mind in the future." Simon shook his head. "He's so disobedient." Simon knew his son best. Liam had been alone since he was young. Once he made up his mind, no one could change his mind. It seemed like it was for him to take action. He definitely could not let his most outstanding heir die for a woman.

Simon's eyes darkened. "What's the name of the girl you mentioned last time?" "You mean Faith Jennings?" Derek asked.

"Yes. Her," Simon said.

Derek said, "She's Emma's classmate. They had a conflict not long ago." "I know." Simon narrowed his eyes meaningfully. "The Jennings family's business has been bleak all these years. She likes that Burnson family's son, but he doesn't like her." Simon continued, "Tell her that if she does as I say, I can get her what she wants." Simon had a piece of information that no one else had. With this information and Faith's help, this time, he could make Emma disappear from Liam's side forever.

The next day, Emma woke up early for morning exercise.

Summer had passed, and it was autumn. It was getting colder and dawn later.

D 24% Chapter 179 Though Emma woke up at the same time, the sky, which used to be starting to light up, was still dark out. Emma took a breath every three steps and ran at a uniform speed. Suddenly, a figure caught up to her from behind.

"Hey, Emma. I've been waiting for you for a long time." That girl panted as she ran up to Emma. "I was right. You came to exercise early every day." Emma did not look at the person, but she remembered the voice. It had been a few months since she woke up early to train on the field, but she had never seen Faith.

Emma did not stop. As she ran, she asked expressionlessly, "Why are you waiting for me?" Seeing Emma was willing to talk to her, Faith smiled and said, "I've thought about it carefully. We were wrong last time, but that wasn't my idea. No matter what, it's my fault that I didn't stop them. I'm the one who let you down.

Let's make up." Emma did not speak. She didn't agree or refuse. Emma just felt that Faith wasn't her friend to begin with. It didn't matter if they reconciled or not. She didn't care.

Faith was a little anxious when she saw that Emma was silent. "I know my results aren't as good as Lane's, and I don't have anything good to show for. You might not like me as a friend, but I sincerely want to apologize." "Okay," Emma said and increased her running speed. It was obvious she wanted to leave Faith behind. "Okay? Just that?" Faith thought. She clenched her fists even tighter and rushed forward with all her might. "In that case, take this. Consider it my apology gift to you." She laughed.

Emma didn't even look at it. "No need. I'll remember what you said, I am running now, so it's not convenient." Emma didn't take it. She ran even faster, not wanting to be disturbed.

Faith's footsteps finally stopped. She could no longer run. She sat on the ground and panted heavily.

Staring at Emma, Faith's eyes were filled with resentment. She thought, Damn. Emma is such a tough nut to crack.

Since Emma didn't accept it, Faith could only use other methods. She would not let Emma have it easy...

During lunch break, everyone was reading military theory books in the classroom when Maya walked in and O said, "Everyone, stop for a moment. The results of the midterm exam are out. This year is special as the semester is short. There was originally a monthly exam before the end of the semester, but this monthly exam has been canceled." 09.20 384 Chapter 179 When everyone heard that the exam had been canceled, they cheered.

Maya knocked on the podium. "Don't celebrate too soon. The final exam is very difficult. You have to train hard. If your results are not good, you will be expelled." The classroom, which had been in an uproar just now, instantly fell silent. The students all looked troubled.

Maya looked around the classroom Krot and continued, "From tomorrow onward, the registration for the Krot Competition will officially begin. Our school has two places this year. There's no gender restriction. So if you want to participate, you have to prepare well. Write a résumé and put it in my office by 5:00 p.m. tomorrow." As Maya spoke, a teacher outside the classroom suddenly clookng for her.

After Maya left, only the students were left in the classroom. They immediately started discussing.

Emma's roommate, Rielle, turned to look at her. "Miss Wilson, didn't you ask about my sister's participation last time? You can participate in it yourself this time. You will participate, right?" Charon Military School had never won the Krot Competition before. If Emma could win the championship, it would mean something.

Everyone gathered around and asked, "That's right, Emma. Are you participating this year?" X

Chapter 180

Chapter 180 Emma was going to participate in it.

"Yeah." She nodded, making no attempt to hide it.

Even though she already knew the cause of Dummy's death, participating in the Krot Competition was part of her and Liam's plan.

One of the students said, "Miss Wilson. It's great that you can participate. You'll definitely win an award." "Hey, stop talking! Stop talking! The teacher is back." Maya suddenly returned to the classroom with a serious expression.

The atmosphere changed immediately.

Maya's tone was a little worried. "Someone from the Ministry of Education just cby and said that an important secret chip from our school archives is missing and they suspect it was stolen. If anyone has seen it or found it, report it immediate/ This is a serious matter. Individuals involved in it could face life imprisonment." Upon hearing "life imprisonment", the classroom fell silent.

Everyone looked at each other, feeling a little frightened.

"What's going on? Isn't the school archives usually off-limits?" "I didn't even know there's such a place in our school. Where is it exactly?" "It shouldn't be stolen by a student, right? What use would a chip like that be?" While everyone was discussing, Emma subconsciously puckered her brown.

She recalled Faith suddenly wanting to give her a gift on the field in the morning. At that time, she found it very strange as Faith was unaccountably friendly, so she reckoned that Faith must be up to something.

Now it seemed that the gift was highly suspicious.

She had to be on guard.

In the afternoon, Emma asked Faith to meet with her.

"What was that thing you wanted to give this morning? Take it out and let see," said Emma.

Faith was shocked. She did not expect Emma to suspect her so quickly.

09:20 Sat, 20 Jul Gu Chapter 180 Fortunately, she had the foresight to replace the item with something else earlier.

Faith said innocently, "This brooch I made... I want to give it to you." Emma took a look and held it in her hand to examine it.

She couldn't be sure if the brooch was the gift Faith had intended to give her in the morning.

But for now, the brooch seemed normal, and there was no chip inside.

Emma glanced at it and handed it back.

"It's ugly." She still didn't accept it and left after saying that.

3.24%1 Emma did not like Faith. She couldn't pinpoint why, but she felt that Faith was hypocritical, so she didn't show any kindness to the latter.

Once again, Faith felt humiliated. She stood stiffly on the spot, and her face was gloomy.

Anger and shenveloped her, prompting her to expedite her revenge.

Faith pushed forward the plan that afternoon. and Simon was fully aware of her every move.

In the study, Derek asked, "Mr. Hall, Faith has taken action earlier. Should we stop her?" According to the original plan, Faith was supposed to act in a few days.

But Emma's rejection infuriated her and made her lose her sanity.

Therefore, she started the plan earlier.

Simon had expected that Faith might be impulsive, but he didn't think she would be so easily provoked. "Hmph, another useless fool." Fortunately, he was prepared. "Edit this video and send it to the management of Charon Military School." Derek glanced at it and roughly guessed what Simon wanted to do.

He thought, 'Mr. Hall has been prepared, waiting for the right moment to strike!' Derek looked at the thing and figured that Emma would probably be in serious trouble this time.

He just nodded and said, "Alright, Mr. Hall. I'll see to it now." 09:20 Sat, 20 Jul Gu A Chapter 180 Charon Military School.

Emma had handed in her phone during training, so she had no idea what was happening.

After Simon sent the video footage, Charon Military School acted immediately.

This matter quickly reached Liam's ears.

Therefore, when Emma was called to the office by the teacher, she saw not only the police but also Liam. She vaguely sensed something. Instead of entering the room, she calmly observed from outside.

She saw the police had brought handcuffs.

Judging from the situation, she could roughly tell the seriousness of it.

Hence, she had to be extremely careful with her words and actions.

Emma took a deep breath and pushed open the door with a calm expression.

Seeing her, Maya anxiously said, "Emma, we all know you couldn't have done anything that would harm the interests of the masses, but now a video has surfaced at this juncture, which is very unfavorable to you." Emma walked over and glanced at the computer screen.

24% The video on the computer was the surveillance footage that showed her sneaking into the school archives that night.

She remembered that she had skillfully avoided all the surveillance cameras that day.

However, the camera in this video was one she had completely missed.

That day, she had gone to find information about Justine and hadn't touched anything else.

However, now that the video had been exposed, she had naturally become the suspect.

Her expression was calm. Her chin twitched slightly as she intoned, in as m can prove didn't take anything out that night." Liam's eyes lit up when he heard that. "Emma, it would be great if you have concrete evidence or a witness." "Yes." Emma nodded. "There was another person there that night who can testify for me." The police asked, "Who?" Emma replied, "Mr. Rivera." 09:20 Sat, 20 Jul G Chapter 180 Richard Rivera.

Everyone present knew this name.

He was a hero with a reputation for integrity, and also Emma's uncle.

Technically, testimony between relatives isn't always considered entirely credible.

But when the school reviewed the surveillance footage again, they indeed saw Richard that night.

If he was involved, things would get more complicated.

The police had initially intended to arrest Emma.

However, the involvement of Richard meant it was beyond their purview and required higher authorities to step in

As they were discussing whether to take Emma away, JerZahn, the founder of Charon Military School said, "Everyone, please calm down. I can vouch for Richard. He's my student. He will never do anything to betray the country. With him overseeing, I believe Emma won't either!" Jerwas highly respected in the community.

The police followed the protocol and gave Emma a little buffer time.

Before leaving, the lead police officer respectfully said to Liam, "Mr. Hall, the higher-ups are paying a lot of attention to this matter I'm guessing that before long, there will be new instructions. The best course of action for you now is to find the chip within 48 hours. If not, once the situation is reported after 48 hours, things will become more complicated." It was a serious matter. By then, it would be beyond the control of Liam or Richard.

Even though Emma was undoubtedly innocent, no one knew how things would Any misstep could result in her facing life imprisonment! As the crowd dispersed, the atmosphere in the room grew heavy.

pan out.

The composed and dignified Liam said, "Levi, take your team and find the chip within 48 hours."
