

Second Chances Protecting Mrs. Hall by Colby Stanford

Chapter 191

Chapter 191 After Lane and Rielle returned to the team, the head of the school gave another speech.

Finally, Charon Military School's founder, Jerome, personally sejt Emma and Erza to their car.

Jerhad always admired these two students and had high expectations of them.

Before they left. Jerstood outside the car window and said to Emma, "Emma, Mr. Hall already mentioned tothat he will be waiting for you over in Yenovia. Your mind will be at ease during the competition. You will definitely be able to win a grand slam!" Only then did Emma realize that Liam had truly prepared to pick her up from the airport. Even Jerknew about it.

Erza pursed his lips and blew at the fringe on his forehead. He said in a roguish manner, 'It's good you have your boyfriend waiting there. You already have someone overseas ready to take you to the competition.' "Erza, don't be so cheeky," Jersaid with a smile. "Your grandfather said that if you can't get first place this time, I should directly recommend you to the army." Erza was at a loss, Fine. I'll stop talking and pretend to be mute, alright? Erza was annoyed.

When Erza and Emma arrived at the Yenovia airport, the sky was filled with dark clouds, just like last time.

After Emma and Erza picked up their luggage, they saw a man with Hilopian facial features standing out from the crowd at the airport.

Standing at about 6 foot 2, Liam did not look short among the Peksians. He looked handsand reserved as he waved at Emma.

"Emma, Liam called.

Emma was pushing her luggage and immediately sped. "Liam, my love!" Charon Military School had closed-door training, so it had been a few days since she had seen Liam.

"Airplane food tastes terrible. I want to eat steak." Emma whined "I will make arrangements, Liam assured her.

Liam hugged her waist dotingly. Before they left, he even glance at Erza behind her.

"Is this your classmate, Erza?" He had met Erza a few times. The young womanizer of the Burton family was quite famous in TroIn City. Levi had also told him that Erza usually hung around Emma in school.

"Want to join us? Liam asked Erza.

Liam's voice was very calm, but it carried an inexplicable domineering tone that only high-ranking people had. Of course, he was not really inviting Erza.

He just asked this question to declare that Emma was his woman Erza was used to looking sloppy and rarely felt suppressed, but when he saw Liam, he felt overpowered 08:53 Mon, Jul Chapter 191 Erza touched the tip of his nose and pushed his suitcase forward quickly. "No, I leave for practice now? Emma raised her eyebrows and did not say anything.

Then, she went to the underground garage with Liam, and they drove out of the airport.

As they drove through the streets of Yenovia, the night was cold.

After a good meal, Liam and Emma drove to her hotel.

Emma sat in the passenger seat and reached out the window to feel the cold evening breeze.

It had rained, and the air felt fresh as she breathed it in.

She relaxed for a moment, then closed the window.

The atmosphere becquiet and intimate. Only then did Emma ask Liam, "By the way, what's going on with the King's Association?" Liam was behind the wheel. He said, "Everything's going as planned." They're trying to get at you in the Krot Competition, the sway they did with Justine five years ago." F10 When Emma heard this, she secretly clenched her fists.

"With adding a high-volt to the low pile net?" Liam took out the detailed plan that was used back then.

"Here's an analysis of what happened to Justine, Liam stated.

Justine joined the King's Association back then. Of course, they had her physical data." "She had a delicate physique and had undergone intense training. At that time, her heart rate was very high. Back then, they used an electric current of about 50 volts to stop her heart." "The electricity only went through her twice. It was so fast that no one noticed." Emma listened to Liam describe what happened and grabbed the paper tightly. Her knuckles turned pale, and she wrinkled the paper, leaving evidence of her anger, "The day after tomorrow, at the competition, I will definitely expose their evil deeds to the public... She stated.

The tournament was just around the corner, and both Emma and Erza had reduced the training sessions they had.

For the past two days, the coach had emphasized he would let the rest and recuperate. At their level, it was normal to do this, and both of them were fine with it.

However, according to the organizer's rules, all athletes in the Knot Competition would be in pairs and share hotel rooms.

Emma was on her own and had a luxurious suite to herself....

The coach immediately remembered what Jerhad said before they left the other day. Emma's boyfriend was waiting for her here in Yenovia Emma would have a room for herself. It was probably her "boyfriend" who arranged it.

The coach thought long and hard. He was really anxious.

Chapter 191 He was thinking about how ip subtly remind Emma to relax and not tire her body before the competition, especially during a certain exercise....

However, when he was about to mouth these words, he looked at Emma's exquisite and innocent face. He could not say them.

What if I'm just overthinking? Wouldn't that makelook very wretched? He pondered.

"Hey, Emma." He called out to her.

"Yes?" Emma answered.

Emma was deep into a stretching session. The competition was tomorrow. The coach avoided the issue for a while, but he was still afraid that something would go wrong. He asked Emma indirectly, "How have you been finding Yenovia these past few days? Have you acclimatized well?" "I mean... well, you sleep well at night, don't you? The coach really wanted to ask that.

"Well, everyone else sleeps in pairs, and you're alone. I have no way of understanding your situation, so that's why I'm asking you.

The coach tried to sound as discreet as possible, but he was a military man.

No matter how he tried to hide it, he sounded very straightforward. The more he spoke, the stranger his questions became. Towards the end, Emma did not have any reaction, but her face turned red.

Emma did not think too much of the coach's words. She just said that she slept well and then went back to continue her stretch.

Erza, who was listening in, covered with a sly look on his face. "Emma, you've been with Liam for the past few nights, right?" Emma gave him a bewildered look.

Erza quickly made his point. "The coach meant to say that you guys must restrain yourselves for a few days." Emma almost spat out a mouthful of water. "Pervert, why are you thinking about that?" Liam had not slept with her for the past few nights.

He did so for a similar reason. Liam was afraid that he wouldn't be able to control himself and would fire Emma out before the competition. Search the index website on Google to access chapters of early and in the highest quality.

Emma was not too worried about the results of tomorrow's competition. However she had to be fully focused to deal with the King's Association. Before going to bed, Emma wore the special black opal necklace that Liam had given her.

She closed her eyes and gently stroked the rose gold pendant with her fingers.

There was a small button on the side of the pendant.

1 Tomorrow, as soon as I reach the finish line-push this button. She reminded herself.

After all these years, the feud between her and the King's Association was going to come to an end...

The next day, Emma woke up and was taken to the competition venue to warm up.

08.53 Mon, Jul 22 Chapter 191 The Krot Competition was a world-class competition that seriously implemented individual track races.

Emma and Erza participated in the women's and men's 400m steeplechase races, respectively. It was similar to what she had done in her first monthly exam at Charon Military School. It was a beautiful day. The sky was clear, and there was no wind or rain.

Emma followed the other athletes to the track.

She was in lane 3, which was the lane Justine was in.

Emma slowed down her breathing before the race began.

As the gunshot sounded, she ran with so much energy. She was a few meters ahead of the other participants from the beginning.

"Good job!" Emma's coach shouted.

When the coach saw Emma's start, he stood up excitedly in the technical area.

"Good job. Emma, con!" The coach could not control the excitement in his heart.

'If nothing goes wrong, Emma will win Charon Military School's first gold medal in the Krot Competition!' He firmly believed this.

Chapter 192

Chapter 192 In another location was a gothic castle surrounded by ivy vines.

The master of the King's Association stood in front of a huge screen that was 9.84 feet tall and 16.4 feet long, examining Emma's current situation! On the screen, Emma was running extremely fast, looking determined to win Wherever she ran past, waves of cheers erupted.

Blaze was indeed the best and was even better than the master's strongest subordinate, Dana.

Unfortunately, these were the proteges that the master had personally trained...

If they couldn't be of use to him, he would just show them no mercy...

The masked man revealed a strange smile under his mask. None of his subordinates behind him dared to breathe loudly.

"Are the people we previously contacted from Yenovia ready?" Yes, Sir, responded one of the subordinates.

The masked man took a sip of red wine. "How long will it take before I get to watch an exciting scene?" -His subordinate said, "The lane Blaze is in, lane 3, is already under our control. Not only is the low pile ready, but other traps have also been prepared for today." This time, what we have planned for Blaze is a complete upgrade compared to the one we used against Bunny back then. It has improved in all aspects. You definitely won't be disappointed, Sir." "Hahaha!" The masked man let out an evil laugh.

It was rare for the King's Association's master to be in a good mood.

He listened to the elegant music and lay down on the huge sofa in front of the screen as if he were admiring a work of art.

'Soon, I will be able to appreciate and witness the death of this woman up close! 'Blaze, this is what you get for betraying me. The masked man sneered inwardly.

Emma easily passed through several obstacles.

After half a year of training, she was now able to unleash her strength without holding back.

In the past, everyone thought that she had poor upper body strength. Getting past obstacles like high walls and trenches was what she was not good at.

But now, she went past them as if she had become expert. She did not have any weaknesses at all.

On the other side, in Rhinea.

Charon Military School had a big screen broadcasting the competition. Everyone was watching their outstanding classmates, Emma and Erza, in real-time.

At this moment, the women's 400 meter steeplechase race was ongoing on the screen.

Emma's every move and god-like speed were displayed on the big screen. The students were all shocked.

In the crowd, one of the girls in a military cap secretly clenched her fists.

Riley, who had always targeted Emma, had a bitter expression when she saw the race. She had always thought Emma's performance during the monthly exam was her full strength.

So all this time, Emma had not fully displayed her true potential Riley thought After watching Emma's performance in the Krot Competition, Riley realized that she had no hope of ever exceeding Emma.

Riley only watched the race for a few seconds before she turned around and left with a dark expression on her face.

At this moment, someone in the crowd said, "Look, look, Emma is going to pass the low pile net!" The low pile net? Someone else asked.

"That's right. Do you guys not know what this means? Miss Wilson is best when it comes to going past the low pile nets!" said another student.

I watched Emma and Riley in the last monthly examination. Emma widened the gap between them when she went past the low pile net "Miss Wilson looks super scary when she crosses the low pile net. She maintains a top speed from the time she enters until she finally crosses it. She's like a flying superhero! She's so cool One classmate shouted.

"No way. I want to watch this too!" exclaimed a student.

The students' discussions made Riley even more frustrated.

Emma's name sounded like a nightmare every time Riley heard it. Previously, when Riley participated in the boxing league, she finally got first place in the midterm examination.

She had only enjoyed the glory of first place for a few days. She never expected Emma to return and become the champion by winning the gold medal in the boxing league.

The students' focus returned to Emma. Soon, they ignored Riley's short-lived "first place" achievement. "Riley, don't you think Emma is such a bitch? Someone shouted Celia hated Emma for what happened in the cafeteria that day. She had always wanted to find an opportunity to take revenge, but unfortunately, Emma was too popular in school. Celia could not do it alone.

"Isn't there any way we can deal with her? If only she could die in Yenovia and not come back." Riley recalled that her best friend was kicked out of Charon Military School for sprinkling powder on Emma during a competition.

Riley's tone turned cold. "What are you talking about? Don't do anything stupid. You can't afford to offend Emma!" After saying that, Riley quickened her pace. She wanted to leave Emma's wild, frenzied watch party on the field. In the underground studio.

The atmosphere became more and more gloomy and terrifying. Then, with a cracking sound, a glass cup was smashed.

The masked man's voice sounded rough. He angrily grabbed his subordinate's neck and strangled him. Chapter 192 "Tell me, why is she still here? Why?" The masked man yelled.

The subordinate looked terrified and had difficulty breathing. He desperately mouthed, "1-1 don't know- "Boom!" There was a loud bang, In the next second, there was a bloody hole in the subordinate's forehead. He fell to the ground and stopped moving.

The other subordinates beside him were scared out of their wits They met the masked man's gaze. "Sir, sir, please spare us. We'll contact the people at the venue now. There are still several other traps set up. We'll increase the voltage! We will kill her! The masked man did not say anything.

Emma was able to pass through the low pile safely, proving that she had most likely guessed the cause of Bunny's death back then.

If Emma knew there was electricity in the low pile net, then she had prepared for it and wore protective clothing that kept her insulated.

The masked man's character changed, and he sounded like a creepy female. His voice was extremely sharp. "Go and turn the voltage to the maximum!" He continued, "Immediately execute Plan B. I don't want to see her alive at the finish line!" When Emma ran past the low pile net, a small ball rolled near Her feet.

Jenson had helped her and Liam to the venue beforehand, and they had buried the ball in the sand.

That day, she had guessed the cause of Justine's death. In her desperation, Emma and Liam had discussed the next countermeasure.

Emma kicked the small ball that was buried in the sand as she crossed the low pile net.

The members of the King's Association would definitely increase the voltage when they saw that their murderous trap hadn't succeeded.

This small ball was actually a destructive device. As long as the ball was exposed to sand and touched the electrified low pile net, it would immediately emit electric sparks. As expected, not long after Emma crossed the low pile net, sparks lit up on the low pile net.

"What's going on? The track is about to catch fire!" Someone shouted.

"Danger!" Another person warned everyone.

The organizers of the competition instantly panicked.

The people from the King's Association obviously did not expect the sparks They hurriedly stopped their plan and did not dare to alert the enemy. Only a few flames flickered twice. They did not turn into a serious fire.

However, people all over the world had already seen those two flames.

These flames attracted the attention of the entire country's higher-ups.

Immediately, professionals went to check the venue. S'a *h the om Find_let website on Google to access chapters of early and in the highest quality. 08.53 Mon, Chapter 192
The media also broadcasted the entire scene.

Many people even spoke up for Emma, demanding that the competition organizers show her, r justice.

After all, if she had not left their time, she might have died.

At this moment, the members of the King's Association finally realized that Emma had caused this spark.

"She had long seen through our plan! The flames were her doing. It was a trap!" The masked man realized.

A deep haze flashed across the masked man's eyes, and a strong killing intent erupted from his body.

If this couldn't kill her, then he had no choice but to use a more direct approach.

The masked man had already prepared a backup plan outside the arena.

The moment Emma passed the finish line...

It was the moment an infrared dot was aimed at her.

Chapter 193

Chapter 193 "Mr. Hall, do you think Miss Wilson will be alright?" Without a doubt, Emma was almost the guaranteed winner of the race.

Based on the current progress of the race, she had almost run through all the obstacles and was clearly in first place.

There were so many people participating in the competition. It was not going to be easy to aim accurately and snipe her down.

This was true unless she crossed the finish line.

At that time, she was the only one who was about to cross the finish line.

If the King's Association wanted to make a move on her, this was the perfect moment.

Of course, Liam had also thought of this scenario.

Liam was wearing sunglasses. Under the sunlight, his facial expression was sharp, and he was strategizing. He did not answer the question directly but could only say, "The King's Association can't touch her." Emma was not far from the person in second place.

However, on the track, even 0.01 seconds could be the difference between the gold and silver medals.

Emma hesitated for a moment when she approached the finish line, but soon, she dashed towards it without hesitation.

Almost at the same time, Emma quickly dropped to the ground, rolled, and quickly hid among the timekeepers and the crowd.

The infrared dot that was tracking the back of Emma's head disappeared.

She knew that the sniper would still find an opportunity to attack her, so she did not expose herself, nor did she rush to the podium.

Instead, with the help of a few undercover people Liam had sent Emma went to a hidden spot below the spectator stands. It was a safe location. After escorting Emma to safety, everyone heaved a sigh of relief. Emma was very tired after the competition. Her entire body relaxed. Just as she was resting, a man's cold lips landed on her face.

Suddenly, Emma felt the man's familiar cool, minty breath. Liam's kiss was very domineering, but in this slightly hot weather, the familiar refreshing, minty scent sent a chill down her spine.

It was faintly discernible, and she instantly recognized it.

"Liam..." She said breathlessly.

Liam hugged her tightly in his arms.

Even though he had already prepared everything, he still felt a bone-deep panic when he saw Emma dodge the infrared dot at the end of the race.

Panic was a rare emotion for him. Fortunately, Emma was fine in the end, and he could hold her in his arms like this.

Chapter 193 Emma hugged him for a long time before Liam reluctantly let go of her.

She blushed and scolded him, "There are so many people watching" "You said you don't want caramel latte, no latte, and no coffee, so here I am.

Her lips curved. The bright sunlight revealed her dazzling and beautiful facial features.

"Your kiss is still sweeter than a lane," she said coquettishly.

Liam smiled at her and pinched her soft chin.

At this moment, the coach ran over. "Oh my goodness, Emma. You scared to death just now!" At the end of the race, it looked like Emma suddenly did a cartwheel.

She wanted to prevent herself from being shot by the sniper, but that was also her instinctive defense.

No one knew why she did that cartwheel in the end. If she suddenly interrupted her run, it would have more or less affected the results.

The coach' heart almost clenched. Fortunately, she had run well before. Although her final dash had slightly affected her overall results, the probability of her winning the competition was still very high.

"I always said that Erza would be the troublemaker. Now, it seems like you've got even more worried!" -Emma burst out laughing. The coach was a good person, so she did not explain her actions.

If she had told her coach the truth, everyone present would probably have been scared to death.

In just a few seconds, the results of the first group were out.

The coach heaved a sigh of relief when he saw the ranking.

Thankfully, Emma was first in the group.

Emma looked at her results and realized it would be very difficult for anyone in the second group to surpass her.

Liam told Emma, "Get someone to receive your medal on your behalf later." The podium was quite spacious, and it would be easy to aim for Emma.

Liam had a group of guerilla bodyguards following him.

He could find a suitable excuse and hire someone to receive the award on Emma's behalf.

Emma did not refuse. At the same time, on the other side, the King's Association's master was fuming.

He couldn't believe he had failed again.

Blaze was very cautious this time. The master had seen with his own eyes that she had deliberately used anti-tracking technology at the finish line. The organizers of the competition were also in full swing, checking the low lane 3.

The master picked up a handful of things and rushed into the control room.

With a bang, he smashed a machine into pieces! "Sir!" One of the subordinates exclaimed.

Chapter 193 His subordinates were terrified.

"Tell me, why?" The master asked, Emma's dodge greatly confused the sniper's line of sight, but the members of the King's Association were not that useless.

The sniper wouldn't abandon the mission just because Emma dodged.

"It was a local organization from Yenovia Team Thunder bribed them..." Team Thunder.

The masked man's hand stopped in midair.

No wonder Blaze has managed to escape time and tagain.

Could it be that Team Thunder is her new organization? The master contemplated deeply.

Just as the masked man went silent, the live competition ended on the big screen.

After the three rounds, the overall rankings were out.

Emma was a little regretful because she failed to beat the personal record she had achieved at school by a fraction of a second.

However, she still surpassed the participant in second place with a clear advantage and firmly sat in first place. As soon as the rankings were out, an uproar could be heard at Charon Military School.

Cheers erupted from the field, and the screams were endless. The noise spread to the military and civilian buildings close by. Everyone curiously pushed open their windows to listen in.

"Miss Wilson! That's awesome!" One of the students shouted.

"You can always trust Emma because she's so awesome!" Another chimed in.

On the field, Lane and Rielle hugged each other excitedly. That's great. Emma got first place. She's our school's hero!" After Rielle finished speaking, Lane almost cried tears of joy. "Miss Wilson is not only our school's hero! She's- The words were about to pour out of her mouth, but she held them back.

She almost let the cat out of the bag. Search The Findwebsite on Gøøgle to access chapters of early and in the highest quality.

Fortunately, there were many people, and it was noisy, so Rielle did not pay much attention to Lane's hesitation.

At this moment, Rielle said, "Hey, Lane, is Erza's race on in the afternoon! Let's catch watch his race after lunch!" When Lane heard Erza's name, she did not hide the disdain on her face at all. "Erza's race! What's there to see?"

Rielle looked curious. "Lane, aren't you looking forward to Erza's race in the afternoon? He's your school's male champion! I heard the teachers say that he has a chance of getting first place as well!" Lane casually tidied her hair under her military cap. "What does it have to do with whether he wins or not? As long as Miss Wilson wins, that's all that matters." Rielle was puzzled. "Is that so? I thought you were as close to Erza as you are to Emma "How could that be possible?" Lane could not help but laugh. "Miss Wilson and I are like best friends who have gone through.

08:53 Mon, Jul 22 Chapter 193 life and death together. As for that scumbag Erza? Hmph" Lane had never liked Erza's womanizing ways.

In her heart, she only admired guys like Liam, who were truly capable, domineering, and tolerant. Only he was worthy of Miss Wilson. Liam and Miss Wilson were a match made in heaven, but to other women, such a man was out of their reach. The second type of man Lane admired was a polite, capable, and self-disciplined young man like Bob.

At the thought of Bob, Lane's ears turned red, but a trace of worry unconsciously flashed across her eyes.

Erza said that Bob had gone to Yenovia. Would Miss Wilson be able to see him while she was in Yenovia? 'a 7 had once looked at plane tickets to Yenovia. They were so expensive. I have to work in the student cafeteria for a semester to afford one. Lane thought.

Lane secretly tightened her grip on the corner of her clothes. No one knew what she was thinking.

At this moment, Rielle's words almost made Lane burst out laughing. "Do you really despise Erza? In my eyes, you and him would make a loving couple. The way he looks at you, I always thought he liked you."

Chapter 194

Chapter 194 Lane almost choked on a mouthful of water.

"Erza likes me?" she said.

"That's right!" Rielle said.

"No way!" Lane said. "He's Miss Wilson's fanboy, alright?" At this point, she had a look of disdain. "Miss Wilson already has a boyfriend, but he still refuses to get out of her hair! Have you forgotten?" Rielle chuckled, not overthinking things. "You're right," she said. Erza did follow Emma enthusiastically every day. A rich kid who was over 5.9 feet tall, he was like an obedient big wolf dog in front of Emma. Many people in the school had seen it. Rielle was deep in thought. "Lots of people said Erza is a playa and treats everyone with that kind of attitude. Lane, if you don't like him, that's fine too." The two of them chatted and laughed as they went to the canteen. Meanwhile, Liam told the organizing committee that Emma was not feeling well and sent someone to receive the award in her place.

When Emma's name was printed on the championship board, this was not just her honor in Charon Military School, but also her honor in the country and the entire world! Back in the country, Simon naturally saw this scene too.

Major media outlets were overwhelmingly covering the news, focusing on the sports world. Emma had become famous through and through.

Simon gripped the coffee cup tightly, and the lid of the cup kept clinking against the cup.

Looking at his appearance, Derek, the butler, was a little worried. He secretly instructed the kitchen staff to prepare another nourishing chowder with medicinal herbs, fearing that Simon would get sick from anger like last time.

Equally furious was the entire King's Association.

As Emma's fame in the legitimate and public sphere grew, their operations became increasingly difficult. Grail the miracle doctor, who was the designer of Youth, had won first place in Youth Boxing Competition. She now won first place again in Krot Competition.

She was no longer the sickly snake who was severely beaten by Dana Coast back then.

Instead, she had transformed into Blaze, soaring through the clouds.

This was especially the case now. She had people from Team Thunder backing her up.

The masked man's voice was sinister as he said, "Find out who are the people in Team Thunder backing her up!" Legend had it that there were four formidable figures in Team Thunder, and the leader behind Team Thunder was even more enigmatic and unpredictable.

Even King's Association could not rival them in recent years. Search the (F)ind website on Gøogle to access chapters of early and in the highest quality.

The masked man had completely lost his rationality from anger by now.

Just as the people he ordered had just left, the live broadcast of the competition on the screen suddenly changed.

1/4 08:54 Mon, Jul 22 G Chapter 194 It went completely black.

Then, the race track appeared, but with different pixels and color tone of light.

It was the competition from five years ago.

"Wh-what is this?" the masked man said as he looked at the screen in shock.

+74%2 Just moments ago, after Emma and Liam exchanged a confirming glance, she resolutely took the pendant hanging around her neck and pressed a small button on the left side.

In the next moment, this video immediately replaced the live broadcast of the competition that was airing in various countries.

This was something she and Liam had prepared beforehand. As soon as she pressed the button, viewers from around the world who were tuned into the live broadcast on every television screen saw this scene.

The screen was playing the competition that Justine had participated in five years ago.

Just as the girl charged into the net, in just two seconds, she began to foam at the mouth and convulse all over, trembling continuously.

It was the slow pile and the strack No. 3.

Since Krot Competition was held, there had rarely been any unusual events.

The sudden death of a young athlete five years ago immediately made many people recall their memories. Someone immediately thought of the electrical spark incident today and connected these two incidents. "What's going on? Why is the live broadcast gone?" "Can't you tell? Someone wants to cause trouble during the competition!" "An incident where someone was electrocuted actually happened in such a large-scale competition! Please ensure justice for the athlete.

"So that girl was electrocuted to death five years ago! I still remember the report back then, saying that she overdosed on medicine." "Who is behind all of this?" The competition immediately received overwhelming criticism and pressure from all over the world.

And all fingers pointed directly at King's Association "King's Association is going to be in a lot of trouble for the next few days," In an ultra-luxurious double room, Emma stood by the floor-to-ceiling window, sipping coffee while looking outside.

Liam had just put down his phone. He walked over and hugged her waist from behind, saying. "Now that the entire world is investigating the cause of Justine's death back then, all eyes are on King's Association. They won't be able to hold out for Hong Emma nodded.

After enduring for so long, she had finally endured it to the end A merciless battlefield, blood gushing into the ground, and a duel with a slim chance of survival Chapter 194 Scruel, dark, and bloody scenes appeared in Emma's mind.

She closed her eyes, her long eyelashes concealing the emotions in her eyes. Only the mellow fragrance of the black coffee spread between her lips and teeth.

"King's Association should have been like this a long tago,' she said.

"From now on, you're free, except that you're mine," Liam said.

He took her coffee cup with one hand and kissed her cheek.

When Emma was competing today, Liam's gaze never left her.

She was dressed in black on the field, and her limbs were slender, resembling a black lightning bolt.

Liam was wearing sunglasses at that moment.

If he were to take off his sunglasses, one could see that his gaze toward her was filled with desire.

"Swoosh!" The curtains in the room were drawn.

He missed Emma and had been restraining his longing for her for a long time.

A few hours after Emma won the championship, another piece of good news to Charon Military School. Erza had surpassed his usual performance and broken his personal record, courageously winning the men's obstacle course championship.

The coach was so excited that he was about to be frenzied. He had always been annoyed with Erza, but today, he hugged Erza as soon as he stepped onto the field.

Erza was shocked and said in a panic, "Sir, don't do this. I'm a straight man. I don't like men!" "You brat!" the coach said. "I'll beat the hell out of you. Believe it or not?"

The coach was also happy, laughing and scolding at the same time. After all, having trained two students who both won first place in the competition was an unprecedented achievement. Erza was triumphant this time. The first thing he did after leaving the arena was to give Lennon Burnson a call. "Hello? How is it, Grandpa? Can I do what I like from now on?" On the other end of the line, Lennon said nothing, not expressing any opinion.

But Erza was caught up in his excitement, so he overlooked the serious atmosphere on the other end of the line.

"Oh, by the way, where's Emma?" Erza asked the coach at this moment. "Is she joining us for the celebratory party tonight?" The coach winked and said, "She left with her boyfriend right after the race. Someone else went up to the podium to accept the award on her behalf.

Erza was left speechless.

He thought, "Damn! I was glued to watching her race this morning, and when it was my turn to compete, she didn't even bother to watch. She even disappeared? Where the hell did she disappear to?" 08:54 Mon, Jul 22 Chapter 191 At this moment, Eminwoke up in a leisurely manner.

The white bed in the hotel was very comfortable. She snuggled to it and felt very relaxed.

After sleeping for an hour, she surprisingly felt as refreshed as if he had slept for ten hours straight.

She opened her eyes lazily. Her long eyelashes scattered the afterglow of the setting sun. Her flawless neck, shoulders, and neck were tinted with the orange-red hues of the setting sun. She shielded her eyes as she got up and saw Liam walking toward her.

He had just showered and was wearing a black bathrobe. "Are you hungry?" he said. "What do you want to eat for dinner?" At every moment such as this, he would be exceptionally gentle and considerate toward her.

His obsidian-like gaze fixed straight at her. It was extremely dense, as if it could steep into water.

Emma always felt exposed under such a gaze from him. She hung her head shyly "I'm going to the celebratory party with my coach and Erza tonight," she said.

She thought, "This was arranged before we left. If I were to stand them up, it'd be manageable with Erza, but it wouldn't be polite toward the coach.

At this point, she looked at Liam expectantly and said, "Are you coming with us? There won't be many people.

Chapter 195

Chapter 195~ Liam naturally had no objections. He patted her head and said. "Emma, wherever you go, I go." However, he seemed to have heard from Levi that there was sproblem with Erza. He told Emma, "Levi just told that someone reported to the organizing committee that Erza took stimulants. Erza's championship title may be revoked." Emma frowned as she said, "What?" She sat up in bed and pursed her lips thoughtfully.

"Erza worked his tail off for this competition," she said. "There's no way he'd be so stupid as to take stimulants." Liam said. I also think there's something fishy about this matter Erza usually comes across as frivolous, and Levi had also said that the outcome of this competition was very important to Erza..

But with many years of business experience, Liam knew that Erza was not that kind of person.

Emma remembered their conversation on the field of Charon Military School that day.

She thought, 'He even refused to let go easy on him. There's no way he would take stimulants.

I think I know who did it," she said.

A hint of coldness appeared in her eyes, and her slender fingers were curled up.

"Although it's hard to believe, but from the looks of it, this is the most likely possibility,' she thought "Emma, if you're worried, I can accompany you to check it out," Liam said.

"Okay," Emma said as she nodded.

On the way, Emma instructed Josiah and Lane to check for information and see if her guess was accurate.

As soon as the car pulled up at the entrance of the organizing committee's office, she saw a young man causing a scene at the entrance.

"Damn it, are you guys insane?" Erza said. "I've said it a thousand times. I didn't take any stimulants. Damn it!" Erza usually spoke with a lack of awareness of the appropriateness of his words, but this time, it was obvious that he was truly angry.

Emma quickly got out of the car. She saw Erza and the coach trying to fight for something under the scorching sun, but the other party seemed impatient.

"Erza!" She called out to him, and he turned around immediately, saying, "Emma" Seeing Emma, his emotions finally calmed down a bit.

She got out of a black Maybach, with Liam following closely behind. Everyone had arrived.

Erza looked a little dispirited, "You already know about it?" he asked.

Emma shook her head and said, "I believe you didn't take any stimulants. There must be someone playing tricks behind this," 1/4 Chapter 195 The coach asked, "Who has got nothing better to do? Could it be that silver medalist from Nuverland?" Emma wasn't able to provide a definite answer, She thought, 'Right now, I can't be sure if it's a competitor or someone else.

Erza was furious and had nowhere to vent his anger.

This competition was crucial to him. It was about his whole life and his faith.

With a loud bang, he punched the stone pillar below the office of the organizing committee.

His hand was suddenly covered in blood. It was a shocking sight His handsand sunny face was covered in a layer of gloominess.

The coach's lips parted, wanting to stop him, but in the end, he Hesitated and said nothing.

Emma glanced at Erza and said, "Don't be antsy. I've already gotten someone to investigate. Your hand is injured. Control yourself Erza gritted his teeth, thinking, "Who on earth would do this tobehind my back?" The sudden situation forced the celebratory party to be canceled.

Emma and Liam returned to their room. When it was seven in the evening in Yenovia, Lane's call cthrough. "Miss Wilson, I've found out, she said. The person who reported Erza for using stimulants was his own grandfather... S~EaRch the Find_Nøvelwebsite on Gøøgle to access chapters of early and in the highest quality.

It was Lennon.

Not only that, Lane also saw many surprising pieces of information about Erza.

After reading through the information about Lennon and Erza, Lane felt a bit heavy-hearted. She walked out of the door and sighed.

She had always thought Erza was a heartless playboy, the kind of guy she looked down on the most.

But after truly understanding his past, she increasingly felt that he was just a pitiful person.

"Miss Wilson, according to the outcof the investigation, Erza might have truly ended up in hot water this time, Lane said Emma looked at the information that Lane had just emailed her After Emma finished skimming through it word by word, her expression turned cold..

The substance reported by Lennon was newly added to the list of stimulants this year.

She was certain that Erza wouldn't deliberately take stimulants, but whether or not someone sabotaged him was uncertain.

She looked grim. Liam could immediately sense her mood.

Emma, are you worried about Erza?" he asked.

"Yeah, Emma replied, She then added candidly, "Although Erza and I don't have a deep friendship, we're teammates who trained together for half a year. I know how serious and hardworking he is about training so seeing the truth is quite saddening She had long suspected that the person who reported it might be Lennon.

2/1 Lennon was a figure with high status and influence in TroIn City renowned both domestically and internationally, Emma thought, 'If he's set on scheming against Erza, that's something the rascal Erza can't handle. He has great hopes for his grandson, and he definitely won't be willing to hand over the huge family business to others. I figured out the beginning, but I didn't expect this ending. Lennon actually used such extrmeasures to force Erza into joining the military...

Emma let out a sigh and said, "Lennon never intended to make a fair bet with Erza from the beginning. He added a stimulant-like substance to the sleeping pills that Erza has been taking, allowing Erza to pass the urine test. Then, he asked the organizing committee to put this type of stimulant on the banned list and report it to the organizing committee." In other words, Erza had been drugged and reported by Leinon Regardless of whether or not Erza was the champion today, there was no way Lennon would honor the agreement and let Erza off.

Liam understood Emma's feelings. Although he could be very possessive at times, Emma had made it clear that she and Erza were just teammates. He did not want to see Emma unhappy.

"Emma, if you're worried, I'll handle things with Lennon," he said.

The Hall family had been in business for two generations, but starting from his grandfather Logan Hall's generation, they were all top-notch elder figures with great contributions.

If Liam personally intervened, Lennon would definitely show him respect,

Emma did not want to involve Liam in this matter. "Forget it," she said. "There has been tension in the m relationship between you and your dad lately. There's no need to become enemies with the Burnson family. I'll try to handle this matter myself for now." Since she had meddled in this affair, she was prepared to meddle in it thoroughly.

That night, she personally called Lennon.

With her identity as Stox, it was not difficult to hack into systems to get Lennon's private number.

"Good evening. Lennon. I'm Emma Wilson." Receiving this call, Lennon was somewhat surprised..

However, he did not show much reaction. He didn't say anything either.

Emma did not introduce herself.

They were all smart people. She believed that given the extent Lennon paid attention to Erza, including herself, and even Lane, Rielle, and so on, he would have long known everything about the few people in the school who were close to Erza.

Sure enough, when he heard her name, he was calm and composed.

He merely let out a chuckle coldly and said, "It seems like you've put in a lot of effort to hack into systems to get my number. Well? What brings you to me?"

Emma smiled too. "In fact, not only can I hack into systems to get your number, but I can also hear everything you say to your subordinates, whenever I want to listen," she said. "I'm calling to tell you about something. You've heard of TFCC injuries, right? I've trained with Erza, so I've seen how he trains. Before joining Charon Military School, he already had deep ligament tears due to unscientific training, but he endured without telling anyone. That's why his arm strength has always been his weak point in the 100-meter obstacle run." That day, she noticed it while he was doing pull-ups.

08:54 Mon, Jul 22 G Chapter 195 9 + 74% When he exerted force, he would be able to avoid putting pressure on that spot. This was a manifestation of a TFCC injury.

As it turned out, everything was just as Emma had guessed.

After she gave him the special medicine she had developed last year, his ligament tear was temporarily relieved. He could then exceed his usual performance in today's competition.

She thought, 'But my efforts are destined to be in vain. He does take stimulants. His grandfather secretly set him up behind his back.'

Emma continued, "For the sake of doing as you say, he has been undergoing high-intensity training that doesn't match his ability for over a decade! You probably haven't seen him fall off parallel bars and horizontal bars in exhaustion, right? A guy over 5.9 feet tall rolled on the ground in pain, his face pale, and his veins twitched. If you had seen it, you would never forget it.

The hardships of athlete training were beyond what outsiders could imagine.

Destroying someone else's lifelong faith shouldn't happen to anyone, not even to one's family members.

Lennon listened to Emma calmly and put on a fake smile. "What message are you trying to drive home by saying these things?" he asked.

Emma pursed her lips and said, "I just want to say that you can choose not to support him, but don't lie to him. Even more so, don't torture him." SEND GIFT X

Chapter 196

Chapter 196 After hanging up, Emma did not bother with Lennon anymore.

After all, this was the Burnson family's matter.

As a classmate, she had done her best by saying this much.

She hoped Lennon would stop in time.

Emma did not like the weather in Yenovia. After the competition, she and Liam hurriedly took a private plane back to their Search the Find Novel website on Google to access chapters of early and in the highest quality.

country.

In Troin City, it was now autumn with cool and refreshing weather. The sky was clear, and there were sparse clouds.

Although the temperature had dropped, it was basically sunny every day. When one opened the window, there were wispy clouds outside.

After she got off the plane, two familiar figures came into view of the tarmac.

Lane and Rielle specially wore colorful dresses today.

Lane even purposely styled her hair with a braid at the nape, looking youthful and beautiful. She tiptoed and waved at Emma, saying, "Miss Wilson, over here. Over here!" Upon seeing them, Emma felt excited.

She turned around, looked at Liam, and asked, "Did you call them here?" Liam smiled and said, "They were the ones who said they wanted to welcome you." The two girls were very loyal.

Liam thought about how going to Yenovia for Krot Competition might stir up many unpleasant memories for Emma regarding Justine's death five years ago. So, when Lane and Rielle said they wanted to come, he did not refuse.

Sure enough, Emma's mood improved significantly when she saw them.

"This is a gift that Ida asked to give you." As Lane spoke, she took out a small cross-stitched pendant and said, "Ida has been into cross-stitching recently. She said she drew this pattern herself." Emma held it and looked at it for a while. The pattern depicted cartoonish versions of Ida, Lane, and Emma. Emma could not help but laugh. Looking at this cross-stitch, she found it incredibly cute.

"Thank you," she said. "Next time, let's invite Ida to join us for a meal too." Just then, Rielle said, "Emma, Erza didn't come back with you guys this time, huh?" Upon hearing this name, Lane's smile became slightly stilted.

She saw those matters concerning Erza when she checked the information yesterday.

'It's hard to imagine that behind the carefree façade of Erza, there lies such a heart-wrenching experience, she thought.

Erza had never been free since childhood.

08:54 Mon, Jul 22 G Chapter 190 Lennon had imposed dual constraints on Erza, both physically and mentally.

Apart from training, Erza was allowed to do almost nothing.

Before the age of eighteen, he was not allowed to watch television or participate in any recreational activities. Every bite of food he ate and every extracurricular book he read was strictly controlled by Lennon.

Such a life was like that of a robot.

As Lane's grandfather, Harry had always been very supportive of her in all aspects.

She thought, If I had a grandfather like Lennon, it would be a nightmare." Emma exchanged a glance with Lane and didn't elaborate to Rielle. She merely said, "He still has things to take care of so we cback first" The three girls chatted as they got into the seven-seater MPV that Liam had long arranged.

It happened to be dinner time. Liam had long reserved a private room for four.

After the meal, the other two girls were so satisfied that they burped.

Lane's beautiful face was flushed as she said to Emma, 'I finally understand why Ida boasted for four to five days after eating with you guys the other day. I thought she was greedy, but it turns out it's because of you guys. Miss Wilson, Mr. Hall usually spoils you a lot, doesn't he?' The custom-made food today is delicious! she thought. The richness of that taste experience is beyond what one will normally find walking into a restaurant! "Lane felt that even her favorite spicy shrimp pasta at Charon Military School would not be enjoyable from now on." Rielle was also sheepish. She said shyly to Liam. "Miss Wilson's boyfriend... Oops, I mean Mr. Hall, you've been so generous this time. Thank you. Thank you for your hospitality, Mr. Halll "It's nothing" Liam said.

He displayed a standard and formulaic smile.

After seeing off Rielle, Emma accompanied Lane to wait for the bus.

Lane pursed her lips and twirled her braided hair with her fingers.

When Rielle mentioned Erza just now, Lane actually missed him too.

She only knew that Emma had tasked her to find out who secretly reported Erza, but Emma did not assign her any subsequent tasks.

Since Lane looked through information about Erza's background last night, she had been feeling quite emotional He had no parents and had always stayed with his grandfather, Of course, the Kemp family could not compare to the Burnson family.

Lane's childhood was marked with abject poverty, but she felt an inexplicable connection with Erza when it cto relying on her grandfather.

She thought, I thought all grandfathers in the world were like Harry. How cthere's someone like Lennon who can't stand to see his grandson do well? I don't understand 08:54 Mon, Jul 22 Chapter 190 Lane wanted to say something but hesitated. In the end, she could not help but ask, "Miss Wilson, about things on Erza's end...

"Let's wait and see," Emma said. "Given the current situation, it's not good for us to interfere." "Okay," Lane said as she nodded.

Meanwhile, in the Burnson family's courtyard, an elderly man leaned against the back of a chair in front of a huge high-end rosewood table. He was dressed in military attire and had his eyes closed.

"Mr. Lennon, the detailed information on these two people is here." A middle-aged man in uniform reported meticulously.

On the table were two photos of Emma and Lane that were secretly taken at the airport today.

The middle-aged man introduced, "Her name is Emma Wilson, She used to study at Vark College, and she had excellent grades. She participated in Mr. Quinn's summer camp and earned the only early graduation qualifications in the country. Bob, the Hall family's adopted son, also received this qualification along with her." Bob's level of genius was renowned throughout TroIn City.

Comparing Emma with Bob immediately gave Lennon an idea of her capabilities.

Lennon's eyebrows were dark and thick. His looks were imbued with a perennial sense of decisiveness.

His wrinkled index finger tapped another photo, and he asked, "What about her?"

His subordinate continued, "Her name is Lane Kemp. She doesn't come from a well-off background.

But I heard her grades at Charo e Military School are also good. Her grandfather was saved by Emma, and they have a close relationship. Also, Emma seems to be very close to the eldest son of the Hall family. This private jet belongs to the Hall family." When Lennon heard this, he said without a care, "Even if this girl is with Liam, the Hall family won't take the trouble to intervene for the sake of a few students." He was certain..

After a few seconds, his gaze drifted to the photo of Lane.

"You said she's close to Emma, huh?" he asked.

His subordinate replied, "Yep. That's right." Lennon let out a sneer and said, "She's just a child who hasn't even experienced true blood ties. What does she know about loyalty? Hmph. Bring her over to me!" "Um... Mr. Lennon, what do you mean?" the subordinate asked.

"With that trivial skills of hers, she actually dares to threaten to access my private contact information," Lennon said.

When he said this, he felt a surge of anger.

He thought, I've been in the military for over forty years and haven't encountered anyone who has the guts to call and lecture me! So, I must teach Emma a lesson. No one can influence Erza. He's the result of my painstaking nurture for twenty years.

At the thought of Erza, he suddenly seemed to have aged a lot. He cleared his throat and said, "Just tell her that Erza's grandfather is looking for her and that there are no other intentions." Lane was quite surprised when she received a call from someone in the Burnson family.

+74% This was especially the case after learning last night what Lennon had done to Erza. Her feelings toward Lennon's identity as Erza's grandfather became very complicated.

She felt a sense of disapproval and fear.

There was also a sense of confusion and anger.

After Lane received the call, she immediately told Emma about this.

Emma quickly thought about it and roughly deduced Lennon's intention. She said to Lane, "He asked you to go, so just go. But when you get there and if he asks you anything about what we usually do outside of school, don't answer." Lane nodded and said, "Miss Wilson, don't worry. I know that." SEND GIFT

Chapter 197

Chapter 197 Emma's performance at Krot Competition soon reached Simon's ears.

When Emma and Liam returned to Levine Estate, Simon called Liam.

On the phone, the message that Simon intended to convey was very clear.

Many people in the circle had seen Emma and Liam interact intimately.

From that time, everyone would say that Liam had good taste and that Simon was about to have a formidable daughter-in-law.

Simon smiled outwardly. He thought, 'I certainly recognize Emina's personal abilities, but it's dangerous for Liam to be with her.'

He had gotten someone to look into the poison Liam had previously. It was called King's Poison.

It was said that this kind of poison only circulated in the black market.

There was no way Simon would not be worried.

If it weren't for the mysterious coded letter later on, Liam might have been in serious trouble by now. Simon said over the phone, "Previously, for safety's sake, I didn't agree to you being with Emma." But recently, more and more people had been talking about Emina around him.

Simon thought of this coded letter again. He couldn't shake off the feeling that there was something fishy about this matter.

"But since that coded letter wasn't written for me, could it be from a friend of Emma?" he asked.

Liam did not shy away from talking about it. He said, 'I've asked Emma. She doesn't know the person who sent the letter.' Simon had previously made things difficult for Emma. Liam did not want to communicate with him.

"Dad, if there's nothing else, I'll hang up now," he said.

"Hey, wait a moment, Simon said.

It was only then that he remembered the important purpose of today's call. "There's a press conference tomorrow night," he said. "If you're really determined to marry no one else but her, then... There was a pause on the phone. He then continued, "Bring her along Simon's message was that he would try to accept Emma from now on.

Derek, who had worked for Simon for decades, was shocked.

But Liam's emotions did not fluctuate much.

Because regardless of whether Simon accepted it or not, he would still be with Emma He merely said, "Til aşk Emma." Then, he hung up.

Simon was getting a bit annoyed again.

He thought, 'I've finally accepted Emma, letting her attend the Halls Group's press conference. Do I still need to adjust my behavior to please her? 08:54 Mon, Chapter 197 Meanwhile, Emma was sitting in front of the computer and playing games in boredom.

She had just checked the news of the Charon Military School competition online.

The issue concerning the electricity grid was still under investigation, but according to Interpol's progress that she had learned, it would not be long before they caught the mastermind and convicted that person.

Fortunately, Emma's situation had caused quite a stir this time.

The world's live broadcast had been hacked, and all the relevant evidence provided by Liam was solid.

Otherwise, even Interpol would have a hard time dealing with King's Association.

Of course, Emma also saw the list of winners for this round of Krot Competition.

Her own name, Emma, was listed first in the women's group.

Erza was still in first place for the tbeing, but whether or not his championship would be revoked was still unknown.

At this moment, Lane called.

"Hello?" On the phone, it was noisy on Lane's end. "Miss Wilson, I'm so damn mad!" she said.

Emma twirled a pen with her left hand, saying, "What's wrong? What did Lennon ask you!" "He's threatening us!" Lane said.

It was pretty much what Emma had guessed. It was just like how Simon had used Sharon to threaten Levi back then. Although Lennon did not say it directly, the implication was that Lane and Emma should not meddle in other people's business. Otherwise, they would bear the consequences.

"He also asked to send him your negative historical records, Lane said. "He wants to go to the police station to accuse you of using hacking techniques. He wants the police to arrest you." Emma raised her eyebrows, an evil grin playing on her lips.

She thought, 'I did use hacking skills, but that's because I'm Stox. If my identity as Stox were to be known by the world, it'd no longer be a matter of whether I'd be arrested. The entire police station would probably be eager to recruit by: then. They'd want to share my skills and assist in solving cases!' Emma sat in a boss-like manner at the computer desk with her legs crossed. She stretched lazily.

"Since he started provoking first, don't blame me for being meddling," she said. Hearing her words, Lane sounded excited as she said, "Miss Wilson, do you mean we should go help Erza now?" Emma smiled and said, "Yeah." She could hear the excitement and joy in Lane's voice even through the phone.

She thought, 'Lane usually comes across as fierce, but at the critical moment, she is more loyal than anyone. After Emma comforted her, she eventually decided to make a call she hadn't made in a long time. else.' +74% Chapter 197 The call involved three people simultaneously, with Josiah also listening in.

Upon seeing Emma's call was connected to that big shot, Josiah immediately exclaimed, "Good lord!" He said, "Good lord! Miss Wilson, you're finally willing to contact Noah!" Along with Josiah, Noah Barclay worked for Emma back then.

Due to differences in their principles, Emma got angry and ignored him for an entire year.

If Josiah was extraordinarily intelligent, then Noah was incredibly physically gifted. Nowadays, Noah already had an astonishing influence in international sports competitions. Now that Emma had contacted Noah again, Josiah was more excited than anyone else. But there was no sound on the other end of the line.

"Noah, hurry up and say something, Josiah said. "Miss Wilson finally reaches out to you." Leaning against the back of the sofa and twirling the tip of her pen, Emma lazily said, "Noah, what's wrong? I didn't answer your call for a year. You don't want to talk now?" "No..."

At that moment, the third person on the call finally made a sound. It was a violent cough.

"Cough, cough, cough. Emma, I got so excited when you called me. I accidentally hit my foot while I was moving things. Cough, cough. Damn. I took a sip of water to calm down but ended up choking on it. Cough, cough, cough, cough." Emma was left speechless..

She thought, 'Silly goose, still showing the familiar pattern.

She explained the situation involving Erza and Lennon to Noah.

"We can't control anything else, but you should have a way to get Lennon to withdraw a report, right?" she asked.

Noah thought for a moment, not replying immediately.

Emma thought he was not confident, so she gave him Jensen's contact information.

"If you still can't do it, then you really don't have to work for anymore," she said. "Bye." Noah said, "Hey! Miss Wilson!" On the other end of the line, Noah wanted to say that he could indeed handle it.

He thought, "These things are as m easy as pie for me. It's just that. Emma didn't answer my calls for a year, and I wanted to exchange pleasantries with her. In the end, she just hung up on mer After Emma hung up, Liam pushed the door open and entered.

"Emma," he said.

On Emma's screen, miscellaneous content continued to play.

She put down the mouse, you just now?" stood up.

and threw herself into Liam's arms. "It's you," she said. "Honey, what did your dad say to 08:54 Mon, Jul 22 Chapter 197 +74%) Emma didn't listen to their conversation, but before entering the house, she seemed to recognize that the voice of the person who called Liam was Simon's.

Liam put his arm around her waist and said, "The Halls Group will hold a press conference tomorrow night. My dad wants you to calong" At this point, he added, "As the future mistress." Emma's beautiful eyes glinted.

She thought, "It seems that my trip to Krot Competition this thas also letgain Simon's softened attitude toward me." She did not say anything. She turned around and sat by the bed, nonchalantly flipping through the book.

Liam then asked attentively, "Emma, do you want to go?" "Sure," Emma said as she closed the book. I don't like crowded places, but I want to be with you."

She thought, 'Simon's intentions are also very clear. He's going to start acknowledgingas Liam's partner in front of the media. In the past,h fearing my identity might attract danger. But now things have developed to this point. I won first place in Krot Competition, and various identities emerged. Emma could not resist his smile at all. She reached out and gently covered his lips and chin.

"Don't smile at like that," she said. "I will lose control and act on my desire."

He kissed her palm and said, "Go ahead. I'm waiting for you to act on your desire." Emma could not help but kiss him on the lips.

An hour later, she could not help but exclaim in awe inwardly, Damn, he's got next-level lovemaking skills.

Chapter 198

Chapter 198 The next day, Emma and Liam went to the Hall family's press conference.

Of course, Simon's original intention for organizing this press conference was not to announce the relationship between Emma and Liam, but to announce the Hall family's new project.

However, Emma's appearance would soon overshadow the original thof the press conference.

The speculations of the crowd were confirmed one after another "She and Liam are in that kind of romantic relationship,' everyone thought.

Simon and Brad were both present today. A few people were preparing backstage. Emma was the only woman. She was in a separate room.

"Miss Wilson, you have to be careful today," Josiah said over the phone. "That silly younger brother of Liam's will definitely cause you trouble again." At this moment, Emma was preparing backstage. She nonchalantly faced the mirror and gently traced the line of her lips with a luxurious lipstick that had a gold exterior.

The rich red lipstick with blue undertones instantly accentuated her presence.

Coupled with a high-end dark green silk dress, her curves were perfect. Her figure was slender and tall. Every move she made exuded a sense of elegance.

"You already said he's silly," she said. "What can he do to me?" With that said, Emma calmly closed the lipstick cap.

"In a any case, I can't shake off the feeling that nothing good will happen when they call you," Josiah said. "Perhaps I'm being paranoid. Miss Wilson, I wish you have a good time... Oh, by the way..."

Josiah was about to hang up when he suddenly remembered Emma's instructions yesterday.

"Noah said he's done what you asked him to do," he said.

"So soon?" Emma said, feeling somewhat surprised.

"Miss Wilson, don't forget that before he stopped working for you, he was also someone who commanded respect and influence, Josiah said. "Anyway, there's news from Yenovia. The report against Erza has been retracted. The gold medal for this year's championship has already been awarded to him. Lennon is probably so darn mad right now. You'd better be more careful these days." "Got it," Emma said. "You're so long-winded." She hung up the phone with a smile and brushed the French bangs on both sides of her face.

There were many makeup artists backstage today.

Liam didn't need makeup. He looked like a perfect sculpture.

And Emma's face was so beautiful that many stylists were vying to do her makeup.

But once they actually started working on her face, they felt that no matter how lightweight the foundation was, it was redundant on her soft skin.

08:55 Mon, Ju Chapter 198 In the end, the makeupartists simply touched up her eyebrows, eyelashes, and lips.

The woman in the mirror was already stunningly beautiful beyond compare.

Emma pushed open the hotel door. There were already many porters outside.

The moment Liam and Emma appeared arm in arm, countless reporters immediately started taking photos with their camera flashes.

The two of them instantly became the center of attention.

Their appearance caused quite a stir on the scene. Then, Brad and Simon walked out together.

Simon's expression remained the same.

Only Brad's original handsface looked increasingly gloomy and contorted now, SEARCH The Findwebsite on Gøøgle to access chapters of early and in the highest quality.

As the younger son, he had been overshadowed recently, clearly showing an unfriendly expression.

Prior to the start of the press conference, Simon gave Emma a document before going onstage.

"This is the introduction to our new project," he said. "The main business is high-tech manufacturing. Hurry up and take a look later. Don't go on stage and be completely clueless." In Simon's perception, Emma was a girl, and the recent limelight was all related to sports.

He naturally assumed that Emma knew nothing about these high-tech things.

When he handed the document to Emma, there was a look of disdain in his eyes.

Emma noticed the disdain, but she did not say anything.

She merely raised her eyebrows, took the document, and sat in the interview seat.

Sure enough, other than the new project, everyone was more concerned about Liam's love life.

One after another, the reporters asked about her relationship with Liam.

Simon wanted to answer more tactfully.

In the end, Liam said directly without hesitation, "Emma is the future Mrs. Hall And she's the one and only Mrs. Hall" As soon as he answered, the reporters were in an uproar.

At this moment, a reporter asked, "Miss Wilson is indeed talented in sports. However, the Hall family has never dabbled in the sports industry. This press conference focuses on the latest AI technology. Miss Wilson, do you have the corresponding knowledge about the Halls Group's AI technology?" After the reporter finished asking the question, she vaguely exchanged a glance with Brad, who was sitting beside Simon.

This reporter was indeed sent by Brad to make things difficult for Emma.

Now that Emma's fand abilities were increasing, if Liam still had her help, it would undoubtedly make him more formidable.

By then, Brad would not be able to turn things around.

So, Brad had been constantly thinking of ways to make Simon reject Emma, ideally to prevent Liam from being with her.

Chapter 198 At this moment, Levi, who was standing behind Liam, felt his heart pounding.

He thought. "This is the first time Mr. Simon has invited Miss Wilson to a press conference. The reporter starts with such a tricky question. If she can't answer, Mr. Simon will surely be mad. Levi quickly took out his phone and typed, wanting to help Emma by typing the answer.

But on the other side. Emma was just casually tidying her hair.

"Your question is quite broad," she said. "Which aspect of AI do you want to hear my opinion?" She asked calmly, but in Simon's eyes, she was deliberately stalling for time.

Simon was somewhat displeased. After all, in his eyes, Emma was just an ignorant young girl who did not know the way of the world.

What unique insights could she possibly have about AI?' he thought, He stared sharply at Emma.

In his line of sight, the material he had given her was placed in front of her. She had not even flipped through it. Simon was even angrier when he saw the document that had not been flipped through.

He thought. She didn't even look at the document I gave her! Emma is making the entire Hall family lose face! Simon took the microphone and was about to say something.

Could Brad suddenly said, "Mr. Carter, what are you doing with your phone? Could it be that you doubt our world doubt our worn champion's ability to even answer such a question?" Levi's face instantly darkened.

He quickly put the phone with the half-typed message behind him.

Emma turned around. It was only then that she saw that Levi, who was behind her, wanted to type something to help her.

S

She smiled at Levi and then picked up the microphone again, addressing the group of reporters. "Although I'm not involved, in the Halls Group's projects, I've learned about the general situation," she said. "The Halls Group's AI projects span across culture and tourism, scientific research, and high-end manufacturing. These projects require high investment in the early stages, but they are the general trends. Spending is necessary. Of course, the results are also fruitful" Simon was slightly surprised.

He did not expect Emma to be so clear about the Halls Group's strategic plan even though she had not read the proposal that he had compiled.

Actually, Emma did not deliberately learn about it. It was just that Liam had mentioned it over the phone sometimes, so she roughly knew about it. Emma's proficiency made Simon change his opinion of her.

But at this moment, the reporter continued to ask persistently.

"Miss Wilson, do you know how to code then?" she asked.

Emma was a little impatient as she said, "I have an AI design patent The reporter said, "But you went to a military academy before completing all the subjects at Vark College. You didn't finish

Chapter 199

Emma felt like laughing when she heard this..

Coding was just a very elementary step.

The reporter's question just now was as ridiculous as saying that there was no point in winning the Nobel Prize in Chemistry if one didn't even know how to write chemical equations.

Speople in the crowd were already getting restless.

Liam, who had been silent all along, leaned forward and picked up the microphone.

He was dressed in a black suit. Facing the media, his expression was cold, and his voice was filled with impatience as he spoke.

"Emma had her first AI invention when she was fifteen," he said. Do you think she knows how to code? Computer science is not just about coding. What you call coding is just one step in software engineering development. AI, Information Security, Computer Science and Technology, and Software Engineering are all different. You should understand the differences. between these categories before attending today's press conference.

The reporter stopped talking and hung her head, her face flushing intensely.

Liam thought. It's true that Emma didn't study computer science seriously in university. Information technology has only begun to be common in the last decade. Who cares about these things? Yet, she chose to mock Emma with technicalities today. That's clearly a case of shooting herself in the foot.

As soon as Liam finished speaking, faint laughter could be heard among the group of reporters.

Embarrassed, the reporter cup with an excuse to leave the venue.

After the interview ended, the atmosphere of the venue relaxed bit.

Everyone enjoyed attending the Hall family's press conference. Another reason was that the Halls Group's press conferences were always grand.

The venues were always top-notch five-star hotels. After the press conference ended, there was also a buffet of gourmet food.

Everyone was very curious after hearing that Emma had her own artificial intelligence patent at the age of fifteen.

Industry leaders and reporters wanted to engage in conversation with her.

Liam was also chatting with sbusiness partners at the side.

But just then, Simon, who was standing by the window, saw a few people in uniforms arriving at the hotel entrance downstairs.

He squinted.

The hotel is completely booked by the Halls Group today, he thought. 'Why are there people from the police station downstairs?' He immediately asked Derek to find out, saying, "Co ask who they are looking for." Derek bowed slightly and made a call to ask the hotel staff downstairs. A few minutes later, he rushed back, looking somewhat flustered.

1/4 08:55 Mon, Jul 22 G Chapter 199 "Mr. Hall, it's people from the police station!" he said.

"What brings them here?" Simon asked.

They're here to look for Miss Emma, Derek said. "They suspect that Miss Emma is breaking the law online!" "What?" Simon said.

His expression was a little tense. His eagle-like deep eyes narrowed thoughtfully.

What has Emma done recently?' he thought. The police even suspect her of being a hacker?' He said nothing, instantly scanning his surroundings. People were coming and going, and many of them were from the media.

If she is taken away by the police in front of so many people, news of the Hall family's future daughter-in-law being taken away by the police will definitely make headlines tomorrow! he thought.

Simon's expression immediately turned cold. He said angrily, "Cup with an excuse to send her downstairs." With that said, he turned around and left, not wanting to lose face in front of so many people.

Derek said, "Got it, Mr. Hall..." Ten minutes later, Liam, who had finally extricated himself from the business meeting, wanted to look for Emma He saw Emma eating dessert earlier.

However, the dessert table was now empty with no one around.

Liam hurriedly found Simon. "Dad, did you see Emma?" he asked.

Simon knew that Liam was worried about Emma and that if anything happened to her, Liam would definitely resolve it immediately.

However, Simon had deliberately asked someone to find out.

He learned that the person who wanted to deal with Emma this was Lennon.

He was well aware of Lennon's status in TroIn City.

'Among the major families in TroIn City, my family could be said to be on par with the Burnson family, he thought. 'When it comes to cybercrime, it can be either minor or major. Since Lennon wants to make a move against Emma... perhaps what I couldn't achieve in getting Emma imprisoned for life, the Burnson family can. At this thought, a glint of shrewdness flashed across Simon's eyes Ultimately, he still hoped for Liam's safety and wanted him to stay away from all the people in the black market, so he said to Liam, "She said she suddenly had something to attend to at Holy Mountain. She asked to tell you." 'Holy Mountain? Liam thought.

Although he did not know why Emma went there so late at night, she often had sudden reasons to leave. He didn't press for details, merely quietly respecting and watching over her.

Moreover, she had been to Holy Mountain frequently in the past few occasions.

He did not have strong doubts about Simon's words. After all, he had just announced Emma's existence at the press conference today.

08:55 Mon, Jul 22 Chapter 199 Almost without hesitation, 1 jam drove toward Holy Mountain, which was over an hour away by driving On th the other side, a woman, who was still dressed in a dark green gown, was brought to the police station. Emma had a calm expression.

Leaning slightly against the chair, she had not changed out of her high heels and gown. Her green dress was spread out and was especially eye-catching.

There were also other criminals in the police station. They could not help but look at her.

For a moment, everyone in the police station was curious about he reason this celebrity-like woman in a gorgeous gown ended up here.

Emma called Liam first, but there was no signal on his end.

She thought quietly for a few seconds and roughly realized what had happened.

Right after that, she called Josiah "What did you mean earlier when you said Lennon was so darn mad?" she said, recalling Josiah's words before the press conference.

Josiah said, "Miss Wilson, are you in skind of trouble now? "Well, I'm fine," Emma said as she held her phone in one hand and smoothed out the creases in her gown around her waist. Her fingers were long and slender. "It's just that someone accusedof being a hacker, and I've been taken to the police station."

Josiah was left speechless, thinking, 'It's just that? It's just that? Missm Wilson, do you think the police station is run by your family and that you can just go there as you please?' "Miss Wilson, stay calm, and don't be antsy," he said. "Noah and I will go and get you now. Wait, will it be too late if we over? Will you leave a criminal record?" Emma wasn't antsy at all, yet Josiah was on pins and needles.

Calm and composed, she said, "Helpfirst find out where Liam has gone. I'm afraid something would happen to him." "Mr. Hall" Josiah said. "Okay, I'll check." Near Holy Mountain, Liam and Levi arrived first.

The signal in the area around Holy Mountain was poor. Liam could not call Emma. Emma couldn't reach him either.

As the night grew deeper, Liam slowed down the car.

He felt that something was amiss with this situation.

Finally, he stopped at a flat and open area, lit a cigarette, and said to Levi, "Remember that friend of Emma who likes to hack surveillance cameras Levi thought about it and said, "Mr. Hall, are you talking about that guy of mixed race from Antgem?" "Yeah, Liam said.

08:55 Mon, Jul 22 Chapter 199 He thought of Josiah, whom he had met once at the hospital.

At that time, he even threatened Josiah not to tell Emma that he was the leader of Team Thunder.

Although Josiah eventually told Emma, Liam didn't take any action against him.

"Emma communicates with him every time she attends an event Liam said. "Find a way to contact him. We can then locate Emma.

"Got it, Mr. Hall," Levi said.

Meanwhile, Emma began to undergo interrogation. "That night, were you the one who called the Burnson family's courtyard?" "Yes," Emma said, not denying it.

The police officer stared at Emma, pushing up his glasses.

He thought. The girl before looks delicate. Her ID says she's twenty, but she looks more like seventeen or eighteen. No matter how look at her, she still seems like a student The police officer just saw her as a problematic young girl from a well-off family who lacked discipline.

There had been several cases of such juvenile cybercrime recently. It was not because those kids were skilled. Rather, it was because they had collectively downloaded certain software that exploited vulnerabilities in computer systems.

This software also had the ability to obtain other people's addresses and phone numbers through Facebook Messenger accounts, so the police automatically assumed that Emma had also obtained the Burnson family's phone number this way and used it to threaten Lennon. X "Hurry up and tell the truth. Where did you get the black-market software from?"

Chapter 200

Chapter 200 Emma leaned back against the chair in the police station, looking somewhat lazy. Her voice, delicate but not flirtatious, even carried a hint of coolness as she said, "Have you ever seen a black market software that can hack the numbers inside government compounds?" Lennon's house was not like other people's houses. The Burnson family's courtyard was in a signal-blocking area.

Hackers with ordinary skills really couldn't get his home's phone number and address.

The police officer's expression turned a little awkward. "From what you're implying, you intentionally hacked Lennon's number specifically?" he said. "Don't you know who Lennon is? Ordinary people may be jailed for three to five months for cybercrime. If you steal his information, your sentence will at least be doubled. Facing the police officer who fulfilled his duties conscientiously and responsibly in educating her, Emma's attitude was surprisingly good. She didn't get angry or mock him. She just listened.

It wasn't until the police officer said the following statement that her attitude changed. "Lennon said you even threatened him over the phone." he said. "Hurry up and tell the truth. How did you threaten him?" The stunningly beautiful girl placed her phone on the table and pressed the white button. A recording began to play.

"Is this considered a threat?" Emma asked.

The recording unexpectedly contained the conversation she had with Lennon over the phone that day. Emma's phone screen had an automatic recording function, so everything she said to Lennon that day was recorded very clearly.

When the police officer heard the recording on Emma's phone, he was slightly stunned.

He thought, 'Well... How does this not match what Lennon reported? Lennon said Emma threatened his personal safety. But the recording Emma presented doesn't contain a single threat.' The recording was full of Emma's rational, neutral, and objective suggestions. The police officer even found her arguments quite reasonable.

"Wait a minute," the police officer said as he put down his pen. "Let's double-check this." Emma raised her eyebrows and relaxed, looking around in boredom.

Just then, Erza returned to the Burnson family's courtyard as soon as he got off the plane.

He was prepared to settle the score with Lennon.

As soon as he reached the door of Lennon's study, he heard him talking over the phone with someone from the police station.

"In the recording, she didn't threaten me. Can't that prove she threatened elsewhere? Mr. Hayden, I am Lennon Burnson. Is there even a need for to fabricate facts? Humph, I didn't say it directly, but don't you catch on to what I'm trying to imply? I want her to go to jail! I don't want to see her around my grandson again!" Lennon hung up the phone. Surprisingly, there was a hint of relaxation on his face.

At this moment, Erza rushed in with a furious look, pointing at Lennon with his finger still wrapped in bandages. "What did you mean by what you just said on the phone?" he asked.

Chapter 200 Erza still didn't know that something had happened to Einma.

However, after listening to Lennon's phone conversation, he sort of realized that Lennon was trying to fr someone again.

Lennon did not expect Erza to return at this moment. His face was sullen, but he said nothing.

Erza pointed at him and said, "Who were you talking about? It's Emma, right? What did you do to Emma?" Lennon was furious. He smashed a cup onto the floor with a clari "Don't ass you don't have to join the army just because you won first place this time!" he said. "You have to go to the enlistment this taorund, whether you want to or not!" Erza was now completely certain that the person who drugged and reported him behind his back was his own grandfather.

The young man's hands face trembled slightly and twitched because of anger.

A surge of violent emotion raged in his chest, but in the end, he suppressed it.

"From now on, you're no longer my grandfather," he said.

With that said, Erza gritted his teeth and left the Burnson family's courtyard.

"You're not allowed to leave!" Lennon said as he angrily supported himself with his walking stick. "Stop him!" A few soldiers rushed out to block Erza. As soon as their hands touched Erza, he knocked them down to the ground.

Erza had spent years diligently training and had undergone professional training at Charon Military School. Few people could defeat him.

That once defenseless little puppy had now grown into a fierce wolf.

Lennon clutched his chest and pointed at him with a trembling finger, saying, "If you have balls, take a step forward!" Erza glanced back at him coldly.

A long while later, he laughed self-deprecatingly.

The young man's eyes were bloodshot. Lennon looked into Erza's eyes, seemingly not expecting Erza to have such a gaze, which caused his own heart to skip a beat for a reason.

The next moment, he fixed his gaze. Then, he left without looking back.

At a junction in Holy Mountain, Liam's phone had no signal, but Josiah could see the paths that he had taken through the surveillance cameras by the roadside.

Liam seemed to have the intention to contact him as well.

The black Maybach stopped at the last spot of Holy Mountain that directly faced the camera and never moved again.

Josiah immediately felt that Liam was also waiting for him to appear.

Chapter 200 Half an hour later, his car caught up with Liam's car.

The two of them got out of the car after seeing each other's license plate.

"Mr. Hall, Josiah said respectfully, Liam was smoking in the night. When he saw Josiah, he dropped the cigarette butt on the ground and extinguished it with his foot.

"Where's Emma?" he asked.

Josiah said, "Miss Wilson ran into trouble.

Just then, Liam's phone rang.

He glanced at Josiah. This was an area with unstable signals.

The signal finally came through. The caller wasn't Emma. It was Erza.

Liam frowned as he said, "What's up?" Erza's voice sounded a little nervous over the phone. "I suspect that Emma may have been set up by my grandfather," he said.

In the police station, the police officer came and went.

Emma had already begun twirling a pen in boredom.

Seeing the police officer return, she restrained herself a little and put the pen back.

"Are you done investigating?" she asked.

The police officer remained silent for a moment before saying. "We still believe that your late-night intrusion into personal privacy and the nature of this call can't clear you of suspicion of threats and intimidation." Emma was left speechless.

She thought, "The other party is an old man who is nearing seventy and has extensive networks as well as capabilities in Troin City. I'm just a penniless student who appears to have skills. What threat and intimidation can I pose to someone like Lennon?" Emma's expression turned somewhat cold.

She thought, "Clearly, the officers are acting under Lennon's instructions. Lennon clearly has the intention to retaliate against because of the incident concerning Erza" Eventually, the police officer said to Emma, "I'm sorry, Miss Wilson. We can't release you without charges yet. You may have to stay here for the night." Getting detained at the police station for more than forty-eight hours would result in a criminal record.

A holding cell wasn't a pleasant place to stay. Emma just won the championship. If news of this were to spread, I wouldn't look good in the media or to the public, especially with the Hall family having just finished a press conference. Her expression was a little stern, but she still had that nonchalant appearance.

She stood up and followed the police officer inside in her high heels.

+74% Chapter 200 "Now that I'm certain that Lennon is involved, I have to think of way to save myself, she thought.

She secretly held her phone, trying to contact Jerome.

But just then, footsteps could be heard coming from the entrance of the police station.

The pace of the person who was resolute and unrestrained.

It was Erza.

Dressed in a half-open black hoodie with a cigarette dangling from his mouth, the young man walked with arrogant and wide strides in a pair of black sneakers.

"Hurry up and release her," he said.

Erza often caused trouble, so his face appearing at the police station was familiar to everyone.

Of course, the police officers knew him. They were all a little stunned when they saw him.

They thought, Isn't Lennon the one who sent Emma in? Grandfather accuses her, yet grandson wants to bail her out. What kind of is this?" "Mr. Burnson, Emma is suspected of infringing on personal privacy, a police officer said. "She can't leave so spon." Erza tossed away the cigarette and stubbed it out in the trash can

A faint smile appeared in his sharp and handseyes. "I gave her my m grandfather's phone number," he said. "Any issues with that? Also, Mr. Baxter heard she had returned with the championship in Krot Competition and wanted to have a word with her to learn from her. Mr. Baxter is outside right now. You decide whether to let her go or not."
