

Chapter 11 Never Forget

Nora sorted and arranged the documents. She had a good memory and could never forget anything. After she had a general understanding of the contents of the documents, she also knew what kind of data to do in the end before starting to enter them.

The process was a bit tedious, but it was not difficult for her. She got started soon and the speed was getting faster and faster.

The rapid sound of her keyboard here quickly attracted the attention of other colleagues and whispered:

"Look at her typing speed. I think I am fast enough, but I certainly can't beat her."

"I thought she was from the countryside and don't understand these things. I didn't expect her to do such things, which is quite refined."

"Yes, did you see that? She was also very efficient when she was working this morning. It seems that although she is from the countryside, she is not useless. Otherwise, she would not have become Asher's fiancée. After all, I heard that this was decided by Howard. Howard is not stupid."

"So what? Don't you see that Asher didn't pay any attention to her at all? One day she will leave here, and now she has offended the secretary-general.

Today, Sarah deliberately gives her this kind of hard work, and Nora will suffer from these in the future. Let's see how long she can last."

"Anyway, it's none of our business. Just stay away from her."

"..."

Nora heard what they were talking about. But she just ignored them, concentrating on doing her own thing.

She didn't think about being tired of herself. When she was hungry, she ate a few snacks she brought. When she was thirsty, she went to make a cup of tea. When she was tired, she went to the bathroom to relax.

It's time to get off work in the evening, but because of the heavy work today, most people haven't left in a hurry. Nora went to dinner before coming back slowly to continue working.

She was a person who couldn't suffer from hunger, so she had to eat according to the order.

When Sarah waited for her to come back, Sarah struck the table angrily. "Nora! How dare you run away when you didn't finish your work! I told you that these must be finished today and the statistics will be used tomorrow. But what about you? eating for a while, drinking for a while, and running around for a while? If you don't want to do this job, just say it. I will arrange it for others. If you delay this work, you will eventually cause losses to the company. Can you afford this responsibility? "

Listening to Sarah's noise, Nora raised her hand and pulled out her ear. "You said I could finish it today. It's less than 7 o'clock."

"Don' say that. I didn't see how long you have worked, you..."

Sarah was adamant, and Nora raised her voice and shouted, "Shut up!"

Sarah immediately silenced and other people were stunned.

Nora hated noisy people most and Sarah was annoying again and again. "Just say these words to me when I'm not finished tomorrow. Please leave now. I'm going to start working now.

You are influencing me, you know? If you have to talk nonsense with me here, if the final work is not finished, I can only say that you have influenced me, and the final responsibility lies with you, not me. "

Sarah was shocked by Nora's aura. But she felt unwilling and even angrier.

"Well, now you are starting shirking your responsibility, right? Good! I'll see if you can finish it tomorrow!"

Sarah stepped on high heels and quickly left, looking angry.

She became angry with other people, "If you haven't finished your work today, no one is allowed to leave!"

Nora sneered. She just ignored it and went on working.

Other employees left one after another. Finally, Nora was left alone in the office.

At 9: 30 in the evening, Nora finally finished all the work.

If it were someone else, it was estimated that it would be too late to eat dinner until ten or even eleven o'clock. However, thanks to her efficiency, she planned the time and finished it easily.

Chapter 12 She was afraid of the dark

Nora was packing when she got a call from Sarah.

"How long will it take you to finish?"

"It has been finished."

"What? Are you sure there is no problem after the careful examination?"

Sarah didn't expect that she had finished it so quickly.

Nora was patient. "I'm sure. If there is anything else, I'll hang up. Now I have to get off work."

"No! You can't get off work now!"

Sarah's volume rose sharply.

Nora just took a step and stopped.

"Why?"

"I just received a phone call from Terry, saying that there is still data to be added. I will send it to you now, just wait here."

"Then just send me the data directly. It's too late to wait for you to come."

"No, the content is pretty complicated. You haven't known it before, I'm afraid you will make a mistake. Just wait for me. Don't be impatient. I'm home now, and I have to rush over and work overtime with you. What do you have to complain about? What can I do if Terry suddenly contacted me!"

"I know."

Thinking that if Sarah simply embarrassed her, she could not sacrifice her own private time. After all, it was so late. Nora did not think much and returned to her seat.

Nora listened to music and opened the little games she often played to relax. When she looked at the time again, it had passed 40 minutes and Sarah had not come yet.

Nora went to the bathroom once, then came back to play with her mobile phone for a while. And in the past 20 minutes, Sarah still didn't come. Nora just made a phone call.

"When will you arrive?"

"I went by taxi to save time. As a result, there was a traffic accident on the road just now, which was blocked for a long time. I will arrive in about half an hour. Today is too unlucky. It's all because Terry didn't inform me earlier, let me go so late, and was caught in a traffic jam. Hey, driver, drive faster, I am in a hurry!"

Listening to Sarah's rambling complaints, Nora felt a faint headache and lost patience. "Then hurry up."

Sarah was in her home. When she heard Nora hang up the phone, she smiled and turned into the bathroom.

Wait, no matter how Nora waited, she couldn't wait for her.

Forty minutes later, before Sarah arrived, Nora completely lost her patience.

She called Sarah again. "Sarah, do you want to spend the night with me in the company today?"

At this time, Sarah was lying comfortably on the sofa with facial mask mud and said in a complaining tone: "What's the hurry? Do you think I'm not in a hurry? But what can I do for now? Just wait for me a little longer. In more than ten minutes, I'll be there, huh? Driver, hurry up, can you arrive in ten minutes? Can you get there, right? OK, I..."

"Then ten minutes, ten minutes later, I can't see you and I will leave. As for the data, you came to record it yourself."

Seeing Nora hang up the phone, Sarah sneered and threw her cell phone aside, eating a grape leisurely.

Nora thought that something was wrong. After thinking about it, Nora sent Sarah's mobile phone number to someone, "Check this person's location for me."

Five minutes later, the man gave a reply.

Seeing that Sarah was located in a residential area, Nora suddenly realized what happened and became furious.

How dare Sarah play ticks on her in this way!

It seemed that she was too kind to think that people like Sarah would come from home because of work!

Nora picked up her bag and went out. When she was planning how to retaliate, the light suddenly went out.

In the empty office, it was suddenly dark.

Nora stood still, looked around in horror. She slowly returned to her position step by step, scrambled to take out her mobile phone from her bag, and turn on the flashlight of her mobile phone.

She was afraid of the dark. She had always been afraid.

That kind of fear came from the bottom of her heart. Both hands and feet were cold, and the whole person kept sweating.

At this time, she squatted on the ground with her knees and curled up under the table. Although there was a light from her mobile phone, it had little effect. She was afraid when she thought of the darkness around her and that she was the only one here.

What's going on?

Was there a power outage?

So what could she do?

She wanted to call the company security guard but found that she didn't have the contact information of the security guard at all. She was too nervous, so her mind was almost blank.

Chapter 13 Where's Nora

"It's eleven o'clock, Nora hasn't come back yet. How dare she come back so late?"

Asher felt thirsty and went downstairs to pour a glass of water when he heard Ashley's words.

Madge then said: "The country girl has no wide horizon, and her life is disorderly. She must hang out with some strangers!"

Asher felt strange. But when he thought of her attitude towards him yesterday, that feeling soon disappeared.

Anyway, what she did had nothing to do with him.

Madge deliberately said to Asher: "Asher, it doesn't matter if she has a bad lifestyle alone. If it gets out and brings trouble to your reputation, it will be bad. After all, many people have seen her now and know that she is your fiancée. I think this marriage should be retired early, let her go back and leave our house. If she kept living in our house, something bad must happen. We will be responsible for The Howe family, then we will become suckers. "

Asher said faintly: "Grandpa said that this assignment will disappear in three months."

"Three months?" Madge screamed,

"I can't stand it for only a few days. You'd better discuss it with your grandfather and drive her away quickly."

"Then you go talk to Grandpa."

Asher glanced at Madge.

Madge immediately silenced herself. She would be scolded if she did that.

Asher ignored them and went upstairs.

When he arrived at the study, he saw that the mobile phone on the table lit up and there was a short message prompt.

When he clicked on it, he saw two words: "Help me."

Seeing that it was a strange number, he thought it was a prank. He ignored it and continued to deal with the final work, but he was always a little uneasy.

...

It was already early in the morning, and Asher was lying in bed without drowsiness.

She hadn't come back yet. Where had she gone?

Asher just closed his eyes. Forget it. It had nothing to do with him where she went!

A few seconds later, he turned over. It stood to reason that she didn't know anyone else here and shouldn't come back.

When he thought of the distress message, he suddenly realized something. Asher dug up his chat record with Howard.

In the beginning, Howard sent him Nora's mobile phone number. But Asher didn't save it on his mobile phone.

At this time, he discovered that the distress message was sent by Nora.

Was she in danger?

Asher suddenly sat up and immediately called back, but it was shown that Nora's cell phone was turned off.

He immediately panicked. Couldn't something happen?

He put on his clothes, quickly went out by car. After thinking about it, he could only try his luck at the company first. At least he could ask the security guard there when he saw Nora leave the company.

When Asher arrived at the company, he saw it was dark. When he found the security guard, he was told, "There is something wrong with the circuit. Someone will come to repair it in the morning and it will not delay the employees from going to work."

When asked about Nora, the security guard was stunned. "I didn't see her."

Asher frowned. "She didn't come to work?"

"I saw her come to work in the morning, but I didn't see her come out when I got off work."

The security guard said with certainty: "I'm sure about that."

Recently, Nora was popular in the company. Many people paid attention to her. If Nora passed in front of him, the security guard would not miss her.

So, Nora was still in the company? Then why did she send herself a distress message?

The security guard thought for a moment and said, "By the way, I heard several people talking today, saying that the secretary-general has arranged a lot of work for her and will work overtime for a long time. Is it because she is too tired to work overtime and falls asleep?"

Without too much speculation, Asher could only go upstairs to have a look. The security guard followed him up and lit him up.

"Nora?"

"Nora!"

Asher shouted several times, but no one answered.

Until he walked to Nora's desk, he saw her bag still lying on the table. Looking down, Asher saw two feet.

Asher hurriedly crouched down, and the security guard's light shone down.

Under the light, Asher saw Nora curled up in a ball, pale and shaking uncontrollably.

Chapter 14 She was afraid of the dark

"Nora? Nora!"

Asher picked her up and patted her on the face. "What's wrong with you? What's wrong?"

Nora frowned, wondering whether she was talking to herself or answering Asher: "It's so dark... don't leave me..."

Dark?

It turned out that she was afraid of the dark!

Asher's heart softened instantly, and he suddenly remembered the little girl, who was pale with fear in the dark and shrank beside him.

Chapter 14 She was afraid of the dark

"Nora? Nora!"

Asher picked her up and patted her on the face. "What's wrong with you? What's wrong?"

Nora frowned, wondering whether she was talking to herself or answering Asher: "It's so dark... don't leave me..."

Dark?

It turned out that she was afraid of the dark!

Asher's heart softened instantly, and he suddenly remembered the little girl, who was pale with fear in the dark and shrank beside him.

Asher inexplicably had a feeling of pity in his heart and said gently, "Don't be afraid, it's okay, I'll take you home."

After listening to his words, Nora did not shake so much, but her mouth kept chanting. Asher couldn't hear clearly, so he was in a hurry to take her away.

Asher comforted her all the way: "It's okay, don't be afraid, I'm here."

He put Nora in the co-pilot. Nora was still holding his shirt. He simply took off her coat and covered her.

Asher watched her weak appearance at this time. She was completely different from the girl during that day. Asher felt guilty about her.

If he had saved Nora's cell phone number in his cell phone, if he had received a text message at that time, he would have contacted her quickly.

Fortunately, he came to find her. Otherwise, leaving her alone here all night may lead to something bad happened.

Asher carried Nora back to her room and wiped the sweat from her forehead. She was about to leave when her trousers were tightly grasped.

When he looked back, he saw Nora sleeping very unsteadily. Although her face recovered a little, she was still pale.

He raised his hand to take Nora's hand off, but instead, she held it in her arms.

"Don't go... stay with me, okay..."

Her voice trembled slightly, not as indifferent as usual, but as coquetry-like milk sound.

Looking at Nora, that little girl's face came to Asher's mind.

From the first day he saw her, he thought she was very similar to the girl, and now she was even more similar.

After hesitating, Asher was not willing to withdraw his hand but sat by the bed.

Looking softly at Nora, Asher suddenly thought, if his fiancée was the little girl of that year, he would cherish her all his life and accompany her in every night that frightened her, but...

...

When Nora woke up, it was already dawn.

Looking around in confusion, wondering how she came back, Nora looked at Asher and realized that she was still holding Asher's hand.

She quickly let go and sat up. "Why are you here?"

After saying that, she had already reacted.

Yesterday, she saw that her mobile phone was almost dead and turned off, and her condition was extremely poor. She almost fainted and couldn't make a phone call at all. She had to send him a text message with her last consciousness.

Seeing Asher's tired face, his eyes full of red blood streaks, and not having a good rest, she tried to recall the coma, and Nora touched his head embarrassedly.

"You brought me back home, thank you... but why are you still in my room?"

Even if it was to send her back, it was not good for him to leave when they arrived. There was no need to keep her all night, was there?

Asher returned to his usual cold appearance. "Who held my hand last night and wouldn't let me go, do you forget about that?"

"..."

Nora was even more embarrassed. "But... but... I was not awake at that full of red blood streaks, and not having a good rest, she tried to recall the coma, and Nora touched his head embarrassedly.

"You brought me back home, thank you... but why are you still in my room?"

Even if it was to send her back, it was not good for him to leave when they arrived. There was no need to keep her all night, was there?

Asher returned to his usual cold appearance. "Who held my hand last night and wouldn't let me go, do you forget about that?"

"..."

Nora was even more embarrassed. "But... but... I was not awake at that time. You were awake. You can let me go while I am asleep."

"So, is it wrong for me to take care of you all night?"

"I... don't mean that either." It's just that she thought it's abnormal for him to do so, which didn't conform to his previous style.

Asher looked pale and regretted that he shouldn't have been kind enough to stay with her yesterday.

He said indifferently, "Don't think too much, I just don't want anything to happen to you. My grandpa will kill me if something happened to you. I did this not for you. Don't flatter yourself!"

Although Asher's words made people uncomfortable. But Nora sighed a little bit. Those words seemed to be what he could say.

Nora rolled her eyes. "That is, you think too much. I won't be sentimental about anything!"

Mrs. Hawn, your disguise was penetrated

Chapter 15 she looked familiar

Asher suddenly became angry and turned to leave.

As soon as he left the house, Asher collided with Ashley. Ashley also saw Nora lying in bed when Asher opened the door.

"Brother, why did you come out of Nora's room at this time?"

Asher ignored her and went straight away.

Ashley was even more curious. "You haven't been in her room since last night, have you? What have you done?"

Ashley was too annoying. Nora rubbed her hair irritably and got up to go to the bathroom to tidy herself up.

She knew herself and knew that she must have looked so terrible last night that Asher saw her. He must know her weakness now. Nora felt uncomfortable at the thought of this.

If Asher would laugh at herself with this in the future, she would be too ashamed.

It's all Sarah's fault. If she dared to play with her, she would never let her go easily!

Nora tidied up and went downstairs to the restaurant. When Asher saw her, he put down his chopsticks and left.

Nora, who was accustomed to his appearance, ignored Asher and sat down to breakfast.

After what happened last night, she was very tired now. She needed to replenish her strength and eat more.

Ashley just did not dare to lose her temper in front of Asher. Now Asher was gone and she immediately asked Nora, "You only came a few days ago and seduced my brother. What did you do with my brother last night? Why did he come out of your room this morning?"

Madge now asked Nora, "Nora, what exactly do you want to do? Also, where did you go yesterday when you didn't come back for so long?"

In the face of the two men's questioning, Nora sneered in her heart, and her lips raised a sarcastic smile.

"We are adults. What can I do when I spend the night in the same room with him?"

"What!" Ashley stamped her foot angrily. " You just seduce men all day long. Slut!"

"Watch your mouth." Nora picked up chopsticks and ate a mouthful of breakfast gracefully. "My fiance and I are legal. How can you say that I seduced him?"

Ashley was speechless by Nora. She snapped down his bowl and chopsticks and turned back to her room.

With her hands clenched tightly, Ashley was jealous and angry.

Why should a man as good as Asher marry this hillbilly?

Nora didn't deserve Asher at all!

Nora finished breakfast and was about to go to work when the driver came forward and said, "Nora, the young master told me to take you to the company."

Nora took a step.

Did Asher ask the driver to take her?

Has the sun come out from the west?

Nora was about to say something when Madge coughed. Madge glared at Nora and then turned to the driver.

"David, take me to the Mall of Paris."

"But madam, the young master asked me to send Nora." The driver was very embarrassed.

"Thank you, you'd better send her. I can go to work myself." Nora also didn't want to embarrass the driver. she smiled and said. After stopping a taxi, Nora went straight to The Howe Group Group.

But on the way to work, Nora saw a stray dog on the main road, running around in the traffic, which was very dangerous.

"Driver, please stop the car." Nora hurriedly got out of the taxi and planned to bring the dog back.

Grandpa took in many stray dogs, and Nora had deep feelings for dogs from an early age.

Nora walked towards the puppy. Suddenly, a red sports car rushed straight towards the puppy.

Bad!

The car was going to hit the puppy!

Nora had no time to think about anything. She threw herself at the puppy and held it tightly in her arms.

With the long break sound, the sports car passed by Nora. A fashionable woman leaned out of her head and shouted, "crazy bitch! Watch out.

The woman looked so familiar?