

Chapter 1372 The Surprising News About Nola

---

Trevor sensed someone burning a hole between his shoulder blades.

He turned to look and saw Nola glare at him.

Saniya stood with a glass of champagne in her hand. Her face was expressionless, but her eyes were as cold as ice.

She wasn't interested in the lipstick but wanted to compete with Nola. The two ladies had a long-standing feud.

But she didn't expect what happened later.

She spent a lot of money to buy a single tube of lipstick and felt uncomfortable.

Saniya glanced at Nola haughtily. Then she turned to glare at Trevor. She immediately left the hall with her friends to go somewhere else.

"What the hell?" Nola yelled and stomped toward Trevor in her high heels. Her face grew ugly with anger.

Her cohorts also followed close on her heels.

Collen saw the scene unfold and was overjoyed. He quietly sat in the corner and took a big gulp of beer.

Collen was secretly looking forward to Nola putting Trevor in his place.

He thought Trevor was an idiot! Did Trevor think these ladies were easy to deal with? Trevor was going to have to face the music now.

The Sanderson family and the Wright family were two of the three super clans, and even the Singh family didn't dare to mess with them.

Moreover, Nola's best friends belonged to affluent families, and their boyfriends were also from the upper class.

"Dragon, you're finished!"

It seemed as if whatever Collen thought was unfolding in front of his eyes.

Nola angrily walked up to Trevor and shouted, "What the hell do you mean by doing that? I was the first to like that lipstick, and you had the audacity not to sell it to me? You even offered to bid for it? Do you think the Wright family is a joke?"

She was so angry even her ears grew red.

Zayden's entire upper class knew Nola and Saniya did not see eye to eye.

The party held a temporary auction, and she lost to Saniya.
Wouldn't she be the butt of jokes now?

Nola's friends also behaved arrogantly.

"What a dumb man! You should be honored that Nola took a fancy to your lipstick. You should have just gifted it to her.
Instead, you held an auction!"

"Brainless! You need to kneel and apologize to Nola! You're just a general manager in a small company. I'll have your legs broken!"

"Kneel and rub your nose on her shoes! Or else you will not be able to stay in Zayden!"

They continued to speak viciously.

Trevor was cool as a cucumber as he shook his head helplessly.

He chuckled and said, "Miss Wright, my advice to you would be to stop thinking about the lipstick for the time being. Losing face is trivial compared to curing a disease. Since you're sick, why don't you worry about how to get cured first?"

"What the bloody hell are you talking about?"

Nola lost control of her emotions and cursed.

Since they stood close to each other, Trevor could see the skin near her nose tremble slightly. Her eyes glared daggers at him.

Her friends also glared at Trevor.

Nola hissed like an angry cat, "Can you dare to say that again?"

Trevor smiled.

Although they hadn't seen each other for so long, Nola was still the same; easily irritated and not able to keep calm.

Last time in the warehouse of the Wright family, Nola was easily manipulated by Trevor.

"Well, it's not convenient to talk about it here," Trevor said calmly. "If you're so concerned, why don't we find a quiet corner to discuss your disease privately?"

"You're the one that's sick!" Nola roared.

She was already in a foul mood after seeing Saniya at the party and having the lipstick taken away from her.

Now, a manager of a small company dared to aggravate her more by saying she was sick.

How dare he blurt out such nonsense?

"Alright. Let's hear what you have to say. But I'm warning you. If you're only talking nonsense, you won't see the light of day!"

Nola's threat resounded almost all around the manor.

Collen was so thrilled watching the commotion that he almost stood up and clapped his hands.

This was the reason why he brought Trevor to the party.

Once Nola made a move, Trevor would be done for.

Things were unfolding the way Collen had expected, and he was able to deal with Trevor without implicating himself.

Collen's eyes glimmered with excitement as he rubbed his hands against his thighs repeatedly in anticipation.

"Now, you! Come with me!"

Nola brought Trevor to another room.

The room was white and tidy with a wide sofa placed in the center.

Trevor closed the door and casually sat on the sofa.

Before Nola could speak, he said, "If I'm not wrong, you've been exposed to radiation and suffered from complications."

Color instantly drained from Nola's face as apprehension engulfed her after she heard that.

Radiation?

The word reminded her of something.

Although the Sanderson family blocked the news, the Wright family still received inside information.

For instance, the incident where Isaias and Rudolph brought the bronze statues to the Sanderson family's party.

Nola clearly remembered Isaias putting the statues in the Wright family's warehouse.

She was the one who handled them.

"Impossible! How did you know?" Nola couldn't stay calm anymore. The panic in her eyes was very evident.

Her anger was now replaced with shock and confusion.

Watching her, Trevor couldn't help but sneer inwardly.

It seemed that he succeeded at eliciting fear from her.

He continued asking, "Are you sleeping well recently? If I can guess, you have trouble falling asleep and occasionally wake up in the middle of the night. Do you also have a loss of appetite and experience shortness of breath?"

Nola's shock turned into fear. She hurriedly grabbed Trevor's hand in a panic.

"Yes! Everything you said was correct. But I can still be cured, right? Please, help me! I'm still young! I don't want to die!"

Trevor snickered inwardly.

Despite her flawless makeup, Nola had slight dark circles and swollen eye bags, which were common signs of insufficient sleep.

Her conflict with Saniya must have also worsened her condition, giving her insomnia, nightmares, and poor appetite.

Since Trevor learned traditional medicine from the Scott family, he spotted these symptoms easily.

He confidently mentioned radiation that no outsiders were aware of.

Nola believed him because of it.

Although the three clans had heard about the rebellion at the Sanderson family's party, no one knew that Nola had come into contact with the bronze statues in the warehouse.

"Please! Don't let me die! Help me!"

Nola's hands were trembling, and her face turned ashen.

She was terrified.

Her arrogance had faded, and all that remained was her fear of death.

Tears pooled in her eyes, threatening to fall at any time.

Sitting on the sofa, Trevor smiled slightly and yanked his hand out of Nola's.

"Give me a pen and paper. I'll write you a prescription."

Nola rushed to get those items and then handed them to Trevor with utter respect.

Without further ado, Trevor wrote her a prescription, in which all the ingredients were expensive and hard to find.

It was only right for him to teach such an arrogant lady a lesson.

"You should take medicine on time. Should you have any problems, come to Severich and see me."

Trevor handed the prescription to Nola.

Nola sincerely expressed her gratitude.

Expensive ingredients?

That was the least of her concerns right now.

"Thank you!" Nola profusely thanked Trevor for fear he would change his mind about treating her in the future.

Her voice was unusually gentle. It was hard to believe that she was the one who had just broken out into curses in the hall.

Meanwhile, Collen quietly approached the room.

He could not restrain his excitement, since he guessed Trevor was being beaten inside. Out of curiosity, he decided to eavesdrop on Trevor's screams for help.

Collen believed that Trevor had lied to Nola.

In his eyes, Nola would not let Trevor off easily. Perhaps she had already lost her temper and asked someone to beat Trevor black and blue.

Collen could not hear a thing, though.

He wondered if the soundproofing of the room was too good.

He pressed his ear against the door and tried to hear what was happening in the room.

But then, Trevor suddenly opened the door.

"Oh, shit!"

Collen lost his balance and fell.

"Eh? What are you doing?" Trevor raised his eyebrows and looked at Collen, who lay sprawled on the floor.

With a look of annoyance on his face, Collen stood up and dusted his sleeves.

"I was just passing by when I accidentally tripped and fell. Wait a minute. Why aren't you hurt? You offended Nola. Why didn't you get punished?"

"Why should I be?" Trevor retorted with a sneer tugging at the corners of his mouth.

Ironic as it was, Nola was actually trying to please him.

She believed that this unknown manager had saved her life.

Without thinking, Nola raised her eyebrows at Cohen and shouted, "How dare you say that? Shut the fuck up, Collen! Do I look unreasonable to you?"

Collen shrank back. Not wanting to offend Nola, he tried to defend himself.

Sadly for him, Nola did not even bother to listen to his explanation. She pushed him away and yelled at someone in the corridor. "Girls, this bastard thinks I'm unreasonable. Let's teach this idiot a lesson!"

The group of ladies resting in the corridor rushed over the moment they heard Nola's order. Without hesitation, they hit Collen as hard as they could.

"Ah! Stop! Let me go! Stop it!"

Collen begged for mercy as he tried to get away from the angry mob.

Fight back? Fighting back was not an option.

Although the Singh family was famous in Zayden, it was still not as powerful as the Wrights.

Besides, the families of these young ladies were not ordinary. Rather, they were famous and renowned as well.

If Collen caused trouble for the Singh family, his grandfather would kick him out and disown him.

Standing in the corner with his arms crossed, Trevor smiled but said nothing.

Thinking he was dissatisfied, Nola turned to her friends and said, "I heard Collen was a playboy and went to the hospital to see a doctor in secret. Girls, be careful. Make sure you don't get infected with any diseases he may be having."

Collen's face turned red with anger.

If what Nola had said spread, he might not be able to maintain his status in the rich people's circle in the future.

He was a Singh. The woman he would marry must come from a noble family in Zayden.

But if his reputation got ruined...

"I'm not... Shut up! Stop beating me!" Collen cried out.

"Shoo!" Nola let out a snort.

It was only then that Collen was allowed to escape. With that, he ran as fast as he could without looking back.

Chapter 1375 Inquire About The Sanderson Family

Trevor couldn't help grinning when he saw Collen running as fast as he could.

As if she were asking for credit for what she did, Nola turned around while smiling brightly.

"Don't cause any trouble, and try not to be emotional," Trevor warned. "You better prepare the medicine as soon as possible."

Nola nodded her head and hurried out of the manor.

Collen had planned to use Nola to take revenge on Trevor.

Unexpectedly, Trevor managed to use Nola to get back at Collen.

Collen had already left the manor, but Trevor stayed. He decided to stick around the party instead.

His task of expanding Severich's market in the elite circle had been accomplished.

He wanted to find more information about the Sanderson family at the party.

Trevor had not heard from his family since he last left the Sandersons' castle, so he didn't have any new information.

The Sanderson family was one of the three super clans. It kept its unbreakable status, despite a slight decline following the rebellion.

The three major clans' classified information was not easy for the general public to obtain.

The party was the perfect opportunity to gather information

Trevor saw Saniya, a member of the Sanderson family he had just met.

"Hello, Miss Sanderson." Trevor smiled as he greeted her.

Unfortunately, he received no admiring glances from the stunning lady.

Holding a half-glass of champagne in one hand, Saniya squinted at Trevor and cockily nodded in response.

She quickly averted her gaze because she had no desire to converse with Trevor.

In an effort to defeat Nola, she spent a lot of money placing a bid for a lipstick that she didn't like at all.

Trevor noticed Saniya's icy demeanor.

He decided to ignore her coldness and sat next to her without saying a word, getting ready to ask about some news.

Saniya didn't want to speak with him so Trevor was holding off until the right moment to talk to her.

He was merely Severich's general manager. He would appear sucking up to her if he would force a conversation with Saniya.

Trevor sat down, but as soon as he did, a roar erupted from the door.

"Dragon, where are you? Come on over!"

Trevor's eyebrows furrowed as he turned to face the door after hearing his alias being called out.

Collen, who had just stumbled away, came back. He was accompanied by a tall young man.

The man had intimidatingly large muscles that were bulging in his black shirt.

Collen pointed at Trevor and yelled as soon as he spotted him in the crowd.

"I saw Dragon there! It's not a secret to everyone that the brat and Nola were in the same room. He wasn't serious about you at all! You are after Nola, and everyone in Zayden knows it! Dragon must have intentionally provoked you."

Nola's pursuer?

Upon hearing that, Trevor was momentarily taken aback before realizing Collen intended to use Nola's pursuer to deal with him.

Obviously triggered by Collen's words, the burly man walked toward Collen.

"Stupid! You have no right to accost my woman."

He walked faster out of rage.

The audience in the manor hall kept their eyes glued to the action as if hoping for a good show.

Trevor got to his feet slowly and seemed helpless.

Despite the young man's height and physique, Trevor was not frightened at all.

He was only a little irritated. Collen continually caused him trouble, which disgusted him.

Laughing and gloating, Collen stood behind them and yelled, "Dragon, you should blame yourself for being dim-witted! Terrance may be your friend, but he is currently unable to defend himself. Do not count on him to save you!"
